Ancient Jewish history tells us that Nehemiah in his day rose up in all his troublous times to insist upon an observance of the Sabbath, that it was necessary for the morals of his people and the nation that they should continue that ancient observance. To compromise our moral responsibilities makes us uncertain of our destiny, and the history of our nation to date is based and predicated upon the leadership of men with godly principles. We are building an army for the defense of our nation, for the defense of our government, for the defense of those things which are set forth for us in the Constitution, and I believe if you please, Members of the House, that we have a destiny which we are building for world leadership, and upon that basis we cannot afford to break down our morale.

God's response to respect of mankind always brings victory and always brings to that group or that nation leadership, and so in this great state, in the great play that is going on in the world today, there is always a backdrop, and I want to point, if I may, to this great backdrop on this wall. Yonder those who observed the Sabbath, who made the treaty with the Indians and here those who established the government in the reading of the Declaration were God-fearing men who observed the Holy Day. Beginning at the top with Justice and coming on down with all those heroes and the blessing of all those men, with the priests and the bishops, with the heroes of war and of peace, with the drummer boys and those working in the mines, there is the backdrop of the great curtain of this great country of ours, and on practical, on thoroughly practical and truly moral grounds without any reservation I ask the members of this House to vote against this bill.

Mr. CULLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to defend the bill. It is my contention that the bill does not desecrate the Sabbath. We heard Mr. Gates go as far back as the Mayflower. Do we want to live today the same as they lived in the day of the Mayflower? They didn't know anything at that time about the Metropolitan areas. Now, I understand they spoke very diligently about the Maker. It is my contention, Mr. Speaker, that man was given the Sabbath to enjoy within the law, and there is no desecration in that. In the metropolitan area, one gentleman says we have six days in which to do it. I contend, Mr. Speaker, we in the metropolian area do not have any particular time in those six days. The only day we have for a little recreation is the Sabbath. I might go further to say, Mr. Speaker, that today the game of bowling is played in every city in Pennsylvania and you are doing nothing more nor less than putting the stamp of legality on a condition that is existing today. Why should you have your young people that you talk so much about break the law? Why not permit them to bowl on Sunday? Very substantial citizens bowl on Sunday. In fact I might go a little further, Mr. Speaker, and say that the church people—they say they are talking for the church people—I'll take you into any bowling alley on any Sabbath of the year, the same people who are complaining here and show them those people are bowling on Sunday.

Now, what is better, having my boy and my girl on the street with nothing to do or the possibility of having them get into the bowling alleys? Bowling happens to be as good a sport as golf; it is one sport where the participants absolutely pays for his own pleasure and his own skill. There is recreation. It is a sport where some of us old fellows can get some recreation.

They spoke of national defense here. It is my contention Mr. Speaker, that the first line of national defense is the health of the nation. Which is better for health than having a man throw a sixteen pound ball down an alley, or sitting down and twiddling his thumbs in some back room, and his children doing likewise? I say, Mr. Speaker, if you want to do your community a service, vote for this bill.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the gentleman from Philadelphia having his own opinion just the same as any other member of the House. He said I went back to the Mayower. I would like to take him back quite a considerable distance earlier than that when Moses led his people into the wilderness and kept them there for forty years and fed them with manna from heaven, and on Saturday he fed them a double portion so there would be no manna gathered on the Sabbath.

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, we have heard discourses on the Sabbath day and Sabbath desecration and I could talk along the same line, but I am going to talk along a different line, I am going to talk for labor.

The Sabbath day was intended and is intended for a day of rest, and it is intended for the working people. People who do not work and are parasites on society, it doesn't make much difference whether they go out bowling on Sunday, whether they go out golfing on Sunday or whatever they do on Sunday, because it doesn't count; they don't amount to anything anyway, but the real laborer, the men and women who work for a living, every time we break down Sabbath observance we are just placing that much more upon the backs of labor, more burdens for them to carry.

This bowling on Sunday, it says in the act "permitting the operation of a bowling alley; may legally operate after such an hour on Sunday and employ others to assist in the operation thereof". It means the employment of boys to set up the pins. They don't get very much for it at that. There are a lot of things about lawmaking that do not make any sense, and this is one of them.

Last week over in the Senate there was a bill to increase the penalties for performing worldly work in violation of the Sunday laws, and tonight we are talking about legalizing bowling. Legalizing is nothing more nor less than commercializing. People want to make money out of it. Nobody objects to anybody going out and bowling a game on Sunday—no more harm in bowling than in playing a game of checkers, but you take the profit away from it and the bowling alley wouldn't want anyone to play. It is the profit in bowling. They should bowl enough on Saturday, but they want to tide it over until Sunday.

The baseball magnates of Pennsylvania agreed if we would allow baseball on Sunday they would quit at six o'clock p. m., but by this bill you could start at two p. m. and play all day until Monday morning if you want to do so. This bill legalizes bowling for that length of time.

If there were an amendment offered to this bill to make it a home rule measure, or to permit a referendum, so that the people in the different communities could have their say on it all right and well, but they did not want an amendment to this bill. I would have voted for this bill had there been a provision for a referendum, had there been opportunity for home rule, but the way this bill stands now I am opposed to it and will vote "no" on it, and I ask the Members of the House to do likewise.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the bill. I bowl whenever the opportunity presents itself. I happen to be captain of a team composed of my five sons and myself, and I am tickled to death, very pleased when I know that my sons are down in the bowling alley instead of loafing on the street corners or some other place that we older people know all about, doing something that we wouldn't like them to do.

I don't know of any cleaner sport than bowling. We are in a private building. We are not interfering with anybody.

I also was a great baseball fan. I quit going to baseball games, friends—or Members of the House—well, friends, because of the roydyism that took place in the baseball games.

Pennsylvania legalized Sunday baseball; forty to fifty thousand people attend these games. It takes the entire police force of the city to keep order. That's all right, but we don't need any police force at all around the bowling alley; we do not need any police force for the football games or any other sports where it requires the police to keep order.

Those of us who like to bowl and want to put in Sunday afternoon or evening, why not let us have that privilege? You don't have to go in; we won't drag you in, and I will assure you you will not be insulted and you will not have any reason to find fault.

I am going to ask the Members of the House to be for this sport, as I know you are for most other sports. I am going to ask you to support this bill, make it legal and permit the policeman on the street corner to pass the bowling alley without shutting his eyes as he must do today.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. REAGAN, SARGE and STAMBAUGH asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 487, Printer's No. 116, was passed over at the request of Mr. LEVY.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 107, as follows:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 395) entitled "An act empowering the Department of Highways to acquire certain toll bridges within the Commonwealth providing the procedure therefor providing for the reimbursement of the Commonwealth from tolls and charges and making an appropriation" as amended by providing that such toll bridges heretofore or hereafter acquired by the Department of Highways shall be free bridges from the effective date of this act or from the date they are so acquired

Section 1 Section eleven of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 395) entitled "An act empowering the Department of Highways to acquire certain toll bridges within the Commonwealth providing the procedure therefor providing for the reimbursement of the Commonwealth from tolls and charges and making an appropriation" as amended by the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 644) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 11 The Secretary of Highways upon acquiring any such toll bridge is hereby directed to continue the collection of tolls and charges on such bridge or bridges or reconstructed bridges except as hereinafter provided until the Commonwealth has been reimbursed to the full extent of the original cost of acquiring any and all of such bridges or as many thereof as may be acquired by the Secretary of Highways within his discretion and in any event as may be acquired at a cost not exceeding in the aggregate the authorized sum of ten million dollars together with such interest thereon as shall have been expended by the Commonwealth and the cost of compensation of toll collectors All tolls and charges collected by the Secretary of Highways shall be paid into the Motor License Fund The Department of Highways shall reconstruct maintain and repair such bridges in the manner provided by law relating to State highways and bridges In case of the reconstruction of any such bridge the Secretary of Highways with the approval of the Governor may reconstruct such bridge on the same location or on a location within one mile thereof

Whenever the tolls collected from such bridges as may be so acquired after deduction of all moneys expended by the department for the cost of compensation of toll collectors shall have become sufficient to reimburse the Commonwealth in full for the cost of acquiring all of such bridges as may have been so acquired with interest thereon as aforesaid then all of such bridges so acquired shall become and be thereafter free bridges Such bridges shall thereafter remain in the charge and be under the control of the Department of Highways and shall be thereafter maintained and kept in repair and be rebuilt by the Commonwealth in accordance with the laws relating to State highways and bridges and the State shall take over and succeed to all agreements made with any public service company for the use by the public service company of such bridges The cost of such reconstruction maintenance and repair of said bridges after the same have been freed shall be paid out of moneys appropriated to the Department of Highways for the construction reconstruction and improvement of State highways

The Secretary of Highways is hereby authorized to adjust readiust and fix from time to time the amount of tollls and charges on such bridge or bridges as may be acquired under the provisions of this act for the purpose of causing each such bridge so acquired to bear as nearly as conditions and traffic will permit its proportionate share of the aggregate annual revenues to be received by the Commonwealth from toll bridges so acquired based on the cost thereof Provided however whenever any toll bridge is acquired by the Secretary of Highways at a cost of less than [thirty thousand dollars] three hundred thousand dollars the said Secretary of Highways shall immediately discontinue the collection of tolls and charges on such bridge and such bridge shall be a free bridge The cost of maintenance and repair of said bridge after the same has been acquired by the Department of Highways shall be paid out of moneys appropriated to the Department of Highways for the construction reconstruction and improvement of State highways

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Nagel.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Beaver permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. NAGEL. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I should like to know from the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Nagel, how many bridges in the Commonwealth this bill would affect.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I think the bill will permit taking over as many as are desired.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, does it not limit the appropriation to three hundred thousand dollars?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, as I understand, it does for any one bridge.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, if a bridge were valued at more than three hundred thousand dollars then what would the status of that bridge be.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, the bill does not provide for an expenditure of more than three hundred thousand dollars for any one bridge.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, when the gentleman from Beaver fixed the price of a bridge at three hundred thousand dollars, did he have any particular bridge in mind that would be appraised at that price?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I cannot say that I had any definite bridge or bridges in mind. There are some bridges, however, that I think the citizens of certain sections of this state would like to have the state take over and it would be a great thing for those particular communities, and it might be that there are some bridges in the section of the gentleman from Perry that it would be advantageous for the citizens or the voters thereof to have the state take over, which I think this bill will cover.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, how many bridges in the Commonwealth would come under the figure of three hundred thousand dollars? Has the gentleman from Beaver investigated that question?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question I would say I have no appraisement of the toll bridges of the State of Pennsylvania and I cannot answer his question.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether or not there are any in his immediate vicinity that would be affected by this bill.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I think there are.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, does the bridge that the gentleman has in mind in his immediate vicinity connect with State Highways or is it on a State Highway system?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's question I would say that I do not know it to be a fact that this bill is definitely intended for any particular bridge. I do not know that the owners of any toll bridge in my community would cooperate. They might oppose anything of this kind.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has not answered my question. I wanted to know whether or not the bridges in his vicinity are on a State Highway system.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I would say I know of one toll in the western end of the State of Pnensylvania that is on the Highway system.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, does the Secretary of Highways agree to go along with this idea of taking over the bridge that the gentleman has mentioned, that he knows to be in the western end of the State?

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I have had no conference or no conversation with the Department of Highways concerning any bridges. As a lawmaker I felt that I had the privilege and right to introduce a bill that might take care of any problem of this kind. I felt sure that the Department of Highways would go along with anything that was feasible and reasonable.

Mr. STAMBAUGH: Mr. Speaker, I wish to oppose this bill not because I am opposed to taking over the toll bridges because I am not, but it is due to the fact that we would like to get rid of the toll bridges in the immediate vicinity of Harrisburg, the ones crossing the Susquehanna river and at various other points, Columbia, Harrisburg and Clark's Ferry and Sunbury and quite a number of other large and expensive bridges. I think it is eminently unfair to fix a price of three hundred thousand dollars on bridges and say that those coming within that range should be taken over by the Department of Highways without the people who are using them being required to retire them by paying tolls and have the rest of us continue to pay tolls. For that reason I definitely oppose this bill.

That is not all, Mr. Speaker. I feel the sponsors of this bill, having in mind a certain bridge or no doubt they have in mind a certain bridge are putting themselves in an awkward position, because if this bill should pass then those districts that have bridges within the three hundred thousand dollar limit would not be in a position to retire those bridges by the toll system, and if the Secretary of Highways decides not to buy the bridges those people will be compelled to continue to pay tolls on the bridges as long as the Department refuses to take them over. They take away the prerogative of retiring the bridges, Mr. Speaker, and for that reason I oppose the bill and I ask the membership of the House to vote it down.

Mr. WEINGARDNER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that a great amount of fuss has been made here over a very simple bill. If you will read this act you will find that all it does in the world is to amend the present law by increasing the amount that the State Highway Department could pay for a toll bridge, if they decide to take it over, from thirty thousand dollars to three hundred thousand dollars. This bill does not force them to take over a single bridge. It does not change in any way, shape or form the existing law except as to the amount, and it would seem to me that with the conditions confronting this state at the present time, with our industries engaged in rearmament, that there may not only be one but several situations in the state that might make it advisable to take over bridges. The amount is simply increased, it is not mandatory, it is entirely up to the Secretary of Highways, and I think the House will do well to pass this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 159, as follows:

An Act to further amend sections four and twenty-two of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (P. L. 858) entitled "An act establishing a State employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing State employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon the heads of departments in which State employes serve excepting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" by transferring the State Employes' Retirement Board from the Department of State to the Treasury Department and transferring certain appropriations

Section 1 Sections four and twenty-two of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (P. L. 858) entitled "An act establishing a State employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing State employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon the heads of departments in which State employes serve excepting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" as last amended by the act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 245) are hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 4 (1) Upon the effective date of this act the "State Employes' Retirement Board" shall be transferred from [the Treasury Department to] the Department of State to the Treasury Department and shall consist of the following

(a) The Secretary of the Commonwealth [who shall be chairman thereof]

(b) The State Treasurer who shall be chairman thereof

(c) One member who shall be appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who shall serve until his successor is appointed

(d) Two members of the retirement association elected from among their number in a manner to be approved by those persons named in paragraphs (a) (b) and (c) of this section one to serve for one year one for two years and whose successors shall be elected for a term of three years from among the members of the retirement association in a manner to be approved by the retirement board

A vacancy occurring during a term shall be filled for the unexpired term by the appointment of a successor in the same manner as his or her predecessor Until the establishment of the retirement association and the election of two representatives therefrom the persons named in paragraphs (a) (b) and (c) of this section are empowered to perform the duties of the retirement board

(2) The expenses of the administration of this act by the retirement board exclusive of the payment of retirement allowances and of the other benefits provided for in this act shall be paid by the Commonwealth by biennial appropriations from the general fund made on the basis of estimates submitted by the retirement board The members of the retirement board shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed from the aforesaid appropriations for any necessary expenditures and no contributor shall suffer loss of salary or wages through serving on the retirement board

(3) The [Secretary of the Commonwealth] State Treasurer shall [with the approval of the Governor] appoint a secretary an actuary and such medical clerical and other employes as may be necessary

(4) The compensation of all persons so appointed shall be fixed by the [Secretary of the Commonwealth with the approval of the Governor and in conformity with the standards established by the Executive Board of this Commonwealth] State Treasurer

(5) Subject to the limitations of this act and of law the retirement board shall from time to time establish rules and regulations for the administration of the fund and ledger accounts created by this act and for the transaction of its business

(6) The retirement board shall keep in convenient form such data as shall be necessary for actuarial valuation of the various accounts created by this act

(7) In the years nineteen hundred twenty-seven and nineteen hundred thirty and in every fifth year thereafter the actuary of the retirement board shall make an actuarial investigation into the mortality and service experience of the contributors and beneficiaries as defined in this act and shall make a valuation of the various accounts created by this act and on the basis of such investigation and valuation the retirement board shall

(a) Adopt for the retirement system one or more mortality tables and such other tables as shall be deemed necessary

(b) Certify the rates of deduction from salary necessary to pay the annuities authorized under the provisions of this act and

(c) Certify biennially the amount of appropriation which shall be made by the Commonwealth and other agencies to the State Employes' Retirement Fund which amounts shall be based on estimates furnished by the actuary and shall be credited to the proper accounts created by this act

The General Fund of the Commonwealth shall not be held liable to appropriate the moneys required to build up the reserves necessary for the payment of the State annuities of contributors whose salary or compensation is payable from special operating funds or agreed to be paid by other agencies from moneys not in the State Treasury but the appropriations or payments necessary for such purposes shall be paid into the retirement fund only from moneys in such special operating funds or by such agencies In case any such special fund or agency shall fail to provide the moneys necessary for such purpose then for such period as moneys are not so provided the credits on which the State annuity of such contributors is based shall not be increased but the rights of such contributors in the retirement system shall nevertheless be continued and payroll deductions shall continue in the case of such contributors to be credited to their member's annuity savings accounts

(8) Immediately after the passage of this act the actuary of the retirement board shall make such investigation of the mortality service and salary experience of the State employes as he shall recommend and the retirement board shall authorize for the purpose of determining upon the proper tables to be prepared and submitted to the retirement board for adoption On the basis of such investigation and recommendation the retirement board shall adopt such tables and certify such rates as are required in subsections (a) (b) and (c) of paragraph seven immediately preceding On the basis of such tables the actuary of the retirement board shall immediately after the first day of January nineteen hundred twenty-four make a valuation of the various accounts created by this act

(9) The retirement board shall prepare and have published annually a financial statement showing the condition of the fund and the various accounts created by this act and setting forth such other facts recommendations and data as may be of use in the advancement of knowledge concerning State employes' pensions and annuities and said retirement board shall submit said financial statement to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and shall file copies in the offices of the Secretary of the Commonwealth of the State Insurance Department and of the head of each department for use of the State employes and the public

(10) Each member of the retirement board shall take an oath of office that he or she will so far as it develops upon him diligently and honestly administer the affairs of said retirement board and that he or she will not knowingly violate or wilfully permit to be violated any of the provisions of law applicable to this act Such oath shall be subscribed by the member making it and certified by the officer before whom it is taken and shall be immediately filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth

(11) The retirement board shall keep a record of all its proceedings which shall be open to inspection by the public

(12) The retirement board shall perform such other functions as are required for the execution of the provisions of this act

Section 22 The retirement board created by this act and transferred [to] from the Department of State [from] to the Treasury Department shall be and be deemed a department administrative board within the [Department of State] said department and shall be subject in all respects to the laws of this Commonwealth limiting the powers of departmental administrative boards with regard to the expenditure of money and prescribing the duties of departmental administrative boards with reference to the making of financial reports the furnishing of financial and budgetary information to the department with which it is connected and the making of biennial reports

Section 2 The members officers and employes of the State Employes' Retirement Board which is transferred by this act from the Department of State to the Treasury Department shall continue to be the members officers and employes of such board and to perform their usual duties upon the same terms and conditions as heretofore until removed or appointed to other positions Provided however That on and after the effective date of this act the State Treasurer shall be chairman of the board in lieu of the Secretary of the Commonwealth

Section 3 The unexpended balances existing on the effective date of this act in any appropriations whatsoever made to the Department of State for salaries wages or other compensation of the secretary and other employes and for the general expenses of the State Employes' Retirement Board or for the payment of any moneys into the State Employes' Retirement Fund are hereby transferred and appropriated to the Treasury Department for the same purposes as expressed in any acts making such appropriations and any such unexpended balances in such appropriations also are hereby appropriated to the Treasury Department for the payment of any bills or encumbrances incurred by the Department of State or the State Employes' Retirement Board prior to and remaining unpaid on the effective date of this act

Section 4 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 5 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. GROSS and O'CONNOR offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 31, 1941.

From Johnstown comes the saddening news of the death of Walter E. Rose, Sr., the father of one of our Members from the First District of Cambria County.

Mr. Rose's forebearers were of early Pennsylvania stock. For a number of generations members of the Rose family were engaged in the lumber business in Somerset and Bedford Counties.

The decedent himself was a member of the firm of W. J. Rose and Sons a concern which played a large part in the growth of Johnstown, from the time of the great flood until the present; and he was also connected with other business and civic activities; therefore be it Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby express its condolence to its member, the Honorable Walter E. Rose, Jr., and to the widow and family of the deceased; and direct the Chief Clerk to transmit a certified copy of this resolution to Mr. Rose.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the Chair and the Members of the House for their kindness in passing this resolution, and also thank the many Members who have already sent me condolence messages which I apologize for not having yet had the opportunity to answer.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. BAUGHER, from the Committee on Dairy Industries, reported as amended, House Bill No. 124, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 417), entitled "'An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission; establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacturing, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and procedures, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury; defining remedies; repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties and proceeding thereunder; and making appropriations," by substituting the term "handler" for the term "milk dealer"; defining the term "handle" and "handler"; extending the provisions of the act to those who handle milk by bailment, brokerage, consignment or purchase and by giving certain additional rights to producers' and farmers' unions or organizations producing milk.

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 1941. No. 29.

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 1, 1941.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O Father of lights and Fountain of all knowledge: let none of us be fooled this day nor any day by putting our trust and faith for spiritual security in the tangible things of this life which perish with the using. Even the beloved poet has written: "But pleasures are like poppies spread. You seize the flower, it's bloom is shed; or like the snowfall in the river, a moment white—then melts forever."

We are conscious that the people of this Commonwealth, this nation and indeed the people of the earth have followed too much the gods of this world and its pleasures and have forgotten Thee, Thy loving kindness and tenderest mercy and that Thou hast made and preserved us a nation.

So in these days of national stress and apparent emergency and even imminent danger from within and without, help us as a people to find our penitential way back to Thee. May we bend the knee at our national shrines, churches, altars and the sacred places of private devotion that we may again merit Thy favor and benediction through the dark days lying immediately ahead. "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord" says Holy Writ. May we lay hold upon that blessedness through a deep consecration to Thee and Thy kingdom upon earth. We pray in the name of the Great Architect of the universe. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WALKER and Mr. GELTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Geltz asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Bucks, Mr. JAMES.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. HOMSHER.

Mr. Carr asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Franklin, Mr. CRIDER.

Mr. Barr asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. MUNDY.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. FREY, from the Committee on Elections, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 169, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 814), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," abolishing the existing registration commission for cities of the second class and providing that the county commissioners of each county in which any such city is located shall act as a registration commission therefor, providing for the consolidation of the second class city general register with the general register of cities of the third class and boroughs, towns and townships of the county, providing for the transfer of the registration of electors upon change of residence from a third class city, borough, town or township in the same county, changing the period during which changes of enrollment of political party may be made, eliminating preparation and distribution of preliminary street lists, and permitting the destruction of certain records.

Mr. T. B. WILSON, from the Committee on Elections, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 161, entitled:

An Act to amend section thirty of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 487), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in boroughs, towns, and townships as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; requiring the county commissioners of the various counties to act as a registration commission therefor; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," further regulating the check-up of registered electors and the cancellation of their registration by the commission.

Mr. WADE, from the Committee on Elections, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 78, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight hundred one of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1333), entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying, revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by further defining political parties and political bodies; excluding therefrom parties or bodies desiring to overthrow the Government of the United States by force.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in re-reporting Senate Bill No. 23 as committed, from the Committee on Elections I would like to read into the record a letter dated March 11, 1941, addressed to me, and I think also to the other members of this body, from the Civic Club of Allegheny County, which reads as follows:

CIVIC CLUB OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY
Hotel William Penn

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 11, 1941.

My dear Senator Cavalcante:

The Civic Club of Allegheny County urges favorable consideration of Senate Bill No. 23.

This bill would eliminate the straight party ballot thereby requiring the electorate to vote for candidates for each office separately.

Too frequently candidates of either party, highly acceptable, are defeated because the freedom of choice of candidates is annuled when the straight party vote is registered.

This is a casualty that may come to any candidatte at an election under the existing system.

The Civic Club approved this bill because it will encourage independent voting and discourage party control.

Sincerely,
H. M. DERMITT,
Secretary.

Mr. CAVALCANTE, from the Committee on Elections, re-reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 23, entitled:

An Act to amend subsections (a) and (f) of section one thousand three, subsection (b) of section one thousand one hundred seven, subsection (h) of section one thousand one hundred ten, subsection (c) of section one thousand two hundred fifteen, and subsection (d) of section one thousand two hundred sixteen, and to further amend section one thousand two hundred twenty-three of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1333), entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act and codifying, revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by eliminating the right of electors to vote a straight party ballot by one mark or operation.

Mr. TAYLOR, from the Committee on State Government, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 325, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act approved the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, (P. L. 452) entitled, as amended "An act to promote the welfare of the people of the Commonwealth; creating a General State Authority as a body corporate and politic with power to construct, improve, equip, furnish, and operate projects, and to lease the same, and to fix and collect fees, rentals, and charges for the use thereof; authorizing and regulating the issuance of bonds by said Authority, and providing for the payment of such bonds, and the rights of the holders thereof; and to enter into agreements with the Government of the United States or any Federal agency; and authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies to grant, assign, convey, or lease to the Authority lands of the Commonwealth and interests therein, and to acquire lands therefor; granting the right of emirent domain; and providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act," by providing that no new project shall be begun without specific authority from the General Assembly and approval of the Governor and providing for a limitation of the cost thereof.

Mr. THOMAS, from the Committee on Municipal Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 338, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections four and five of the act, approved the sixth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 90), entitled "An act to promote uniformity in the assessment and taxation of properties and persons within the territorial limits of cities of the second class A, by providing that city and school taxes within such territorial limits shall be assessed, levied, and collected upon the basis of the assessments for taxation for county purposes; and requiring the furnishing of tax duplicates by the county taxing authorities to such cities and to school districts coterminous therewith; abolishing the department of assessors in cities of the second class A; consolidating tax statements covering city, school, county and poor taxes therein, and making uniform the time for levy and collection of said taxes respectively, and regulating the discounts therefrom and penalties thereon," by further regulating discounts for prompt payment of taxes and penalties and interest imposed on said taxes and by changing the date of certain tax payments.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. BARTLETT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 457, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051), entitled "An act relating to public assistance; providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children, aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief; providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose; authorizng the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with, and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons; providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board, Boards of Trustees of the Mother's Assistance Fund, and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind; and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, and the State Emergency Relief Board," as amended, by enabling the Department of Public Asisstance to take measures to rehabilitate persons receiving assistance.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 458, entitled:

An Act to authorize the revival of judgments entered in favor of the Department of Public Assistance by filing a suggestion of non-payment, and directing prothonotaries to make the necessary entries without charge.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 459, entitled:

An Act to outlaw claims against the State Emergency Relief Board for which invoices have not been presented within six months of the date of this act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. KEPHART read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 460, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (P. L. 365), entitled "An act to encourage and authorize the formation of cooperative associations, productive and distributive, by farmers, mechanics, laborers, or other persons," by permitting such associations to be perpetual; increasing maximum value of shares of stock; changing the requirements as to posting stock statements; dispensing with quarterly meetings; extending corporate powers and changing qualifications of officers, times of meetings, nature of reports by directors and the time for ascertaining and declaring profits.

Which was committed to the Committee on Corporations.

Mr. HALUSKA read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 461, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 594), entitled "An act establishing certain township roads as State highways; authorizing their construction, maintenance, and improvement under certain conditions and restrictions; limiting the obligation of the Commonwealth in the construction of certain structures located on such highways; conferring certain powers upon the Department of Highways and local authorities, persons, associations and corporations for sharing the cost of the maintenance and construction of such highways; and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act," establishing additional routes in the County of Cambria.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. WOODWARD read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 462, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section twelve, article three of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. REED, from the Committee on State Government, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens of the United States.

I might say that the amendments in chief will put the bill in its original form, with the exception of the second amendment which adds the word "county" where it had been inadvertently omitted.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. SNOWDEN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 463, entitled:

An Act to amend sections one and three of the act, approved the tenth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 478), entitled "Conferring authority on the Department of Highways, or any county or township to enter upon private property adjacent to any public road or highway, and place thereon snow fence, between November first and April first of the succeeding year; providing the method of ascertaining damages and payment of same by the authorities responsible for the maintenance of the said public road or highway to the owner of adjacent property; and repealing certain acts," by including the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. BARTLETT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 464, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled, "An act relating to public assistance; providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children, aged persons, blind persons and other persons requiring relief; providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose; authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with, and to accept and disburse moneys received from, the United States Government for assistance to such persons; providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board, Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund, and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind; and repeaing laws relating to Mothers' Assistance, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, and the State Emergency Relief Board," as amended, by changing the residence requirement for general assistance.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 343, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred seventeen) entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission; establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacturing, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act, and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury, defining remedies; repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties, and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations", by providing that milk delivered or made available, or received or handled on consignment, or otherwise, shall be subject to all the provisions of said act; further defining the power of the commission to fix minimum prices to be paid producers for milk; defining certain violations of said act; and providing that milk dealers shall be held responsible for actions of persons employed by or acting for them.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 125, on third reading, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except cities of the first and second class), borough, town, township, school district (except school districts of the first class), and county institution district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

go over in its order.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cox.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COX. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, is it the intention of the gentleman from Allegheny to offer these amendments this afternoon?

Mr. COX. Yes, Mr. President. At the present time they are being typed. I regret very much the amendments are not in order at this time but we require just a short time to have the amendments typed.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like to request that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, withdraw his request, for the reason I would like to move that this bill be recommitted, along with the other tax abatement bill, so that proper amendments can be drawn for both of them, in committee. We have been in the habit here in the Senate of trying to accomplish these technical matters here on the floor and I do not think it has worked out very well.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I believe the amendments we wish to propose meet with the approval of the gentleman from Allegheny County. We have held informal Caucuses extending over the last two days, between the members on the right and the members on the left and we would like to do the thing requested by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, but I do not think it is the proper thing to do. They are just specific amendments which are being prepared, and without any further delay we can pass this bill, and if the gentleman feels the amendments are improper he can make a motion to send the bill back to committee.

We are faced with this situation all over the state, that there is an almost complete lapse in the paying of taxes which are delinquent because people are waiting to see what we do in this Senate. This bill has shifted around so many times that we have to do something, either, affirmatively or negatively this week.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise along with my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, to object to this bill being recommitted. It is perhaps the most important bill presented to the Senate of Pennsylvania in my opinion in this session. I would like to call to the attention of the Senate the progress of this bill since it was first introduced on February 8th; it was then referred to the Committee on Judiciary General; it was reported out of committee on February 18th, at which time it passed first and second reading, and was then recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General on February 24th. The bill was re-reported on February 25th, it passed third reading on February 26th and it was then made a special order of business on final passage on March 3rd, and on that particular day we had a debate in connection with the bill and it was again recommitted on March 3rd.

The Senators in the Senate interested in the passage of this bill met and agreed to present amendments in order to put the bill in a position to be finally passed.

The bill was reported out of committee again and is now on third reading and we hope it will be in position for final passage tomorrow, by the insertion of amendments that we think meet the objections of the members of the Senate, to the passage of this bill.

Mr. President, when this bill was first introduced it was introduced with the thought in mind of aiding delinquent taxpayers of the Commonwealth. Now I think we have reached the position where even the tax levying authorities are interested in the passage of this bill. We met this morning, those of us who were interested, and all members of this Senate who are interested were invited to attend a meeting with a gentleman from the Legislative Reference Bureau.

Mr. President, I protest against any further delay in the ultimate passage of this bill. I think this is one of the reasons why people throughout the world get the impression the processes of democracy are too slow. Here is a bill that has been considered from every conceivable angle for one or two months and now we are asking that the bill go over in its order so that we can have amendments inserted that will put it in a position, I think, to be passed, and I feel certain they will be agreed upon generally by the members of the Senate, and I ask the members of this Senate to vote against the motion to recommit and permit the bill to go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is the Chair to understand the gentleman from Allegheny made a motion to recommit the bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the gentleman from Lackawanna wasted all that breath.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I did not waste any breath because I got over to the members of the Senate, I think, my impression of the absolute necessity for prompt action in the passage of this bill. I am asking the members of the Senate to permit this bill to go over in its order now so that sometime later in the day we will have the amendments, which I think will meet with the approval of everybody, to put the bill in a position to be passed finally tomorrow, and I protest against any motion or any suggestion that will have this bill recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, as I understand from the gentleman from Lackawanna the purpose of the amendment is to insert new matter into the bill.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, will the gentleman take the microphone, as the members on this side of the Senate cannot hear what he is saying, even though he does have a very fine voice.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I will do it as a courtesy to the gentleman. From the remarks of the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. President, it appears that the proposed amendments are to insert new matter in the bill. If that is true that can not be done on third reading, and it would seem to me we would have to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed second reading, so as to permit the amendments to be made, and instead of sending the bill back to committee I think we should reconsider the vote by which it passed second reading and permit the amendments to be introduced on the floor, as, if the amendments do not then do what is wanted, we would just simply turn the amendments down by vote.

Of course, Mr. President, I do not know what the amendments are at the present time and personally I am not in a position to say whether I would vote in favor of the amendments or against the amendments, but I surely think we ought not to send the bill back to committee. Of course, we are, some of us on this side, and probably there maybe one at least on the other side, who is opposed in principle to sending bills back to committee for the purpose of amendment when they can be amended here on the floor.

Many of the county treasurers have their sales advertised already and they intend to go through with these sales unless the Legislature here does something about postponing them. They did not regard our resolution as a mandate to them to continue the sales; the resolution was merely permissive and I agree with my colleague from this side that we ought to keep this bill on the floor. I would rather see it go over in its order than to send it back to committee.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I happened to have been one of the sponsors of a similar bill years ago and I just want to say to the floor leader—

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I ask that the gentleman from Westmoreland make use of the microphone.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in the coal cellar where I practiced speaking when I was a kid we didn't have one of these things and I am kind of shy of them.

However, Mr. President, I just want to say maybe I can clarify the situation relative to this bill and there will not be much more discussion needed.

Mr. President, I do not want a motion made later on to send it back to committee because I have an understanding with the Republican Floor Leader that he has my blessings on such a motion and I merely was wondering whether he is going to take advantage of that or not.

Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is the gentleman from Allegheny going to move to send this bill back to committee, or allow it to be amended on the floor of the Senate?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the sponsor of this bill, with the view in mind of recommitting this bill consulted with me but since there seems to be much fuss about it I have no particular reason to have it recommitted except to try to have proper amendments made.

Since there has been a request that the bill go over in its order I am perfectly satisfied to have it to go over in its order and I think all of the gentlemen are very well pleased.

Mr. DENT. That is all right, Mr. President, I just wanted a release from my promise which I have made on the proposition.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands the question is now on the motion that Senate Bill No. 125 go over in its order.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 205, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College for the use of the School of Mineral Industries for research and investigation of problems affecting mineral industries

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars ($125,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Trustees of the Pensylvania State College for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one for the use of the School of Mineral Industries for the following purposes

For the support of research and investigation of long range basic problems affecting the mineral industries the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000)

For the purpose of matching money contributed by industry to the School of Mineral Industries for research and investigation of long range basic problems affecting the mineral industries the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) Provided that no more shall be expended from this item than may be required to match an equal sum contributed by one or more industries for such research and investigation

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. DENT. Naturally, Mr. President, I think every member of this Senate will vote for this bill but I just want to say we can not save pennies one day and spend dollars the next day, or curtail the expenditures of running the State of Pennsylvania or ever have any hope of decreasing the taxes in the State of Pennsylvania so long as we pass bills such as this.

This bill, of course, does industry in my district more good than any industry in the state but I still think it wrong for the people of Pennsylvania to bear the burden of laboratory work that will in the end help one particular industry. There is no reason in the world why we can not give $125,000 to the University of Pittsburgh to investigate and find new uses, perhaps, for rubber, made in some parts of Pennsylvania, rubber goods, and maybe they could find new uses for glass if any appropriation were given to the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I say it is absolutely wrong to subsidize an industry, as we are doing in this bill. If I remember rightly the first bill was in the amount of $75,000 and now this bill proposes to appropriate $125,000 and within the next two years that will be $250,000 and before we are through we will be appropriating perhaps a million dollars to various universities to look into the proposition of creating jobs by finding new uses for Pennsylvania products.

This is purely an expenditure for the mining industry and if the mining industry would take as little as one-tenth of a cent per ton and put it into the School of Mineral Industry in Pennsylvania State College they could get the research work done which is proposed to be accomplished by this appropriation. I think it is absolutely wrong; I do not expect to get much support on it, but I am going to vote "no."

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, if I am not mistaken I understand the industry is going to match this amount which is appropriated in this bill.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. The amount, Mr. President, is $50,000. I had not intended to say anything with respect to this bill but if there is a bill before the Legislature of Pennsylvania at this Session which will make work, which will make wealth for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which will make taxes, which will help the counties of Pennsylvania, this is such a bill, together with the bill introduced by the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller, in connection with the coal industry.

We have had an appropriation for the investigation of the mineral industries in Pennsylvania at State College for a great many years. From it has come work, wealth, taxes, industry and prosperity.

This bill will tend to build up the industries of Pennsylvania; patiently, slowly, these college professors are investigating the possibilities of the mineral industry of Pennsylvania, and I am very much surprised the gentleman from Westmoreland would stand on this floor and object to a small appropriation for an investigation that is to bring back money to Pennsylvania, that is building up the counties.

May I say this, Mr. President, so that the members of this Senate may see the picture: in my own county, after having been an oil county and one which produced a great deal of oil, our county went down to where we were producing practically nothing and then we suddenly discovered by the addition of water into our sand we could produce a great deal more and we now produce as much oil as all the rest of Pennsylvania put together. There are a great many counties in our Commonwealth which have oil underneath the ground, Warren County, Venango County, Washington County, Allegheny County, Greene County, many of those counties have oil which at the present time it is impossible to recover because the chemical processes by which we can take that oil out is not yet known.

The laboratory at State College has had great success in patiently working out methods by which that wealth under the ground shall be taken out and become available and put on the market, that work which is bringing work and taxes and wealth and prosperity to the people of Pennsylvania.

I do not see how there could be a sincere objection to a college investigating the mineral industry of Pennsylvania in order that they may enable the industry to go ahead and do those things I am pointing out and certainly I think this bill is entitled to the support of both the Republican and Democratic members of this Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, so that there might not be any misunderstanding between the sponsor of this bill and myself I wish to say I made a slight error in my previous remarks, as I thought the bill was in connection with the coal investigation, but I find it just fits in with my argument.

This bill appropriates $125,000 to the mineral industry and we have a bill for $75,000 for the coal industry. I understand from the sponsor of the bill—$75,000 for the coal industry—regardless of what it is, I say those industries can properly put the money into research just the same as any other industry has to do—glass and rubber and steel and every other great industry in the state has its own laboratory and schools for determining whether or not they can find other uses for their products.

Mr. President, this is not properly an expenditure of the people of Pennsylvania and I want to vote against this bill as a protest vote against what might happen in the future. As we go into the picture, I voted against the first bill ever introduced for the benefit of the School of Mineral Industry in State College, I protested then, and here today we have two different industries that have asked for state aid in the matter and before we are through I have just as much right to come in here and ask for an appropriation to investigate, as I said, the possibilities of making, for instance, hosiery out of rubber—they make it out of coal—and maybe we can expand industry in my own home town, which happens to have the largest rubber industry in the state.

It is absolutely wrong for us to take the taxpayers' money of the State of Pennsylvania and put it into this particular type of investigation because, first of all, State College is a state controlled institution and if an appropriation is necessary it should be made in the general appropriation bill to State College, and that should work in the schools for the benefit of all industries in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I do not see any objection to the gentleman from McKean introducing a bill to take care of the folks back home—I don't blame him for that, it is perfectly logical, especially if he is going to stay in politics; personally I do not object to that but I object to this type of bill, not because of the sponsorship, but because of the bill.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, may I say this for the benefit of the Senate, the appropriation for the laboratory to State College has been in effect for many years—more than ten years. I have been intimately connected with it because former Senator Baldwin and I had this—when he was a member of the Senate and I a member of the House.

May I also say, Mr. President, the State of Pennsylvania has benefited through increased taxes by much more than it has cost for this laboratory.

To specifically answer the gentleman from Westmoreland, what he says about my interest in introducing a bill for the benefit of the people back home, in the first place I do not have to introduce any bill for the benefit of the people back home and in the second place the people who will be benefited by this are from other counties outside of my district, because as far as McKean County is concerned we have developed a method of taking the oil from the sand, in connection with that development at State College, and a method by which, in Senator Chapman's county, they are now beginning to take the oil out after almost sixty-five or seventy years of small production, this laboratory has developed a method in his county by which it is possible through the use of water pressure, that they are now forcing the oil from the sand; and in Washington County, Senator Reed's County, through the efforts of this laboratory perhaps the time will come when they will take those immense quantities of oil from Senator Reed's County, from underground and bring it to the surface, which will bring to them prosperity and industry and work.

The pool of oil in the State of Pennsylvania will eventually be taken out but the only way it can be taken out is by the slow patient investigation of college professors who really know little about time and who are not trying to see how much money they can earn.

This is a bill which should pass the legislature and I am sure it is entitled to the support of both the democrats and republicans in this Senate.

And the question, recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

REAPPOINTMENT AS A MEMBER AND CHAIRMAN OF THE PENNSYLVANIA PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Executive Nominations, reported with a favorable recommendation the following nominations, made by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 31, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate John Siggins, Jr., of Warren, Warren County, for reappointment as a member and designation as Chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, for the term ending April 1, 1951.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. GELTZ

That Rule 38, which requires nominations made by the Governor, to lie on the table one day be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting upon all the nominations reported at to-day's session.

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. EALY

That the Senate do advise and consent to the nominations reported.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 228, as follows:

An Act to further amend section twenty-six of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1237) entitled "An act effecting martial relations prescribing grounds and regulating proceedings for divorce and the annulment of bigamous marriages and amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto" by requiring the filing of a statement to the effect that the respondent is or is not enrolled in the armed forces of the United States pursuant to any selective service act or serving in the armed forces of the United States during actual time of war before the issuance of a subpoena

Section 1 Section twenty-six of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1237) entitled "An act affecting marital relations prescribing grounds and regulating proceedings for divorce and the annulment of bigamous marriages and amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto" as amended by the act approved the twentieth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 467) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 26 Awarding Subpoena When Returnable Upon the presentation of the petition of libel together with a statement signed by the complaining spouse verified by oath or affirmation setting forth whether the party so complained against is or is not enrolled in the armed forces of the United States pursuant to any selective service act or is not serving in the armed forces of the United States during time of actual war a subpoena may be awarded by the said court or a judge thereof in vacation signed by the prothonotary and directed to the party so complained against commanding him or her to appear which subpoena shall be returnable not less than thirty days after the award thereof either to the next or subsequent term or to such next or subsequent term or to such next or subsequent monthly or intermediate return day as shall have been or may be established for such court of common pleas either by statute or rule of court or both

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 242, as follows:

A Supplement to an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" providing for the appointment of a deputy school controller in school districts of the first class and prescribing duties

Section 1 The school controller in each school distroct of the first class in this Commonwealth is hereby authorized to appoint a deputy school controller who in case of the resignation or death of the school controller or by reason of his absence or inability to act from any cause shall have the same powers and shall perform the same duties as imposed by law upon the school controller

Section 2 In the event that the school controller shall not appoint a deputy school controller in accordance with the provisions of section one hereof the Board of School Directors may elect a deputy school controller to serve during such time or until such school controller shall appoint a deputy as aforesaid The deputy school controller appointed under the provisions of this act shall furnish bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) and shall be paid such compensation as the Board of School Directors in the district may determine

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I see the gentleman from McKean is busy and I do not believe he will insist upon me using the microphone.

The bill now called up, Senate Bill No. 242, Printer's No. 69, is a bill that involves a subject on which I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, the sponsor of this bill, state whether this bill will add to the cost of the school system?

Mr. McGINNIS. It will not, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, state how the board of school directors is constituted in his county?

Mr. McGINNIS. In what respect, Mr. President?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. How are they selected, Mr. President, by ballot or by appointment?

Mr. McGINNIS. They are appointed by the Court of Common Pleas of our county.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, who is the city controller at this time?

Mr. McGINNIS. Senator Frey, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, this is a bill that does increase the expenses of the school system, whether the gentleman from Allegheny wishes to admit it or not. The bill specifically provides that the person appointed deputy controller shall be paid such compensation as the Board of School Directors in the district may determine, and that is found on page two of the bill, lines fourteen and fifteen.

Now, Mr. President, in these times when everybody is trying to effect economy in the administration of government we have in this bill a Corrigan—it goes backward. In other words, instead of trying to effect economy in the administration of the school system it adds to it because it creates another job and the point that is most vital, is determining whether the new job that is being created is necessary in the City of Pittsburgh.

I am wondering if this is not another bill where another political job is sought to be created. They do have a controller at this time and that controller has sufficient clerks to take care of the business of controlling or auditing the affairs of the school district.

This bill gives to the present controller the power to nominate another deputy for himself so that he may be absent from his office more than he probably is now.

Now, Mr. President, I have sought during this session to go along with his Excellency the Governor in his program of economy especially, as he says, in these times when the cupboard is almost bare. Mr. President, there is no necessity for the creation of another political job in the City of Pittsburgh; the people are being paid sufficiently now for that kind of a job and I say it is not necessary because the school code already has made provision for a case of this kind.

Section 2209 of the school code provides for the election of a controller by the school board but the act says the board shall select the city controller as the controller for the school district.

Section 2210 provides for his oath and requires him to give a twenty-five thousand dollar bond.

Section 2211 fixes his salary at four thousand dollars a year, payable monthly.

Section 2212, and this is the section I want you to have specifically in mind, says the Board of Public Education in school districts of the first class may appoint annually such clerks as it deems necessary to assist the school controller, but all such appointments shall be made upon the nomination of the school controller and the salaries shall be fixed by the Board of Public Education before any appointment is made; this school controller shall in addition to his salary, be furnished by the school district in which he is elected, the necessary stationery and books required by him in the performance of his duties of school controller.

Section 2222 of the school code says the duties of the Board of Public Education in districts of the first class, in addition to the duties described in this act, shall be to define the general policies of the school system and to legislate upon all matters pertaining thereto; to determine and direct all expenditures for the maintenance and improvement of the school system—and mark you this, Mr. President—this is the significant phrase in this section—to appoint the officers herein prescribed and define there duty, to appoint teachers and in general legislate upon all matters concerning the conduct of the schools subject to the provisions of this section.

Now gentlemen, under section 2212 that I have read the Board of Education may appoint any number of clerks and to those clerks they can assign whatever duties that they may prescribe. We all know, Mr. President, it will not be a hard job for the Board of Education to appoint a chief clerk and say to him you shall have the duties that are specified in the bill now before us and they fix that chief clerk's salary before they appoint him.

This bill now, however, creates an additional job, a deputy controller, to be paid an additional salary as the board may determine. It may be said this bill goes further than that. It provides the persons to act in the place of the controller in case of resignation or death or otherwise. The present school code provides for these vacancies and how they shall be filled in that case.

Section 1213 of the code definitely sets forth how the vacancy is to be filled. Section 1213 says in case there is a vacancy in the office of school controller by reason of death, resignation or otherwise, such vacancies shall be filled for the remainder of the year by the election of a special controller by the Board of Public Education.

This bill will change that. As the law now stands the Board of Education will select this successor to the controller. You pass this bill and it permits the city controller himself to name his successor, because the bill so states. The city controller nominates and the board approves him and then if the city controller dies or resigns or gets out of the way the man whom he has selected will carry on his duties, whereas the present law is much wiser and better because it puts the power to select and appoint the city controller in the hands of the Board of Education. I think we ought to be cautious at that point for sometimes the city controller may—I am not saying this is the one of the cases but we ought to guard against the improbability or the things that might happen if the city controller has mishandled the duties of his office and his deputy under him is aware of it, for his deputy will perpetuate the thing and will cover it up and keep it from coming out, whereas if and when he gets out of the way and a new man takes his place, then you have a proper check on the books and the controls of that office.

My main objection to this bill, and the reason I am going to vote against it, is because it does not fit in with the Governor's policy of economy at all; it is just going the other way; it creates another job that will be controlled by politicians in the background and the taxpayers of the City of Pittsburgh will be required to pay an additional salary for an additional political job.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, at this time the Pittsburgh controller has a deputy controller in the City of Pittsburgh but he has no deputy controller in the schools.

An occasion arose where it was very important and very necessary that there be a deputy school controller; when Daniel Winters, a former controller died, it was twenty-one days before his successor could be appointed and the schools were tied up in their contracts and in payments to teachers. I can assure the Senate there was never a thought in our minds but what the controller would appoint a clerk that he has now under him to act as deputy. I am sure that is the purpose of the bill and the intention of the bill and if there is any doubt about it I am perfectly willing that the bill be amended, that is to say in so many words, so there can be no dispute about it, that he would appoint one of his present staff.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I oppose this bill because it is an opening wedge to allow other audits than the audit required by law; expensive audits which go much beyond the provisions of this bill. The school code of Pennsylvania has always provided that the auditing shall be done by the city controller and by nobody else.

There has been a very persistent movement in Pennsylvania among the school boards to hire expensive auditing companies to do their auditing, instead of having the city controller do it. That has never, however, been consented to by the Legislature of Pennsylvania.

While this bill only refers to Allegheny County, nevertheless it is an opening wedge by which the school code is broken down and by which the system under which we operate, of requiring the city controller to audit the affairs of the school board, is broken down and after it will follow auditing companies which will charge large fees and which will accomplish nothing.

Mr. President, I think the present school code, which requires the city controller to audit, and does not vary or allow him any leeway in doing it, is a good law and is for the protection of the school districts of Pennsylvania.

I am unable to vote for the bill, Mr. President, because it will open the door and start the practice of auditing being done by somebody else. I want that responsibility still to remain on the controller because it is put there by law.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, it is true in the City of Pittsburgh the city controller is also the school controller, but the employes who do the auditing or do the figuring or do the actual auditing are merely nominated by the controller but are appointed and paid by the School Board. In other words, they are employes of the School Board, which is a most unusual situation, but to me I do not think it is any auditing at all. I say that nobody, whether it is the School Board or the city or the county, should have their own employes doing the actual work, doing the auditing, except maybe the final O.K., but how can the controller of a city the size of Pittsburgh, with all his manifold duties, do the details of the work.

Now, Mr. President, it would be of great help to him if he had a deputy controller, deputy school controller, that he could rely on, that could act for him when he is away, when he is ill, and it is a thing that happens in every other big municipality, and I do not see why we can not have it in ours.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I have great respect and regard for the author of this bill; we are old friends and I do not wish to at all appear personal about what I say, but I do want to say this, if the City of Pittsburgh employs or engages or hires the employes for the city controller's office they are violating the school code of Pennsylvania. There is no such authority in the school code for any school board to hire the employes of the controller. They have no authority to do that; the law puts the duty on the controller to audit the books and if he wants to go away and sidestep his duties I do not see any reason why the State of Pennsylvania should open the door and say you do not need to pay any attention to your duties; we will give you somebody else to do it. I think it is his duty to stay there and audit the affairs of the school district.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, we have a very peculiar situation in the City of Pittsburgh and the law is very peculiar. The law provides that when it comes to appointing employes of the school controller, that the city controller who is elected by the people, may nominate those people but the school board elects them and hires them and pays them.

Now, Mr. President, he merely nominates the school employe, he has the first say, but the school board can turn him down and keep on turning him down; the board can provide for no salary if they want or they can provide such a meager salary so that nobody of any ability would do the auditing, so they have control of the auditing.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I have a personal interest in this bill and therefore I shall not speak on the bill nor vote upon it.

And the question recuring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

PRESENT—1

Shapiro.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interogate the sponsor of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the sponsor of this bill please explain the intention of the bill. I do not know whether the other members of the Senate understand it but I do not and I would like to have him explain the bill.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, the bill simply changes the time for the opening of the trout season from midnight until five o'clock in the morning.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it necessary to pass a law to accomplish that, to keep people in bed until five o'clock in the morning?

Mr. CROWE. It seems so, Mr. President. That is what the sportsmen of Pennsylvania want.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman from Monroe is not permitted to fish between twelve midnight and five o'clock in the morning but the rest of the members of the Senate do not know whether we could ever pass this legislation and provide the money necessary to do it.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, you see there are a lot of people who go out and catch trout by fishing with nets and we want them to fish during the daylight so we can keep our eyes on them.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act providing that when inmates of an orphan's home or other children's institution, maintained at the cost of any county, attend public school and are not legal residents of such school district, the county shall pay their tuition charges.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 24, entitled:

An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales providing remedies for violations thereof and establishing penalties therefor

The first section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 1 This act shall be known and designated and may be cited as the "Unfair Sales Act"

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 2 (1) When used in this act the term "cost to the retailer" shall mean the invoice cost of the merchandise to the retailer or the replacement cost of the merchandise to the retailer whichever is lower less all trade discounts except customary discounts for cash advertising allowances promotional allowances display allowances and any other allowances for services rendered and any other commission or remuneration received for services performed on behalf of any governmental agencies to which shall be added (a) freight charges not otherwise included in the invoice or the replacement cost of the merchandise (b) a mark-up to cover in part the cost of doing business which mark-up in the absence of proof of a lesser cost shall be not less than four per cent of the total cost at retail outlet

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales providing remedies for violations thereof and establishing penalties therefor

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading,

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 32, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to facilitate vehicular traffic between the eastern and western sections of the Commonwealth by providing for the construction, operation and maintenance of a turnpike from a point at Irwin in Westmoreland County, the western terminus of the turnpike heretofore constructed by said commission, to a point on the boundary line between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the State of Ohio; and conferring powers and imposing duties on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission; authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue bonds of the Commonwealth, payable solely from tolls, to pay the cost of such turnpike; providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act; providing for the collection of tolls for the payment of such bonds and for the cost of maintenance, operation and repair of the turnpike; making such turnpike bonds exempt from taxation; constituting such bonds legal investments in certain instances; requiring suits against the commission to be brought in Dauphin County; prescribing conditions upon which such turnpike shall become free; providing for grade separations, grade changes and relocation and restoration of public roads and State highways affected by the turnpike; providing for condemnation; granting certain powers and authority to municipal subdivisions and agencies of the Commonwealth to cooperate with the commission; and authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue refunding bonds.

be recommitted to the Committee on Highways and I would like to have about four minutes to explain why I make that motion.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. WOODWARD. I think I can do without the microphone. Yesterday, Mr. President, a member of the Senate who is a director of a national bank informed me that they had in their portfolio ten thousand dollars worth of these turnpike bonds and when the national inspector came along he objected and told the bank to sell these bonds; they were not a proper investment.

That is a funny thing, Mr. President, because the money for the super-highway all came from Washington and it does not seem consistent. You may remember Governor Earle went to see President Roosevelt and told him about the need of a super-highway and the president reached for the checkbook and wrote a check for twenty million dollars to start it—I don't know what the thing cost, sixty-seven or seventy million dollars or whatever it was.

There was a bond salesman in my office last week from a reputable brokerage firm and he said to me, "Will you trade your Commonwealth of Pennsylvania bonds for bonds of the Turnpike Commission?" I said, "Not on your life." Mr. President, he represented those bonds, those turnpike bonds, as, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania bonds, which they ar not. I dislike the Turnpike Commission and have disliked it from the date of its organization or appointment, however it gót into business, I do not know, but I can not help but feel that they have become totalitarian; although they do not practice the Hitler salute, nor do they practice the Mussolini salute, nor do they practice the Stalin salute, but they do practice the New Deal salute, which is this.

Now, Mr. President, the cloak of charity covers a multitude of sins. So does national defense—slogan "national defense" is fast covering a multitude of sins in my opinion.

As I am in the "rides" of life rather than the walks of life, my contact with people is very limited and I have to depend on taxicab drivers. I was in a taxicab a few days ago and I asked my taxicab driver about the turnpike extension, which was constructed to please Senator McGinnis's constituents. The taxicab driver said to me, "It is a fine thing, to have it extend both ways; it is a national defense measure." He said, "You know, this turnpike is so long and so wide that it enables army airplanes to land anywhere on its course." Well, Mr. President, that sounded pretty well until I got into Caucus yesterday and found Senator Snowden advocating a speed limit for this turnpike—well, I don't know exactly what it was—seventy miles an hour—but if any airplane comes into contact with a seventy mile an hour motor car, something will happen; no doubt about that.

Now then, Mr. President, my specific objection to this bill is it shows how totalitarian those people are; if you read the title of this bill you will see it authorizes the commission to issue turnpike revenue bonds of the Commonwealth; they are not bonds of the Commonwealth. A little further down it makes the bonds exempt from taxation; they have no right whatever to exempt those bonds from taxation.

Mr. President, I have moved to recommit Senate Bill No. 32. I suppose it will come out and pass but I wish it would not.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I was about to move to have this bill recommitted to the Committee on Highways for the purpose of amendment. I was a little bit surprised, however, to hear the gentleman from Philadelphia, after he has been away all winter in the sunny climes, show so much concern about human beings.

You know, Mr. President, a lot of Republicans are wondering why the Democratic Party has been so successful during the last eight years and the Republicans in our county tell us that they have forgotten or do not have any concern for the little man, and that from now on if they ever expect to get anywhere they must be concerned about the little man and if there is one thing our party has done it has shown concern for every human soul in the United States.

It has gone out and done things, it has not thought of dollars and cents all the time or of the bankers or financiers, it has gone out for the poor people.

The construction of this highway is one of the greatest feats that was ever accomplished in this state; it has attracted the notice and the admiration of every other state in this nation. I passed around here the other day some pictures showing where Germany seven years ago built this very type of highway and when Mr. Hitler wants to move his armies he has some highways to move them quickly and effectively and here is a highway that goes through the most troublesome, the most difficult territory in the United States in which to build a highway, and yet it runs on a three per cent grade from here to Pittsburgh right trough the mountains; you can drive it, as I stated the other day, in three and a half hours. Of course, the Senator from Philadelphia concerned as he is about some of his constituents in this state, ought to realize that this state extends to Ohio, that there are a lot of people between here and the Ohio line, and if we can build highways like we see and enjoy over this super highway we ought to be glad to do so.

So, Mr. President, I second the motion that this bill be returned to the Committee on Highways for amendment.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am enthused by the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis that the Republican Party is decadent because they have forgotten the little man and will not do any thing for him.

It has been my good fortune to have used the Turnpike from Donegal to Middlesex every week since the first of January, and if the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, who also travels from Irwin to Middlesex, had he been observant he would have easily seen that the Republican philosophy of forgetting the little man is being reversed on the Turnpike. The little man on the Turnpike is a fellow like myself and a few others, in small automobiles, Buicks, Chevrolets a little LaSalle traveling along, and you see looming down upon you one of these immense vans loaded down with tons and tons of merchandise; why whenever it approaches you or you start to pass it, as you drive alongside of the big van, you see that the little man is entirely forgotten on this turnpike. The gentleman from Allegheny who is such an ardent promoter of the turnpike should adopt his philosophy uniformly and state and confirm to us this turnpike is a turnpike for the big boys, not the little boys, and so I sort of chafe a little as a democrat at the accusation that the Democratic Party is the patron saint of the little man; we have gone over the line and we are becoming the patron saint of the big boys. Common sense and practical experience up to this time shows that the turnpike has been constructed not for the little man but it was to add an added subsidy to the big truckers of this state and other states. I also chafed a little when the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, trespassed upon the copyrighted phrase, "National Defense."

Now, Mr. President, I wish he would stay out of that because that belongs exclusively to the New Dealers. It is the beginning of all things and the end of all things right now, that phrase; whenever we can find no logic and no reason to which we may attribute any of our New Deal actions national defense is the take all and the everything, so be cautious Dr. Woodward, I am very much concerned about that phrase and I would resent any disparaging of it at any time.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am glad to see this bill is going back to committee and may I suggest to the committee—I do not suppose they need my vote—that if they expect to get my vote on the Senate floor for this bill they will have to amend the bill to make it mandatory upon the commission, before any construction can be started on this new turnpike, that they pay the damages for the old turnpike. We still have a great many farmers who are living as tenant farmers and their properties have been destroyed by the present Turnpike Commission in constructing the beautiful road, but a beautiful road is not much compensation to a man whose livelihood has been taken from him. They have not settled those damage cases by far and I think the Senate would be very lax in its duty to the citizens of this state if they allow the beautiful farming section of central Pennsylvania as I understand—another bill will tear it up—and also the mountainous part of western Pennsylvania, to have land taken from those citizens out there and in central Pennsylvania, without proper compensation for the damages done.

Mr. President, I think this bill, if it comes out at all, must carry with it a provision that no work be started until they have taken care of the damages on the old work that has been done.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, a great poet once said:

"A bold peasantry,
"Its country's pride,
"When once destroyed,
"Can never be supplied."

I was glad to hear the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, speak on this bill and I was glad to hear the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, speak about the little man who is involved in this bill. It is true as he stated, that there are thousands of farmers whose lands have been taken away and who have not been compensated for the damages. Mr. President, that is very material to the people of Pennsylvania today but the good Senator from Westmoreland has described that damage in a very excellent manner and I shall pass over that to another point.

Go along that dream highway today, go along it tomorrow, go along it the next day, and as you drive along look out over the country and see the kind of roads that approach that highway or run parallel to it, which the farmers must use. A few weeks ago I remarked to a gentleman with whom I was riding, "Look at that road going up through the farming section." Mr. President, the mud was about ten or twelve inches deep and that is the character of highways the farmers of this state must use today. How will this highway benefit the farmers? The Senator from Fayette has told who is the most deeply interested in this highway—it is those who run big trucks from Philadelphia to the west and from the west to the east, taking heavy freight that should be on the railroads, on to this highway.

I say, Mr. President, today in Pennsylvania there are 8,500 miles of country roads unimproved, leaving out the number of country roads that are yet controlled by the township supervisors, and the great state of Pennsylvania, the state that the gentleman from Allegheny says is being helped down there, as the common man is receiving no help in that particular and the farmer today must drive through mud to the market and from the market back through the mud to his home and yet we do nothing for the farmer. This highway is not for the little man; if we wanted to help the little man we would raise money to take care of some of these country mud roads he must travel over today.

Mr. President, I opposed a bill similar to this in the session of 1939; I believe the good Senator from Philadelphia and myself were the only two that voted against that bill. I am opposed to this bill because if it is voted on today I will vote against it and I will vote against it tomorrow; until something is specifically done for the farmers of Pennsylvania I shall be against this kind of legislation.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not like to prolong this debate but I must say the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, and the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Reed, are great users of the Pennsylvania Turnpike because I was a victim of being splashed by them one day from head to foot.

However, Mr. President, I would also like to affirm the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis. Shortly after the campaign ended in Allegheny County last year the republican leaders, Mr. Malone and Mr. Harris said, "if we ever want to get back we will have to do something for the little people." My answer was that the time to think of the little people is before the election, that you cannot think of the little people after the election, after you have used the Pew and the Weir and the Mellon millions.

Mr. MUNDY. Again, Mr. President, I have listened to these orations of pride and prejudice upon the part of some members of the Senate and I say frankly that most people are very suspicious of anybody who condemns any movement in its entirety. I agree that some of us might disagree with some part of some movement but to entirely disagree with an entire movement does create suspicion.

I witnessed the tolerance of the Chair today relative to one of the speeches on the floor. Mr. President, I am going to test the tolerance of the Chair still a bit further. I want to tell the Chair a little story and the members of the Senate may listen in if they care to.

Mr. President, there was one of those buxom dowagers, one of those coupon clipping dames, who attended service on Sunday, and she was sitting up in the front row. Unfortunately she was a little deaf and just then a handsome young man came out on the pulpit in his frock coat and made quite an impression, even on this reserved, elderly lady, who turned to her banker friend, who was sitting next to her and she said, "Sir, can you tell me who this young gentleman is?" and the banker said, "Why, that is the new deacon." She says, "A new dealer," and he said, "No, no." She was trying to get it and he said, "That is the son of the bishop," and she said, "They all are."

Mr. WOODWARD. For the sake of the record, I would like to correut one bit of language on the part of the Senator from Luzerne, that people who go to church rarely refer to the front pew as the front row.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I happened to be a neighbor of Senator McGinnis in the State of Allegheny. A number of years ago I came from Allegheny County and I might say I do not know of a better county to come from.

I have been considerably amused by the definition that has been given here today; it is something that I have been seeking for a long time, to get a real description of what the present day Democrat is, and it is rather refreshing and rather interesting to note that they themselves describe themselves as a party of little men and big business. I always knew that there were a lot of little men among them, but I did not know they confessed to that.

The biggest thing about the whole organization, as I have seen it, has not been what it has accomplished in any other line, except to roll up the biggest debt the United States of America has ever had, now totalling something like seventy billions of dollars. To my mind that is nothing about which any political organization should boast, so I am rather glad to have heard today from the lips of one of their own a description of the New Deal, which classifies it as an organization composed of little men and big debt.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I join with the rest of the gentlemen of the Senate in not talking about the subject matter on which we are acting and ignoring the rules of procedure. I propose also to tell a story for the benefit of the last speaker, who probably does not know the value of the New Deal, by reciting the fact that some years ago I think it was Stephen Leacock who wrote a book called "Behind the Beyond" and in that book he discussed the then prevalent psycho-analytical activities in the various communities and he suggested that there was a new method of testing people and things. He said things were not actions but reactions; he said there was no more larceny, it was merely one man's reaction for another man's money.

He spoke also of the use of these psycho-analytical tests for the purpose of procuring positions. He said it used to be customary if a man worked and wanted to get a new job he carried with him a recommendation or letter reading something like this: "The bearer of this letter has been employed by me for a number of years and I have found him to be honest, industrious, sober and an excellent worker," but now since this psycho-analyzing has become the craze it has become necessary for a man to come in to be psycho-analyzed and to come in with a certificate from an analyist experienced in that kind of work. He said one of the large companies had twenty-eight of their salesmen psycho-analyzed and none of them passed the test and he said the company had been fooled by the fact that they had been successfully taking orders for twenty years.

Now, Mr. President, I am afraid that what has been said by the last speaker about the Democratic party puts him into that class, because the people in this country have been fooled apparently concerning the Republican party, due to the fact that for the last eight years the Democratic party has been successful, and I imagine they have been successful because they can not pass the analytical tests of the Republicans, who view them with what I call unfocused eyes. I think the gentlemen on the other side who are listening to this talk over here today are a little bit fooled by the personal opinions and desires of some of our members and really think they are serious. There is not one of the gentlemen on this side who is serious about what he has said against the Democratic party in this Senate because I think if you will look at the election nominations next year you will find those who come up for election will be running not on the Republican ticket but on the Democratic ticket and they are going to tell about the virtues of the Democratic party, but now they are merely trying to lull you into sleep, trying to make you believe that the Democratic party morale is failing, and might I add this, that the seventy billion dollar deficit that has been built up will not interest the fellow who is going to vote Democratic; it is the little fellow with the big vote who is the one that is doing the work, and do not pay too much attention to this side when they talk against the Democratic party, because they are all members of the Democratic party and they will all run on the Democratic ticket when we get through.

I suggest now, Mr. President, we act on the motion of recommitting this bill, the number of which I have forgotten, the purpose of which I do not know and the terms of which I cannot remember.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is perfectly familiar with the fact that this discussion is out of order; on a motion to recommit it is not permissible to discuss the subject matter of the bill.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, we have been talking about a kind of dream highway, that is all.

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is on the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, to recommit Senate Bill No. 32 to the Committee on Highways.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion

It was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 80, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897-1937), entitled, "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," changing the provisions thereof and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I offer the following amendments.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as one of the co-sponsors of this bill I believe in fairness to me if not to anyone else, I would like to have this bill go back to committee where I can follow these amendments; they were never taken up with me as one of the co-sponsors and I think it only fair as one of the co-sponsors that I should at least be told what is happening to this bill.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. DENT. Therefore, Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 80 be recommitted to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation for the purpose of studying the amendments offered by the gentleman from Jefferson.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I want to say this; this was what I wanted to do when the bill was up before but they were very anxious to act on the first ones, and they made a motion that the bill go over in its order and so hurried us down to the department to check on these simple errors. However, Mr. President, it is perfectly all right with me for this bill to go back to committee, but I want to say, however, before it goes back, that these amendments are just to correct and to put in proper place the amendments that we have already agreed upon. It is strictly non-controversial, and these amendments were merely prepared to straighten it out. The whole list of amendments and the bill itself may go back to committee, but the other people did not want it to go back, and I want that straight so that we all know where we are on the proposition.

They are very anxious in other matters to keep them on the calendar and to have them considered and amended on the calendar, and they are also very apt to say that the majority would want to get the bill back to committee for the purpose of defeating it, and to question the integrity and the motives of the gentlemen on this side, the same as with the others, the same as they did with the tax abatement bill, but I am very happy to have it back in committee, and I hope that we will not be charged with that motive.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Jefferson withdraw the amendments?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. I will, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, seconded by the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Henry I. Wilson, that Senate Bill No. 80 be referred to Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 197, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to authorize cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, and school districts to file suggestions of non-payment and averments of default, or to sue out writs of scire facias on certain tax or municipal claims, and to revive judgments where the lien of such claims or the judgments thereon have been lost; and providing for the reinstatement of the liens of such claims and judgments.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 285, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on unpaid city and school taxes in cities of the first and second class and school districts of the first class, and on poll, poor districts, institution district and county taxes in counties of the second class prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on unpaid delinquent city or school taxes in cities of the first and second class and school districts of the first class and on poll poor district institution district and county taxes in counties of the second class for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and all previous years and all penalties and interest imposed on such unpaid taxes for the years aforesaid assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax unless such authority rejects the provisions of this act within thirty (30) days after the effective date hereof if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act twenty per centum of the unpaid delinquent taxes due for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-two twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-three twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-four and the final twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-five Provided That the taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one together with any interest and penalty due thereon shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one And provided further That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purpose of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interests in addition to the other payment required to be paid under this act during that year which delinquent payment and said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 2, by striking out the following: "or school;" Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 3, by striking out the word "and" where it appears the second time in said line, and inserting in lieu thereof: "on unpaid delinquent school taxes in;" Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "on" the following: "unpaid delinquent;" Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 2 and 3, by striking out the following: "and all penalties and interest imposed on such unpaid taxes for the years aforesaid."

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 2 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption may anticipate the payment of such unpaid delinquent taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and previous years at any time on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one by paying the entire amount of such delinquent taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty one shall be required at the time of such payment

The third section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such unpaid taxes whether or not liens therefor have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection of such taxes have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a city or school district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a city or school district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired The taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred except the solicitor's fees where liens for such taxes have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 3, page 4, line 13, by striking out the following: "a city or school district" and inserting in lieu thereof: "any taxing authority coming within the scope of this act;" amend Sec. 3, page 4, line 17, by striking out the following: "city or school district" and inserting in lieu thereof: "taxing authority coming within the scope of this act."

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The fourth section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied whether separated or not

The fifth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 5 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption shall have the right to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcel's of real estate without being required to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate

The tax levying authorities of each of said cities or school districts shall at the cost of the city or school district cause to be published two times in not more than two newspapers of general circulation throughout the city a notice to the taxpayers giving a synopsis of the terms of this act setting forth the benefits provided by the act and the necessary conditions required by the taxpayers in order to receive the same Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer or owner the person or persons charged with the collection of such delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayers or owners a statement of the delinquent taxes owed by him to such city or school district showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody

Every collector of taxes whose duty it is to send to the respective taxpayers any notice or statement of their annual taxes shall include in each such notice or statement an additional notice of the date when the next installment payment is due under the provisions of this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 5, page 5, line 9, by inserting after the word "said" the following: "counties"; amend Sec. 5, page 5, line 10, by inserting after the word "the" where it appears the second time in said line, the following: "county"; amend Sec. 5, page 5, lines 22 and 23, by striking out the following: "city or school district" and inserting in lieu thereof: "county, city, school district, poor district or institution district Provided, however, That if at any such installment period a person desires to pay either more or less than twenty per centum of the said unpaid delinquent taxes, he shall be required, subject to the above limitations, to pay all said taxes, on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for any one or more years, or any balance unpaid and owing for such year or years at the time of such payment: And provided further.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 6 In order to enable the taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale to receive the full benefits of this act no real property shall be sold for nonpayment of taxes before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and any tax sale shall be adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended as often as may be necessary for this purpose If any tax sale is adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended after advertisement or sale no additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for the adjourned or readjourned sale or right of redemption No such adjournment or readjournment or redemption failure to advertise or hold any such tax sale shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or sale had subject to redemption but the lien of all such taxes shall be fully preserved during the entire installment period herein provided for if the taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act Provided however That in every case where a taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act the period during which payment of the said deliquent taxes is postponed or continued under this act shall not be included in computing and determining whether or not any right of the tax assessing and levying authority has been barred or lost by reason of the provisions of any statute or statutes now existing or hereafter enacted limiting the right of the said tax levying and assessing authorities to file preserve or maintain the lien of the said taxes

On the question,

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill 285, Printer's No. 81, go over in its order.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. Is it the desire of the Senate to have the bill adopted on second reading as amended?

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Amendments to the section have been adopted and also the title, but the bill on second reading as amended has not been read.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Is it the desire of the Senate that this bill go over in order as amended?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes, Mr. President, before second reading.

The PRESIDENT. It is the Chair's understanding the motion is to have the bill go over in its order before second reading.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 301, on second reading, entitled:

An Act providing for practical arts and vocational agriculture, home economics, industrial and commercial schools and classes, through public school districts and in cooperation with employment offices, for the training, retraining, instruction, and adjustment of out-of-school, unadjusted individuals, in order to enable them to enter, reenter, or continue employment under changing conditions; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Superintendent of Public Instruction; and making an appropriation.

go over in its order, for the reason the sponsor of the bill is absent.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SNOWDEN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 465, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Secretary of Highways to lengthen or shorten State highway routes under certain conditions and providing for the payment of damages.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 466, entitled:

An Act to amend subdivision (b) of Section 409 and subdivision (a) of Section 411 of the act approved the twenty-eighth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. conferring upon the commission power to vary, reform, or revise certain contracts; conferring upon the commission the exclusive power to regulate or order the construction, alteration, relocation, protection, or abolition of crossings of facilities of public utilities, and of such facilities by or over public highways, to appropriate property for the construction or improvement of such crossings, and to award or apportion resultant costs and damages; authorizing owners of such property to sue the Commonwealth for such damages; providing for ejectment proceedings in connection with the appropriation of property for crossings; conferring upon the commission power to control and regulate budgets of public utilities; imposing upon persons, associations, companies, and corporations (except municipal corporations) subject to regulation the cost of administering this act; prescribing and regulating practice and procedure before the commission and procedure for review by the courts of commission action; giving the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County exclusive original jurisdiction over certain proceedings; prescribing penalties, fines, and imprisonment for violations of the provisions of this act and regulations and orders of the commission, and the procedure for enforcing such fines and penalties; and repealing legislation supplied and superseded by or inconsistent with this act," by limiting the power of the commission to appropriate property for the construction, alteration, relocation or abolition of grade crossings to cases where such appropriation is not made by the Commonwealth nor any political subdivision thereof, and further limiting the power of the commission to ascertain, determine and assess property damages to those cases where property is appropriated by it for the construction, relocation or abolition of crossings.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 467, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Secretary of Highways to establish, construct and maintain parallel or approximately parallel State highways in townships, boroughs, incorporated towns and cities in certain cases; providing for the payment of property damages resulting therefrom, and authorizing the Secretary of Highways to control the direction of the flow of traffic therever.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege, information and interrogation.

The PRESIDENT. Which does the gentleman want first?

Mr. HALUSKA. I will take them in the order as mentioned. Mr. President, I want to mention that if the Majority Floor Leader has any other order of business, since my discussion might be somewhat lengthy, I will be glad to yield, if we are coming back later this afternoon, but if you would rather that I dispose of it now, I shall act accordingly.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, we see no reason for having a session later in the day.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the Senator from Cambria will proceed on his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, some weeks ago I rose on the floor to speak on a question of personal privilege, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, sought the privilege of asking me to sit down because I was taking up a lot of the time of the Senate. However, he did ask me to refrain from speaking on this question until after we were through with the Calendar, and I adhered to that request.

I notice this afternoon and this morning my colleagues opening up their campaign next year both Democrats and Republicans, for the gubernatorial campaign, but unfortunately no one spoke in my behalf and so I will have to speak for myself.

Mr. President, I do have a question here that is very important, and I trust my colleagues will give me their attention, because I believe it is just as important to them as it is to me, I might say I do not want to get into your hair but we have a problem here that I think should be settled once and for all.

Mr. President, I understand this afternoon the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions is about to meet once more. In that committee I have a certain bill and I would like to have my colleagues on either side of the House enlighten me on the question I am about to ask, if they have knowledge of such a question.

Now, Mr. President, and gentlemen of this Senate, we have one condition that I think we should arrive at and this one is the relief responsibility to take care of any indigent persons. Throughout the Commonwealth we find that thousands upon thousands of men, sons, daughters and grandchildren are being called upon to help keep their indigent relatives.

Last night I spent probably an hour in the Senate and I found that the 1937 pamphlet laws, amended in 1939, on page 2046, read as follows:

"Section 3, Relatives Liable For Support of Indigent Persons,

"(a)" a husband, wife, child, father, mother, grandparent and grandchild of every indigent person shall if of sufficient financial ability, care for and maintain or financially assist any indigent person at such rate as the court of the county"—now get this gentlemen—"as the court of the county where such indigent person resides shall order or direct."

I wonder how many of you have read that paragraph. I happened to attend a meeting of the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions last week, when Doctor Bowman from the Department of Public Assistance testified, and he said that that committee has prescribed their own rules and regulations.

Now, Mr. President, I am sorry we have but a handful here and there is so little interest shown in this important problem, the great problem of relief, where we appropriate millions and millions of dollars every year, to take care of the indigent, and now when the question comes up, there is only a handful of Senators present. However, I will talk if I have to talk to myself.

I wish to know and I wish to interrogate—I see he is missing now, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, is not in the Senate Chamber and if he is about I trust a page will call him so I might obtain from him this information. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, will take his place I presume.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny tell me whether he has knowledge of how the Department of Public Assistance arrived at how much a responsible relative shall pay for the aid of an indigent person in the family?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no knowledge as to how the Department of Public Assistance arrives at the scale that they use.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman know that we have in certain counties of this Commonwealth young men who are making as low as fifty dollars per month and they are told by the Department of Public Assistance that they must pay over the entire amount to take care of the mother who might be on old age assistance.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I know that that practice is followed. I am not certain about the fifty dollars a month, but I know the Department does follow the practice of requiring relatives or insisting upon relatives taking care of indigent persons who are applicants for relief.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny tell me then whether or not the Department of Public Assistance is inconsistent in their procedure, when the law states very specifically, and I wish to quote once again: "Husband, wife, child, father, mother, grandparent and grandchild of every indigent person shall if of sufficient financial ability, care for and maintain and finance the assistance of indigent persons at such rate as the court of the county where such indigent persons reside shall order or direct." Therefore, Mr. President, does the court have the right to stipulate the amount or does the Department of Public Assistance do that?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I say in answer to that question that I think the Department of Public Assistance is inconsistent.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am glad to hear that. I am glad to hear the gentleman from Allegheny say they are inconsistent, because he is a lawyer and should have knowledge of the law, I am sure.

Mr. WALKER. Of course, Mr. President, that is a rebutable presumption, as to whether or not I have a knowledge of the law and may I say in explanation that of course that answer should not bind my colleague, the very distinguished gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz.

Mr. HALUSKA. Then, Mr. President, it is the thought of the gentleman from Allegheny that the Department of Public Assistance is very inconsistent in their procedure when they state that in a county a relative must pay a certain amount of money toward the aid of an indigent person in that family; is that correct?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I think the Department of Public Assistance is very technical in its requirement that relatives who can contribute to indigents' support do so. There may be instances where the relatives could take care of them, and perhaps there are times when the Department of Public Assistance is correct, but in my experience the only instances that have been brought to my attention are instances where the Department is very inconsiderate of the financial condition of the relatives required to furnish that support. My sympathies are entirely with what the gentlman from Cambria is trying to perform.

Mr. HALUSKA. I thank the gentleman from Allegheny, and I should like to call upon him at some future time.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, any time at all that I can be of assistance to the gentleman from Cambria, I shall be only too glad to do so.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am glad that I have one person who is going to assist me.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I suggest to the gentleman from Cambria that he has many people who are willing to assist him.

Mr. HALUSKA. That is fine, Mr. President. Then I have hopes of getting my bill out.

Mr. WALKER. That raises another question, Mr. President, which we should not raise at this time.

Mr. HALUSKA. All right, take that off the record.

Mr. President, once again, and very, very sincerely, I am firmly decided that something must be done at this assembly to set a ceiling by this assembly to say when a person shall be responsible to assist. I have introduced on January 13th Senate Bill No. 21, which is a bill in which you will find I have set the ceiling, in which I have said that any person who makes less than one hundred dollars a month is deemed not financially able to assist any applicant within his family.

Now, Mr. President, if that is too high, if it is your thought it should be seventy-five dollars, of it should be sixty dollars, if it should be fifty dollars, let us stand up once and for all and say we shall arrive at some figure. Certainly it is our duty. This department down here is running wild, gentleman, running wild.

I have absolute proof when I say that. Back in my county an elderly man was receiving twenty-five dollars per month as a grant under old age assistance and because of the fact that his son obtained a job paying fifty dollars per month, within ten days time they informed that person that he shall no longer receive this grant, because his son was able to assist him.

Mr. President, I think it is our duty to tell the department when a son shall be called upon. I have set the figure at one hundred dollars per month. If you gentlemen think it is too high, let us make it seventy-five dollars, but let us put a ceiling on it so that this son, this daughter might be in position that he or she may have some of the great necessities of life. Under the present ruling there is no ceiling, every county has a different ruling, so I trust that this afternoon, when the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance, and Pensions meets, they might consider this most important bill, Senate Bill No. 21, and, gentlemen, if you do not like it in its present form, amend it and bring it out, give this body an opportunity to discuss it, so when we leave here we will have some knowledge as to who is responsible to assist an indigent applicant.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, April 2, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 1:38 o'clock, p. m. until Wednesday, April 2, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, April 1, 1941

The House met at 1:00 p. m.
The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

O God, our heavenly Father, we pray that through Thy Holy Spirit we may receive sufficient strength to keep us faithful in times of perplexity; that out of confusion may come renewal of confidence; and that from our renewed hope may issue a deeper and a surer faith. Help us to estimate aright our partnership with Thee and share through humble service the burden of the world's need. Hear our prayer we beseech Thee, Our Father and our God. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. GOODWIN. RESOLUTION No. 65.

In the House of Representatives, March 31, 1941.

Whereas, Newspapers have carried reports of diplomatic representatives of foreign countries who, while stationed in this country, are engaging in active conspiracy with saboteurs to ruin our national defense program; and

Whereas, It is impossible to properly punish such diplomatic representatives, their staffs, domestics or employes, when engaged in such insidious activity, because of the diplomatic immunity they enjoy; and

Whereas, A member of Congress from Pennsylvania has introduced a bill which would abolish the diplomatic immunity of such individuals, and make them amenable to our criminal laws, to the same extent as all our citizens now are; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby memorializes Congress to pass H. R. 3977, abolishing diplomatic immunity; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of this House to both Senators and all Congressmen from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

The Chair for Mr. WRIGHT for today's session

COMMUNICATION

The Speaker laid before the House a communication which was read by the Clerk as follows:

Monessen, Pa.

Hon. Elmer Kilroy,
Speaker, House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Kilroy:

In Westmoreland County, little girls grow real fast. Here I am ten days old, and if you please, already a young lady.

I would have written you last week, but I knew that you and Mr. Moran were so busy with St. Patrick, that I would be lost in the shuffle. I want to take this means of thanking all of you for making it possible for my daddy to meet me when I arrived.

I am looking forward to the pleasure of meeting my daddy's friends when I get to Harrisburg very shortly. I want to see for myself if he is telling the truth when he says that they are the swellest bunch of fellows in the world.

My mother sends her kindest regards. So will close my first letter with oceans of love to all the nice men.

Your Newest friend,
YETTA ROCHELLE WEISS.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests that Members who ask for long lists of bills, please send their requests direct to Mr. Miller in the Chief Clerk's Office. This is necessary in order to expedite the work in the bill room and so as to not interfere with the picking and filing of bills on the Members' desks thereby holding up the sessions of the House. Members receiving requests by mail for bills, if they will file these requests with the Chief Clerk, he will send out the bills marked as having been sent at the request of the members.

The Chair asks the cooperation of the entire membership in giving as much time as possible to the Chief Clerk to fill these special orders for bills. Sign your requests and when asking for white bills always do so by Printer's number.

A change in the daily calendar has been made for the convenience of the Members. Bills amended either in committee or on the floor of the House, will follow in their order under the heading of "Amended Bills" on the respective readings.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Counties for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MARKS, Mr. Speaker, I rise in defense of the Committee on Counties that reported this bill out. On February 10 I introduced this bill and it was in the Counties

Committee. On February 19 two Members from Berks County who are members of the Counties Committee failed to put in an appearance when this bill was called up in the committee meeting. The Committee called me up there on March 19 and I explained to them exactly what this bill would do. I can see no reason why Mr. Readinger would oppose this bill because in 1937 he voted to repeal this bill—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. READINGER. A motion to recommit is not debatable.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is not well taken. A motion to recommit is debatable. For the information of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Marks, he is required to confine his remarks to the motion to recommit. The merits of the bill are not debatable. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. MARKS. After I introduced this bill, I wrote to every Member of the Counties Committee asking them to support this bill and report it out. The bill was reported out on March 19. I ask this House to vote against recommitting of this bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a division on a vote.

A division having been called for, eighty-two members having voted in the affirmative and sixty-nine in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 364, as follows:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566) entitled "A supplement to the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled as amended 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder and prescribing penalties' as reenacted and amended providing for the payment of compensation to volunteer firemen or their dependents" amplifying the provisions thereof as to persons entitled to such payments

Section 1 The act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566) entitled "A supplement to the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled as amended 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation providing procedure for the termination of liability and compensation thereunder and prescribing penalties' as reenacted and amended providing for the payment of compensation to volunteer firemen or their dependents" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 In addition to those persons included within the definition of the word "employe" as defined in section one hundred and four of the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled as amended "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder and prescribing penalties" as last reenacted and amended at the regular legislative session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine there shall be included all members of volunteer fire companies of the various cities boroughs incorporated towns and townships who shall be and are hereby declared to be "employes" of such cities boroughs incorporated towns townships for all the purposes of said act and shall be entitled to receive compensation in case of injuries received while actually engaged as firemen or while going to or returning from any fire which the fire companies or fire department of which they are members shall have attended or while performing any other duties of such companies

Section 2 This act shall become effective ten days after final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 487, as follows:

An Act to add clause (1) to section four and to repeal clause (o) of section seven of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board by eliminating requirement that the names of general assistance recipients be made public and requiring that the names of all applicants or recipients of assistance be kept confidential

Section 1 Section four of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board" is hereby amended by adding thereto after clause (k) which was added to said section by section two of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 1091) a new clause to read as follows

Section 4 General Powers and Duties of Department of Public Assistance The Department of Public Assistance shall have the power and its duty shall be

* * * *

(1) To keep the names of all applicants or recipients of general and special assistance confidential

Section 2 Clause (o) of section seven of said act which was added to said section by section two of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 1091) is hereby repealed

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VANALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker I rise to say a few words in opposition to the bill before the House sponsored by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

This bill consists of two parts. In the first place it repeals paragraph "o" in section 4, which defines the powers of the County boards of public assistance. The paragraph in question which this bill seeks to repeal is as follows

"To make available for inspection and examination during office hours to any taxpayer, in such manner as the county board of assistance may prescribe, the names, addresses, amount of assistance granted to all persons then receiving general assistance."

This particular paragraph is an amendment to the Act of 1937 which was placed in the act in the last session of the legislature in 1939.

It is the intent of the program at that time to localize the administration of relief, to make local communities responsible for their duty in making contributions and to help solve the problem of relief. At that time you will remember the relief rolls were running as high as $2,000,000. a week. This is merely one paragraph among three or four words and I want to read to you very briefly, in order that you may understand fully this paragraph and the preceding ones that have reference to it, namely,

The County Board may appoint a "To appoint committees of the county board of local citizens in various communities of the county, as circumstances may require, to cooperate with the county board in (1) supplying information as to the eligibility of persons applying for assistance; (2) recommending local policies and (3) stimulating local employment."

The section (1) states:

"To encourage employable recipients of assistance to accept full or part-time employment by providing that such recipients will again be granted assistance upon the termination of such employment, if in need thereof."

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman has the right to be heard. Some of us that are interested in this bill have a right to listen. I request that the House be in order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct. The House will be in order. Members and visitors will please cease their conversation. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. VANALLSBURG. This paragraph, Mr. Speaker, enables for example an individual living in a community, if he happens to know of a person in his community whom he believes, or hears any way, is on relief and at the same time and he knows that the person has employment and that he is working, this provision enables him to go to the county office to consult with the executive director and find out whether this person is on relief and to convey to him the information he has, that this man is working. In that way his relief is checked up and in that way he cooperates with the executive director in removing persons who are not deserving of relief.

On the other hand he may know of someone who is suffering and not properly cared for by the Department of Public Assistance, and it may be also that the visitor has not properly adjudged this person's needs, and that the person is suffering and not enjoying the privileges to which he is entitled. Then this neighbor can go around to the county board of assistance and say, "I came here to inquire about the circumstances of John Brown or Mary Jones. I understand that person is getting no relief, I came to explain to you the needs of this person."

I speak from experience when I say I have helped many persons to the full benefits of the law, who were fully entitled to it, but because of the misjudgment or the failure to understand the situation on the part of the visitor, these people were suffering and were not getting the full benefits of relief.

Now, friends, there have been no complaints made about this particular paragraph. For two years I have been devoting my entire time to the study of relief as a member of the Sub-committee on Relief of the Joint State Government Commission. We had eight different boards before us and not one of them made a single complaint about this particular paragraph. No county board has made a complaint to us. I personally conversed with the Secretary of Public Assistance this morning, and he says, "Van Allsburg, regarding that paragraph it is true that in the large cities where neighbors are not well acquainted with each other it is of little value, but it is of value in the other counties outside of the big cities."

To illustrate concretely the effect on the beneficiary himself, I want to say this to you, that the people who are on part time employment, for instance those who work in canning factories, who go out on the farms in the summer to work, people on relief who go out and get jobs and work three or five or six weeks and perhaps the farmer for whom they work, in sympathy with their needs, they appear to be poor, he gives them potatoes or apples or what not, depending on how generous he is. Then when pay day comes or at the close of the service they say, "Well now, Mr. VanAllsburg or Mr. Brown, please don't say anything as I am on relief."

Those are the conditions that exist. The same thing is true in other places. I would like to read for your information just a few words taken from the Public Assistance Manual of the State of New York, which says on page forty-one. "income resulting from occasional or odd jobs is difficult to verify in large urban areas; nevertheless constant effort should be made to verify the facts. In rural areas, the tendency of the community to advise public welfare officials offsets income by recipients lessons this problem.

Seasonal incomes of communities are more easily watched. Some of the seasonal income sources in any community which will require watching are: Canning, bean picking, buliding and allied trades; farm labor; summer resort concessions and allied summer employment; fishing and home industries, particularly fields in which labor may be performed or manufactured in the homes of individuals.

This is a very wise provision. It has not been abused, and I cannot see why in the world anyone would want to remove it from the present act. I can understand full well why Mr. Levy would be a party to doing it, because I recall very distinctly Mr. Levy said two years ago in speaking against my bill, and I quote from the Legislative Journal, page 2188, "The VanAllsburg bill attempts to starve out millions of people in Pennsylvania," and then again on page 2199 the gentleman from Philadelphia said, now, get this please, every Member of the House, because I would like you to hear it, "I ask every member of the House to insert amendments in the bill the VanAllsburg bill) so as to take away the power from the county boards to say who shall get assistance and who shall not."

Can we conceive of such a highly centralized system of relief as the gentleman from Philadelphia advocates? The amendments he is submitting to the bill read as follows, carrying out that same idea that he expressed two years ago:

> "The Department of Public Assistance shall have the power to keep the names of all applicants or recipients of general and special assistance confidential."

It will keep the whole matter of who is on the relief roll a secret. If that isn't playing into the hands of the professional social worker and the bureaucracy we know they would like to establish, then I want to know. It seems the provision we have here, is a pretense to comply with the request of the Federal Social Security Board. That request is complied with in the bill I introduced, but my bill lies in committee and this bill has been reported out. It does not meet the requirements of the Federal Social Security Board relating to special assistance.

I repeat in closing there is no need of talking very long on this bill. I repeat, this law has not embarrassed anyone and it has been very beneficial to see that people who need relief, if there is reason to believe they are not getting it, should get it and have the full benefit of the law. On the other hand cooperate with the county board in a friendly way to remove people who are not entitled to relief.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask the House to support House Bill 437 as introduced and subsequently amended in committee or on the floor of this House. I might say in answer to the gentleman from Erie, that he probably gave the House the wrong impression when he said he also introduced a bill but his bill lies in committee while Mr. Levy's bill has been reported out. I might call to the attention of Mr. VanAllsburg and to the members of the House, that Mr. Levy introduced his bill on February 18, 1941. Mr. VanAllsburg introduced his bill on March 18, 1941, so that on the surface apparently the committee did not show preference in dealing with these bills, because as I recall it, my bill was reported out of Committee before Mr. VanAllsburg's bill was ever introduced.

I want to say to the Members of the House, and particularly the Republican members, that if the gentleman from Erie has decided to make this a party measure, his challenge is very willingly accepted. It is true that in 1939 the Democratic Party opposed the amendments introduced by the gentleman from Erie to the 1937 act and I think the story will probably be left with the people rather than with the Members of the Assembly. I only want to say to the membership of this House, and particularly to the Republican membership, that the disclosure of confidential information in regards to assistance is probably not so much the business of the Democratic membership of this House, but a long time ago in answer to a request by the President of the United States to the Chairman of the Social Security Board in Washington, and the letter was dated December 30, 1938, the Chairman of that respective board reported to the President, as per the desire of Congress on the status of the various provisions in the Social Security Act and requested the Chairman of the Social Security Board to suggest to the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives in Washington what steps should be taken to improve the setup federally and in relation also to the various States. I might say to the members of this House that in that report to the President of the United States, the chairman of the committee Mr. Altmeyer, along with the members of its Federal Agency had this to say, regarding confidential information, and I quote from the hearings held in Washington before the Committee on Ways and Means in the 76th Congress, first volume, page 16:

> "The Board recommends that State Public Assistance plans be required as one of the conditions for the receipt of Federal grants and to include reasonable regulations governing the custody and use of its records designed to protect their confidential character. The Board believes that such a provision is necessary for efficient administration and that it is also essential in order to protect beneficiaries against humiliation and exploitation."

Mind you humiliation and exploitation, such as resulted in some states where the public has had unrestricted access to official records. The Board's recommendation follows:

> "Efficient administration depends to a great extent upon enlisting the full cooperation of both applicants and other persons who are interviewed in relation to the establishment of eligibility for assistance. This cooperation can only be assured if there is the complete confidence that the information obtained will not be used in any way to embarrass the individual or jeopardize his interests. Similar considerations are involved in safeguarding the names and addresses of recipients and the amounts of assistance they receive. Experience has proved that publication of this information does not serve the avowed purpose of deterring ineligible persons from applying for assistance. The public interest is amply safeguarded if this information is available to official body."

Mr. Speaker, House Bill 487 does nothing more nor less than bring the State Public Assistance Act into conformity with the request of the Federal Social Security Board. We go one step further in that we of the Democratic Party request this Legislature to write into the law the fact that general assistance be governed by the same principles as special assistance.

I wonder if the gentleman from Erie can distinguish between general and special assistance when it comes to the publication of names. I have the greatest regard for the opinions of the gentleman and I know that every time he opposes or favors a certain piece of legislation he does so, and I have told him so in private conversation, believing that what he believes is the right thing to do, but I would say to him and also say to every Republican member on the other side of the House, what difference is there between the publication of special assistance names and the publication of general assistance names.

The underlying principal of section "O" of the 1939 ac' if Mr. VanAllsburg will read his journal more thoroughly, was advocated by him and the other members on the other side of the House when they said "This is a fine opportunity to stop chiseling on relief." I remember quite vividly those very words. I want to say to the gentleman from Erie as a member of the Joint State Government Commission, if that was the purpose of disclosing names of this confidental nature, then why did his committee report to this House that today in Pennsylvania the condition exists that sixteen to seventeen percent of chiseling still exists on general assistance rolls. If the purpose of the 1939 session in writing this amendment to the Assistance Act was to prevent chiseling, and if we are to believe the report of the Joint State Government Commission, then I say to the gentleman from Erie his amendment has failed to materialize as he said it would. I would say to the Republican membership that if this disclosure of names has not stopped chiseling, then what purpose as an act has it served. The minority floor leader has told me in private conversation that he did not know of many cases where requests had been made to the department for a confidental list. Then I say to the gentlemen on the other side, why the necessity of having it in the 1939 act. I say to you men of the House, if we are going to do the humane thing, the proper thing, if we are going to write into this 1937 law what is supposed to be written into it, you will gladly and willingly vote for House Bill 487 and bring it into conformity with the Federal Social Security act.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill should be defeated because in principle it is wrong. I don't know of another single instance—there may be, but I don't know of any—that the government, where money is extensively spent has not the right to know to whom it is given, and is consistently denied to the public. The Governor's salary is a matter of public record; the judges' salaries are a matter of public record; the salaries of the members of the Legislature are a matter of public record; the salaries of the officials of the Legislature, down to the Page boys are matters of public record; the salaries of all the state employes are a matter of public record; the salaries of all county officials and all county employes, the salaries of all federal and municipal officials and every employe wherever the government spends public money is a matter of public record as to who gets it and as to how much is being spent.

Why should we think about this particular instance and say this is a matter that shall not be made public, specifically, by law. I cannot see any real reason.

Let us take another instance. You people have gone so far as to say that the names of people who are exonerated from the payment of taxes may be made public and they are published in the newspapers. I believe the law requires in some instances advertising in the papers by the municipalities. If all those matters can be made matters of public record I can see no reason why we should specifically forbid the public to know who is on relief and who is not.

The gentleman read a rather extensive report. I think there ought to be some rule or regulation of the board as to what information can be made public, but it is not the desire of anybody to make public all the information that can be gathered by the board, such as what each member of the family is making and a whole lot of other confidential information that can be covered by the visitor. That is not now required by the act or the provision of the law. The question is, permission to make public under proper circumstances and under the rules and regulations adopted by the board, the information as to who is receiving relief, and I do not think there is any objection that can be made to that proposition.

There is no very great use made of it, and as far as I can determine there has been no abuse of the privilege whatsoever. The question has been raised as to the Federal Government and what is required. I think it is a very unfortunate circumstance that the Federal Government is more and more laying down rules and regulations so that government is being centralized more and more people in the totalitarian states, little by little they are being taken away from the people of Pennsylvania, in exactly the same manner they were taken away from the people in the totalitarian states. little by little they are being centralized into one power. We must submit because if we do not, we do not get enough money to feed our people and therefore, we must comply with the rules and regulations that are made. If the Federal Government insists, no matter how wrong they may be in our opinion, we cannot make public any information as to those on special assistance, but of course we would not have to comply on general assistance, since the Federal Government gives us no money whatever to help us take care of those on general assistance.

It seems to me a matter of principle that has been adopted in government for many many years, and has been adopted in many of the other states, that there is no reason why those people on general assistance should feel that they are entitled to keep the information secret and prevent the public from knowing, not all the confidential information that the investigator has gotten on the subject, but to keep from the public the fact that they are on relief.

I have carefully gone into this bill, and it occurred to me during the debate, I am not sure but that under this amendment even official bodies are in many instances forbidden under this amendment to obtain information which they certainly, and the gentleman has agreed, they are entitled to. I may not be strictly accurate in all instances,—there may be some instances in which they can,—but I believe there are a number of instances where official bodies are forbidden under this amendment the right to receive the information which they ought to have in connection with the people on general assistance.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to prolong this debate. I merely want to answer two questions raised by the gentleman from Dauphin and the gentleman from Erie.

Mr. Woodside asked the House, and logically so, what other Bureaus held their information confidential. I might inform the gentleman from Dauphin that official records are not disclosed and the rules applying to them are in vogue in old age assistance, survivors insurance, the United States Census Bureau and the United States Veterans Administration and incidentally, the rule in vogue in the United States Veterans Administration Bureau is also in the State set-up and is in vogue by the State itself. I would say to the gentleman from Dauphin that there is nothing new about non-disclosure of confidential information. We have in State matters had the customary policy of the same confidence entrusted in records as that of a patient to his physician, as a lawyer to his clients, as the records of the Department of Public Welfare to the State Department of Public Health. I would say in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin that certainly there is nothing more serious in all these bureaus under the State and Federal set-up that there might not be incurred in the State Department of Public Assistance.

I want to say to the gentleman from Erie, if that is what he says he is trying to correct, then I say to him the answer lies not with the disclosure of public records, but the answer probably lies with the Administration of Public Assistance in Pennsylvania. When the gentleman from Erie has seen fit to read from the New York Department of Public Assistance Manual, he might also have found out that in New York the visitors assigned to relief work are given a case load of from fifty to sixty cases, and in Pennsylvania, very surprisingly, the load per visitor is from one hundred and seventy-five to two hundred, if the Governor of the Commonwealth, were true to his own conviction, he would see to it that he brought before this House a proper appropriation bill for the Department of Public Assistance so that the relief load might be decreased rather than increased. I would say to the gentleman then that probably the reason for this deficiency is because of mal-administration in the Department of Public Assistance rather than in the bill that is brought before the House this afternoon.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if he were contributing to the support of some individual in his community, would he have the right to know who that person was.

Mr. LEVY. In answer to the gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Speaker, I would say that if I were directly contributing to the support of an individual in my district I would certainly know who he might be, but certainly in answer to the gentleman from Wayne, it would not be very ethical or gentlemanly to broadcast that fact.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I did not ask that question. I asked that if he were supporting or contributing to the support of someone in his community or neighborhood, would he have the right to know who that persosn was. Will he answer me yes or no?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman—

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, he is an attorney and is accustomed to questioning witnesses and I ask that he answer yes or no.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, to the attorney from Wayne, permit me to answer him in this manner: if he is referring to the contributions made to recipients on relief, then I wish him to so state it emphatically. If he is not, then let him divulge the name of the person to whom I am contributing. It may be something new to me and to the other members of the House who are not so fortunate financially.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, it is very evident that the gentleman does not want to answer my question. I submit to you that any taxpayer has the right to know where his tax is going and to whom it goes. I think that rule is as old as the centuries and if you make contributions to anyone whether it is a church, or an individual or whether it is the Government, you have a right to know where those contributions go. This bill will prevent people from having the right to know who the recipients of relief are. The purpose of this bill, as I understand it, is not to hold up to ridicule or scorn or permit people to pry into other person's affairs. It is merely for the purpose of protecting the public. As a newspaper man I believe in publicity and the more publicity the better, I know there are certain gentlemen on the other side of the House who believe in doing things in the dark, who believe in doing things behind closed doors, and who believe in going down in cellars and fighting it out. On the other hand I believe that publicity is the cure for a great many of our public evils and there is no reason in the world why any recipient of relief should object to having his name made known to some body of taxpayers.

I know very well that if I were on relief, getting fifteen or twenty dollars a week, I would not only be glad to have that known, but I would be glad to have it published in the newspapers.

Mr. Speaker, the floor leader, Mr. Woodside covered most of the things that I would like to say. I do say this however as a newspaper reporter, or as a taxpayer, you could go into your county seats and you can find out how many sales have been made, you can find out their appraisement, you can find out how much tax has been paid and you can find out who holds a judgment note. Now if these things are open to the public, and they certainly are, there is no reason why persons receiving relief should object to a taxpayer's having access to his records.

I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make one more try at getting this answer.

I asked the gentleman whether he thought he had the right to know who was receiving contributions from him in case he was contributing to someone's support? I would like to have an answer to that question.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I want to be fair about it, but the gentleman asks me a question that is parallel to the fellow that runs over to your office and says suddenly have you stopped beating your wife?" I mean he is indefinite. I want to say to the gentleman from Wayne in all seriousness if he is going to ask a question, will he define what he means by contributing to someone's support. If he is going to ask whether I, as a taxpayer am contributing to people on relief then I will answer the question, but if he is going to make it vague and indefinite, I in all honesty cannot answer it.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I do not mean people coming into his office. What I was going to ask him was inasmuch as he is a taxpayer and he contributes to relief then I ask, has he a right to that information?

Mr. LEVY. No, Mr. Speaker, I would say I have not.

Mr. DIX. I am glad to know that.

Mr. SAMUEL ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to state for the information of the gentleman from Wayne that the Republican Party has been in the dark for the past ten years and is still groping around there.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the Republican Party may at times have been in the dark but at least it knows how to throw light on dark places which is a great deal more than we can say for some of our friends in this House. I hope the gallery didn't get an idea, as far as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, is concerned that the gentleman from Wayne, Mr. DIX, had any suspicion as to whom Mr. Levy was supporting in the dark. I will rise to the defense, never having had that privilege before, of Mr. Levy insofar as his integrity and the propriety of his conduct is concerned on the floor of this House. I understand each week he goes home and it is a question there, but not on the floor of the House.

Mr. Speaker, this is quite a famous day. I have not received a message that the Governor wanted to see me, nor that the Senate was waiting for me to address them, but it happens to be April Fool's Day. I am wondering whether this bill which the gentleman from Philadelphia has offered is not somewhat of an April Fool joke. I rather smell some thing—and I don't want somebody to get up and criticise me for smelling something in this bill —but I rather smell something about it that does not appear in the ordinary print of this bill, nor is it exactly in the Printers ink.

The Joint State Government Commission made some investigation and found some very interesting results. I am convinced from reading this bill, as the gentleman from Dauphin stated, if this bill is enacted and becomes effective the Joint State Government Commission would not have the right to secure lists of names from any of the assistance boards.

During the time we were making our investigations of relief we came into a period when employment in Pennsylvania seemed very distinctly on the rise, and very suddenly we found that the relief rolls were on the rise also. We became curious as to how that could happen. We got a list of those who were put on relief in the preceding two weeks, and we gave them to certain members—we got a list of those counties where certain members of the Commission resided and we gave them to the Members of the Commission and asked them to make some little investigation. We got some information and some very startling results from those little investigations made by the members of the Commission in their own counties where they were able to get down to brass tacks and find out from their own knowledge of these people or from conditions in the neighborhood just what happened. We had a sneaking suspicion, and I had a conviction, that some of the people in the assistance department in the state were trying to boost the relief rolls a little bit to take care of the depletion that was happening because of the excess of unemployment in Pennsylvania.

Since the Joint State Government Commission's report has been filed we have received from time to time, from different county boards and from different groups, criticism of that report. I would like to say that most of it has been in commendation, but it is very interesting to note that the committee's report in almost all instances where it was criticized, the most violent criticism was heaped upon the attack on the visitor's qualifications and upon the question of chiseling. Therefore, I am wondering whether there isn't some one, or some group, in the background that has instigated this bill, in the belief that in the future they will want that power and will not want the legislature or any other group to seek to investigate the relief rolls. There is no reason why anybody should be alarmed about this power of the board to make known the names of those on relief. They can set up their own rules and regulations. I believe we all have confidence, certainly in the administration of the trained social workers, that they are going to protect those lists in every way from improper use, but there does come a time when it is essential for parties investigating relief and others to know who are on relief.

I am wondering if the Auditor General who conducts extensive investigations throughout this state from time to time, and sends representatives into the counties to make investigations, would be able to do that under such a provision in this bill. I therefore feel that it is against public policy, and it is an unsafe procedure to place upon the statute books a law that would deny that right to the board, and to deny that right to the Department of Public Assistance, to make the names known of those on relief.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I differ with the gentleman from Delaware Mr. Turner, in his interpretation of this particular bill now before the House. I do not agree with him in the thought that the Joint State Government Commission or this Assembly or this Legislature would not have the power to demand and receive from the Department of Public Assistance the names of the recipients who are receiving alms, shall we say. from this Commonwealth. It is an inherent right of the parent government to know where and how its money is being spent, but not that the general public,—and when I speak of the general public I mean citizens or small groups of citizens constituting the general public, should ask who is receiving relief. I think it is fit and proper that that information should not become property, for general publicity. Certainly the information can be demanded by an organization or any Commission that has been or may be set up in the future by this Legislature, and I am saying to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, that certainly he is groping in the dark when he infers that this government may not then learn what it is doing with its money after it passes this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(h) No commercial motor vehicle and trailer combined except fire department equipment shall be operated upon any highway with a gross weight in excess of two hundred twenty (220) per cent of the allowable gross weight of the commercial motor vehicle if manufactured with two axles nor in excess of one hundred seventy (170) per cent of the allowable gross weight of the commercial motor vehicle if manufactured with three axles nor in excess of sixty-two thousand (62,000) pounds or in excess of eight hundred (800) pounds on any one wheel for each nominal inch of width of tire on such wheel

No truck tractor semi-trailer and trailer combined except fire department equipment shall be operated upon any highway with a gross weight in excess of two hundred twenty (220) per cent of the allowable gross weight of the truck tractor if manufactured with two axles nor in excess of one hundred seventy (170) per cent of the allowable gross weight of the truck tractor if manufactured with three axles nor in excess of sixty-five thousand (65,000) pounds or in excess of eight hundred (800) pounds on any one wheel for each nominal inch of width of tire on such wheel

(i) Maximum gross weights provided in this section are permissible only under conditions where no other restrictions are provided in this act or in any other laws regulating the gross maximum weight of vehicles

Penalty Any person operating any vehicle upon any highway with a gross weight or axle load exceeding by more than five (5) per centum the maximum gross weight or axle load allowed and not exceeding by more than ten (10) per centum the maximum gross weight or axle load allowed shall upon summary conviction before a magistrate be sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five ($25) dollars and costs of prosecution and in default of the payment thereof shall undergo imprisonment for not more than five (5) days and any person operating any vehicle on any highway with a gross weight or axle load exceeding by more than ten (10) per centum the maximum gross weight or axle load allowed shall upon summary conviction before a magistrate be sentenced to pay a fine of fifty ($50) dollars and costs of prosecution and in default of the payment thereof shall undergo imprisonment for not more than ten (10) days

Section 8 That section 706 of said act is hereby repealed

Section 9 This act shall become effective thirty days after final enactment except as to registration fees which shall first become effective for the registration year commencing April first one thousand nine hundred forty-two and until said date the provisions of law now in force as to registration fees shall continue in full force and effect

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, first of all I want to clear the matter that was discussed last night. There was a request made for a public hearing on March 18th, and this request was made in a letter signed by Mr. H. A. Thompson, representing and speaking for the State League of 3rd Class Cities, State Association of Boroughs, the State Association of Township Commissioners and the State Association of Township Supervisors.

It is very interesting to study the history: of legislation in different eras that have existed in past years and what exists today. If one takes the trouble to make a study of our legislative branches both in Harrisburg and in Washington, you will find that different industries have influenced legislators' minds—by pressure groups that have been well organized by these particular industries, and by political donations to political parties.

For years river transportation secured any type of legislation, because it dominated the political field. Then railroads came along and they had the ready cash and some of the greatest scandals known in our political life were exposed from time to time. Then we went into the manufacturing era and manufacturers' associations dictated to government for they made the biggest political contributions of that day. Then public utilities came into the field and had control and have some control even today, but not as much as they had before the downfall of "Insul in Chicago". About this time the people revolted against special interests in government and voted out of power the hold that the Republican Party had on government, and I want you to pay particular attention that I state "voted out of power" because the public did not vote for the Democratic Party. Their vote was a vote of protest against conditions that were permitted to exist in this democracy that we love to speak about. But now we find creeping into government again some of the evils that we thought we had banished from political life, and we find the "smell of oil" circulating through out legislative halls because they are now in the driver's seat so to speak, and by big political contributions are able to influence legislation. It seems a shame that all the ideals that we talked about so much in the last eight years are being put aside for what is termed "practical politics". However, I feel that there are many Members in this House who are still firm believers in their ideals of government and still have the desire to serve the great mass of people instead of any one particular interest. Of course, the "practical politician" tells you that the public will not appreciate this service. However, I still believe in the intelligence of the American public when it comes to voting.

Now let us consider the labor question because it has been injected into this argument. Labor leaders in this Commonwealth state that this bill will benefit the teamsters, or "truck drivers" as they are called today. It seems a shame that labor through some misapprehension can be played against labor, because one of the arguments is that these trucks must be raised to a higher weight to permit the truckers to meet in open competition with the railroads. Now I remember as a boy these same arguments being used by he railroads against river transportation, when similar legislation was up for discussion as it is today. You talk to any old railroad man and he will tell you that in the old days they too, were falsely led on the assumption that by increasing train loads they would have more business for the railroads and more work for labor. But it didn't work out as the theory did on paper. I believe one of the best examples of how this thory has worked is to refer you to the national publicity issued by the Association of American Railroads in all the magazines last week under the heading that "Railroads Are Ready." In this item a paragraph appears which is as follows:

> "Railroads efficiency more than double. That is the net result of larger engines and cars, longer trains, faster schedules, and improved operation methods. Comparing 1929 with 1918 they state in the peak year of 1929 the railroads hauled eight and one-quarter million more carloads of freight than they did in 1918, although they had sixty thousand fewer cars and five thousand fewer locomotives."

Five thousand fewer locomotives means five thousand less engineers, and five thousand less firemen, and five thousand less conductors, and fifteen thousand less brakemen. This, I believe, emphasizes that if we increase the weight of each truck by seven tons, that for every fifth trip made under the new weight, one truck driver shall be denied employment. This is what experience teaches us in dealing with the railroad problem and this same experience will be learned in the future to those who earn their living as truck drivers.

Now we come to 1941 and we are asked to vote on a bill on the argument that other states permit larger trucks on their highways, and if we don't bring our standards up to their standards, we will lose the trucking industry. I have heard this same argument used in my four sessions of this House on every special piece of legislation, and on every tax measure that was ever debated on this floor, and in those seven years I have not seen any one leave Pennsylvania for that reason. Asking for legislation on this basis makes an endless chain for after it is secured in Pennsylvania the motor trucking interests will again start the rounds and through political pull and pressure will again have the trucks increased in weight and in another session will be back asking new legislation and using the same arguments on a new Assembly. However, one cannot compare conditions in one state to conditions in another state. The topography of each individual state must be considered, and I don't think anyone needs to be informed about the hills and mountains in Pennsylvania. Then again financing the improvement of streets and roads must be considered. In all the states that are being mentioned, gasoline funds are not kept exclusively by the state, but are distributed on a very substantial basis to every municipality in that state. This is not done in Pennsylvania with the exception of the second class townships and the one-half cent per gallon which goes to counties. I do not want to take too much time in the House in reading from papers, but if you will refer to any paper in any city in Pennsylvania, you will find items containing deplorable conditions of our city streets, as well as our boroughs and townships.

You who are in favor of this bill are going to say that the new tires used on trucks will not affect our streets, but you forget that when winter comes in Pennsylvania, heavy chains must be used on these tires and if any member of this House doubts my word, I will be only too glad to take him over the truck routes in our city of Pittsburgh and show him how these trucks have churned big holes in our pavements. Now then these holes are churned in, who pays for the repairs? It is the poor real estate owner who pays and pays and not the trucking company that comes from Maryland, New York, or some other state. It is these good people of Pennsylvania who have saved their money, depriving themselves of many luxuries to secure a home. These are the people of whom we speak of as being "the backbone of America," and the people we worry so much about before election. They do not have money to "lobby" in Harrisburg. They have elected you as their "lobbyists" as well as their "legislators". If you feel that these small home owners of Pennsylvania should pay the bills of maintaining our streets and permit the trucking industry to come in here session after session and impose upon their shoulders increases in real estate taxes, then it is up to you to vote accordingly. City streets have not been constructed to carry these loads. The vibration alone of our present trucks in our cities, where narrow streets are so prevelent, is not only destroying our streets, but destroying our homes. There isn't a day that some home owner does not come into my office in the city of Pittsburgh complaining of trucks causing plaster in their homes to crack because remember that the vibration of the truck works as when you throw a stone into the water. The vibration of the water caused by that stone disappears if the stream is wide enough and the same holds true for a truck that passes through one of our narrow streets.

Commissioner Kane of Allegheny County, who has a reputation of serving the people, and the people only, has pointed out through the newspapers that the roads of Allegheny County cannot take this added load. He has also pointed out that practically every bridge in Allegheny County cannot take this extra load and will have to be posted, but posting does not do any good unless you have a police officer stationed at the bridge. The city administration of the city of Pittsburgh through their engineering department has written to the law department that our city streets cannot take his load. The Cities of the Third Class in this Commonwealth have gone on record against this measure. The borough and township associations have gone on record that there will be very few streets left in their townships and boroughs if we are going to add more weight to trucks. These people have spoken on behalf of the local taxpayers and the small home owners of their communities, so it is up to us to decide whether or not we serve them or serve the special interests that ask for this legislation. Your vote, if it is in favor of this bill, means that you vote to compel every home owner in the state of Pennsylvania to subsidize the trucking industry.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, who has very effectively approached this question in his discussion of House Bill 690, has given his viewpoint and a conglomeration of history which in the main has been padded and exaggerated. The question of trucks traversing our highways is no new problem to us. For years the Legislature has done nothing about the question of regulating weights—since 1923 when heavy tires carried the truck convoys over the roadways of the Commonwealth.

In the matter of safety which has been mentioned by many persons discussing the present measure we find that the National Safety Council, in computations based on that as compiled by the United States Census Bureau, states that during the period from 1927 to 1937 deaths resulting from accidents in which motor trucks were involved declined 15 percent and during the same period fatalities resulting from passenger car accidents increased 47 percent. The statement further points to the fact that motor truck registrations increased 38.07 percent, while passenger car registrations increased only 19.67 percent in the same period.

The National Safety Council states that motor trucks stood alone in showing a fatality rate decrease in 1937 as compared with 1936 in the amount of 10 percent. During the same period motorcycles, passenger cars and other vehicles had an increase in 1937 over 1936 of 2 percent each.

The National Safety Council reports that out of 45 thousand fatal accidents in 1937, 78 percent involved passenger vehicles while trucks were involved in only 18 percent. The remaining 4 percent were divided equally among buss, taxicabs and motorcycles.

The 1937 Annual Report of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission indicates that trucks engaged in merchandise and freight transportation were involved in only 2,969 reportable accidents which resulted in a total of 8 fatalities.

The Bureau of Highway Safety, Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, in reporting for the year 1937, indicated that 6 percent of the registered passenger car vehicles in Pennsylvania were involved in accidents that year; whereas for the same period 5 percent of the registered trucks were involved in accidents. The fatalities resulting from these accidents were in the ratio of .13 percent for passenger cars and .15 percent for motor trucks. Note that the average truck travels a considerably greater mileage each year than the average passenger car which indicates that the truck has a considerable better safety record on the basis of the above figures.

Statement 39, page S-86, of the Fiftieth Annual Report of the Statistics of Railways in the United States for the year ending December 31, 1936, issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, states that all the railroads in the United States paid the sum of $321,271,709.

Using the statistics of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, as the basis and assuming that the average motor vehicle uses 12 hundred gallons of gasoline per year, the total registration and gasoline tax alone paid by the trucking industry in 1936 amounted to $342,475,618.

The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, mentioned above, reveals that all the railroads in Pennsylvania in 1936 paid the sum of $12,890,077. For the same period using the records of registration the figures of the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, and an estimated 12 hundred gallon, the trucks in the State of Pennsylvania paid the sum of $26,395,872 for registration and gasoline taxes alone. Note—in these figures pertaining to the taxes paid by the trucking industry no attempt has been made to estimate the Federal Excise Tax on new trucks in the amount of 2 percent of the wholesale value; on parts and accessories in the amount of 2 percent; on lubricating oil at 4 cents per gallon; on tires at 2¼ cents per pound; on inner-tubes at 4 cents per pound; nor has any estimate been included for special municipal, county gasoline tax and registration fees on trucks effective in many states and municipalities throughout the Nation. No cognizance has been taken of personal property taxes, general sales taxes, income taxes, corporation taxes and the like which are paid by the trucking industry to various governmental divisions.

Statement 39 on page S-86 of the statistics of railways in the United States for the year ending 1936, published by the Interstate Commerce Commission, indicates that the railroads in Pennsylvania pay an average of $1,281 per mile of road owned; in Ohio they paid $1,490; in New York $3,486; in Maryland $2,012; and in New Jersey $9,644.

Mr. Thomas H. McDonald, Chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, in testifying before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Docket No. 23400, said "so we have a certain minimum thickness of road that is necessary to build if there were nothing heavier than ordinary passenger cars and farm trucks to use the road, and the whole question of heavier buses and heavier trucks, therefore, begins with a certain minimum thickness of road which is necessary regardless of whether they existed or not."

The Interstate Commerce Commission regulates the transportation of commodities for hire by motor vehicle between the several states. Practically every state in the Union has some form of commission regulation of intrastate transportation of commodities by motor vehicle for hire.

In Pennsylvania the transportation of commodities for hire by motor vehicles has been under regulation since 1914.

In practically no case to our knowledge does any state commission or the Interstate Commerce Commission govern the wages paid to employes of either truck transportation companies or the railroads.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has recently issued an order governing the hours of service of truck drivers engaged in interstate commerce. In Pennsylvania the Public Utility Commission is contemplating a similar order.

Statement No. 16A on page S-35 of the Statistics of Railway in the United States for the year ending December 31, 1936, issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, indicates that the total number of employes for all classes of railways in the United States, including switching, terminal and miscellaneous employes numbered 1,128,532.

The same year considering the total truck registration figure compiled by the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, considering one employe for each truck, exclusive of trucks on farms, develops an approximate figure of 3,109,308 employes in the trucking industry. This does not take into consideration helpers on trucks, dispatchers, platform men, office employes, mechanics and miscellaneous employes.

From statistics compiled by the Automobile Manufacturers Association, we learn that there are 48,492 communities in the United States served exclusively by motor trucks. From the same source we learn that 3,835 communities in Pennsylvania depend solely upon truck transportation for service.

Mr. Paul G. Hoffman, President of the Automotive Safety Foundation and of the Studebaker Corporation, is authority for the statement relative to trucks and bus drivers of America, stating that they are "first gentlemen of the road." Doctor Miller McClintock of the Yale University Traffic School, states "truck drivers are the gentlemen of the highway."

Fred W. Sargent, President of the Chicago & Northwestern Railways, in one of ten-point suggestions to the Senate Railway Investigating Committee to approve conditions of the railroads, stated "the Motor Carrier Act should be amended so as to enable the railroads to engage in truck activities without the restrictions imposed by the Barker Case."

"The rails cannot go into the motor vehicle business as they thought they could when the Act was passed by Congress. This is because of the restrictions placed upon them to serving only their own points on their own line and at rail rates. If the Act were enlarged they could supplant rail lines with profitable truck and bus service when they cannot do at present."

I feel, Mr. Speaker, that this measure in no way will do the injury that Mr. Holland points out. I feel confident that unless the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania grants the same right as it granted by the surrounding states, the Commonwealth will lose in many respects. If a motor truck carrying a Pennsylvania license goes into the state of Delaware or Maryland and attempts to get the maximum weight allowed in those states it must get a permit and the driver will find it is not allowed. Those states allow Pennsylvania trucks to haul a load only equivalent to the load allowed in this particular state. Many trucks carrying loads from New York traverse the roads of New Jersey, which incidentally are no better than the roads of Pennsylvania, and there is no definite report indicating that the New Jersey roads have been ruined by the immense loads that have been carried there under the Trucking Act of the State of New Jersey. I feel sure that similar conditions would be revealed in the study of neighboring states.

I say, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, that we are living in a different age, and the general and supplemental acts contained in the laws of Pennsylvania governing this matter do not meet the present conditions. Let us pass this bill so that the trucking industry in the various communities of our Commonwealth may enjoy all of the blessings of a real sound, conscientious trucking industry, one that is the pride of these United States. I ask you to vote for House Bill 690.

Mr. BENTZEL. Mr. Speaker, I want to talk to you this afternoon about Bill 690 and start out by saying that this bill has not been amended for eighteen years. The trucking industry has grown in that time, and I submit to you that there has probably been no expansion as great as that of the trucking industry made by any organization or industry of our Commonwealth.

The existing Pennsylvania truck weight law became effective in 1923 and has not been materially changed since.

In 1923 many trucks were still equipped with solid rubber tires which caused relatively high "impact" loads on the highways.

Since 1923 the solid tire has become practically obsolete. High pressure pneumatics have come into use and are rapidly passing from use in favor of the modern highly developed low pressure balloon tire, which has tremendously decreased "impact" loads on highways and has resulted in "spreading" of the vehicle load over greater areas of highway and reducing the unit load on the highway.

Since 1923 the quality of cement has increased. The quality of concrete has increased. The design of concrete pavements has improved. Concrete roads are now structurally stronger and more durable than those prevalent in 1923.

The design of commercial motor vehicles has been greatly improved since 1923. The loads which they carry are distributed more efficiently over the axles of the equipment.

The load carrying ability of roads has increased. The design of trucks has been improved. Tire equipment has been radically improved, but none of these factors have been reflected in changes in the Pennsylvania law since 1923. Bear in mind, no change in the law for the past eighteen years.

An examination of the table entitled "Legal Maximum Truck Weights" reveals Pennsylvania's relative position as compared with other states.

There has been an effort by a Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation in Ten Northeastern States, beginning with Pennsylvania and Delaware on the south and continuing northward through the New England States group to secure uniformity of commercial motor vehicle requirements in those states. The committee studying this subject released a suggested standard table entitled "Weights and Dimensions—Ten Northeastern States." This table shows the existing requirements in the various states.

Since releasing its report, the Committee has withdrawn its approval of the 50 foot suggested length for combinations, and the so-called "bridge formula" for establishing maximum gross weights of combinations of vehicles. Without a suggested standard for the latter group of vehicles, uniformity is still not obtained.

It is pointed out that another outstanding disadvantage of the Ten State Proposal affecting Pennsylvania and Delaware is that uniformity does not extend to states west or south of our great Commonwealth.

Pennsylvania prides itself on its liberality in extending "reciprocity" to other states. Pennsylvania does make liberal license plate reciprocity agreements with other states, granting concessions similar to those granted by such states.

The true spirit of reciprocity is violated since it does not extend to recognizing the size and weight limitations of other states. True reciprocity in this respect would consist of attempting to approach uniformity with other states in sizes and weights.

Competition. The carrying capacity of trucks in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey are ample evidence that Pennsylvania carriers are at a competitive disadvantage with those of other states.

The effect of restricted carrying capacity on transportation costs relatively increases the cost of doing business in Pennsylvania for manufacturers and increases selling prices of distributors.

Trade Barriers. Trucks from New York and New Jersey, carrying legal loads in those states, can not enter or cross Pennsylvania when destined for points within the state or points to the west of Pennsylvania. This constitutes a trade barrier.

Trucks from many states west of Pennsylvania, destined for points within the State or points on the Atlantic Seaboard cannot operate through Pennsylvania legally when carrying loads legal in the state of origin, but in excess of those permitted in Pennsylvania, a trade barrier.

Such trade barriers have been denounced by the special Inter-Departmental Committee of the U. S. Department of Commerce and their elimination has been suggested.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, created by the Pennsylvania Legislature spent approximately seventy million in the construction of a so-called super highway between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. The road is a military highway reported capable of carrying modern loads. However, the present Pennsylvania law prevents vehicles of this gross weight from legally reaching or leaving the Turnpike.

Trucks with gross weights legal in New York and New Jersey cannot reach the Pennsylvania Turnpike, nor could they leave it under the present restrictions of our Motor Vehicle Code carrying loads legal in New York and New Jersey.

Potential economic service of the Turnpike is curtailed by depressed gross weights in Pennsylvania.

What is the true military value of the Pennsylvania Turnpike in which seventy million has been investsed if Pennsylvania Law prohibits the use of roads leading to and from the Turnpike by vehicles which the road is capable of carrying?

A recent news report stated "Surveys completed by the Highway Planning Division of the Highway Department show approximately 80% of all vehicular traffic using about one-third of the roads in the state system. This figure was tabulated from studies made in all counties except Philadelphia."

It follows that 20 percent of the traffic is using the remaining two-thirds of the highway system. It is a reasonably safe assumption that the one-third of the highway system used by the major portion of the traffic is the primary highway system of the State capable of supporting modern truck traffic. The major need for the transportation of heavy loads is between population centers which are served by primary highways.

Where a new industry creates the need for transportation of heavy loads over secondary roads, we must determine whether industry must conform to limitations established by roads or whether roads will meet the requirements of the Industry. Facts in this particular case should permit the solution of specific problems.

Highway Damage. If the expressed fear that liberalizing gross weights of commercial motor vehicles in Pennsylvania will damage our highways is true, what accounts for the durability of highways in New York State where fifty-eight thousand pounds is permitted and in New Jersey where sixty thousand pounds is permitted on a tractor and semi-trailer, as compared with fifty thousand pounds being proposed for this combination of vehicles in Pennsylvania.

The so-called "axle load" of a truck is looked upon as a controlling factor in highway wear. New York State permits twenty-two thousand four hundred pounds.. New Jersey has no restriction. Therefore, it would appear that adopting the New York limitation of twenty-two thousand four hundred pounds in Pennsylvania would not seriously endanger our highways since no great difference in durability in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania roads seems to exist.

Many highway engineers are agreed that the true enemies of highway durability are sudden temperature changes and the action of the elements particularly alternate freezing and thawing.

Highways built to carry private passenger automobiles only are being constructed just as thick as highways carrying heavy vehicles. The West Chester County (N. Y.) Parkways are designed for private passenger automobiles only and restricted to that class of vehicles. After fifteen years' experience, during which several different types of pavements have been tried out, those sections more recently constructed are built of eight inches of concrete with double reinforcement. The Chief Engineer of the West Chester County Parkway Commission, commenting on this states: "Nowadays we find that the cost of a first-class eight inch reinforced concrete pavement is so reasonable that we can scarcely afford to gamble on the higher maintenance required for cheaper types."

It has been argued that increasing the gross weights of trucks in Pennsylvania would result in increased maintenance cost of our highways. Statistics of the Highway Department reveal that approximately 35 percent of the total cost per mile of maintaining state highways on the primary system and 48 percent of the total cost per mile of maintaining highways on the rural system are spent on the base and surface. The balance of these costs, namely 65 percent and 52 percent respectively, are spent on shoulders, gutters, embankments, signs, traffic lines, markers and other highway accessories having no direct relationship to the nature of the traffic or the weight of the vehicles using such highways. It appears therefore, that even if an increased maintenance cost would result, which is doubtful, its proportions would not be of a character suggested by some of those opposed to modernizing Pennsylvania's highway transportation system.

Defense. Pennsylvania has been characterized as the arsenal of the United States. Modern warfare is warfare of "motion", whether it be the movement of armies, or whether it is the movement of industrial products, armament, and so forth. If we in Pennsylvania are sincere in our defense efforts, we cannot and will not fail to modernize our highway transportation system by placing it at least on a par with what has proved practial in New York and in New Jersey.

The advantages in modernizing the Pennsylvania commercial motor vehicle gross weight limitations are numerous. Modernization now would be timely and in the interests of national defense. It would place Pennsylvania motor carriers and Pennsylvania industry on a basis of equality with those in surrounding states. It would give Pennsylvania the opportunity of increasing its revenue from commercial motor vehicles and from correcting the entirely undesirable condition of penalizing safe vehicles and encouraging those that might be classified as unsafe. It would permit the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to share in the true economic advantages of the highway system which has been created in this state since the advent of the motor vehicle. It would stamp Pennsylvania Legislators as recognizing at long last, the fact that they are aware of progress and recognize the necessity for changing our laws to meet changing conditions.

Poor highway foundations and weather conditions have been the major cause of highway damage in the opinion of Commissioner Thomas H. MacDonald, U. S. Public Roads Administration, the nation's foremost highway engineer. He recounts, "One of the complaints is that the roads are being ruined by the operation of heavy trucks or heavy buses over them. To illustrate the approach of the highway engineer to that problem—after studying his road, he decided that the trouble did not lie in deterioration in the road surfaces themselves but in the foundation under the road; so, perhaps twelve to fifteen years ago, the highway engineer started the study of soils as foundations.

"After all, the road is nothing but a thin ribbon laid over the supporting ground. Regardless of what material is on top, it cannot support the load except as the foundation underneath gives support to that thin ribbon on top. Over a period of ten or twelve years now, a control has been established over soil, so that it is definitely possible to say today that these soils can be controlled in such a way that thin surfaces can be built to carry the loads—heavy loads—if properly distributed on the axles and under pneumatic tires, with very little deterioration". This statement was made in an address before American Association of State Highway Officials, New York City, October 14, 1939.

Commissioner MacDonald has also stated, in referring to present-day highways, "If we built thinner surfaces they would curl up like tissue paper in the rays of the sun. They would warp; the frost heave would destroy them.... The whole question of heavier buses and heavier trucks therefore, begins with a certain minimum thickness of road which is necessary regardless of whether the trucks exist or not."

The "encircling movement" continues. Pennsylvania is now confronted with the following axle load limit in bordering states:—New York 22,400 pounds, New Jersey no restriction, Maryland 22,400 pounds, West Virginia 22,000 pounds, Delaware 22,000 pounds (proposed).

I would most respectfully ask your consideration to this bill and ask for its passage. I thank you.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I believe from the engineering viewpoint and from the city officials viewpoint, the subject matters contained in House Bill 690 has been adequately and properly debated. I am not a city official and I am not a city engineer, but I am a lawmaker and I am interested in passing legislation which is far-reaching and comprehensive enough to look forward some years from the time we in this house pass on such bills. Therefore, I can see in this bill as advanced here a static condition to which I think we should pay great heed.

Reference was made by one of the former speakers to many years ago when the railroads were fighting river traffic. I suppose they wanted it because public opinion was behind a faster and a more economical system of transportation. The rivers had but one course they could follow and they could only properly serve the communities upon the course of those rivers. When the railroads came along they showed they could get away from the course of those rivers and dig deeper into the vast domain of this nation, and in that way help build up the nation to the point where it is now.

We now come to the argument that has been proposed between the trucks and the railroads. We find that the trucking industry is in the same position the railroads were in relation to the rivers, in that the trucks can go to points that the railroads now cannot serve and go beyond and deeper into the recesses of the rural districts of Pennsylvania, the rural districts of the nation, if you will, to better serve and more economically serve the users of comodities and the manufacturers of goods. Statistics have shown that there are thousands of small manufacturers throughout the nation which have become a greater part, a closer part of this nation than the railroads have been able to afford in the way of service in transportation of persons and commodities.

We have another problem to look at. The statement has been made that this proposed legislation might cut down the number of employes in the system. May I point out to the Members of the House, that upon inquiry I determined that the State Federation of Labor, which has approximately seventy-thousand members engaged in this particular business, has wholeheartedly given its support to this bill. It seems to me that the State Federation of Labor would have hesitated to give its whole-hearted support to this bill if it had the effect of putting men out of employment. I feel if the trucking industry is permitted to grow there will be more employment because of a greater number of trucks used in the state of Pennsylvania.

May I call attention, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, to our Department of Commerce that has been talked about so much and which has spent a great deal of it's money in attracting the tourist trade into Pennsylvania. The tourists is the fellow who drives his car over the state and goes through it in one day, whereas the driver of the truck goes through day after day. I think we ought to encourage the tourist truck drivers and in that way we might have more tourist business which seems to be so important and so attractive to the Department of Commerce.

May I say further, Mr. Speaker, that only last night I was informed that the Assembly of the State of Maryland raised its truck limit to fifty thousand pounds which makes it nine out of ten states in this northeastern part of the United States with a limit of fifty thousand pounds.

We, of Pennsylvania, are still back where we were in 1923 when every community surrounding this state had up to fifty thousand pounds. Let me say further, if fifty thousand pounds is good enough for the roads in the State of New York and the State of New Jersey, and I am sure that the roads of Pennsylvania would measure up to them, if no damage has been caused the highways in New York and New Jersey, I cannot see how any damage can arise to the roads in Pennsylvania, because after all eighty percent of the traffic in Pennsylvania travels only over twenty percent of the highways. Our primary road system is twenty percent of the State Highways. A good transportation system looks for the shortest route to go from one point to another, it does not go by any devious route; it doesn't go by any back roads, and I think the majority of the roads in Pennsylvania will be safe from any possible damage because our permanent system of roads in Pennsylvania is a good system, and such a permanent system certainly can stand the rolling of trucks on roads in this state which are comparable to the roads in other states. I think the matter has been put rather plainly from all sides and I can see no reason why we of this House today, looking forward to the necessities of the state and nation in the future, can conscientiously support this bill.

May I call one other matter to your attention? The Governor of the Commonwealth in his address to this House at the beginning of this session made mention of the fact that the President of the United States had called Pennsylvania the great arsenal of democracy, while the Governor of Pennsylvania called Pennsylvania the great arsenal of America. Quoting from rather authoritative statistics only very recently concerning the loss of shipping world, we find worry by many officials of high places that this shipping might not last. They then worry about American shipping which totals about four and a half million tons, half of which is coastwise shipping may eventually, God willing it may not happen, but may eventually be used in some phase of that struggle. None of us here look for it nor want it. But if such a thing should happen the railroads of America would be hopelessly and positively unable to carry the load of the national defense of America. I think we ought to look forward to the time when such an eventuality may arise because in so doing we would prepare ourselves for that eventuality, that we may have to have a system prepared to take the load without having to quickly call a special session of the Legislature to do a patch work job.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I solicit your support for House Bill 690.

Mr. FISS. Mr. Speaker, I assure you I am going to be brief. I do not want to take up much more of the time of this House. It is like the fellow who said he didn't care how much a fellow talked if he could only say it in a few words. I am going to try to say this in a few words.

After all, let us get back on our feet and try to find out the intent and purpose of this bill. In the first place this bill reduces the license fee for the "R" and "S" licenses. In the second place it gradually increases the license fee and the weight of the larger trucks. It attempts to establish uniform gross weight regulations governing interstate trucks in the state of Pennsylvania. This, after all, was the intent and purpose of this bill. I know that every one of you have read the bill and you are acquainted with the figures that it contains and it is not necessary to go into any lengthy argument or to produce any statistics as to what it might do. If I felt for one minute that it would do any road or any bridge of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania any injury certainly I would not want to vote for this bill. Let me say just a little bit more about the gross weight and the intent to make a uniform law in regard to the gross weight. Pennsylvania has many things that we like to describe as "first". We like to talk about it. We say we are a great empire, a great industrial empire. Yet if we bound our state, the state of Pennsylvania, north, east, south and west, to the north we have a higher rate up to 60; to the east we have a higher rate, even 60; down towards the south and southeast, Delaware, we have 40; immediately to the south in Maryland we have 42; bounding our state, in a little corner, lies the State of West Virginia with 66; while in Ohio to the west 42,000 pounds is permitted. Pennsylvania lies in the center of all our neighboring states, and it has a lower weight permitted on the highways. It seems to me, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if we are going to remain as the "first", if we look back over the economic value or even the historical tradition of Pennsylvania, we certainly cannot come to the belief that we in Pennsylvania cannot afford to set up any such barrier to restrain trade, to encumber and injure interstate trucking or a great transportation system. This bill may not be perfect in that regard but it is a great step forward.

Let me close by just saying this, that a very few of the other speakers mentioned anything about the reduction on the "R" and "S" licenses. Many of the older Members of this House of course realize that this question has been a great question before this House for a number of years. Just let me go over a group of people that the reduction of this "R" and "S" license affects. Let us go over the list briefly to see whom it affects. The farmer usually has one or two or more of these trucks, the milkman, the electrician, the plumber, the small business man, the large business man, the butcher, the baker, the florist, the mortician, the lumber man, the druggist, the builder and contracter, an almost endless list, who have been discriminated against when the "R" and "S" licenses were granted to these people. Those are the things this bill tries to accomplish. This is the intent and purpose of this measure.

I say to you, Members of the House, it is not the intent or purpose to injure anyone. I know, and so do you, that many times the proponents of a measure will go far because they have a selfish interest; many times the opponents will go far because they have a selfish interest, but, Members of the House, this is larger than any one single district, than any one single industry, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, because it regulates and attempts to regulate and make uniform the entire transportation system in this as well as other Commonwealths in this country.

I ask you to vote "yes" on 690.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill. My remarks will be very brief and right to the point. The gentlemen who have preceded me have spoken of this bill as being a matter of principle. My opposition is an opposition to methods. I should have liked to have been able to vote for this bill on principle but I am unable to do so. I find on the one hand it is stated that labor is for the bill, and on the other hand it is against it. It is stated on one side of the ledger that the revenue will be increased from the truck licenses; again it is stated it will be reduced. It is said that our streets will be shattered, and again it is said that they are ample to take care of the load. Those questions should have been answered fully and adequately before the members of this House can vote intelligently on this bill. An opportunity was afforded last night when a motion to recommit for a public hearing was made and refused. So, we do not have a full and adequate understanding of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I detect a familiar parallel in the method by which this bill is being shoved through the House. There is the same unseemly haste, the same pell mell rush that we saw in House Bill 481, the Moul-Woodring Bill, getting it through the House and saying if it was necessary to have a hearing, they would have it later. It is in opposition, Mr. Speaker, to that method of jamming things through this House without adequate information, because this measure calls for a full understanding by everyone of us before we vote on this. it is in opposition to that type of legislation, in its passage, that I am going to vote "no".

I dare say there is no one in this House who has not regretted the great whirl wind that has been reaped following the passage of 481. We want no more of that and I call on you, members of the House, who felt that that bill was passed with undue haste, to protest against a similar refusal of a public hearing on this bill.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, last night I stood on this floor and oposed the recommitting of this bill for a public hearing or for any other purpose, and I stated my reasons, but to-day we were just told a moment ago that we are jamming it through the House. It seems to me there is no wild fire about this bill, there is no cyclone, there is no hurricane. This bill has been wafted about through this House for fourteen calendar days. It was rather like a gentle zephyr and no one said anything against it until yesterday, the last day of the calendar. If there had been any necessity for a public hearing or there had been a request for a public hearing it might have been made on time. There was no sudden bomb. It is no cyclone, it was merely a bomb of opposition and I think, members of the House, this being the only piece of legislation that was on the calendar for fourteen full calendar days in this session before it came off the second reading calendar, we cannot be accused of jamming through the House this particular bill.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, may I remind the gentleman from Philadelphia that it was just such a gentle zephyr that which occurred with reference to the Moul-Woodring Bill that blew into hurricane proportions and is still blowing.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, on March 18th two weeks ago, a request was made in writing for a public hearing on this bill. I might also add that this bill did not come out of committee until the Motor Truck Association had a twenty-five thousand dollar spread at a certain hall in this city of Harrisburg.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Moran, Holland and Harmuth asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. WOODRING filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am constrained to oppose the subject Bill on the principal ground that the streets and roads of the secondary system of highways are not presently adequate to receive the travel and tonnage proposed by the increased maximum weights. Many 3d class city streets are not of sufficient durable construction to handle the increased loads. However, the cities have the power to enact ordinances whereby traffic can be routed over the more desireable streets. The cities by this corporate power, to some degree, can protect themselves against the larger truck loads. The boroughs and townships have no such authority. They must permit all vehicles to travel over all of their streets and roads. These are not of sufficient width nor strength to accommodate the increased weights. Not only that, but the countless hand-holes, man-holes, culverts and bridges are grossly inadequate to safely bear the load. The State Highway Department, by its Secretary, has announced that more than 3800 bridges on the secondary roads are not strong enough to safely receive the traffic.

Industry, I favor. Commerce, I favor. Increased maximum weights, as such, I favor. Until such time as Pennsylvania prepares, not only primary highways, but its secondary roads and streets, with their hand-holes, man-holes, culverts and bridges, I must oppose the subject Bill and, therefore, vote against it.

WOMAN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House the Woman's Republican Club of Camp Hill, Cumberland County. The House is indeed pleased to have them as its guests.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman act as interpreter for the gentleman from Lancaster and the gentleman from Lebanon?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, after an explanation and an apology.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker,- -

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware is out of order.

The gentleman from Lancaster will proceed.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lancaster will state his point of order.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, upon what ground does the gentleman from Delaware interfere with my business?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is the official interpreter.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I have the floor and I propose to hold it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout, has the floor and he refuses to yield it. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, under the Constitution of Pennsylvania I occupy an official position as interpreter for two members of this House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Lebanon asked permission to address the House. My friend, the gentleman from Lancaster, in an effort to explain what he wanted apparently was not thoroughly understood. I recognize the fact, Mr. Speaker, that this is the first day of April, and after listening to a great deal of oratory on very important legislation, I take it that you should grant the gentleman from Lebanon an opportunity to address this House in his native tongue.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I can imagine it, speaking in Jewish.

Mr. SARGE. Mr. Speaker, in order to wind up this rather complicated affair I would like to tell the gentleman I do not understand Latin.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 665, as follows:

An Act prescribing presumptions of authority and rules of evidence where payments are made on account of the principal of mortgages in certain cases

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Hereafter any person firm or corporation duly authorized to accept or receive any payment of interest on account of any mortgage shall be presumed to have authority to accept or receive any payment on account of the principal of said mortgage unless such person firm or corporation has in fact no such authority and the person making such payment on account of the principal has knowledge of such lack of authority

Section 2 In any proceeding involving any payment of principal on account of a mortgage the burden of proving lack of authority in the person firm or corporation accepting or receiving such payment and the burden of proving knowledge by the person making such payment of the lack of such authority shall be on the party asserting the lack of authority

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Section 602 Administration Fund There is hereby created a special fund to be known as the Administration Fund which shall consist of all moneys or other property received by the department from the United States of America or any agency thereof including the Social Security Board or from any other source whatsoever to be used for administration of this act The department shall pay all costs required for the administration and operation of this act out of the Administration Fund

In addition any law to the contrary notwithstanding this fund shall be subject to a charge by the Treasury Department for the costs incurred by said department in making disbursements arising from payments out of the Unemployment Compensation Fund and the fund created in this section

Section 603 State Treasurer as Custodian The State Treasurer shall be the custodian of the Unemployment Compensation Fund and the Administration Fund He shall give a bond or bonds with corporate sureties conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties as custodian of such funds in such amount or amounts as shall be determined and fixed by the Executive Board of this Commonwealth Premiums for such bond or bonds shall be paid by the department out of the moneys in the Administration Fund All moneys belonging to such funds (exclusive of moneys on deposit in the Unemployment Trust Fund as provided in section six hundred one) shall be deposited by the State Treasurer in any banks or public depositories in which general funds of the Commonwealth may be deposited but no public deposit insurance charge or premium shall be paid out of moneys in the Unemployment Compensation Fund Any law to the contrary notwithstanding all payments from such funds shall be made by the State Treasurer under such systems of requisitioning and accounting as [the Governor] the State Treasurer [and secretary] shall determine with the approval of the Social Security Board

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 868 is the first real amendment to the Unemployment Compensation Act of Pennsylvania which was first passed in this House during the special session in Dececmber 1936. The authors of this bill feel that at this time amendments properly should be made, to the Unemployment Compensation Law of Pennsylvania in the light of reliably ascertainable information at our command. What we are attempting to do in this bill is to liberize the spending of the vast reserve which up to this time has accumulated into that special fund. By liberalizing it we are asking to raise the minimum compensation to be paid from seven and one half to ten dollars per week, but we are asking them to raise the maximum from fifteen to twenty dollars per week, and to extend the number of weeks in which compensation may be paid within the year to sixteen weeks from thirteen weeks, and to reduce the waiting period from three weeks out of five, as the law now provides, to one week, as this bill describes it five effective days. The bill will also provide that casual labor may indulged in by the recipients of unemployment compensation without giving up the right to their compensation to which they are entitled under the present Act. By using the terminology five effective days as a waiting period, and by using the five effective days as the indication or the standard of any one calendar week at the time the compensation may be paid, we are not going to penalize a person who is compelled to go on unemployment compensation from accepting casual employment for one or two days a week. There have been many instances where a small employer has been unable to get this casual labor for one or two days a week because by so doing they will give up their benefits. which is much higher than the income from a day or two of casual employment. We have taken all the available figures and we have come to this conclusion, there is one hundred and fifty million dollars in the Unemployment Compensation fund. That figures is approximate but very close. We believe that by giving greater benefits in the ensuing year, if these amendments are put into effect, taking into consideration the fact that employment is on the rise, employer contributions will thereby be greater and the demands on the funds will be smaller and that industry will not be burdened by the additional payment but that Pennsylvania will have the benefit of an increased amount of money in the hands of the consumer, which will help to keep Pennsylvania busy. We also feel that in this measure we are not in any way going to impair the cushion this particular fund represents, if there should be another serious situation of unemployment in Pennsylvania, that there can be a period of sixteen weeks or approximately four months time when those who are thrown out of employment may seek what is justly due them in the way of funds upon which to live before we as legislators can be compelled to rush up here in an emergency situation to figure out ways and means of increasing our appropriations to the Department of Public Assistance, in the way of relief.

That in brief, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, covers what the four amendments will do as far as the employer is concerned. There are other provisions in the bill concerning civil service and we have attempted to bring them more into line with the provisions of the Social Security Board: we are attempting to protect the workers in their work; we are attempting to make more reasonable regulations as to methods of employment and conditions of employment. I think that the reasonableness of this bill will appear to any member of this House, that these amendments are acceptable as a good gift to the people of Pennsylvania, and I ask you to support the bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I had hoped to avoid action upon this measure this afternoon because the hour is late and we have had a lot of debate and some fun, and I know that we all want to get away. However, I am going to try to make what I have to say as brief as possible.

Back in the session of 1939 a resolution was passed by the Legislature charging the study by a commission created under that resolution, of merit rating in unemployment Compensation. Likewise a resolution was passed in the 1939 session charging the Joint State Government Commission with the study of unemployment compensation. It seemed to those of us who were concerned with the Joint State Government Commission that the most sensible think to do would be to have a commission especially appointed under the resolution on merit rating, to take the whole question of unemployment compensation and make their study.

Senator Heyburn of Delaware County was the Chairman of that Commission to study unemployment compensation. Throughout the period between the Fall of 1939 and the opening of this session that commission worked very diligently, first through the staff of the Joint State Government Commission, in developing and securing necessary data and statistics on this whole question. Then that commission through a long series of hearings in which they had industry and labor and all sorts of groups and Departments which administer unemployment compensation, they had those different groups present at the different hearings of the Commission and they sought to find from them the necessary changes in the things that should be done in the Unemployment Compensation Act. The Commission has finished its report and the report of the commission was submitted to the Joint State Government Commission. As a result of the recommendations of the commission of Unemployment Compensation, the Joint State Government Commission made recommendations, the same recommendations which were made by the commission and made those recommendations as recommendations of the Joint State Government Commission. Pursuant to the report of the Joint State Government Commission and the Commission on Unemployment Compensation and their recommendations a bill was drafted embodying the recommendations of that commission, and as it semed to us proper in discussing the matter, that was introduced in the Senate by Senator Heyburn, who was Chairman of that Commission, and who worked very diligently on it, and by Senator Dent who was a co-sponsor, who also had been a member of that Commission. It seems to me that there were two other Senators who appeared on the bill, but those two Senators were the two Senators on the Commission to study Unemployment Compensation. That bill was at the beginning of the week on the calendar of the Senate. I believe it has been held there according to my information for some further amendments that have been suggested and which seem proper to make on this question of unemployment compensation. The Joint State Government Commission announced back some time in either the early part of January or late in December, that it had reduced the waiting period in this bill from three weeks, or in its recommendations from three weeks to two weeks, that it was increasing the compensation and a number of other liberalizing features of the present Unemployment Compensation Act . Shortly after that announcement was made, some group of the Democratic Party announced that they were going to reduce the waiting period to one week, that they were going to increase the amount of benefits which the Commission recommended to some larger sum. Therefore, I presume that the bill which is now before the House is carrying out that same idea, and it seems to me that the attempt is purely to put in a bill to go one better in the recommendations of the Joint State Government Commission. That bill was sponsored by Senator Heyburn, a Republican, and by Senator Dent, a Democrat, in the Senate. It seems to me that the proper procedure here would have been to wait until that bill came out of the Senate. What is the use of the Commission spending from sixteen to eighteen months in stuyding a proposition and making its recmommendations based upon the fact which the Commission had? What is the use of us creating a commission to give us the benefit of that information and having a bill introduced carrying that out, if the minute that bill is introduced in the Senate somebody in the House is going to introduce a bill to go one step further? I think we are all interested in liberalizing the Unemployment Compensation Act. There are a lot of very grave problems involved in every move that we make, and contrary to what the gentleman from Philadelphia has said, we have found that many times, in the study of unemployment compensation we do not have sufficient experience or data or information upon which we can go as far as we might ordinarily have thought it was possible to go. You cannot just look at the fund and say, "we have got a lot of money at present, let us expand the benefits some place". As I said at the beginning, I had no desire to debate this bill this afternoon. I would much rather be out of here, but as this bill is as far reaching as it is and as it is extremely important, not only as a benefit to labor and to the working man but it involves a very heavy burden upon the small employer. I'm not thinking of the large employer who can meet these problems as long as they do not put him on a differential basis, which is unfavorable as compared with industry in other states, because this act is general, and the Federal Act does not so much affect the larger employer as it does the smaller employer in Pennsylvania who have felt the great burden of this unemployment compensation Act.

Therefore, it seems to me that the Members of the House might spend the next few moments, as much as it may be a strain upon them to do so, in learning something about this great problem which is before us. I will endeavor to say these things in a way that perhaps they will understand and give them as far as I can the benefit of the experience I have had in this work which has been done. Then again I say, what is the use of having this study, what is the use of introducing a bill in the Senate if immediately you introduce in the House a bill that simply goes one better. Why wouldn't it have been the better and more orderly procedure to have waited for the bill to come from the Senate, giving a result of the study, backed by the men who were on this Commission? Then if the House in its judgment, after it had a chance to study the measure, after it had an opportunity to study the amendments of the Senate or if there are amendments of this bill which you want to make which are not in the Senate bill, then offer them in the proper and orderly procedure, rather than to present to us a bill which most of the members of this House haven't had an opportunity to know whether it does meet the requirements, because they haven't had the advantage of prior study, they have had no opportunity to know whether the provisions of this bill are right or not. Many of the Members of this side of the House have felt that they ought to vote for this bill because it has many benefits for the people, but on the other hand we want to know we are not doing something to harm the people we are trying to help. Because unemployment has been reduced and because unemployment is down now and the fund is mounting very rapidly, now is the time in the sunshine to make hay, now is the time to store away for that day when we will be back to a greater volume of unemployment upon the backs of the people of Pennsylvania. We are all in favor of increased benefits, we are all in favor of going as far as we can possibly go, but it seems to me we should have waited for the bill to come from the Senate rather than introduce a bill in the House which goes one step farther.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. TURNER. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Labor, rather than have two bills, one in the Senate and one in the House. It is just as easy to amend this bill when it arrives from the Senate when the bill comes on the floor. I am informed, I do not have the information to debate this question, but I am advised by those who have carefully studied it that there are a lot of things in this bill that are not proper, and that there are some things in the draftsmanship of that bill which are not good. Therefore, why not recommitt the bill, Mr. Speaker?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in asking you to vote against this motion to recommitt may I say briefly this, in the early part of the session the Joint State Government Commission distributed amongst the members of this House a great number of pamphlets concerning their investigation and studies in the past eighteen months. I do not know what many members did with those pamphlets, but I saved mine and I made a study of many of the recommendations on unemployment compensation made by the Commission. The sponsors of this bill disagree in some parts and agree in some parts with what the Joint State Government Commission agreed upon.

We accepted their ideas where we thought they might be right, at any rate, this bill agrees with what we thought, the sponsors felt about the matter as to the ground work of the Joint State Government Commission. We have taken it and where we thought we could be a little more liberal in such cases we have done so because we made further studies to determine that there would be no great withdrawing of money that would prevent a proper margin of safety. We are not going to dissipate the money at this time and leave ourselves open later on. It seems to me that the disagreement we have had with Mr. Turner is not in reference to the purpose of the bill it is in reference to the method. I just received information that the bill has been recommitted this morning. If that bill was recommitted,—I may be wrong about that, but I do not know, if there are any amendments the House desires to make, why they cannot be considered. I only want to repeat here the liberalization that we on this side of the House have added to the measure which we put into the law in 1936. We in the Democratic Party initiated the program in Pennsylvania at a special session in December 1936, and the Democrats are now saying that the act could stand a lot of liberalization, and we are basing all our liberlized ideas fundamentally on what the Joint State Government Commission found in their study. We are not throwing out the report of the Joint State Government Commission I have treasured that report of the Commission, and I have kept the report close with me all the time, and if possible I took what they did. I find myself in agreement on some things and in disagreement on other things, and where I am in disagreement on certain things I am sure that the gentleman will say that I have the right to disagree. Again I say to the gentlemen on this side of the house and to the gentlemen on the other side of the House that what we have in this bill to-day is a fair solution to a problem that we have before us to-day, and it is a fair extension of the principals which this side of the House put into effect in December 1936.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I think I may properly say that the bill of the Senate was not recommitted for any disagreement as far as the general proposition is concerned because there was a number of amendments, as I said before, for which the bill has been held on the calendar awaiting their completion. I understood that they were completed but I may be wrongly informed, and therefore I know that there is no danger that a bill on unemployment compensation, sponsored by Senator Heyburn and Senator Dent will not come over to this House for action by this House, and I can see no reason why we should clutter up the record with further legislation which can be properly secured in this House by the gentleman from Philadelphia when the Senate bill comes over.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I am in agreement with a great many provisions of this act. To a great extent it carries out the recommendations made by the committee which studied unemployment compensation, of which I happened to be a member. I would like, however, to state to the Members of the House that because of the fact that two of my colleagues who served on that commission are sponsoring the bill in the Senate, as stated by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, which is a non-partisan bill, sponsored by Senator Dent and Senator Heyburn, I will vote against the bill, and I want to state my reason for doing so to the House.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes a former member of this House, now a councilman in the city of Pittsburgh, the Honorable Thomas J. Gallagher.

Mr. THOMAS J. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is indeed an honor to be introduced at this session of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania.

I want to say that I am highly pleased with this honor. When we think of what is going on across the waters we should be proud we are Americans, and that we have this great democratic representative form of government.

It reminds me of a story I heard last week told by our welterweight champion of the world, Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh. He told a story about a refugee from Holland who was over in Russia. He had a toothache and went to a dentist to get his tooth pulled. The Russian dentist said it would cost him twenty-five dollars.

The refugee from Holland said, "Over in America you can get your tooth pulled for two dallars."

The Russian said, "In America you can open your mouth, I will have to pull your tooth through your ear."

PERMISSION TO USE HALL OF HOUSE

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, there was a hearing originally scheduled for the new House Caucus Room at 7:30 this evening, but due to the fact that we have quite a crowd of nurses here I am going to ask permission of the House to hold the public Hearing in the hall of the House at 7:30 this evening instead of in the new House Causus Room.

The SPEAKER. Will the House grant the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia?

The Chair hears no objections and permission is granted

RESOLUTIONS

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. CADWALADER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1941

The sudden passing of Joseph McElhatton, aged 57, of West Conshohocken, Montgomery County, came as a profound shock to the citizens of Montgomery County and to his innumerable friends throughout the Commonwealth.

A colorful political figure among the Montgomery County Democrats, he was serving his fourth term as burgess when he died.

His was that rare gift of friendship, to which all men aspire, and which so few can call their own. So well liked was he in his county that he was never opposed when he ran for office.

His life, therefore, stands as a model for all who enter the political arena. His single-minded devotion to the improvement of the community in which he resided, his devotion to the ideal of true public service, once he left the railroad on which he served as an engineer for the field of politics, and his inherent love for his fellowmen, so endeared him to one and all that he was respected and revered, especially by the younger people of his community, to an extent enjoyed by only a very fortunate few.

Whereas, The suddenness of his death accentuates more keenly the profound loss his community, county, and State have suffered at his passing; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives send a copy of this resolution to the bereaved sister and brother of the deceased as a symbol of the House of Representatives' profound sympathy for them on their great loss.

POLISH DAY

Messrs. SARRAF and BAKER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1941

Whereas, The pages of history nowhere show a greater love of country than that exhibited by the citizens of Poland over the course of the centuries; and

Whereas, Today, as two centuries before, the liberty-loving Poles have been trampled by the legions of a tyrant; and

Whereas, As history is indebted to Poland for the aid rendered our own cause during the Revolutionary War by great military leaders from Poland; and

Whereas, People of Polish descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the Republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American Life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding; and

Whereas, The least we could do for citizens of Poland and our own citizens of Polish descent is to recognize their contribution to our own cultural and economic advancements, and to offer some recognition of their fight for Poland's independence; be it therefore

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Legislature of this State acknowledges the contribution made to our nation by persons of Polish origin by endorsing the celebration of Polish Independence Day on May 3rd; and be it further

Resolved. That His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the third day of May, as Polish Day.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. MUNLEY, from the Committee on Liquor Control, reported as amended, House Bill No. 854, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections three hundred four and four hundred eleven of the act, approved the twenty-ninth day of November, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 15, 1933-34), entitled as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the sale, manufacture, possession, transportation, importation, traffic in, and use of alcohol, and alcoholic and malt or brewed beverages; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and its agents, the Department of Public Instruction, other officers of the State government, courts, and district attorneys; authorizing the establishment and operation of State stores for the sale of such beverages not for consumption on the premises, and the granting of licenses, subject to local option, to sell such beverages for consumption on and off the premises; forbidding importation or bringing of such beverages into the State except as herein provided; prohibiting certain sales or practices in, connection with, and transactions in such beverages by licensees and others; providing for the forfeiture of certain property; making disposition of the receipts from State stores and of fees; and imposing penalties," further regulating the hours of when sales may be made at Pennsylvania Liquor Stores, and permitting hotel and restaurant licensees to sell by the bottle at certain times, for consumption off the premises.

Mr. FINESTONE, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as amended, House Bill No. 579, entitled:

An Act relating to acknowledgments of written instruments and to make uniform the law with relation thereto.

BILLS RE-REFERRED

Mr. READINGER returned from the Committee on State Government with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, House Bill No. 82, entitled:

An Act to amend section one thousand one hundred four of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State Government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or, other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to apply license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," amplifying the provisions of said act relating to appeals to court.

The SPEAKER. The bill is re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. READINGER returned from the Committee on State Government with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, House Bill No. 83, entitled:

An Act to further amend section five hundred and three of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth; and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the state; and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency therof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," by allowing interest on refunds due from the Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER. The bill is re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. READINGER returned from the Committee on State Government with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, House Bill No. 574 (Senate Bill No. 38), entitled:

An Act to amend section one thousand one hundred and four of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," amplifying the provisions of said act relating to appeals to court.

The SPEAKER. The bill is re-referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 1941. No. 30.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, April 2, 1941.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Lovely and beautiful and holy is Thy name, O Lord, and with the utmost confidence and trust do we come unto Thee and into Thy holy presence, Thou hast taught us boldly to come to Thee and ask whatsoever we will and it shall be done. O that we all fully believed in Thy promises and relied upon Thy power! O that we would only put the more important things first in our lives and behold the wondrousness of Thy salvation!

May our nation continue to live at peace. Give wisdom and judgment to those in authority over us. Grant us patience in the midst of trial. Let righteousness prevail in our nation against all her enemies. Make the robe of reconsecration to be the garment we shall wear at all times. And to Thee, Father, Son and Holy Ghost be all the praise in that world without end. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. TYLER and Mr. GELTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Walker asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ.

Mr. Farrell asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. HOMSHER.

PETITIONS

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I have certain petitions received from many of my constituents, which I would like to have made part of the record of this Senate.

The first petition is addressed to the Honorable Arthur H. James, Governor of Pennsylvania, Governor's Mansion, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. This is a copy of the original, which I have already delivered to the Governor.

The petition sets forth the following:

"TO THE HONORABLE ARTHUR H. JAMES, GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA GOVERNOR'S MANSION, HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA

"We, the undersigned teachers and other employees of the North Union Township School District, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, being so financially embarrassed that it has become impossible to carry on our duties; do thereby urgently request that the Honorable Governor relieve the distress in this District by giving his personal favorable attention to the releasing of the second installment of State Appropriation due this District.

Note:—This district has paid five-twelfths of the current yearly salaries, with seven-ninths of the school year gone—i. e. We have worked nearly the entire year on less than half of the yearly salary.

By our signatures we earnestly pray our request be granted."

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Somerset will state his point of information.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, did the Senator from Fayette ask that this whole list of names be copied into the record?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I asked that it be made part of the files of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands the gentleman from Fayette just wants it noted in the Journal.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVANCANTE. Mr. President, I also have a petition from a large number of school districts from Dunkard Township School District in Greene County which sets forth the following:

Bobtown, Pa., March 4, 1941.

"Honorable Sir:

"We are sending you herewith a petition signed by the teachers of Dunkard Township School District, Greene County, Pennsylvania.

"We and they respectfully ask you to give your support and influence to secure the passage by the Pennsylvania Legislature of the proposed bill establishing the minimum salary schedule for elementary teachers in Fourth Class School Districts of our state at $1,000.00 per year with an increase of $100.00 per year for four years.

"We feel that since the requirements for teachers are the same in fourth class districts as for first, second, and third class districts that the salaries should be equal. Also in many instances teachers in fourth class districts are working under greater handicaps and difficulties than are the teachers in the other classes of districts, and that as good results are expected from them."

Mr. President, I would like the same thing done with this petition.

Also, Mr. President, I have another petition pertaining to the optometrical profession. This petition is signed by a large number of optometrists from my county and I would ask that this petition be also made part of the record.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the request of the Senator from Fayette will be complied with and the petition will be noted in the Journal.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. It reads as follows:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Governor's Office, Harrisburg.

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 11 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I hereby advise you that the House of Representatives of the United States of America has certified to me, pursuant to Section 22. Subdivision (B), of the Act of the Congress of the United States of America entitled "An Act to provide for the Fifteenth and Subsequent Decennial Censuses and to Provide for Apportionment of Representatives in Congress," approved June 18, 1929, as amended by public, numbered 481, Seventy-Sixth Congress, approved April 25, 1940, that the State of Pennsylvania shall be entitled, in the Seventy-Eighth Congress and in each Congress thereafter until the taking effect of a reapportionment under said act, as amended, or subsequent statute, to thirty-three representatives in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States.

At Harrisburg, the first day of April, Anno Domini, one thousand nine hundred forty-one.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

BY THE GOVERNOR:
Secretary of the Commonwealth

COMMUNICATIONS FROM MEMBERS OF U. S. CONGRESS

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a number of communications from members of Congress, who were sent copies of Senate Resolution, No. 26, adopted March 25, 1941, in connection with the St. Lawrence Waterway. The Chair is of the opinion, if there is no objection, the communications should be spread in full upon the Journal:

The following is a list of members of Congress who replied to Senate Resolution on St. Lawrence Waterways (No. 26) adopted March 25, 1941.

Senator James J. Davis, Speaker Samuel Rayburn, Representative Charles L. Gerlach, James Wolfenden, Thomas E. Scanlon, J. William Ditter, Harve Tibbott, Louis E. Graham, James A. Wright, Robert T. Rich, James E. Van Zandt, Michael J. Bradley, J. Roland Kinzer, Francis J. Myers, Hugh D. Scott, Jr., Harry L. Haines, Guy L. Moser, John C. Kunkel, Albert G. Rutherford, Richard M. Simpson, Charles I. Faddis, Robert L. Roders, Ivor D. Fenton, Leon Sacks.

March 27, 1941.

Mr. Geo. F. Holmes, Secretary
Senate of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Holmes:

I have for acknowledgment your letter of March 26, 1941, transmitting a resolution adopted by the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Your letter together with the resolution will be referred to the committee of the House having jurisdiction over the subject matter.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) SAM RAYBURN,
Speaker, House of Representatives.

March 28, 1941.

Mr. George F. Holmes
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Holmes:

I have your letter of March 25th and the resolution adopted by the Pennsylvania State Senate, March 25, 1941, opposing the St. Lawrence Waterway. I introduced the resolution into the Record yesterday and am enclosing copy clipped from the Congressional Record.

Seven years ago President Roosevelt submitted the project to the Senate in the form of a treaty. A treaty requires a two-thirds vote of approval to make it effective. Now the President returns, this time submitting it on the basis of an "agreement" which was recently signed in Ottawa which will not require a two-thirds vote of approval, but merely a majority vote to provide the necessary money. In 1934, on a treaty basis, the Senate rejected it, 48 to 43, I voted against the measure and for years have been fighting the proposal.

Although the President is attempting to justify the building of the project now on the basis of national defense, the diverting of men, money and materials away from defense industries would make the project a liability in that respect. Furthermore, the project cannot be of any use to the United States or Britain in the present crisis. It will take four to six years to build.

I have opposed the project in the past and will continue to do so.

With every kind wish, I am

Most cordially yours,
(Signed) JAMES J. DAVIS.

Honorable George F. Holmes
Secretary
Senate of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

My dear Mr. Holmes:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 26, enclosing a resolution adopted by the Senate of Pennsylvania.

You may be sure this resolution has been made a matter of record

Very truly yours,

Mr. George F. Holmes, Sec.,
Senate of Pennsylvania
Capitol,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

I have yours of the 26th inst. enclosing copy of resolution adopted by the Pennsylvania State Senate in opposition to the establishment of the St. Lawrence River as a seaway and power project. The contents of the resolution have been carefully noted.

Since becoming a Member of Congress I have consistently and emphatically opposed the plans of the present Administration to continue development of water power projects, including attempts to develop the St. Lawrence as a power project under the National Defense program.

It would take years to develop hydro-electric power on the St. Lawrence and efforts to accomplish such a program as an emergency defense measure, I believe, are pure camouflage of the real reasons behind the efforts again revived for such water power development.

I have already personally protested to President Roosevelt the further development of hydro-electric projects which can only have ruinous effects on the coal industry, as well as the railroad industry.

Your support in opposing further water power development by the present Administration will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) IVOR. D. FENTON.

Hon. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of March 26th with which you transmitted copy of a resolution adopted by the Pennsylvania State Senate voicing their opposition to the St. Lawrence Waterway-Power Project.

I am presenting this resolution in the House today and asking that it be referred to the proper committee for consideration.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) CHARLES L. GERLACH.

Mr. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Thank you for the copy of the resolution of the Senate of Pennsylvania which you sent in your letter of March 26th. I am very glad to know that the Senate has taken this action.

Very truly yours,

J. W. DITTER.

March 28, 1941.

Mr. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Sir:

Receipt is acknowledged of your favor of March 26th, enclosing a resolution recently adopted by the Senate, setting out their opposition to the proposed construction of the St. Lawrence Waterway Project.

This objection has been inserted in the Congressional Record.

Very truly yours,

JAMES WOLFENDEN.

March 28, 1941.

Mr. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Thank you for your letter of March 26 with resolution adopted by the Senate on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

I am very much opposed to the passage of this project as I do not believe it is economically justified. In my opinion there is not the need for the power which the proponents of this project claim the St. Lawrence Waterway will give us. There are too many disadvantages proposed in its development which will work a hardship on American labor, industry and agriculture. It would, too, effect our railroads, the ultimate result of which would be a terriffic hardship on the coal mines and their employees throughout the State of Pennsylvania.

I shall do everything within my power to defeat the St. Lawrence Waterway and Power Project.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) HARVE TIBBOTT.

March 28, 1941.

Mr. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

This will acknowledge receipt of the resolution adopted by the Senate of Pennsylvania with reference to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Yesterday I asked Hon. Roland Kinzer of Lancaster to have this inserted in the Congressional Record, which was done, and it was also referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Assuring you of our desire to cooperate in every way, I am,

Cordially yours,

(Signed) LOUIS E. GRAHAM.

I wish to acknowledge with appreciation your letter, enclosing copy of resolution opposing the St. Lawrence Waterway, which subject is now receiving the study of our entire Congress.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) J. ROLAND KINZER.

March 27, 1941.

Mr. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

My dear Mr. Holmes:

This is to acknowledge receipt of Resolution passed by the State Senate expressing opposition to the St. Lawrence Seaway proposal of President Roosevelt.

In reply would state that I am convinced that the proposal is not for the best interests of our nation and expect to oppose same.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) ROBERT F. RICH.

Mr. George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of March 26 transmitting a copy of the Resolution adopted by the Senate on March 25.

I have inserted this Resolution in the Congressional Record and am violently opposed to the St. Lawrence Seaway project because of its devastating effect on the coal and railroad industries of my District.

You may depend upon me to lend every effort to defeat this measure.

Thanking you for writing me, and with every good wish, I am

Very sincerely,

Honorable George F. Holmes,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Thank you very much for furnishing me with a copy of the resolution adopted by the Pennsylvania State Senate in opposition to the proposed St. Lawrence Waterways.

I have consistently opposed establishment of such a project and shall continue to do everything I can to defeat its passage. However, with the Administrations backing of the project, as a defense measure, it will undoubtedly be passed during the present Congress.

I am making the Resolution of the State Senate a part of my file for future reference.

Very sincerely,

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, at this time I desire permission to address the Senate relative to a resolution introduced some time ago.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lebanon may proceed.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, on February 25, 1941, Senator Stiefel from Philadelphia and Senator Cox from Pittsburgh presented a resolution on the floor of this Senate suggesting that the Secretary of Public Assistance revise the determinant guiding the prorating of fees payable to physicians attending the recipients of assistance, as well as expedite the payment of amounts now due to such physicians.

Mr. President, I am reporting verbally from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, which has this resolution and which has been considering the resolution, and it appears from the Journal of the Senate on March 4, that in response to this resolution, Secretary Russell of the Department of Public Assistance addressed a letter to the chairman of our committee, as well as to the sponsors of this resolution, in which he pointed out that certain action had already been taken by the State Board of Public Assistance, approving allocation based upon thirty-five cents instead of twenty cents per person per month, made on a basis of a revised seasonal variation having less spread for a trial period of six months, and that the same board has approved the revision of the dental program as recommended by the State Dental Society.

Mr. President, the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions has directed me to ask the sponsors of this resolution, and particularly Senator Cox of Pittsburgh, whether under the circumstances the response of the Secretary of Assistance is satisfactory, or whether any further action of the committee is suggested thereon.

Mr. COX. Mr. President and members of the Senate, if the Senator from Lebanon, Mr. Becker, does not mind, in order for me to answer his inquiry it will be necessary for me to explain the motives which motivated the introduction of this resolution by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, and myself. Is that satisfactory?

Mr. BECKER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, early in this session the Joint State Government Commission presented to the Senate a voluminous and historical study of the question of public assistance. I appreciate and I know the other members of this Senate appreciate that the question of public assistance during the depression was one of the most tremendous and difficult problems that confronted this Senate.

I am very happy as a junior Senator at this time to congratulate the members of the Legislature and of the Senate on the fine manner in which they handled this question of relief to the indigent during that period. I for one can say I was not particularly conversant with the entire problem until I read the report of the Joint State Government Commission. That I am not the only person who has read the report and to have interested himself in attempting to find a solution for some of the problems presented in that report is indicated by other resolutions and other bills which have been presented to the Senate by other members of the Senate. For instance, Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, has introduced a resolution in the Senate which would increase the amount which would be paid to indigent persons, so that when the increase comes in the payment of rents they would be able to meet that situation.

Yesterday, Mr. President, the Senator from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, addressed the Senate on a bill which had been introduced by him which calls attention to the fact that we have a Pennsylvania law which makes it necessary for persons to take care of their own relatives. Very early in this Session I became interested in this question of furnishing medical and surgical attention to persons on relief. My attention was drawn to this by experience which I had during the depression with my friends who were members of the medical profession, and particularly by a very close personal friend, a physician of years of experience, a very, very sincere man who was a member of one of the Healing Arts Committees of Allegheny County and who has had practical experience in this matter.

For that reason I wish to direct to the attention of the Senate this very serious problem and I feel that on the basis of the fact that at this time we are having some surcease from the pressure which came because of the great number of persons who were on relief prior to this time, that we are in a position to look over the experience of the past and determine what should be done in the future.

Mr. President, I am glad to have the opportunity to pay my personal tribute to the unselfishness of the physicians who have carried a great part of the burden of the care for the indigent during the depression. I feel I would be remiss in my duty and you members would be remiss in your duty if you and if I failed to correct at this time some apparent injustice to the physicians of our Commonwealth.

At the time of the depression, the physicians were agreed that they could not charge their full fees for services to indigent people, and voluntarily they agreed to diminish their fees by fifty percent. The rates established, and I believe agreed to by the Department of Public Assistance were, for instance, one dollar for an office visit, two dollars for a home visit, and twenty-five dollars for an obstetrical case and one-half of the fees set forth in the Workmen's Compensation act for surgical cases, such as fixing a broken arm. That this program fell down is a very apparent fact. For instance, in July of 1940, the physicians of Allegheny County—and I believe these figures are probably true for all of Pennsylvania—were paid thirty-six cents for a visit made by an indigent person to their office and they were paid seventy-two cents if they visited the home of an indigent person regardless of the distance that home was from the office or the home of the physician. They were paid nine dollars for an obstetrical case, regardless of how difficult or how protracted the case, they were paid $1.80 for an X-ray of a fracture.

Now I know you gentlemen are in accord with me that we can do something about this thing, and at this time I am asking you to do something about it. Perhaps the point of view of the physician could be best illustrated by my reading from a letter from Dr. C. Rinard, of Homestead, Pennsylvania, and old and honorable practitioner. The letter reads in part as follows:

"Dear Senator Cox:

"I read with a great deal of interest your resolution which you have introduced into the State Senate. I think it is just fine and to the point.

"I wish to inform you that at a meeting about two weeks ago of the State Board of Public Assistance and the Department of Public Assistance with the State Central Healing Arts Committee which I attended as a Kibitzer, the Department of Public Assistance granted the Healing Arts Group of Pennsylvania an allotment of 35 cents per person on relief per month for a trial period of six months, beginning March 1, 1941. and increased the dental program, allowing the dentist not only to extract teeth as at present but also to fill cavities in teeth when necessary.

"The increase in the dental program, we as physicians agree with, as we believe a tooth should not be extracted always when it gives pain, when it could be cured by a proper filling, but this increase will increase the dental program about 7½%, and as it now is the dental program consumes approximately 7½% of the allocations, making the future dental program reach 15% of the allocation, which means the 35 cent allocation will be really cut down to 32 cents.

"We have during the last year in some months such as January or February or March when the incident of sickness is at its highest need, 38 cents per person on relief—therefore it is easily to see that 32 cents especially, when not made accumulative will still give us a 6 cents per person shortage, which I figure if we get a 6% increase in morbidity which we are liable to get, as we are now for last year running 6% below the normal morbidity, we will face a fairly large proration with the present increase of allocation.

"I think the pertinent points to number in this program is that our present agreed upon schedule of fees will give the Healing Arts Group only one-half their regular recognized fees, and that during this last year the costs of the program to the state has been low, the service has been good, and that the present program is the best program in existence, if sufficient allocation is made to give the Healing Arts Group one-half their regular recognized fees without prorations, and as near as can be calculated, 35 cents per person on relief per month made accumulative to the present program allocated for the next biennium will give the State of Pennsylvania, unequalled by any program in existence today in the United States."

By way of explanation as to the contents of this letter, Mr. President, I was tremendously surprised to find that up until I believe three weeks ago, when the adjustment was made by Mr. Russell, if an indigent person got a toothache, he could only gain relief from that toothache by having his tooth extracted; if it required a filling, the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was not financially in position to save that individual's tooth; it had to be extracted.

I also learned that during the period of the depression frequently physicians have requested an increase in the allocation, and that they were told by Mr. Russell that a change in allocation could not be made until the legislature met, but strange to say this change in allocation by Mr. Russell was made before there was any change in that provision by the legislature.

For the reasons I have indicated, Senator Becker, I would appreciate very much this resolution being reported to the floor of this Senate, and I feel all of the Senators would like to show their appreciation to the physicians I feel we should instruct Mr. Russell that in the future we would like the allocation set up on a fair and more equitable basis.

Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Becker, and the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Bartlett, for the very courteous manner in which they considered the resoution and also their treatment of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, and myself.

We know you are in sympathy and we appreciate the fact your committee is one of the most difficult committees in the Senate, and that you require help from the rest of us in order to function properly.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in law school we have two terms, the black acres and the white acres, and sometime between the black acres and the white acres lies a territory known as the gray acres, and now, Mr. President, I am interested in the gray acres, where politics vanish.

In this program, Mr. President, I am happy to see that for once politics vanish, and to have seen how Senator Bartlett and Senator Becker and the Republican members of the committee have shown an understanding of the problem.

Mr. President, I want to say in passing I recently have been taking a most wonderful course in political science here in the Senate of Pennsylvania. I have attended meetings of the sub-committee on Appropriations under the guidance of Senator Chapman, and I have learned more about the government of Pennsylvania than I ever learned in my course in the University of Pennsylvania.

During one of those meetings Dr. Shaw appeared and he was questioned in a most intensive manner by the arch-questioner and examiner, Senator Shapiro, and at that time Senator Shapiro, myself and other members of the committee were thrilled by the fight now being waged by Dr. Shaw against tuberculosis in Pennsylvania. It reminds me of a chapter from the book "Microbe Hunter," and I was looking for an opportunity to get up here and pay tribute to Dr. Shaw, just to illustrate that politics do not play any real part at a time when we are dealing with human life.

While expressing a tribute of gratitude to the membership of the Committee on Welfare generally and to Senator Becker in particular, I must state, much to my regret, that the letter of Secretary Russell does not cover the situation and that there is still a fly in the ointment. I can not agree to the statement made by Secretary Russell in his letter to Honorable Charles A. P. Bartlett. Chairman of the Welfare Committee of the Senate, because the increased allocation has not been made accumulative as it was asked by the Healing Arts Committee. Secretary Russell has shown an understanding sympathy to the problem confronting both the Healing Arts Committee and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but the new determinants and the formula of computation are still far from satisfactory because of the absence of the factor of accumulation.

Thus, during the trial period of six months beginning March 1, 1941 there will be different degrees of sickness, and therefore, this period of six months beginning March 1, 1941 is not a fair trial period. March is a heavy-sickness month, and the incidence of sickness decreases in April, May, June, and July. If the allocation, as recently provided by the Department of Welfare, would have been made accumulative, as asked by the Healing Arts Committee, it would have resulted in a surplus from the light-sickness months.

The letter does not cover, also, the phase of the resolution introduced by Senator Cox and myself pertaining to promptness of payments. Because of many delays which are not entirely caused by the Department of Assistance, the physicians still have to wait about three months until they receive their checks. For these reasons my colleague Senator Cox and I intend to introduce within the next few weeks a new resolution which will cover the drawbacks of the present rules and regulations governing the payment of fees by the Department of Public Assistance to the physicians throughout the Commonwealth, attending recipients of relief.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cox.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COX. With great pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, specifically what would the gentleman from Allegheny like to have the committee do with the resolution, which it now has before it.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I would appreciate it if the committee would report the resolution to the floor so that it could be voted on, but I feel Mr. Russell should know the entire membership of the Senate is conversant with this problem and that it is desirous of having a modification of the plan. You can appreciate the fact that the present allocation is only a temporary expediency and if the Legislature does not appropriate sufficient funds it is going to be an impossibility for them to pay the increase in this allocation.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, the answer is satisfactory and I shall report the statement of both of these gentlemen to the committee.

HOUSE MESSAGES

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 70 (Senate Bill No. 468), entitled:

L. 905) entitled, "Vehicle Code," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors, trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight; fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways; and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

House Bill No. 868 (Senate Bill No. 473), entitled:

To further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (1937, P. L. 2897), entitled "Unemployment Compensation Law," by further defining "contributions" to be paid by certain employers; changing the procedure and administrative details for the determination and payment of compensation; further regulating the appointment, promotion, dismissal, suspension and furlough of civil service employes; and further defining the powers of and procedure before the board.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE BILL No. 176 (HOUSE No. 769)

He also returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 176 (House Bill No. 769), entitled:

An Act for the judicial notice of the ordinances of cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships of the first class, and for proof thereof; and to make uniform the law with reference thereto.

with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

RESOLUTION ENDORSING CELEBRATION OF POLISH INDEPENDENCE DAY ON MAY 3rd

He also presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on State Government.

In the House of Representatives, April 2, 1941.

Whereas, The pages of history nowhere show a greater love of country than that exhibited by the citizens of Poland over the course of the centuries; and

Whereas, Today, as two centuries before, the liberty-loving Poles have been trampled by the legions of a tyrant; and

Whereas, As history counsels, the Polish nation will again be reborn stronger and more powerful than ever before; and

Whereas, This country is indebted to Poland for the aid rendered our own cause during the Revolutionary War by great military leaders from Poland; and

Whereas, People of Polish descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the Republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American Life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding; and

Whereas, The least we could do for citizens of Poland and our own citizens of Polish descent is to recognize their contribution to our own cultural and economic advancements, and to offer some recognition of their fight for Poland's independence; be it therefore

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Legislature of this State acknowledges the contribution made to our nation by persons of Polish origin b endorsing the celebration of Polish Independence Day on May 3rd; and be it further

Resolved, That His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the third day of May, as Polish Day.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. CROWE, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 172, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight hundred one and nine hundred seventy-six of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1333) entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying; revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by further defining parties and political bodies, providing procedure for rejection of nomination petitions, papers or certificates in certain cases; imposing duties on the Governor and the Attorney General; and imposing additional duties on county boards of elections, the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the courts.

ASSISTANCE ALLOWANCES TO BE INCREASED TO COVER ACTUAL COSTS OF SHELTER

Mr. CROWE from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Kephart on February 25, 1941, reported the same without amendment as follows:

In the Senate, February 25, 1941.

Whereas, The present maximum monthly shelter allowances to families receiving public assistance in Pennsylvania is $5.85 for families of one person, increasing to $9.75 maximum for families of three persons or more, and

Whereas, Recent surveys have conclusively shown that there is a gross insufficiency of dwelling accommodations renting within the amount of the allowance, and

Whereas, The report of the survey of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance published in 1939 entitled "Current Living Costs as Related to Standards of Public Assistance in Pennsylvania" shows that the actual minimum costs of shelter greatly exceeds the present shelter allowances, and

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance is charged by law to provide sufficient assistance to relief families to "enable them to maintain for themselves and their dependents a decent and healthful standard of living," and

Whereas, The present inadequate shelter allowances make it impossible to carry out the provisions of law, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby goes on record as favoring and urging that sufficient funds be provided to the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance to enable it to make shelter allowances to families receiving Public Assistance in an amount sufficient to cover the actual costs of shelter as determined by surveys, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, and to the Secretary of Property and Supplies, and to the members of the Pennsylvania Board of Public Assistance.

Laid over for one day under the Rules.

Mr. BECKER, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 58, entitled:

An Act to further amend section nine of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 363), entitled "An act relating to the organization, jurisdiction, and procedure of the Orphans' Courts; the powers and duties of the judges thereof; and appeals therefrom;" as amended on the twenty-sixth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 349), by extending the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court to supervision and enforcement of gifts for charitable uses, even though such gifts have passed out of fiduciaries now subject to the jurisdiction of the Orphans' Court directly to corporations or others charged with their administration.

Mr. EDMONDS, from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 206, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (a) of section four of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2045), entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted; providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives, and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons; providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons; providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters; and providing procedure," by providing for the furnishing of statements to persons against whom claims are due for support, maintenance and assistance.

BILL RE-REFERRED

Mr. WATKINS, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 310, entitled:

An Act to amend article six of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled "An act to consolidate, amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth," by making it unlawful to take for the purpose of sale, sell or expose for sale any bittersweet growing in the wild; and providing a penalty.

with the request that it be re-referred to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. HEYBURN, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 80, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897-1937), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis, requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons, providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions; and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties," changing the provisions thereof; and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder.

Mr. MUNDY, from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance, and Pensions, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 417 (House Bill No. 688), entitled:

An Act concerning reciprocal agreements for the Interstate Transportation and the support of poor and indigent persons, and to make uniform the law with reference thereto.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INCREASE IN AMOUNT OF INSURANCE CARRIED BY RELIEF RECIPIENTS

Mr. SHAPIRO from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions to which was referred resolution offered by Messrs. HALUSKA and WADE on March 26, 1941, reported the same with amendment as follows:

In the Senate, March 26, 1941.

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance has and is at the present time compelling all persons that apply or are receiving Public Assistance cancel any Life Insurance Policy whether held by the relief recipient or by any member of his family in excess of $500.00, and

Whereas, Many persons have paid premiums on such Life Insurance Policies for as long as thirty-five years and now are compelled to cancel these policies at a great loss and thereby depriving their dependents from any recovery after death in excess of $500.00, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of Insurance permitted to be carried by a relief recipient or by any or all members of his or her family directly affected from $500.00 to not less than $1000.00 in policy or policies either paid up or in premium paying period, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Assistance is requested to notify its various County Boards of Assistance of this request and resolution immediately upon its passage.

Laid over one day under the Rules.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. LETZLER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 474, entitled:

A Further Supplement to the act, approved the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three (P. L. 213), entitled "An act to accept the grant of Public Lands, by the United States, to the several states, for the endowment of Agricultural Colleges," making an appropriation for carrying the same into effect.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. WATKINS read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 475, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend the act approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566), entitled "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for occupational disease contracted by an employe arising out of and in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; imposing duties on the Department of Labor and Industry, the Workmen's Compensation Board, Workmen's Compensation Referees, and deans of medical schools; creating a medical board to determine controverted medical issues; establishing an Occupational Disease Fund in custody of the State Workmen's Insurance Board; imposing upon the Commonwealth a part of the compensation payable for certain occupational diseases; making an appropriation; and prescribing penalties," by further defining and extending the liability of an employer to pay damages for occupational diseases contracted by an employe arising out of and in the course of employment; modifying the procedure and determination of liability thereunder; making an additional appropriation; and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 476, entitled:

An Act providing for the creation and administration of a State Fund for the insurance of the liability of employers for injuries to employes sustaining in their course of employment; declaring false oaths by the subscribers to be misdemeanors; providing penalties for the violation thereof; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 477, entitled:

An Act to further reenact and amend the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736), entitled as amended "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; and prescribing penalties," changing maximum and minimum rates, periods, total amounts and aggregate of compensation; changing the system of computation of wages for compensation purposes; changing practice and rules of evidence; defining earning power after accident; authorizing the board to terminate compensation in certain cases; changing the classes of dependents entitled to compensation in case of death; changing powers and duties of the board; and imposing additional penalties; authorizing the department, the board and the referees to approve compromise agreements in certain cases, and generally amending, clarifying and changing the provisions of said act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

Mr. WADE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 478, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause nine of section one of the act, approved the twenty-seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 858), entitled "An act establishing a State employes' retirement system, and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof; establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing State employes; defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom, and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds; imposing powers and duties upon the heads of departments in which State employes serve; excepting annuities, allowances, returns, benefits, and rights from taxation and judicial process; and providing penalties," by extending the time within which former employes of the Commonwealth may re-enter the retirement association and secure the status of an original member thereof.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. HEYBURN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 479, entitled:

An Act supplementing the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety; regulating the use of highways, and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians, and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth; providing for the titling, including liens, encumbrances, and legal claims; registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees; prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, the Department of Highways, peace officers mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof, owners of vehicles, and garage keepers; providing that records are admissible as evidence; imposing upon owners, counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, within the Commonwealth, liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles; imposing penalties; imposing certain costs upon counties; providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees, and miscellaneous receipts; making an appropriation and providing for refunds," by requiring additional statements to accompany applications for the registration and re-registration of motor vehicles engaged in the transportation of inflammable liquids, specifying the required construction and equipment of such vehicles and the marking and operation thereof, making the provisions hereof a complete, exclusive and uniform system throughout the Commonwealth, and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, for a long time there has been an inhumanity attached to a situation in this Commonwealth and it came strikingly to my attention just a few months ago when in my county a dog running loose bit quite a number of school children and the dog was finally killed and an examinations of its head showed that the dog had rabies.

Now, Mr. President, it happened that quite a number of children bitten were the children of poor people who were on relief and who did not have the money to provide the proper serum in cases of that kind. The situation brought to my attention the present status of the law, where if a dog of this kind goes out and bites cattle of a farmer, a cow or a horse or any other domestic animal and the animal dies because of the bite of the dog, our law provides compensation for that domestic animal, but yet here if that same dog should go out and bite a child and damage the family to the extent that the family has to buy a proper serum to protect that human life, the life of that particular child, there is no compensation for that family.

It appeared to me that situation is very inhuman. So a number of doctors of my county brought the case more strikingly to my consideration and asked if something could not be done. I have prepared here a bill requiring the Department of Health to furnish free of charge to state and state aided hospitals certain vaccines or serum used in the Pasteur treatment and requiring such hospitals to furnish and inoculate all persons bitten by dogs in this Commonwealth with such vaccine or serum, free of charge.

Now, Mr. President, I appreciate the fact that it is going to take some money to do that, to do the thing that is provided in this bill, but I have prepared for a member of the assembly on the other side a bill to provide the revenue, for I can not introduce a bill to provide revenue or raise revenue here in this body because a revenue raising bill must originate in the House.

I feel and I think probably the majority of us feel when you consider this case it is no hardship on the dog owners of this Commonwealth to add about ten cents to the license fee every year. That is a very small sum for a dog owner, ten cents in addition to what they are paying now, to provide funds for this purpose and I really think it is a very humanitarian purpose and I am going to pursue the course of this bill in the Senate and I am going to do what I can over with the members of the House to see that the bill introduced there is given some consideration.

Mr. CAVALCANTE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 480, entitled:

An Act requiring the Department of Health to furnish free of charge all State and State-aided hospitals certain vaccines or serum used in the Pasteur treatment, and requiring such hospitals to furnish and inoculate all persons bitten by dogs in this Commonwealth with such vaccine or serum free of charge.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health.

Mr. KEPHART, by request, read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 481, entitled:

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 242 the bill just read, be re-committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, in connection with the several motions made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, concerning Senate Bill No. 242, I desire to be recorded as being present but not voting.

The PRESIDENT. It will be so recorded.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING GOVERNOR TO ISSUE PROCLAMATION DESIGNATING MAY 12TH, AS HOSPITAL DAY AS A TRIBUTE TO FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE

Mr. SNOWDEN, on behalf of the Hospital Asso. of Pennsylvania offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 2, 1941.

The Hospitals of the Commonwealth are its safeguards and buwarks against attacks by disease and accident upon the health, safety and well being of our people,

These well equipped fortresses of mercy with their modern equipment and efficient staffs of trained physicians, surgeons and nurses have reduced the toll of death within this Commonwealth and have brought relief and happiness to most of its citizens,

Those physicians and surgeons have given freely and generously of their services for the alleviation of suffering among those who otherwise could ill afford the cost of such aid;

Those who manage the necessary business and financial affairs of our hospitals likewise contribute valuable services in the interests of humanity,

Those nurses who tirelessly and ceaselessly lend their cheerful aid to the task of bringing relief and comfort to those inmates who are seeking a way back to life and health, are, in turn, a major part in the united work of restoring health to the afflicted. They are true apostles of that great English woman Florence Nightingale who dedicated her life to the relief of the suffering and raised a menial task to an heroic profession.

It is as fitting and proper to observe and celebrate the achievements of a living institution as to observe and celebrate the glories of the past; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur) That in recognition of the work performed by the hospitals of the Commonwealth and the splendid achievements of their staffs of physicians, surgeons and nurses the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby requested to issue his proclamation designating May twelfth, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, as Hospital Day as a tribute to the splendid service rendered the citizens of this Commonwealth by our hospitals and those responsible for their operation: and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be immediately transmitted to his Excellency the Governor.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which require resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection. The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING GOVERNOR TO PROCLAIM MAY 3, AS POLISH DAY

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. FREY offered the following resolution which was twice read.

In the Senate, April 2, 1941.

Whereas, The pages of history nowhere show a greater love of country than that exhibited by the citizens of Poland over the course of the centuries; and

Whereas, Today, as two centuries before, the liberty-loving Poles have been trampled by the legions of a tyrant; and

Whereas, As history counsels, the Polish nation will again be reborn stronger and more powerful than ever before; and

Whereas, This country is indebted to Poland for the aid rendered our own cause during the Revolutionary War by great military leaders from Poland; and

Whereas, People of Polish descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the Republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American Life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding; and

Whereas, The least we could do for citizens of Poland and our own citizens of Polish descent is to recognize their contribution to our own cultural and economic advancement, and to offer some recognition of their fight for Poland's independence; be it therefore

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Legislature of this State acknowledges the contribution made to our nation by persons of Polish origin by endorsing the celebration of Polish Independence Day on May 3rd: and be it further

Resolved, That His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the third day of May, as Polish Day.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. EALY. Mr President, a resolution very similar in its form just came over from the House and was referred to the Committee on State Government.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny,

Mr. Frey, did not ask immediate consideration of the resolution and it is therefore referred to the same committee, the Committee on State Government.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 118 CALLED UP

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I now call up for action resolution Serial No. 118, reported by the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions. It appears on page 111 of the history.

The following resolution was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 26, 1941.

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance has, and is at the present time, compelling all persons that apply, or are receiving public assistance, to cancel any life insurance policy whether held by the relief recipient or by any member of his family in excess of $500.00; and

Whereas, Many persons have paid premiums on such life insurance policies for as long as thirty-five years and now are compelled to cancel these policies at a great loss, thereby depriving their dependents from recovery after death in excess of $500.00; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of Insurance permitted to be carried by a relief recipient or by any or all members of his or her family directly affected from $500.00 to not less than $1000.00 in the aggregate in policy or policies either paid up or in premium paying period, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Assistance is requested to notify its various County Boards of Assistance of this request and resolution immediately upon its passage.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

A motion was made by Mr. HALUSKA and Mr. WADE.

That rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, this resolution as reported out contains the same objections which were raised to it the other day when it was before the Senate. It requires the department to raise the maximum amount to not less than one thousand dollars instead of not more than one thousand dollars, as was the general consensus of opinion in the Senate the other day.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I think we are all very familiar with this resolution. Under this resolution the Department of Public Assistance now will have the privilege if they see fit, to adjust any policy that way; for instance, if some person should have a fifteen hundred dollar policy, as I understand it, and they deem it wise to continue that policy for reasons of their own this will give the department the right to allow that policy to remain in force.

However, under the present procedure the department is compelling all relief recipients to cancel the policies down to the amounts of five hundred dollars and many persons who have carried policies for many, many long years above a thousand dollars are now compelled to reduce the amount and in many cases many life insurance companies cancel the entire face value of the policy because they will not carry a policy that has a maturity value under a thousand dollars.

Therefore, Mr. President, I can not see where you are harming the Department of Public Assistance but you are certainly helping the relief recipients who must apply for relief.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I interrogate either one of the sponsors of this resolution?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to have the gentleman from Cambria, who is one of the co-sponsors of this resolution, advise me if the resolution does not say not less than one thousand dollars?

Mr. HALUSKA. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, doesn't that mean the floor is a thousand dollars and if a man had a five hundred dollar policy he could not carry it?

Mr. HALUSKA. Oh, no, Mr. President, it does not mean that at all; it means any person carrying a policy above a thousand dollars could reduce it to a thousand dollars and if the face value of the policy is less than one thousand dollars there is nothing in the resolution compelling him or her to increase the value of it.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the other sponsor of the resolution, the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I should like to ask the gentleman from Cumberland if he heard the interrogation I just propounded to the gentleman from Cambria, his co-sponsor, Mr. Haluska?

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President, I did.

Mr. WALKER. And, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland further and ask him whether or not he agrees with the interpretation of the effect of this resolution as stated by his co-sponsor.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would say I do not heartily agree with the wording of the resolution at the present time but I do agree with the motive back of the resolution. The purpose of the resolution, as I understood it, was to make it possible for a man who has twenty-five hundred dollars or four thousand dollars of insurance or a policy in any amount over a thousand dollars—or over five hundred dollars—to be able to reduce it in accordance with the company's rules and practice and by-laws so that they could retain part of the valuable asset that they have gained and so that they would not have to cancel the entire policy.

Now, Mr. President, the resolution as it has been amended and reamended and further amended sort of confuses the situation and requests the department to raise the limit to not less than one thousand dollars for all of the policies carried in the family.

Now, Mr. President, I think that is quite afield from the original intention, or at least it is from the original intention that I had in the resolution, which was to preserve a part of a man's insurance when he was no longer insurable and when the companies would no longer take him. As I have said on the floor of the Senate before, there are some 386 legal reserve life insurance companies registered to do business in the State of Pennsylvania and approximately three hundred and fifty of them do not issue policies of less than one thousand dollars and therefore when this requirement is put on the policy holder or relief recipient by the department he is forced to drop all of his life insurance with the hazard of not being able to purchase any new insurance.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am very desirous of seeing to it that those relief recipients who have insurance policies get a chance to carry some insurance and I am just as deeply interested in the purpose of the resolution as the co-sponsor, but I was confused when I read the resolution in the history and the interpretation placed on the resolution by the co-sponsors has further confused me.

Now, Mr. President, in order that I might be advised as to the present status of the resolution I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is very capable of enlightening the Senate, and as he reported this resolution out as amended, for the information of the Senate I would like to inquire whether or not this amended resolution builds a roof or a ceiling on the policies a recipient is allowed to carry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in order to answer the query I will have to remind the gentleman from Cambria that the resolution is now in exactly the same condition as it was when he and the gentleman from Cumberland jointly introduced it in the Senate. The only amendment which has been added by the committee is to add the words "in the aggregate" so that the aggregate amount of insurance would be up to not less than one thousand dollars.

In order to further enlighten the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, I suggest that this committee discussed this resolution from the point of view with which it was discussed on the floor of the Senate when it was first introduced, as to whether or not this places a floor and not a ceiling on the amount of insurance. It was agreed it does and it was agreed it is necessary that it should be so because there are many cases in which the Department of Public Assistance finds relief recipients who have insurance in excess of a thousand dollars and because of the cash surrender value they have deemed it necessary and advisable under those circumstances to maintain those policies. Sometimes they find recipients having fifteen hundred dollar policies of insurance and with the larger surrender value they take the policies as security for the amount advanced and therefore the maintenance of those policies builds up the security which the department has.

It does not do so in all cases, but we came to the conclusion there might be some cases where the aggregate is eleven hundred dollars, or the aggregate may be twelve hundred dollars, and it would be difficult or inadvisable to cancel the insurance under those circumstances; so we put the resolution in such shape that it does not compel the department to allow them to carry the fifteen hundred dollars of insurance but it does say to the department it is our intention and our belief and it is our opinion that a thousand dollars should be made the minimum amount and anything above that is entirely within their discretion.

Now, Mr. President, this resolution has two points of view. One is the point of view of the insurance man, which has been so ably stated to you by the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, who tells you most insurance companies do not carry policies of less than a thousand dollars, but the other and the real point of view is the one expressed by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, who tells you most of the people are being compelled to cancel a valuable asset in order to satisfy what he considers an arbitrary whim of the department.

Both views are now taken care of in the resolution; the view of the gentleman from Cumberland is taken care of by saying it must be not less than a thousand dollars, and the view of the gentleman from Cambria is taken care of by the same wording, so that nobody will be compelled to reduce the insurance to less than a thousand dollars.

Mr. President, the resolution does not provide that a man with five hundred dollars of insurance must carry one thousand dollars and there is nothing in the wording to be twisted that a man must be permitted to carry fifteen hundred dollars, but he must be permitted to carry one thousand dollars if he has it.

I think that is perfectly plain under the resolution.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I hope the rest of the members of the Senate now understand this resolution very clearly, but it says not less than a thousand dollars and that means you cannot carry more than a thousand dollars, and it says less than a thousand dollars and that means you can carry under a thousand dollars. I have heard three explanations and I want to say, Mr. President, Wednesday morning is a bad morning for me evidently because I still do not understand what happens to the little fellow who for years has been paying on a five hundred dollar policy. It says not less than a thousand dollars and to me that means not less than one thousand dollars. Now, Mr. President, to a gentleman learned in the law that probably means something else and to an insurance man who has three hundred some companies that might mean something else, but to a layman trying to save the little fellow's policy—and in my opinion that was the object of the gentleman from Cambria when he introduced the resolution originally—what happens to the little fellow with the five hundred dollar policy under this resolution I have asked the gentleman from Philadelphia again and he has enlightened me to the extent that I am dumbfounded.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, has used only three words "not less than" but that means something entirely different when you combine it with the word "maximum" which precedes it.

Mr. WALKER. A maximum of not less than a thousand dollars, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, used the wrong word. He said he was dumbfounded. I think the word "founded" was entirely unnecessary.

I should like to read the first part of the resolution, which has something to do with it and may help to clear up the Monday morning hangover the gentleman from Allegheny has on Wednesday. "The Department of Public Assistance had and is at the present time compelling all persons that apply or are receiving public assistance to cancel any life insurance policies whether held by the relief recipient or by any member of his family in excess of five hundred dollars." That is the preamble. The resolution is "that the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of insurance permitted to be carried"—raise the maximum amount. That means, Mr. President, that this gentleman who has a five hundred dollar policy has it because he apparently has had insurance in one of the other insurance companies than the ones the gentleman from Cumberland referred to, that issue policies of less than a thousand dollars, and that class of people are not affected because their insurance is not being reduced from a thousand dollars to five hundred dollars. They started out with five hundred dollars, and that is not the complaint of the gentleman from Cambria, in cases where the insurance is only five hundred dollars.

The preamble deals with a case where insurance existed in excess of five hundred dollars and it says the maximum amount shall be raised to a thousand dollars.

Mr. WALKER. Yesterday, Mr. President, my very distinguished colleague from Allegheny County, Senator Frey, in bitter disappointment that followed Senatorial action, mentioned the fact that the Republican leadership was stupid. In the absence of the Republican leadership may I say to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Frey, it appears not only the Republican leadership but also a lot of the Republicans are stupid and I appreciate the fact that we use a lot of unnecessary words on the floor of the Senate and in the use of the word "dumbfounded" perhaps the word "founded" should have been omitted but, Mr. President, slowly and patiently and if my tenure of office extends forty or fifty years, under the guidance of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, I shall learn gradually to use the English language.

May I say, Mr. President, I want to save the little fellow's policy and I have confidence in the desire of the gentleman from Cambria and I am willing to place my relief recipients and my political future in his hands and if he is convinced this will save the little man's policy I will withdraw my stupidity and my dumbfounded condition and permit the Senate to vote on this resolution, but I want the gentleman from Cambria to be convinced in his own mind—and not by a lot of lawyers—that this resolution will save the policies, because from bitter experience I have learned nowhere in the world can you find a group of people who can twist around the English language like those who are learned in the law.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am perfectly convinced this will save the small man's policy. However, if it will help the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, and also the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, to change the wording to read "not more than one thousand dollars" and take out the word "less" I am willing to have that amendment inserted. However, keep in mind you are tying the hands of your own department: they will have no opportunity whatsoever to make any adjustment of any policy in excess of one thousand dollars and being very lenient with the department—but not too friendly, however—I placed the word "less" rather than "more" but as I said a moment ago if that will satisfy you gentlemen I am just too happy to offer an amendment and insert it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I appreciate the debate which has taken place on the floor here this morning, especially the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, who said I had only the insurance man's point of view on this resolution, which I assure you is not true. The insurance company's viewpoint on relief recipients, I am sorry to say, might not be so favorable because from actual records it appears the mortality rate is excessively high in this class of people, and I say that in all kindness; it is merely a matter of record.

Secondly, Mr. President, may I say to the attorneys who have participated in this debate, the thing I see wrong in this resolution as now printed is that it does not provide for a ceiling of one thousand dollars, but instead of that it provides for a ceiling of one million dollars, as printed, and that I think is an error and for that reason—let me assure my ordinary life friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that the men who drew this resolution did not have that ceiling in mind and that there are few men who carry a million dollars of life insurance, who are relief recipients. Mr. President, for that reason I suggest that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, to be revamped or reamended so that it will do what it was originally intended to do, first because of the wording, and secondly, because of the printing error which provides a ceiling of a million dollars instead of a thousand dollars.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am not in accord with the suggestion just made by the gentleman from Cumberland.

The sponsors of this resolution, when they were first interrogated, were very positive of their position and I do not know whether it is an advance or a retreat on the part of the gentleman from Cumberland—but as I said originally I want to save these little policies and if the public spirited gentleman from Cambria is positive this will save those little policies I am not deeply interested in the Department of Public Assistance or in the future of the life insurance industry or profession but I am interested in saving these little policies.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would suggest we vote on this resolution and hope that it means what the gentleman from Philadelphia so very intelligently told us it means.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think the resolution is worded properly now and if you should raise the maximum to not more than one thousand dollars it seems to me the department could fix the amount at ten dollars. I think the way it is worded now, "not less than one thousand dollars," is proper. If you should raise the maximum to not more than one thousand dollars, as has been suggested, it seems to me you could fix it at any place below one thousand dollars.

Mr. MUNDY. May I say, Mr. President, I sat in with the committee yesterday and considered this resolution and the chairman and the members present spent a great deal of time, practically all of the time the committee was in session, considering this resolution, and we submitted ourselves to the opinion of the members of the legal profession who were present as to the exact wording of this resolution.

I do not believe this resolution should be sent back to committee after the attention the Chairman and members of the committe gave to the resolution, but I would like to interrogate the author of the resolution, the gentleman from Cambria.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I understand the gentleman from Cambria said he was willing to insert the words "not over one thousand dollars." My understanding, Mr. President, and I wish to be corrected if I am wrong, is this: in wording the resolution in that manner it would work a hardship on those carrying insurance because the department now has assumed a liberal attitude in that it permits several small policies held by members of the family to continue in force and it also exempts the policies of those who are under sixteen years of age, and if that is permitted to be put into the resolution it will give them the right to take away the small policy of insurance from other members and those under sixteen years of age.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I might state to the gentleman from Luzerne I think his interpretation is correct, after second thought, and on that basis I think it would be unwise to change the wording. Therefore, Mr. President, I will stand pat on the resolution as it reads now.

The PRESIDENT. The question is whether the Senate will agree to the adoption of the Resolution.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel L. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 176, entitled:

An Act for the judicial notice of the ordinances of cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships of the first class, and for proof thereof; and to make uniform the law with reference thereto.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL NO. 31, CALLED UP

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Resolution, Serial No. 31, which was reported from committee and is now on the table.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Resolution was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 25, 1941.

Whereas, The present maximum monthly shelter allowances to families receiving public assistance in Pennsylvania is $5.85 for families of one person, increasing to $9.75 maximum for families of three persons or more, and

Whereas, Recent surveys have conclusively shown that there is a gross insufficiency of dwelling accommodations renting within the amount of the allowance, and

Whereas, The report of the survey of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance published in 1939 entitled "Current Living Costs as Related to Standards of Public Assistance in Pennsylvania" shows that the actual minimum costs of shelter greatly exceeds the present shelter allowances, and

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance is charged by law to provide sufficient assistance to relief families to "enable them to maintain for themselves and their dependents a decent and healthful standard of living," and

Whereas, The present inadequate shelter allowances make it impossible to carry out the provisions of law, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby goes on record as favoring and urging that sufficient funds be provided to the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance to enable it to make shelter allowances to families receiving Public Assistance in an amount sufficient to cover the actual costs of shelter as determined by surveys, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, and to the Secretary of Property and Supplies, and to the members of the Pennsylvania Board of Public Assistance.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

A motion was made by Mr. KEPHART and Mr. BARTLETT.

That rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in connection with this resolution, which practically memorializes the Department of Public Assistance to increase the rent allowance I would like to read a portion of the correspondence that took place between myself and the Board in connection with a specific case, but in view of the circumstances, I will not mention the name. It deals directly with this question of rent money. The amount of rent for a family of five, under the budget of the department is, I think, $9.85 or $8.85—it is immaterial—so I inquired what sort of a house a person with five children and an aged parent could live in at eight dollars or nine dollars a month, and this was the answer that I received:

> "The rent actually paid by Mrs. "X" is twenty-two dollars per month. She lives in a six room brick row house that has a hot water heating system."

Mr. President, I desire to call to the attention of the members of the Senate that the total amount of allowance for his woman was forty-six dollars, which included eight dollars for rent, and therefore out of the forty-six dollars, the allowance for subsistance, clothing, food and all the other items that make up the maximum amount she pays twenty-two dollars a month for rent and that leaves her twenty-four dollars for the rest of the expenses of living.

Now, Mr. President, you may get some idea how adequate the relief is in Pennsylvania.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I would like to request that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, add to his statement what he told the committee, that in that family there is one aged person in the household. I believe the gentleman mentioned one fact but not the other.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I believe I said there was one aged person who is technically in the household, and what is being done is to divide the household, where it is necessary to get contributions from the Federal Government on the basis of public assistance, or put them together where it seems to be necessary to make up the total maximum—the total maximum is seventy-six dollars, and to arrive at that, they take off the amount which they give to the old man—thirty dollars in this case—and then they get the additional forty-six dollars, but even on the basis of seventy-six dollars, whether the man lives in the house or not, you have less than twelve dollars a week left after paying rent, in this case, for the purpose of feeding and clothing those five or six people.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the adoption of the resolution.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF PUBLIC HEARING

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have been directed by the Committee on Judiciary General to announce there will be a public hearing on Senate Bill No. 30, introduced by the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, next Tuesday afternoon, April 8th, at two o'clock in the Judiciary General committee room. This is the bill introduced by the gentleman from Fayette which prohibits judges of courts of record from engaging in political activity except in furtherance of their campaigns. The time of the meeting will be two o'clock Tuesday afternoon. There will be a public hearing, which has been requested by a number of members of the Judiciary. I am not certain from the remarks of the gentleman who requested the hearing whether it is still desired or not but at least we are going to hold the hearing and if they do not show up that is something the committee will have to deal with but in compliance with the request we are holding a hearing on this bill Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny consent to change the place of the hearing and instead of holding the hearing in the committee room hold it in the Senate Caucus room where we would have more room for these boys to come in and where the press and everybody else may be present.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no objection to providing an amphitheater for the main event.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. It was done for the communists, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I think the acoustics in the committee room are just as good as in the Caucus Chamber but I appreciate the fact that there may be some judges who will come down—you cannot tell. I am perfectly willing to change the meeting place to the Senate Caucus room so that the press and the gentleman from Fayette will have ample room.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act providing that when inmates of an orphan's home or other children's institution, maintained at the cost of any county, attend public school and are not legal residents of such school district, the county shall pay their tuition charges.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 1

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 1, passed second reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the title was agreed to.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Sections one and two inclusive of the bill were severally reconsidered, and agreed to.

The title of the bill was read as follows:

An Act providing that when inmates of an orphans' home or other children's institution maintained at the cost of any county attend public school and are not legal residents of such school district the county shall pay their tuition charges

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move to amend title, page 1, line 5 of title, by adding after the word "charges" the following: "and collect the same from the school district liable therefor."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Blair state to the Senate how this bill will change the present law?

Mr. MALLERY. In Blair County, Mr. President, we have a children's home which is located in Catherine Township, one of the smaller townships in the county; the children of this home attend the township school. Under the present law the secretary of the school board endeavors to collect the tuition from the various municipalities from which these children come and he has a great deal of difficulty in collecting the tuition, so this bill would change the law to make the counties liable in the first instance but save to the counties the right to be reimbursed by collecting from the school districts.

We feel the county commissioners are better able because they have more clerks to collect from the various school districts than the secretary of these small school districts.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, isn't it the law at the present time that the school district in the domicile of the child is liable?

Mr. MALLERY. That is correct

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 24, on third reading, entitled:

An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales providing remedies for violations thereof, and establishing penalties therefor.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, as follows:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens of the United States

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 No department bureau commission or office of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or of any county city borough township school district or of any other political subdivision shall employ any person who is not a citizen of the United States

Section 2 Any officer of the State or of any county city borough township school district or any other political subdivision or any other person responsible who knowingly employs or retains any employe contrary to the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or to undergo imprisonment not more than thirty days or both.

Section 3 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President I have just looked over a copy of Senate Bill No. 50, Printer's No. 91, and I find the bill now is back in its original form. That is all right for some of the Senators but it is not the way I want it.

As I understand it now, Mr. President, although a person has signified his intention of becoming a citizen and the only reason he is not a citizen is because under the federal laws of this nation he can not properly become a citizen until he has been here a certain amount of time, we now say that that man or that woman is not entitled in any way to participate in the functions of government.

Now, Mr. President, I can not help but remember—maybe I am wrong in so remembering—but I can not help but remember that my parents were both aliens at one time. That does not in any way reflect upon them because they became good American citizens and raised a family of eleven other good American citizens who contributed their share in every manner to the welfare, growth and progress of this nation; and I do not think we ought to insinuate by an act of this kind that all persons who are not yet citizens of this country are not fit to be citizens of this county, and deny them the right of legitimate employment.

Suppose a scientist, for instance, who is here, or an eminent doctor or an eminent philosopher, happens to be giving lectures in one of our state universities, State College for instance, which is directly under the supervision of the state itself, under this law he would not be able to give lectures or to teach and I think if you will go back through our history and whether the individual who happens to now be a citizen was at one time an alien or not, I think you will go back and find that at one time or another every one was an alien who came to this country and raised a family.

I think it is silly; it is not necessary in the first place because unless a person is an outstanding character there would not be any chance in the world to get a job under a political patronage system such as is promoted by both the Republicans and the Democrats and I think the bill now is absolutely—I would say a criticism of the persons who come to this country with the intention of becoming Amercian citizens, the same as my father and yours, my mother and yours—and I hate to think of the insinuation that might have been brought against my parents, for instance, if a bill of this nature would have been passed by the Legislature during the time they happened to be working out their waiting period, if you please, to become participating Americans.

I intend to vote "no" in protest against even the idea of such a bill.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I have no intention of becoming unnecessarily loquacious but as an old mountaineer from the Poconos I now rise to say a little verse:

"I don't care if he is a hound,
I want you to stop kicking my dog around."

Mr. President, this bill is not foolish or simple at all it has the definite purpose of keeping those persons off the state payroll who do not think enough of this country to affiliate themselves with our government.

This bill, Mr. President, is a bill which was sponsored by the American Legion and passed by its legislative con mittee at the Reading convention in 1940. To say this bill is foolish is to say the American Legion is foolish. I am proud to be a member of that body and as commander and past commander I find nothing wrong with the American Legion and consider it the primary patriotic organization of this state and country.

Speaking now on this bill, let me give you some figures which confidentially came into my possession. A few months ago a survey was made of aliens employed in state institutions and today we have eighteen aliens holding responsible jobs in the institutions of this state. Here are a few of them: a dietician at the Norristown State Hospital; a physician at Byberry; an alien in this country only since June of 1938, a cook at the Torrance State Hospital; a registered nurse at the Warren State Hospital; a physician on the staff of the Pennhurst State Hospital; and right down in the back alley of our colleague from Cambria, Senator Haluska, there are two alien workers in the Cresson State Sanatorium there, one is a night watchman, and they are all aliens.

Now, Mr. President I say we have Americans here that are American citizens, they go to colleges and universities and become physicians and nurses and why should these people come into this country and take the bread away from their mouths? They are the people entitled to consideration.

A few weeks ago, Mr. President, when we had a hearing on Senate Bill No. 172, termed the communist bill, there was a representative from the Dies Committee here and he made a confidential statement to us that in the last few months there have been sixty-two thousand refugees who have flocked into this country and among those sixty-two thousand refugees there were fifteen hundred Gestapo agents. Now, Mr. President, these aliens are not running around here twiddling their thumbs, they are trying to get into government to honeycomb us with their sabotage and subversive activities. This bill is all right.

Mr. President, since it seems to be the habit to tell a story I think I will tell one. Up in the woods in Pike County there was an old woodsman sawing wood and his son came out in great excitement and said, "Pop, there is a wild cat chasing Mom around the kitchen." The old man looked at the son and said, "If the darn fool doesn't know any better than that he will just have to take his chances, the same as the rest of us."

That is what I say about the aliens, Mr. President, if they do not know enough to become citizens of the United States they will just have to take their chances.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated,

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, did I understand the gentleman from Monroe to say we have two aliens working in the Cresson Sanatorium in my county;

Mr. CROWE. They were, Mr. President, at the time this report was made.

Mr. HALUSKA. How long ago was that?

Mr. CROWE. That was about six or seven months ago. There was a survey made by the federal government of all aliens in Pennsylvania, which revealed the fact that over four hundred thousand aliens were in this state.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, to the best of the knowledge of the gentleman from Monroe are they still employed?

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Cambria repeat the interrogation?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President. I said, to the best of the knowledge of the gentleman from Monroe are they still employed?

Mr. CROWE Yes, Mr. President, they are.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am glad to know that because probably that is why I was elected over my Republican opponent. I am sure the Democratic Party does not hire any aliens who can not vote and if the Republican Party has been attempting to hire aliens perhaps that is the answer to my success.

I should like to further interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Crowe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Will this in any way, Mr. President, affect those employed on W. P. A.?

Mr. CROWE. No, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Why not, Mr. President?

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, the idea is not to crack down on the underdog, the fellow on relief or on W.P.A.; the idea is to crack down on people such as are enumerated in this list, dieticians, physicians, cooks, registered nurses and so on.

Mr. HALUSKA. I am interested in that point, Mr. President, because in looking over the bill I note that it states that no department, bureau, commission, or office of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or any county, city, borough, township, school district and so on shall employ any person—and I interpret that to mean those employed in relief or W.P.A. Am I to understand, Mr. President, the underdog is not being affected, according to the understanding of the gentleman from Monroe? Will the gentleman state whether or not that is correct?

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, the W.P.A. is under the federal government and is not a state institution.

Mr. HALUSKA. However, Mr President, it is sponsored by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. CROWE. It is sponsored, Mr. President, but according to the Governor, he does not seem to have much to say about it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it seems to me the underdog turned out to be the fellow we can not reach. I imagine if that gentleman could have been reached he would have been reached in this bill. The so-called underdog is the gentleman who gets somewhere around seventy dollars or maybe a hundred and twenty-five dollars a month and he is not reached by this bill.

I have every reason and so has every one here every reason to respect the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion; they have done some very fine work aside from their war service, since then, to help build up spirit and democracy.

However, Mr. President, I would like to say a word in caution. Just look at the effect of this bill. First the federal government allows so-called refugees, who have suddenly become so troublesome, to come here and there is nothing in this bill which stops them from coming here and there is nothing in the bill to stop the subversive activities; secondly, those who reside in Pennsylvania and have employment now, if they are discharged from their jobs, are entitled to relief from the same state and the same government and the same funds from which you propose to preclude them by this bill. You intend and as a result of this bill you destroy their self-respect and you help destroy their respect for the country which invited them here, and permitted them to come here, by making them subjects of public charity, as against the common decent person who is willing, to work, and the gentleman from Monroe says we are aiming at the man who does not have the willingness even to become a citizen he forgets the fact that under this bill he does not even give him an opportunity to become a citizen. He also forgets, Mr. President, the fact that the gentleman who a year ago declared his intention of becoming a citizen, until he becomes a citizen he is not entitled to hold his position and must be discharged. The gentleman forgets the fact that when this bill first came in my objection to it was only that. I said before and I repeat now, I agree with the gentleman from Monroe and everyone else that any man who has been here for a sufficiently long period of time to have had an opportunity to become a citizen and has not taken the trouble or the interest, particularly now, when this is one of the few countries in the world where we can live peacefully and freely, if he does not have enough confidence, having been here long enough, if he does not like this place well enough and does not understand its privileges and values well enough to become a citizen, I am ready to deal with him, but when he has declared his intention, when he is anxious to become a citizen and make his home here, and has done everything possible for him to become a citizen, you say to him, "I am sorry but you are an alien, no matter what your intentions are," and so you are not only driving at the person who is not willing to become a citizen but you are also driving at the person who is willing to become a citizen, and it strikes me that your zeal to hit people who deserve to be hit is carrying you so far that you are hitting them through the bodies of innocent and willing persons who are willing to become citizens.

You can get all worked up about this thing, Mr. Presiden, you can wave the flag and you can talk about the American Legion all you want, and I will agree all the things you say about the flag and the Legion will be true, but you will be forgetting the effects that flow and the acts that flow from the passage of this bill. Because a dietician happens, for instance, to occupy a position in Norristown which she should not have had, if there was a preference the manager of that institution should have given the advantage to a citizen, and because in eighteen instances there are people employed who should not be employed, there should be this bill, which so viciously attacks persons who have shown their appreciation for this country, that they are willing to become citizens, must be fired is logically and economically wrong because when you throw that man out of a job he goes on public assistance.

That, Mr. President, is the reason I will not vote for the bill; I would have voted for the bill if it had a provision—I was not interested in the other words and phrases you put in it—but I feel there should be a provision in the bill that an alien who has not declared his intention of becoming a citizen should not be entitled to a position. You do not have that in there now.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Monroe by the introduction of this bill intend that this shall effect a repeal of the Pierson Act?

Mr. CROWE. No, Mr. President. In fact, I see no connection between the Pierson Act and this bill.

Mr. MUNDY. Well, Mr. President, in my interpretation of the Pierson Act it says those who are able bodied men on relief shall be employed by the municipalities in certain occupations and I was wondering if the Senator from Monroe intended this should be a repeal; in other words, that those municipalities should indefinitely keep those people on relief and should exclude them from employment.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Monroe further?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I understood the gentleman from Monroe to say this bill was actively sponsored by the American Legion.

Mr. CROWE. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. So that I will not be misinterpreted, Mr. President, I talk as a life member of the American Legion, a life member of the Veteran's of Foreign Wars and a life member of the Officers of the World War.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Monroe further, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Has the gentleman from Monroe had an opportunity to scan the casualty lists of the last World War?

Mr. CROWE. I have, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Monroe answer me if in scanning those lists he has not found that ninety per cent of the casualties in the last World War were sons and daughters of recent immigrants to this country.

Mr. CROWE. That is perhaps correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I wish to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe further.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. Yes, Mr. President, I will.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, does the American Legion as constituted take in full scope the veterans of the last World War?

Mr. CROWE. They do, Mr. President. I would like to make a remark in that connection. As far as aliens are concerned, the American Legion has been conducting schools in Americanism and citizenship for years, so it is not the fault of the American Legion if a lot of aliens in this country are not prepared so that they can apply for citizenship and become citizens.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Monroe believe we should deny those rights to alien parents who are trying very hard to get membership in our national government as citizens and at the same time claim from their sons and daughters that they shall go on the battlefield and sacrifice their lives to defend something which we deny participation to their parents.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I would like in reply to that to say I think the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Mundy, is off the track, as we are not denying aliens any rights or privileges in this country, except under this bill to hold public office. That is the intention of the bill.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I think that is the aim of every outstanding citizen who has the best interest of this country at heart, and at the same time is trying to participate in its activities, civic and political, but certainly under an interpretation of this blil they are denied that right.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I just want to say this: as an active member of the Legion I believe the basis of ancient aristocracy in this country is a myth and if we by our act deny to the fellow who arrives now a thing which was not denied to our parents when they came here we are starting on a very false basis.

Let me say further, Mr. President, if it were not for the transfusion into the veins of the American nation, as reported in the casualty lists of the last World War, we would be in a sad condition if we were to call upon the decendents of the Mayflower to defend our country in time of stress.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, as I said the other day I regard this bill as entirely unnecessary. I was rather surprised to hear today that there were sixteen or eighteen aliens in this large state of ours employed on public payrolls. I am surprised that the Democratic leaders or the Republican leaders allow that many aliens to get on the payrolls, but if they did slip in perhaps they were needed and perhaps it is good thing they are there.

You know, Mr. President, I am very happy I am an alumnus of Cornell University. I well recall reading how Ezra Cornell said he would found an institution where any person of any creed or any race could find an education in any subject, and the first president of that great university was Andrew D. White and he started out by getting some of the grandest teachers, the most liberal, broad-minded teachers he could find in Europe and he brought them to the United States and they taught in Cornell University, and it was not long until Harvard and Yale and Princeton began to follow in the footsteps of Cornell University, so that now throughout the United States we have a system of interchanging our lecturers and great teachers with European countries. To me that is one of the best things that ever happened to the universities or the schools of this country.

I am not afraid of new ideas, Mr. President, and I am not afraid of discussion in the open or teaching in the open. That brings us down to what we call the underdog. I can conceive of a situation here maybe not so very far off, where our citizens would be employed in defense industries and where we might have these thousands of foreigners, as you like to call them now, thumping our breasts with patriotism and calling any poor soul who just came over here or whose parents just came over here, a foreigner—I can conceive of a situation whereby we might be very happy to put those thousands out and relieve the citizens on our highways and our sewers and put them to work.

I can remember reading, and perhaps knew some of the ancestors that came over here of Irish descent and built our railroads, and the miners today that are in our mines, perhaps some who are just as loyal and in fact more loyal than a lot of patriots that pound their breasts but who, for some timidity, because perhaps they never left their home but have raised a grand American family and are afraid to go down to the court house and ask for citizenship papers, perhaps have raised boys born in this country that are on the battlefront and out in the battlefields, and, as has been said here a while ago, let us not get too patriotic just now, let us not start bad feelings in the communities, let us not have too many vigilantes around in districts where perhaps the population is of foreign extraction, maybe ninety per cent, to have a few patriots who have American names raise their breasts and beat them and try to belittle and detract from those people who are here, perhaps honest toilers.

I say we are making a great mistake because this bill is unnecessary and it will clutter our hooks with a law that is unnecessary and I do not think it will ever be used.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in all this discussion I trust my colleagues can appreciate the condition of a man in whose veins there runs the blood of immigrant parents. I regard it no disparagement to admit that my parents were both born in Europe. At this time, however, they are not interested in Europe, they are not interested in Africa or Italy or Germany or England or Russia, they are interested in America. My parents have contributed the best part of their lives towards building up their immediate community here in America. They are interested in leaving behind them a better America for their children and their children's children.

Mr. President, like the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, I too am a member of the American Legion, a member of the Veterans' of Foreign Wars, and a member of the Disabled American Veterans. In 1917, my parents had but two male sons that were of military age and they willingly gave both of us to the service of America. Both my brother and myself saw service on the battlefields of France, both of us were severely wounded, but thanks to God, both of us lived to come back to this land. I have buried in the soil of France first cousins who served in the World War; I have buried now in the soil of this land first cousins who served in the World War, but who later died in veterans' hospitals because of infirmities received in the World War.

Mr. President, I am not interested in the welfare of other people at this time, I am interested in the welfare of the American people, I am interested in the welfare of those who not only have declared their intention but who have gone further. I have been told repeatedly during my life that the pathway to hell is strewn with good intentions, and this proposition that all that a non-citizen needs to do is to come here and sign a petition and signify that particular intention does not at all satisfy me that that is a sufficient act on his part to give him the right to demand the right to be an American Citizen.

As far as I am concerned, I disagree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that it is wrong to tell an alien in the agencies of our government, "No, you go out of this agency and seek work!" I do not agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia that it is morally wrong to say to that man, "Get out of this job, there is relief waiting for you." I have positive knowledge that right at this moment there are thousands upon thousands of native born Americans on relief and surely let us not say here that it is any kind of opprobrium that native Americans are on relief. I would rather see the alien on our relief and the American on the job.

Mr. President, the thing with which we are all concerned at this time is to protect our government against foreign isms, the men who can come here, who can disembark at Ellis Island today and tomorrow appear before a naturalization examiner and sign a declaration of intention. How do we know the motives behind that intention? There has been no proof of that. Now then, if we are concerned with those emigrants who have been here for many years, then I think that we are insane. Why wait until a national crisis befalls this nation before becoming agitated along this line? Our public assistance law does not bar an alien from assistance; a foreign born non-citizen may obtain old age assistance if he has resided in this Commonwealth for fourteen years of continuous residence. Aliens are taken care of on relief, they take care of them on W. P. A. if they have their declaration of intention filed. I think that a mighty nation like America is doing well when it permits that much of its bounty to go to non-citizens, but why insist that we must extend that privilege to the extent of permitting them in the very morale of our government, in every governmental agency.

No, Mr. President, I think the crisis which now rests upon this nation requires that we take steps that we probably might not have otherwise taken. I find it no opprobrium upon these aliens that we tell them that we cannot accept their services in these governmental agencies. Why not examine the governmental agencies of Russia, of Germany, of Italy, of England or of these other countries and see how many aliens you find therein? I think we have been very liberal, very humanitarian in this country, when we examine the rostrum of these universities to see how many non-born and non-citizens, English professors and professors of other nations are now teching the youth of America. I hope to God that for the safety of America some day something can be done about that too.

So, Mr. President, I am speaking here as one member of this Senate in whose veins flows the blood of immigrant parents, and I think it my solemn duty at this moment as a disabled veteran of the World War, as a native born American, that I take this course of voting in favor of this bill, because I sincerely believe that the safety of the only land in this world that I love, and have once tendered my life and will tender to it again, this same land to which these immigrant parents of mine were willing to give their two first born, parents that have at this very moment five more sons signed up under this conscription law of the United States, and I know the hearts and minds of my parents, they will gladly give those five sons if need be in defense of this land, and I repeat that they are not interested in aliens today, they are interested in America, and I hope that we can come to that basic ground where we can be interested in Americans first and non-Americans secondly.

Mr. President, I shall give my vote in favor of this bill with my fullest sincerity, knowing that I am doing the very thing that two immigrant parents would require me to do.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I desire just to add a word to what has already been said by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, and the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, and that is that we should not forget these citizens and residents of Pennsylvania who have just recently discovered that they are aliens. When the alien registration act went into effect they expected some three hundred and eighty thousand aliens to register and they discovered there were over four hundred thousand in Pennsylvania. The reason for that was that there were many persons residing in Pennsylvania who had come to this state with immigrant parents as children and whose parents had applied for first papers but had never carried that through to become citizens; therefore their children did not become citizens and these children have grown up thinking they were citizens; they fought, they served in the World War. I have reliable authority that there are about five thousand such persons in Philadelphia County who have been brought up in this country from the time they were children thinking they are citizens, and now find they are not. To put these people in a position where they can not be employed by the state and to put them out of positions they now hold, where they find themselves outlawed through no fault of their own, when they have been here in good faith and have acted in good faith, they thought they were citizens, and now that they are not, I do not think it is fair to those people to not give them a chance to become citizens, and they can not become citizens overnight; they must wait until they go through all the formalties which the federal government requires, which takes in some instances as long as two years, and just to shut these people off without an opportunity seems to me unfair, in view of the fact that in the final analysis not many aliens are going to be knowingly employed in state or municipal institutions.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I was in hope that this bill on third reading would not entail such a prolonged argument. It has been before the members of this body and everyone has had an opportunity to study the bill in various forms and it has now, as it has been said, reverted back to its original form.

Mr. President, it seems to me from remarks made here today by certain Senators that they are going far amiss from the original intent of this bill.

Now, Mr. President, in an endeavor to set the members straight with a sincere, straightforward statement, I say to you it is not the intent of this bill to deprive those who have been invited to our shores from becoming citizens of this great country of ours. The procedure has been set up by the courts and those people are privileged to take advantage of that procedure.

I further wish to state that the American Legion, which, it is true, is sponsoring this measure, has for years fostered and encouraged in practically every municipality within this Commonwealth naturalization classes, and in fact has invited these people to come to these classes in order to prepare themselves to be naturalized, and it is also true that members of not only the American Legion but of every veterans' organization, as well as patriotic organizations, have stood before the courts of our country and sponsored these individuals.

Mr. President, I would like to endeavor to correct the remarks of my good colleague from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, who seems to be somewhat in doubt as to whether or not this bill is sponsored by the American Legion and I will say—not boastfully, because I have said it before on the floor of this Senate—that I speak in authority as far as the American Legion is concerned, on the floor of this Senate.

Mr. President, I wish to incorporate into the record merely because there might be a question of doubt in the minds of these gentlemen, the resolution as adopted, which was submitted by the Henry H. Houston Post of Philadelphia and which reads as follows:

"Whereas, There are many instances in which aliens are on the payrolls of the Commonwealth and the Counties of this Commonwealth; and

"Whereas, Many American citizens are unable to obtain employment within this Commonwealth, often resulting in extreme hardships for them; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, By the American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania, in Twenty-second Annual Convention assembled, this 17th day of August, 1940, that the necessary acts be passed by the next Legislature of the Commonwealth providing that only American citizens be eligible to Commonwealth and County positions in this Commonwealth; and be it further

"Resolved, That the General Assembly, with the approval of the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, be urged to pass the necessary enabling legislation; and be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the President of the Senate, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and that the Department Legislative Committee make it a part of the Legislative program."

Now, gentlemen, this is not a political issue, it is a patriotic issue, it is a protective measure that in these emergencies we as American citizens should endeavor to provide for, and I trust this bill will receive the favorable consideration of the members present, as I believe, as many other citizens in our Commonwealth believe, it is a step in the right direction.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, as I listened to this prolonged debate, I began to be sorry the McGinnis family had ever left Ireland and the Cavalcante family had ever left Italy. The Democratic party is a great party, but some of our Senators on the Democratic side certainly indulge in sob stuff. It is not necessary for Senator Cavalcante to tell us he is a good patriotic American citizen; we all know that What I object to is his going into the details of his family.

I too lost my son in the World War, I lost two nephews in the World War, but it would not occur to me to stand up here and exploit that, as it shows bad taste and takes up our time. I do not say the Republican party is superior to the Democratic party but at least we have more emotional stability; there is too much emotional instability on the other side of that aisle.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe the real man is the man who is allowed certain privileges, enjoys those privileges, and then lets those who come after him enjoy the same privileges. We are acting like a man who might walk into a restaurant and order a meal and who then, when he is through eating, takes the tools and throws them out the window, and breaks the dishes, in order that the next man who comes in might have the food to eat but not the facilities to eat it with.

Mr. President, I do not think it is up to us to deny anybody any of the privileges that were given to those who came here prior to the passage of this act. I do not think it is a patriotic measure in any sense—I do not believe in emotionalism any more than the gentleman from Germantown, Dr. Woodward, but I just want it clearly understood, although I am not a member of the Legion, I do not think the Legion in itself really wants this type of legislation.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—32.

Bartlett,	Crowe,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Becker,	Daly,	Miller,	Tyler,
Carr,	Farrell,	Reed,	Wade,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 125, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except cities of the first and second class), borough, town, township, school district (except school district of the first class), and county institution district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 125

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 125, passed second reading?

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I want to introduce amendments, and I would like to say a word in explanation.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, in the first place Senate Bill

No. 125 will cover cities of the first class, cities of the second class or counties of the second class; it will have in it a provision which covers the opportunity for municipalities who wish to reject this bill to so do. It provides for four payments of ten per cent of delinquent taxes per annum, ten per cent of abated or delinquent taxes per annum with the final payment of the entire balance to be paid in the fifth year. It abates the penalty and interest on all taxes from 1940 back. It requires payment of the 1941 taxes before the provisions of the act become effective.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the title was agreed to.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Sections one to ten inclusive of the bill were severally reconsidered.

The first scetion of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on delinquent county city (except cities of the first and second class) borough town township school district (except school districts of the first class) and county institution district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and forty and all previous years and all penalties and interest imposed on such taxes for the years aforesaid assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as herein after provided unless the authority levying the tax shall notify the county treasurer within thirty days after this act becomes effective that the taxing authority has rejected by a majority vote the provisions of this act

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act ten per centum or more of the delinquent taxes due for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the balance due on such delinquent taxes in payments of ten per centum or more of such delinquent taxes Provided however That the final payment shall be made on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-five And provided That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provide then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payment required to be paid under this act during that year which delinquent payment and said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpaver shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 1, by inserting after the word "on" the following: "unpaid"; amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 2, by inserting after the word "county" the following: "(except counties of the second class)"; amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the parenthesis the following: "poor district (except in counties of the second class)"; amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 5, by inserting after the word "district" the following: "(except in counties of the second class)"; amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 6, by striking out the words "and all" where it appears the second time; amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out the following: all of line 1, and the word "aforesaid' in line 2; amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "delinquent" the following: "county"; amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 13, by inserting after the word "the" where it first appears in said line, the following: "unpaid"; amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 16 to 19, by striking out the following: the word "and" in line 16, and all of lines 17, 18 and 19, and inserting in lieu thereof: "ten per centum or more on or before the first day of November, one thousand nine hundred and forty-two; ten per centum or more on or before the first day of November, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three; ten per centum or more on or before the first day of November, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four; and the unpaid balance; amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 21, by inserting after the word "forty-five" the following: "Provided, That the taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, together with any interest and penalties due thereon, shall be paid on or before the first day of November, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one"; amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 21, by inserting after the word "provided" the following: "further"; amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 23, by inserting after the word "delinquent" the following: "county"; amend Sec. 1, page 3, lines 4, to 11, by striking out the following: "there shall become due and payable for" in line 4, all of lines 5 to 10, both inclusive, and the words "this act If such sum is not so paid then" in line 11; amend Sec. 1, page 3, lines 12 and 13, by striking out the words "less the aggregate of any such additional sums theretofore paid."

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 2 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption may anticipate the payment of such delinquent taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty and previous years at any time on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one by paying the entire amount of such delinquent taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one shall not be required at the time of such payment

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 2, page 3, line 27, by striking out the word "not".

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The third section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes whether or not such taxes have been returned to the commissioner's office for nonpayment or liens therefor have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection of such taxes have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or county institution district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or county institution district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired The taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred except the solicitor's fees where such taxes have been returned for nonpayment or liens therefor have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 3, page 4, line 3, by inserting after the word "office" the following: "or to the treasurer of any city."

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fourth section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied whether separated or not

The fifth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 5 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption shall have the right to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision

The county commissioners of each county shall at the cost of the county cause to be published two times in not more than two newspapers of general circulation throughout the county a notice to the taxpayers giving a synopsis of the terms of this act setting forth the benefits provided by the act and the necessary conditions required by the taxpayers in order to receive the same Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer or owner the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayers or owners a statement of the delinquent taxes owed by him to such municipal subdivision showing the fact amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 342, (House Bill No. 366), as follows:

An Act to add clause seven to subsection (b) and to further amend subsection (c) of section one thousand two of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 905) entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety regulating the use of highways and the operation of vehicles tractors street cars trackless trolley omnibuses bicycles pedestrians and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth providing for the titling including liens encumbrances and legal claims registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof upon payment of prescribed fees prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue the Department of Highways peace officers mayors burgesses magistrates aldermen justices of the peace the courts and the clerks thereof owners of vehicles and garage keepers providing that records are admissible as evidence imposing upon owners counties cities boroughs incorporated towns townships within the Commonwealth liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles imposing penalties imposing certain costs upon counties providing for the disposition of fines forfeitures fees and miscellaneous receipts making an appropriation and providing for refunds" changing the provisions of said act relating to the speed of such vehicles while being operated on highways under the supervision and control of a Turnpike Commission

Section 1 Subsection (b) of section one thousand two of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 905) entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety regulating the use of highways and the operation of vehicles tractors street cars trackless trolley omnibuses bicycles pedestrians and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth providing for the titling including liens encumbrances and legal claims registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof upon payment of prescribed fees prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue the Department of Highways peace officers mayors burgesses magistrates aldermen justices of the peace the courts and the clerks thereof owners of vehicles and garage keepers providing that records are admissible as evidence imposing upon owners counties cities boroughs incorporated towns townships within the Commonwealth liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles imposing penalties imposing certain costs upon counties providing for the disposition of fines forfeitures fees and miscellaneous receipts making an appropriation and providing for refunds" as amended by the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 1135) is hereby amended by adding thereto after clause six a new clause to read as follows

Section 1002 Restrictions as to Speed

* * * *

(b) Subject to the provisions of subsection (a) of this section speeds in excess of the maximum limits hereinafter provided shall be unlawful

* * * *

7 Seventy (70) miles an hour speed limit All vehicles when being operated on highways under the supervision and control of a turnpike commission except those otherwise restricted by this act to lower maximum speeds and except when restricted to lower maximum speeds by such turnpike commission upon the highways under its supervision and control or any zones or sections thereof where official signs erected by such turnpike commission on the highway facing the traffic to be controlled are displayed

Section 2 Subsection (c) of section one thousand two of said act as amended by the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 1135) is hereby further amended to read as follows

* * * *

(c) Subject to the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) of this section it shall be unlawful for the following kinds types and classes of vehicles to be operated at a greater speed than hereinafter provided except when such vehicles are being operated on highways under the supervision and control of a Turnpike Commission in which case subject to speed restrictions by such Turnpike Commission as hereinbefore provided the maximum speed limits shall be twenty miles per hour greater than hereinafter provided

Commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors R class fifty miles per hour

Motor buses and omnibuses forty-five miles per hour

Commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors S T and U classes forty miles per hour

Commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors V and W classes thirty-five miles per hour

All other commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors thirty miles per hour

All combinations of commercial motor vehicles or truck tractors and trailers or semi-trailers thirty miles per hour

Section 3 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I simply want to take about two minutes to speak in favor of our present speed limit of fifty miles an hour.

This bill, as I understand it, jacks it up to seventy miles an hour on the super-highway; is that correct?

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct.

Mr. WOODWARD. Now, Mr. President, if you read the statistics of deaths on the highways from automobile accidents, it looks to me like a very poor time to put the speed limit up to seventy miles an hour. As I understand it, a three lane highway is the most dangerous; the superhighway, I understand is a four lane highway, and not as dangerous as a three lane highway.

Mr. President, this question came up about a year ago, and I think Governor James was brought into it, and at that time it was decided to limit the speed to fifty miles an hour. I want to register my protest against a speed limit of seventy miles, and shall vote against the bill.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, this will cut down the speed limit and not put it up. We are going one hundred miles an hour now.

Mr. WOODWARD. What is the use of saying that? There is no use of having any speed limit at all. There is a speed limit on the highway—I beg your pardon—fifty miles an hour. I asked a highway man and he says that is not true; that fifty miles an hour is the limit. If you are not going to enforce speed limits, why not wipe them off the slate. Do not sit there and say there is no speed limit on the highway.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to,

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

The House met at 12 m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

Heavenly Father, Father of us all, as we are met here, may we not only hear but heed the voice of the Psalmist when he cries unto Thee, "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in His holy place?" The words formulating the answer must needs cause us to search our individual lives, for to us as to him the reply comes in its fullest challenge, "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity; nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing of the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation." Heavenly Father, Cleanse Thou our hearts.

Create within us a hunger and a thirst for the things that please Thee, O God. Cause us to lift up our eyes unto the hills from whence cometh our help. Keep us in the hollow of Thy hand, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

Section 1 Definitions That when used in this act the following words and phrases shall have the meanings respectively ascribed t them by this section unless the context clearly requires a different meaning

"Writ of execution" shall mean any writ of fieri facias venditioni exponas levari facias or any other writ or form of execution for the sale of any dwelling and the land appurtenant thereto or any farm where such dwelling or farm shall be occupied by an owner thereof as his or her residence

"Real property" shall mean any dwelling together with the land appurtenant thereto and any farm occupied by an owner of such dwelling or farm as a residence

Section 2 Every court of common pleas of this Commonwealth shall have authority under the conditions hereinafter set forth to stay any writ of execution from time to time and for such periods as the court in its discretion may deem proper Such stays shall be allowed only upon applica' n of an owner lienholder or any other person in interest and unless the plaintiff consent thereto only upon the applicant's showing to the court such facts as the court may deem sufficient to warrant such relief In granting any such stay or continuance the court may impose such condition as it deems proper as to payment of costs taxes accruing interest repairs advertising and notice of sale insurance and any other pertinent matters

Section 3 In exercising the powers conferred by this act a court shall have the discretion of a chancellor sitting in equity It shall be a sufficient reason for the grant of a stay hereunder that immediate execution sale against the real property would work serious inequity by reason of the economic emergency hereinabove referred to

Section 4 The stay of any execution under this act shall continue the return day of the writ of execution to the first regular return day for such writs which shall occur after a sale held under such writ In the meantime the writ shall remain in full force and effect and sale may be made thereunder without the issuance of an alias or any other writ

Section 5 The powers herein conferred on courts of common pleas shall be in addition to all powers now possessed by such courts to stay and otherwise control writs of execution against real property as herein defined

Section 6 This act shall become effective immediately upon final passage by the Legislature and approval by the Governor and shall continue in force only until the thirty-first day of March one thousand nine hundred and forty-three

Section 7 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are suspended while this act is in effect

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 505, Printer's No. 185, on page 7 of today's calendar, bills on first reading, was recommitted to the Committee on State Government, be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SARGE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

I rise at this time to talk about a vital subject which, in my opinion, has a definite bearing on the course of practical state government.

Since the adoption of the first state constitution in 1790 thousands of state laws have been enacted and recorded in Pennsylvania's statute books.

Because of the changing processes of government, it is obvious that a vast majority of these laws have become obsolete and antiquated.

They have confused and handicapped the interpretation and enforcement of practical legislation and have no value in the proper functioning of government.

It is incompatible with modern progress that Pennsylvania's statutes should be choked by unwieldy, impractical and improvident legislation and it is high time that the members of this House took the initiative in cleaning out the dust-gatherng measures which now impede the work of constructive government.

The paramount question, I believe, is how long the State Legislature will stand for this condition with thousands of bills piling up in every regular session.

I see no worthwhile purpose to be gained by laws which only clutter up our legislative processes and impede the desire of conscientious legislators to develop a streamlined, compact and liberalized schedule of state laws applicable to modern requirements.

With this in mind, I take the privilege of calling your attention to a resolution aimed at abolishing obsolete state laws and establishing a commission to study, survey and consider all outmoded laws.

I specifically request a special committee to study this problem so that it will not be confused with other studies and have its importance overshadowed by lesser issues.

I now respectfully submit the resolution for our consideration.

The SPEAKER. This is not a privileged resolution and will be filed with the Clerk under the Rules.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. SORG offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 2, 1941.

Whereas, Death is tragic and sad enough no matter how it befalls; and

Whereas, It becomes even harder to accept when the victim is someone like the Honorable Harris J. Bixler, a former Johnsonburg resident who was fatally injured at a paper mill on Mar. 29, 1941; and

Whereas, The Honorable Harris J. Bixler has been closely identified with the business of manufacturing and civic progress of Johnsonburg as long as he has resided in Elk County; and

Whereas, The Honorable Harris J. Bixler directed his life to public service as a Jury Commissioner, Sheriff and Treasurer of Elk County, prominent in the affairs of the Republican Party in such county, and a Member of Congress for three terms from the 28th Congressional District including Elk County; and

Whereas, He was also courteous, kind, affable and distinguished in his lifetime by his statesmanship and kinship with his fellow human beings; and

Whereas, His untimely death brings a sense of profound loss not only to his business associates and his community, but to a wide circle of acquanitances of the State of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives notes with sorrow the passing of this distinguished citizen of Elk County and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the members of the bereaved family as a token of the sincere sympathy of the House of Representatives for them in their great loss.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 176:

An Act for the judicial notice of the ordinance of cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships of the first class, and for proof thereof; and to make uniform the law with reference thereto.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes a former member of the House, the gentleman from Allegheny, Honorable Frank J. Zappala.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. SCANLON asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Professional Licensure to meet during the session of the House.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. A bulletin from the office of the Chief Clerk will be placed in post office boxes of the members each legislative day giving the numbers of the bills reported from House Committees. Also the numbers and committee references of bills introduced, and as heretofore, announcements of committee meetings and public hearings.

The Chair reminds the Members that a Thursday session is planned for next and each succeeding week thereafter.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

There will be a Public Hearing before the Committee on Professional Licensure on House Bills Nos. 684, 685 and 707 on Tuesday, April 8, 1941 at 7:30 p. m. in the New House Caucus Room.

The Committee to investigate the Philadelphia gas explosion will resume hearings on Friday, April 4, 1941 at 10 a. m. in Room 483, City Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.

In view of the fact that the usual meeting place of the Democratic First Term Members from Philadelphia has been discovered by some members not entitled to attend, a new meeting place will be fixed and the First Term Members will be notified of same in the usual manner.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. FALKENSTEIN, from the Committee on Professional Licensure, reported as committed, House Bill No. 227, entitled:

An Act to provide for the better protection of life and health of the citizens of this Commonwealth by requiring and regulating the examination, licensure and registration of persons, engaging in the care, preparation and embalming of the bodies of deceased persons, creating a State Board of Embalmers, setting forth its powers and duties; and providing penalties.

Mr. EDWIN F. THOMPSON, from the Committee on Professional Licensure, reported as committed, House Bill No. 405, entitled:

An Act to amend section three of the act, approved the tenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 485), entitled "An act to provide for the better protection of life and health of the citizens of this Commonwealth by requiring and regulating the examination, licensure, and registration of persons, and registration of corporations, engaging in the care, preparation, and disposition of the bodies of deceased persons; and providing penalties," by providing that student apprentices shall receive credit toward their apprenticeship for time spent in military training, not exceeding one year.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. FINESTONE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, April 7, 1941, at 9 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:10 p. m.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

MONDAY, April 7, 1941

The Senate met at 4:30 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

God of all nations and kindreds and tribes on the face of the whole earth, look upon us this day with great compassion for we face tremendous issues the solution of which involves our very peace and national safety.

New conquests by dictators have once more begun. The defense of weaker nations attacked is valiantly being carried on. Neutrality continues to be ruthlessly violated through the modern practice of undeclared warfare. The very foundations of orderly government are seriously shaken and through it all, man seems to have kept his own counsel and depended upon his own wisdom.

But with us may we seek Thy wisdom and counsel, our Father, and follow Thy gracious direction as we are being forced into these vexatious situations through the untoward desires and unbridled ambitions of others.

In the observance of Army Day today throughout our nation may we ever bear in mind that we are training our forces for the defense of democracy and the perpetuation of orderly government.

For the defense both of the government of this Commonwealth as well as the great body politic let us conscientiously labor here today. For Thy name's sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceeding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. EALY, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, state his question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there have been some statements made in connection with my attitude toward the workmen's compensation amendments which are pending in the House, and also a bill that is being considered by the Committee, to permit an appeal to be taken from the rates fixed by the rating bureau, and because I am unable to answer that question fully without going into the matter, I have prepared and desire to make a written statement on that question on personal privilege.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order for the reason that the question stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia is not a matter of personal privilege; it is an ordinary legislative matter for debate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there is nothing on the Calendar today which I can debate on that subject and since that is so it is not a matter of ordinary debate but purely a matter of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the gentleman from Allegheny is not well taken. The Senator from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. For many years prior to 1915, high priced corporation lawyers enjoyed many a "field day" advancing and inventing new defenses to claims for industrial injuries. Negligence, contributory negligence, voluntary assumption of risk, and the fellow-workmen rule were developed and injected to preclude recovery and compensation for the casualties of industry.

Confronted with the burden imposed upon it by the dependency and incapacity resulting from these uncompensated injuries, it was not surprising that the community arose en masse against the continuance of such a system. It was this mass protest which brought about the enactment in most of our states of the laws known as the Workmen's Compensation Acts.

It was not that industry accepted with open arms this departure from the common law method of dealing with these injuries—it required not only the social consciousness of the community but the aggressive and continuous activity on the part of the socially minded people of this Commonwealth to bring about the enactment of this new generally conceded humane legislation.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia is not discussing a question of personal privileg but is apparently discussing the Workmen's Compensation Law.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will confine his remarks to a question of personal privilege.

Even now industry is reluctant to develop the possibilities of this plan. That is evidenced by the fact that up until 1937 Pennsylvania ranked 27th on the list of states in the entire nation in benefits afforded to injured workmen. Industry has continually opposed any enlargement of the benefits under the Act on the ground that it could not bear the increased cost. There has, therefore, been continual conflict between the group that advocates the enlargement of the benefits and those who desire to maintain the status quo.

The Democratic Party has consistently advocated increased benefits and, having a majority in the House of Representatives in 1935, passed an amendment which was introduced by my colleague, Senator Dent, then a member of the House, liberalizing the Workmen's Compensation benefits. This bill was killed in the Republican controlled Senate.

The Democratic Party in 1937, controlling both branches of the Legislature, enacted the same amendments; and, with the passage of these 1937 amendments Pennsylvania rose to 2d in the list of states in benefits afforded to injured workmen.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I think it now becomes clearly apparent from the subject matter being discussed by the gentleman from Philadelphia that it is not a question of personal privilege. I ask that the Chair so rule.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules it is a question of personal privilege. The Senator from Allegheny is entitled to appeal from the decision of the Chair. The Chair is perfectly satisfied to be overruled.

Mr. SHAPIRO. May I proceed, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

The Republican Party, controlling both branches of the Legislature in 1939, repealed the amendments of 1937 and reduced the benefits to such an extent that Pennsylvania now ranks twenty-ninth on the list of states.

The Democratic Party, maintaining its consistent effort to liberalize the Workmen's Compensation Act, has pledged itself to the reenactment of the 1937 amendments and has introduced in the House amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act restoring the benefits of the 1937 Act. With control of the two branches again divided we may look forward to a major battle on this question.

I anticipate that the same arguments which were advanced in all the previous battles will be used again—increased benefits result in increased rates, increased rates will result in increased employer rejections, employer rejections will leave employees without insurance and dependent solely upon the financial responsibility of the employer, which in such cases is usually very bad. Statistics will be produced to prove this fact; and it will be urged that in spite of the apparent advantages to the employee of increased benefits, passage of the act will result to his disadvantage because he will have no insurance protection, particularly in the more hazardous industries. Even labor organizations will be whipped into a frenzy by propaganda using these arguments as a basis, and their forces will be divided.

I concede that after the amendments of 1937 rates did go up and many employers did reject. But conceding the result is not an admission that it is justified, or that it flows from the increased benefits. I propose to show that these alleged consequences of the 1937 Act are not a necessary consequence of the increased benefits provided by the amendments of 1937. On the contrary, I contend that the result springs from a greed for profit by selfish insurance companies and from the failure of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to take the drastic action necessary to end this profiteering at the expense of injured workmen and their families. These are harsh words, you will say. So they are, and I use them deliberately so as to focus attention.

If the compensation bears some fair relation to the extent of the injury, then it follows that the industry should assume the responsibility. As in other cases, industry protects itself by insuring against the loss caused by such injuries and there is no wide-spread complaint in these other cases. Why then the complaint in workmen's compensation cases? You will say that the answer is that the insurance rates are too high because the compensation imposes an unreasonable burden. But, that is going in a circle and evades the question, which, in my opinion, is a simple one, namely, "Why are the rates too high?" In answering that question we will have solved the whole problem.

Even as dyed-in-the-wool a conservative as my friend, the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, recognized that fact. I read what he said in the special session of 1938, and I quote his exact language:

"I have in my hand the record of experience of a coal company in western Pennsylvania for the years 1936 and 1937. This record is typical of other years, as I understand it, and is typical of the experience of other employers. In the year 1936 there was paid to the employee of this company for injuries received, the sum of $861.22 and there was paid for medical and nospital claims the sum of $246.80. This is one of the smaller companies. Now these two items, the payment to employees as compensation and the payment for medical and hospital bills, totals $1,108.02, but this company paid as premiums to the insurance carriers, I think in this case it was the State Fund, the sum of $15,865.54.

"The next year, I understand, the company secured a private corporation as the insurance carrier and during the year 1937 there was paid by this insurance carrier to employees for compensation the sum of $880.70. There was paid for medical and hospital payments the sum of $700.50. The company set up a medical reserve of $159 and a compensation reserve of $1,360.71, or a total of $3,100.91. But during the year the company paid as premiums for this insurance $18,411.44.

"It seems to me that by the beginning of the next session of this legislature the Department of Labor and Industry of this State and the Insurance Department of this State ought to find out why there is such a vast difference between the amount which the employer pays for insurance and the amount which the employees get as compensation. There is something radically wrong here and until we get the reason for this we cannot adequately and efficiently determine our compensation laws."

While the gap between the losses incurred by the insurance carrier and the premiums received are not always as wide as in the isolated cases cited by Mr. Ealy, the conclusion which he reached is nevertheless correct. There is something radically wrong here, and that is the important part of his statement.

A little history is important at this point.

In 1915 several companion bills relating to workmen's compensation were passed by the Legislature. The first, and the Act which created the workmen's compensation system is that of June 2, 1915, P. L. 736. It defined the liability of employers to pay damages for injuries received by an employee in the course of his employment and established an elective schedule of compensation and set up the procedure for the determination of the liability and the compensation.

On the same day the Act of 1915, P. L. 758, created the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation in the Department of Labor and Industry and established the Workmen's Compensation Board to have charge of the Bureau and to administer the provisions of the first act.

On the same day the Act of 1915, P. L. 762, established the State Workmen's Insurance Fund for the insurance of compensation for injuries to employees. By this act the Fund was required to determine the amount of premiums which its subscribers should pay and by the Act of 1915, P. L. 769, passed the same day, all the classifications of risks and the rates were made subject to the approval of the Insurance Commissioner. Neither the State Workmen's Insurance Fund nor any carrier of workmen's compensation liability insurance was permitted to carry insurance at premium rates less than those approved by the Commissioner of Insurance as adequate for the risks.

By the Act of June 2, 1915, P. L. 769, the Insurance Commissioner was given full and complete control of the rates in order to see that they ware adequate for the risks assumed, but by the Act of July 22, 1919, P. L. 1120, while these same rights were retained the Insurance Commissioner was given the right to accept merit rates established by a rating bureau approved by the Commissioner of Insurance as adequately equipped for the uniform and impartial application thereof, and every company (including the State Workmen's Insurance Fund) engaged in the business of insuring against liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act was compelled by the Act of 1919 to file a copy of every policy of insurance with the approved rating bureau.

The Act of May 17, 1921, P. L. 682, provided that

"The classification of risks, underwriting rules, premium rates, and schedule or merit rating plans for insurance . . . under 'The Workmen's Compensation Act . . . ' shall be established by one or more rating bureaus, situate within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, subject to supervision and to examination by the Insurance Commissioner and approved by the Insurance Commissioner as adequately equipped to compile rates on an equitable and impartial basis. Such schedule or merit rating plans shall be applied only by the approved rating bureau or bureaus . . ."

The Act further provides that the Insurance Commissioner

" . . . may withdraw his approval whenever, in his judgment" the premium rate or the merit rating plan "is inadequate or discriminates unfairly between risks of essentially the same hazard."

This Act also provides that

". . . neither the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, nor any insurance corporation . . . shall issue, renew, or carry any policy . . . of insurance against liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act . . . except in accordance with the classifications, underwriting rules, premium rates, and schedules or merit rating, promulgated by the rating bureau aforesaid for the rick insured and approved by the Insurance Commissioner for such insurer."

You will notice that while this gives the Insurance Commissioner the right to disapprove a rate it seems to limit his power to disapproval. It gives him no right to promulgate a rate of his own, because if he does not approve of a rate there is nothing that he can do about it. The insurance companies can stand pat unless the Insurance Commissioner is courageous enough to expose the situation and trust to public opinion to correct it.

The effect of the provisions of the Act of 1921 was to place the absolute control of rate making in an unnamed rating bureau or bureaus. Was this a mere coincidence in view of the fact that the only rating bureau in existence at that time was the Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau which had been organized by the insurance companies within a few months after the passage of the Workmen's Compensation laws of 1915?

Was it mere coincidence that following the passage of the Act of 1921 this Rating Bureau was approved by the Insurance Commissioner as the rating bureau to classify the risks and establish the rates for workmen's compensation insurance?

Was it mere coincidence that since then the Pennsylvania Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau has established and controlled the classification of risks and the rates and the basis upon which insurance against workmen's compensation liability has been sold in Pennsylvania?

Was it mere coincidence that the making of contracts of workmen's compensation insurance by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is controlled absolutely by this Rating Bureau?

Was it mere coincidence that there isn't a single insurance company engaged in the business of insuring against liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act that is permitted to make contracts at lesser rate than that fixed by this Rating Bureau, even though they could do so at rates 30% to 40% cheaper and still make a profit?

Was it mere coincidence that the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company was organized on October 29, 1915—a company controlled by the same gentleman who controls the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association—a gentleman whose political power and influence in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the past thirty years is a matter of common knowledge—a gentleman whose ability to suggest and often control appointments in important governmental departments, including the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, has been frequently demonstrated?

In the light of subsequent events I submit that this was more than mere coincidence. It was a systematic procedure, step by step, in a plan preconceived by private insurance companies, aided and abetted by the strongest political factor in the Commonwealth, to control the destiny of this social reform and at the same time to divert the benefits intended for the casualties of industry.

If you follow closely this history and you are neither a skeptic nor a partisan you will be convinced that when it become obvious that the establishment of a workmen's compensation system in this Commonwealth could not be prevented some of the powerful opponents of this social reform proceeded to take the necessary steps to convert it to their own benefit, for you know now that shortly following the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915—that is on October 29, 1915, the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company was incorporated to insure against liability created under the Workmen's Compensation Act. If you are not naive, you know that this company is controlled by one of the strongest political leaders in the Republican Party.

Also, I have pointed out how the control of the rates became vested in the insurance companies.

If you look at the constitution and by-laws of this rating bureau, you will see how the control of rate classification and rate making became vested in perpetuity in the hands of the private insurance carriers. According to its constitution all workmen's compensation insurance carriers, including the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, are eligible to membership; the business of the bureau is in the control of a committee known as the Governing Committee; that committee is composed of seven members, five of whom are private insurance carriers, one is the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, and the other is the Insurance Commissioner. This committee appoints all other committees, which are also composed of seven members made up in exactly the same manner as the Governing Committee.

I venture to suggest that there isn't a single member of this Senate, including myself, who has seen or known of this picture even though we have been troubled constantly with the subject of workmen's compensation. A few of us may have sensed it, but I am sure that none of us ever dreamed of the existence of this colossal conspiracy. Even those who doubt it cannot deny the figures nor the results; and they are as follows:

Since 1921 the State Workmen's Insurance Fund has been under the heel of the Rating Bureau. It has been compelled to maintain its premium rates at the same level as private insurance carriers even though it could safely adopt a very substantially lower rate for the same risks.

The vice of this lies in the fact that under the law the State Workmen's Insurance Fund cannot refuse to insure any risk—private insurance carriers can select their risks. All carriers, including the State Workmen's Insurance Fund are bound to sell at the rates fixed by the Insurance Companies' Rating Bureau and no lower.

The State Workmen's Insurance Fund theoretically and if properly operated can operate without the excessive charges and expenses of private companies. Mutual companies can operate at a much lower operating cost than the stock companies, but competition between these insurance companies is throttled by the rate making bureau.

The result is that the State Fund finds itself as an insurer of the most hazardous risks at rates established and applicable to the general run of risks. It does not require much imagination or intelligence to picture the inevitable result of the continuance of such a situation on the future of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund and upon the possibilities of profits for the private insurance carriers.

When the rate making bureau establishes rates it first sets up a figure sufficient to provide for the amount of losses that may be incurred under the provisions of the law and based upon investigation and experience. To that figure it adds a sum necessary to cover general administrative expenses. Since the expense factor differs according to the character of the insurance carrier—whether it is a stock or a mutual company—these items, known as the "overload," would normally vary. Does the Rating Bureau take that into consideration and establish rates in accordance with the administration expense experience of each company or class of companies? It does not. The proof of that is in what I have already said. There is one rate for every classification of risk, and it is that rate and that rate only—neither higher nor lower—upon which the insurance company makes its contract. When, as you will see, the difference in administration expenses between these various types of insurance carriers is as great as 25% in some instances of the final rate, you can readily understand how the maintenance of an unnecessarily high rate has been perpetuated in this Commonwealth. In order to allow the stock companies, whose administrative costs are the highest of any group, to earn a profit the rate must be maintained at a higher level than is necessary to permit the other classes of insurance carriers to make a fair profit. The result is that the stock companies with this high rate make a comparatively small profit and the mutuals make a tremendous profit. And, most important to us, the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is being slowly but surely strangled.

According to the report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Finances, headed by the Honorable Philip Sterling, the number of policies of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund outstanding in 1930 was 24,607. By 1932 this number had dropped to 20,179. While the Fund earned a profit in the year 1929 of $295,405, it showed a loss of $41,843.24 in 1931. While the surplus in 1926 was $2,074,494 in 1932 it was $1,368,308. But included in this surplus is an item of $426,255 of unpaid premiums which, according to the Sterling Report, were really uncollectible; so that the surplus in 1932 was actually $941,553.

As far back as 1933 the Sterling Committee warned

"With a gradual seeping away of surplus, lessening premium income and rising administrative costs, the State Fund appears to be approaching a crisis . . ."

With the advent of the Earle administration in 1935 some heed was given to the Sterling Committee Report and particular attention was paid to the State Workmen's Insurance Fund. Solicitors were employed and an active drive was made for business.

Whereas in 1931 the premiums earned amounted to but $3,416,018 the premiums earned in 1938 amounted to $6,398,121. Whereas in 1932 the policyholders in the State Workmen's Insurance Fund numbered 20,179, in 1938 the number had increased to 30,940 and were as high as 34,915 in 1937.

Whereas in 1931 the Fund had suffered a loss of $41,843, in 1938 the State Workmen's Insurance Fund earned an underwriting profit of $1,344,674. Where the surplus in 1932 had dropped to $941,553, the surplus at the end of 1938 was $3,835,501.

With the advent of the James administration the political factors, whose power I have already referred to, returned from their involuntary vacation and their sinister influence is reflected in the figures.

There has been a gradual reduction in profits and in policies in force in these two years, with the result that at the end of 1940 the policyholders numbered 23,392—a loss of over 7,000. The net result of underwriting showed a loss of $159,787. The surplus, which had risen to $4,227,148, is down to $3,757,523, and it is getting worse every day.

Those who still disbelieve should give heed to these figures. With the advent of the James administration the solicitors numbering about 50, who had been employed under the Earle administration, were dropped; and not only did the Fund discontinue the personal contact with its subscribers but it doesn't even use the mail for that purpose. On the few occasions that it did, the private insurance companies by their effective criticism put a stop to that. (See letters in appendix.)

Of course, this change in the policy of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is in line with the Governor's statement that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania must not compete with private business. Obviously the Governor of this Commonwealth has lost sight of the fact that workmen's compensation was never intended to provide an avenue of profit for private business. I cannot believe that the Governor of this great Commonwealth is unable to appreciate the social and economic importance of this humane legislation.

If the administrators of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund continue to follow out the policy of the Governor and the system of workmen's compensation insurance so firmly entrenched in this Commonwealth is permitted to continue much longer, no one can deny that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is doomed.

I am certain that the doubting Thomases will argue that the present condition of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is due not to what I have said, but to the change in benefits provided for workmen under the 1937 amendments. But I point out that it was under the 1939 amendments, not the 1937 amendments, that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund showed an underwriting loss. As a matter of fact the Fund made a profit of $1,344,672 in 1938 in spite of the so called "vicious" 1937 amendments.

Private insurance companies operated under the 1937 amendments. Their experience during the period from 1935 to 1939, inclusive, is proof positive of the position which I have taken. The premiums earned by all of these insurance companies from all business except coal mining during the years 1935 to 1939, inclusive, (5 years) was $107,903,000

Losses incurred during the same period was 58,740,000

The gross profit from underwriting was .. 49,163,000

The 63 companies are divided as follows:

Stock companies (nonparticipating)	43
Stock Companies (participating)	6
Mutual companies	14

And the State Workmen's Insurance Fund

The premiums earned by the several groups of these insurance companies during the same period as compared with their underwriting losses and underwriting expenses from all business except coal mining is:

	Premiums Earned	Losses Incurred	Expenses Incurred
Stock companies-nonparticipating	$38,215,633	$20,365,802	$16,672,019
Stock companies-participating (except Pa. Manfrs. Ass'n. Cas. Insurance Co.	1,955,986	853,847	754,095
Mutual companies ...	24,682,291	13,383,728	5,752,976
Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Co.	25,629,395	13,085,034	3,869,894
State Workmen's Insurance Fund	17,124,138	10,912,409	3,004,760

These are startling figures. Think what they mean.

First. Out of each dollar of premiums collected

The nonparticipating stock companies paid out in benefits to injured workmen only	53.3¢
the participating stock companies (not including the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company	43.6¢
the mutual companies	54.5¢
the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company	51.1¢
and the State Workmen's Insurance Fund	63.7¢

Second. Out of the moneys left there was paid out for underwriting expenses by the

Nonparticipating stock companies	43.6¢ out of 46.7¢
Participating stock companies (not including the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company)	38.5¢ out of 56.4¢
Mutual companies	23.3¢ out of 45.5¢
Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company	15.1¢ out of 48.9¢
State Workmen's Insurance Fund	17.5¢ out of 36.3¢

Third. Out of every dollar of premiums which the insurance companies received to protect and compensate the workmen for injuries, only 50¢ reached the injured employee. The balance was either dissipated in high expenses or high profits.

Fourth. The startling fact about these figures is found in the breakdown of the expenses. Listing the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Asociation Casualty Insurance Company, a participating stock company, separately from the other participating stock companies, we find that out of the moneys left after paying benefits:

The nonparticipating stock companies spent 43.6¢ out of 46.7¢ and had a net underwriting profit of 3.1¢.

The participating stock companies (not including the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company) spent 38.5¢ out of 56.4¢ and had a net underwriting profit of 17.9¢.

The mutual companies spent 23.3¢ out of 45.5¢ and had a net underwriting profit of 22.2¢.

The Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company spent 15.1¢ out of 48.9¢ and had a net underwriting profit of 33.8¢.

The State Workmen's Insurance Fund spent 17.5¢ out of 36.3¢ and had a net underwriting profit of 18.8¢.

Fifth. That notwithstanding these excessive expenses all the private insurance companies earned profits ranging from 3.1¢ to 33.8¢c.

I have pointed out that during the same period the premiums earned by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund dropped from the high of $6,400,000 in 1938 to $3,400,000 in 1939—a difference of $3,000,000.

A breakdown of the figures that I have just discussed for the five years will furnish some further startling information. Not including premiums for coal mining insurance, the following is a statement of the premiums earned, the losses incurred, the underwriting expenses and the underwriting profits of all the private insurance carriers doing business in Pennsylvania, distributed among nonparticipating stock companies, participating stock companies other than the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company, the mutual companies, and a separate statement of the same information relating to the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company. Let me read them to you.

(All figures given do not include coal mining.)

Nonparticipating Stock Companies

	Premiums earned	Losses Incurred	Underwriting Expense	Underwriting Profit
1935	$5,484,940	57.3%	44.3%	1.6%
1936	6,148,097	62.2%	44.1%	6.3%
1937	7,447,297	52.4%	43.1%	4.5%
1938	9,852,449	50.7%	44.7%	4.6%
1939	9,282,850	48.3%	42.2%	9.5%

Participating Stock Companies (not including the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company)

	Premiums earned	Losses Incurred	Underwriting Expenses	Underwriting Profit
1935	$274,592	44.2%	32.4%	23.4%
1936	280,702	49.3%	29.7%	21.0%
1937	246,884	47.5%	42.7%	9.8%
1938	411,891	35.9%	44.8%	19.3%
1939	741,917	44.4%	39.6%	16.0%

Mutual Companies

1935	$2,810,875	56.9%	25.7%	17.4%
1936	3,529,071	60.2%	25.3%	14.5%
1937	5,043,379	60.2%	22.4%	17.4%
1938	6,935,847	51.6%	23.1%	25.3%
1939	6,363,119	47.8%	22.2%	30.0%

Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company

1935	$3,492,414	53.6%	16.1%	30.3%
1936	4,193,451	62.1%	16.6%	21.3%
1937	5,190,260	55.2%	15.3%	29.5%
1938	6,426,645	47.0%	16.3%	36.7%
1939	6,326,625	43.0%	12.2%	44.8%

It should be kept in mind that the actual profit in every case is probably much higher due to earnings of the invested reserve.

You will remember that I have just pointed out that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund lost $3,000,000 in premiums earned from 1938 to 1940. I call your attention to the fact that the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company increased its premiums from $5,190,000 in 1937 to $6,326,000 in 1939.

You will notice in these figures that all of the private carriers increased their business from 1937 to 1939, whereas the State Fund's business decreased.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the address of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, illustrates the trouble we get into with these so-called personal privilege speeches.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I have not finished, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. I beg your pardon.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suppose any constructive suggestion that is made in this Senate will cause a lot of trouble. I am assuming that, but I think this subject I am discussing is of interest to the gentleman from Somerset.

For emphasis I desire to call your attention to the fact that the largest workmen's compensation insurance profiteer doing business in Pennsylvania today is the Pennsylvania Manufacturer's Association Casualty Insurance Company. And I call your attention to the fact that its net underwriting profits range from 30.3% in 1935 to 44.8% in 1939.

I call your attention also to the fact that the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company operates at a lower expense than all other companies, and that its expenses of doing business has decreased from 16.1% in 1935 to 12.2% in 1939.

The next lowest group of companies in operating expenses are the mutual companies with an expense range from 22.2% to 25%; and following them come the other participating stock companies with an expense range from 29.7% to 44.8%; and the highest underwriting expenses are incurred by the nonparticipating stock companies with a range from 42.2% to 44.7%.

The low percentage for expenses of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company must be accounted for by reason of the fact that this Company is closely tied in with the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and that through this tie-in the members of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association are extremely happy to send their business to the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company without the necessity of any paid solicitors. It may be that the mere suggestion of the political factor to whom I have referred is sufficient. In any event, this Company, organized so shortly after the enactment of the Workmen's Compensation laws in the year 1915 took for itself 29½¢ in 1937 and 36.7¢ in 1938 out of every dollar of premiums which, in my opinion, belonged to the injured workmen and their dependents.

I submit further that in the year 1938, notwithstanding the 1937 amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company incurred losses of but 47¢ out of every dollar of premiums earned as against 62¢ in 1936. I call attention to the fact that the profits of this Company in 1938, notwithstanding the so-called "vicious" amendments of 1937, was 36.7% as against 21.3% before the amendments. And, I call attention to the fact that its net underwriting profits in 1939, after the repeal of the 1937 amendments by the James administration, rose to 44.8% out of every dollar received in premiums. And, this does not include the profit which this company earns on the investment of its reserve.

I have not included the coal industry insurance figures of this State for the reason that the amount of insurance business done by all carriers in the State is comparatively small. That is due to the fact that most of the responsible coal operators are self insurers. This industry early in the game protected themselves against the unwarranted expenses and profits with which the private insurance carrier's load their premiums.

I am authoritatively informed that 90% of the coal operators are self insurers, and the figures seem to prove this because in the same period of 1935 to 1939, inclusive, all insurance carriers in Pennsylvania, on coal insurance, earned premiums of only $15,442,926. Losses incurred amounted to $12,200,294; and underwriting expenses amounted to $3,484,487.

In this picture the fact that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is a dumping ground stands out very forcibly. The Fund carried more than half of this insurance. In the five years in question it received premiums of $7,870,023; it incurred losses of $7,116,075; and its underwriting expenses amounted to $1,342,696. It has, therefore, sustained a loss over the five year period of this type of insurance of $588,748.

The Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company carried a small amount of this insurance, but even on this type of insurance it earned a profit. Out of $358,293 in premiums it incurred losses of $267,298 and underwriting expenses of $55,519; and, therefore, made $35,476 in underwriting profit.

Parenthetically I think I should say that the large earnings of carriers insuring workmen's compensation is not peculiar to Pennsylvania. In fact the general figures for the several groups of companies are somewhat similar. I have tabulated and have in my possession the premiums earned, the losses incurred and the profits earned by every company in the nation. At this point I think it will be sufficient if I give the general summary of the national figures, which are as follows:

1938	Stock companies	Mutual companies
Premiums earned	$134,679,743	$74,292,477
Losses incurred	68,330,847	39,369,421
Loss ratio	50.7%	53.0%
Ratio of loss adjustment and investigation expense	9.0%	7.1%
Ratio of acquisition and field supervision expenses	17.6%	5.3%
Ratio of total expense incurred	42.8%	23.1%
Ratio of net gain from underwriting	6.5%	23.9%
1939
Premiums earned	$132,403,839	$75,825,465
Losses incurred	72,300,205	40,964,869
Loss Ratio	54.6%	54.0%
Ratio of loss adjustment and investigation expense	9.2%	7.2%
Ratio of acquisition and field supervision expense	17.7%	5.3%
Ratio of total expense incurred	42.7%	23.7%
Ratio of net gain from underwriting	2.7%	22.3%

Does the gentleman from Somerset still wonder where the trouble lies or will he acknowledge that the picture thus far discloses that these private insurance companies set up a bugaboo called the "destruction of industry," which they trot out whenever an effort is made to alleviate the consequences of industrial casualties in order to protect and continue their profiteering at the expense of the maimed and their dependents?

Mr. President and members of this Senate, I charge the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company with being instrumental in maintaining and fostering upon the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania a high and excessive and an unwarranted premium rate for the purpose of squeezing profits out of human suffering.

I have heard the phrase "playing politics with relief." I should like someone to suggest a phrase which can adequately describe this procedure.

Remember that while this company is participating in the overloading of premiums with an addition of almost 45¢ on the dollar in order to enable some insurance companies to pay high salaries, underwriting commissions, and other excessive administrative expenses, it is enjoying the advantageous position of being controlled by a politically potent figure who has an exclusive first call on over 25% of the total workmen's compensation insurance (not including coal mining) contracts written in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Here are the figures to prove it. Of the total of $107,903,000 in premiums earned by all carriers in Pennsylvania in the five years above referred to, the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company earned $25,629,395 and incurred an underwriting loss of $13,085,041—thus earning a gross profit in the last five years of $12,544,354. Since during that time its expenses amounted to but $3,869,894, it has received (I was going to say "earned") $8,674,460.

I contend that the money did not belong to the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company, and I charge that it has been taken from injured workmen and their dependents.

I charge further that these industrial casualties have been robbed of the moneys which rightfully belong to and was meant for them—robbed by the excessive administrative expenses and profits of these private companies who are in a business in which on any economic or social principle they have no right to be engaged.

And, I charge further that these companies have victimized not only the employees, but the employers as well, for I hesitate to believe that there is a single employer who would object to having this 44¢ of underwriting expenses go to his injured employees rather than to the insurance companies. The employer has the right to assume that his employees, when injured, are being compensated. It was never intended by the Act and no employer ever believed that the insurance company was to become an equal partner in compensation for injuries to workmen. When the workmen's compensation laws were enacted it was the general feeling that the vicious system of lawyers obtaining 50% of the compensation awarded to injured workmen would be destroyed. In the main it has been. But, from the facts here, it is quite obvious that the insurance companies have substituted themselves for the lawyers.

While we have broken down the system we have set up another in its place. Whereas heretofore when an injured workman made a settlement through a lawyer he wondered whether it was he or his lawyer who had been hurt, now that he knows the truth he will begin to wonder whether it was he or the insurance company who received the injuries.

And, on the other hand, the employer, believing that his money was intended for compensation to the workman, has been victimized and overcharged at least 40¢ out of every dollar that he paid for that purpose to insurance carriers.

In addition to being victimized financially, he has been made the "goat" by the insurance companies and, in the belief that he was protecting his own business, he was urged to bring pressure on the Legislature to avoid any increase in the benefits upon the false representation that unless he did rates must be increased.

What I have always thought to be the stubborn reluctance of employers to respond to normal instincts and good business common sense, now appears to be the blind acceptance by the employer of information from persons whose selfish interest prompted the dissemination of misinformation.

While I charge that the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insuance Company is the chief offender and is the pioneer in this whole scheme, none of the other companies is free from blame. They have earned either profits or incurred unnecessary administrative expenses as a charge against this fund, for which there is no logical reason and to which they are not honestly entitled.

I charge further that the perpetuation of this scheme could not have been carried out if it were not for the lack of courage or intelligence, or both, on the part of the Insurance Commissioners of this Commonwealth, from the beginning, and that goes for all of them.

There is no reason why any member of this Senate should have, at this late date, been put to the trouble of spending months of time and energy to unearth these facts—an intelligent, competent and courageous Insurance Commissioner could have and should have disclosed them years ago.

The warnings of the Sterling Committee and the suggestions of many members of the Legislature, particularly the very emphatic and courageous statement of the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, did not even cause so much as a ripple on the surface of the political minds of these Insurance Commissioners; and unless something is done at once and something drastic, these insurance companies will be here soon to tell us of the bankruptcy that awaits industry if we try to alleviate the suffering of injured workmen and their dependents by increasing benefits.

They will not do it themselves but will push the employer to the forefront by warning him previously of the dire consequences that will result from the increased rates. But, they will forget to inform him about the millions of dollars of profits that they have squeezed out of this social program to satisfy their own greed, and will conceal the fact that after the repeal of the 1937 amendments the reduction in rates did not equal the increase following the 1937 Act. And our Insurance Commissioners and our managers of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund will sit idly by twiddling their thumbs, and take their orders and hope for a continuance in power of the administration which appointed them.

We will spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for Departments of Commerce to bring big business into Pennsylvania. We will try to get them reduced taxes, and when they get here we will make sure that they insure their workmen with the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Company and not in the State Fund, so that the greed for profits of a few individuals may be satisfied.

Like Cicero, we should cry, "How long, O Cataline, wilt thou abuse our patience?"

We have been duped by the insurance companies and powerful political forces. How long will we permit this condition to continue? We have the power to correct it. The only question is whether or not we will use it.

Is there anyone within the sound of my voice or who reads this story who can honestly argue in favor of a continuance of this vicious system? For myself, I hope that the members of this Senate will approach the problem on the basis of the facts disclosed; and I cannot see how a single member of this Senate can come to any other conclusion except that the system must be destroyed. It is my own opinion that that is the only way in which, to use the words of the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, "we can adequately and efficiently determine our compensation laws."

The destruction of that system will mean increased benefits to injured workmen and their dependents without the slightest increased burden to industry. "How can this be done?" was the problem that presented itself to me when I reached this conclusion. In this I was convinced that legal precedent and actual experience was the principal guide. For the suggestions which I am about to make I have the support of both.

I have examined the systems in force in every state of the nation, and learned

(1) There is only one state in the Union without workmen's compensation laws, and that is Mississippi.

(2) In 15 states the workmen's compensation law is compulsory.

(3) In 7 states—namely, Ohio, West Virginia, North Dakota, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, and Nevada—the state Fund is the exclusive insurance carrier.

(4) In 11 states the state insurance Fund is in competition with private insurance.

(5) In 6 states self insurance is not permitted.

(6) In 4 states, Washington, Wyoming, North Dabota and Ohio, workmen's compensation is both compulsory and insurance against liability is restricted to the state Fund.

My first recommendation is that the workmen's compensation law in Pennsylvania should be changed from elective to compulsory and that the State Fund shall be made the exclusive insurance carrier.

In legal support of this position I recall to your mind the fact hat when the Workmen's Compensation Act was approved on June 2, 1915, it provided for an elective and not a compulsory system and it was approved before the constitutional amendment of November 2, 1915. Under that amendment, Article III, Sec. 21, adopted as I have said on November 2, 1915, the General Assembly is authorized to enact a compulsory workmen's compensation law. That can no longer be doubted since the decision in the case of Mountain Timber Co. v. Washington, reported in 243 U.S. 219 (in 1917). That case is authority for the propositions, which I submit and suggest should be adopted as the law in this State, that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has the right to make workmen's compensation insurance compulsory and to restrict such insurance exclusively to a State Fund. I quote from the opinion in that case.

"From this recital (said the Court) it will be clear that the fundamental purpose of the act is to abolish private rights of action for damages to employees in the hazardous industries . . . and to substitute a system of compensation to injured workmen and their dependents out of a public fund established and maintained by contributions required to be made by the employers in proportion to the hazard of each class of occupation . ."

"We are clearly of the opinion that a State, in the exercise of its power to pass such legislation as reasonable is deemed to be necessary to promote the health, safety, and general welfare of its people, may regulate the carrying on of industrial occupations that frequently and inevitably produce personal injuries and disability with consequent loss of earning power among the men and women employed, and, occasionally, loss of life of those who have wives and children or other relations dependent upon them for support, and may require that these human losses shall be charged against the industry, either directly, as is done in the case of the act sustained in New York Central R. R. Co. v. White, . . ., or by publicly administering the compensation and distributing the cost among the industries affected by means of a reasonable system of occupation taxes. The act cannot be deemed oppressive to any class of occupation, provided the scale of compensation is reasonable, unless the loss of human life and limb is found in experience to be so great that if charged to the industry it leaves no sufficient margin for reasonable profits. But certainly, if any industry involves so great a human wastage as to leave no fair profit beyond it, the State is at liberty, in the interest of the safety and welfare of its people, to prohibit such an industry altogether.

"In short, it cannot be deemed arbitrary or unreasonable for the State, instead of imposing upon the particular employer entire responsibility for losses occurring in his own plant or work, to impose the burden upon the industry through a system of occupation taxes limited to the actual losses occurring in the respective classes of occupation."

Of the four states which have an exclusive insurance fund and compulsory insurance my conclusion is that the State of Ohio presents the best example and precedent.

In 1911 the Legislature of Ohio created the State Liability Board of Awards and established the Ohio State Workmen's Compensation Insurance Fund. The Fund first became operative March 1, 1912, as a competitive writer of workmen's compensation under an elective law. Effective September 1, 1913, The Industrial Commission of Ohio superseded the State Liability Board of Awards. The Fund became the exclusive carrier of workmen's compensation under a compulsory law, January 1, 1914.

Effective July 1, 1921, the control of the personnel administering The Workmen's Compensation Act was transferred from The Industrial Commission to the Director of Industrial Relations. The Industrial Commission retained and exercised all other functions conferred upon it by Law.

On May 15, 1934, The Industrial Commission was authorized to exercise all functions pertaining to the administration of The Workmen's Compensation Fund.

This Fund has now been in operation for 28 years. The State of Ohio is rated 13th on the list of states in benefits granted. The report for the year 1940 is already published and available to any person interested; and you are bound to come to the conclusion that the State of Ohio treats its workmen's compensation as a social problem. I ask your careful attention and consideration to these figures.

In the 28 years of the existence of this Fund this is what happened. There was collected in premiums $306,158,275. There was paid out in benefits to injured employees $285,511,265. In other words, out of every dollar that the employer paid for compensation insurance the employee received 93¢.

Compare this with the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from the figures I have already given you. Out of $107,000,000 in round figures received for premiums in Pennsylvania only $58,000,000 was paid out to injured employees—that is, out of every dollar of insurance premiums paid the injured workman receives only 58¢.

The State Fund of Ohio has assets of over $64,000,000—$54,000,000 of which is invested in bonds of the Federal government and Ohio taxing districts—and $5,500,000 of which is in cash and certificates of deposit drawing interest.

When I asked the actuary of the Ohio Fund to let me know the percentage of profit of the State Fund, I was very much impressed by his answer and I should like to give it to you:

". . as the Fund is established only to provide for benefit losses, there is no percentage for profit. When a surplus develops in excess of an amount necessary to meet possible contingencies or fluctuations, the rates are reduced so as to prevent the accumulation of a surplus that is more than necessary."

I am afraid that the people of Ohio look upon workmen's compensation as a social venture.

West Virginia too has an exclusive State Fund as the carrier under an elective system of workmen's compensation. It was established in 1913 and since that time it earned $102,660,158 in premiums and has incurred losses of $115,330,977—$86,559,950 of which has been paid out and $28,771,027 of which has been set up in a reserve.

This is, of course, in excess of the premiums earned. But, since there is no question of profits involved, the interest earned on the reserve in that period—aggregating over $17,000,000 is applied to the benefits and reserves. The Fund has assets of over $30,000,000, and investments consist exclusively of Federal government obligations and obligations of political subdivisions of the State.

It seems to me that these experiences of 28 years are conclusive that an exclusive state Fund, properly managed, can be conducted with safety and with justice, affording a maximum of benefits to injured employees at a minimum of cost to the employer.

Second, I propose to abolish the right to self insure. The basic reason for self insurance is that those industries who are self insurers saw no reason for their paying the high cost of administrative salaries and expenses of private insurance companies. If insurance with the State Fund is made exclusive the reason for self insurance disappears. If the State Fund of Ohio can manage its fund at an expense never in its history exceeding 7%, the State of Pennsylvania can do likewise. And the success of the Fund in my opinion depends upon affording it the advantage of diversified risks.

Third, I propose that the Joint State Government Commission shall be immediately authorized by resolution to make a complete and thorough investigation of the operation and management of the State Fund in this Commonwealth together with a comparison of the operations of these Funds in other jurisdictions; and to report and make recommendations to the next Legislature for the enactment of such legislation as will insure a proper, nonpolitical, and safe method of management of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

In order to accomplish these purposes I have prepared and ask unanimous consent at this time to submit the following bills:

(1) An act to amend the title of the Workmen's Compensation Act of June 2, 1915, P. L. 736, making the Act compulsory instead of elective, and amending Sections 204, 301 (a), 302 (a), removing from those sections the elective provisions of the Act; repealing subsection (b) of Section 302, Section 303 and Section 304, which deal with the elective provisions of the Act; amend Section 305, which provides for the insurance in the State Workmen's Insurance Fund or in any insurance company authorized to insure in this Commonwealth, by eliminating from the Act the right to insure in these other insurance companies and restricting insurance to the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; and providing for the continuance in force of all presently existing rights and obligations.

(2) An act to amend the State Workmen's Insurance Law of June 2, 1915, P. L. 762, amending Section 5 to make it conform to the amendments in the first proposed act and eliminating all references to other workmen's compensation insurance companies and the right of the Board to reinsure in other companies; and eliminating the right of the Board to require workmen's compensation insurance for its employees; since they will be covered, like all other employees, there is no necessity for mentioning them specially.

(3) This is an amendment to the Insurance Company Act of May 17, 1921, P. L. 682, by repealing subsection (d) of Article 6, which contains Sections 651, 652, 653, 654, and 655, which deals with insurance companies carrying workmen's compensation insurance, since under the provisions of the first proposed act insurance will be restricted to the State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

When the original text of this statement was written the copies of the correspondence which was the basis for my statement on page 10, hereof, were not available. I have since then obtained them. They appear in the United States Review, an insurance magazine, issue of the week of March 9, 1940. The important portions are as follows:

The first letter was written by Homer W. Teamer, secretary-manager of the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania to state commissioner of labor and industry, Lewis G. Hines:

"Dear Mr. Hines:

"Under date of January 12, 1940, there was sent to employers of labor in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania a letter signed by George E. Gwilliam, Manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, soliciting the placement of workmen's compensation insurance with the State Fund and pointing out one of the several advantages which the Fund enjoys over private insurance companies writing workmen's compensation coverage.

'The letter is as follows:

(COPY)

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Department of Labor and Industry
State Workmen's Insurance Fund

Harrisburg, Pa., January 12, 1940.

Gentlemen:

Do you realize that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is the only company that writes compensation in Pennsylvania that completely discharges you of any further insurance liability under the Compensation Act? This is due to the provisions of the Act of 1915, which created the Fund. Section 20 provides in part:

'Any subscriber to the Fund who shall give due notice of accident—shall be discharged from all liability for the payment of compensation for the personal injury or death of such employee by such accident; and all such compensation due therefore, shall be paid out of the Fund.'

I have in mind the many Insurance Companies that were compelled to go into the hands of the receivers during the past years, and it occurs to me that the conservative employer of labor in Pennsylvania would turn FIRST, LAST, AND ALWAYS, to the State Workmen's Insurance Fund. I know you are such an employer, and for this reason I am taking the liberty of calling this fact to your attention. If you are not insured with the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, do not delay, but contact us a once and assure yourself of the security of one of the strongest insurance companies in Pennsylvania, whose total assets amount to Sixteen Million Dollars, writing compensation insurance only.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) GEORGE E. GWILLIAM,
Manager
STATE WORKMEN'S INSURANCE FUND

"To this letter, and to this and other acts of solicitation of business by the State Fund in compensation with private enterprise, we protest most vigorously.

* * * *

"The State Fund, by the Act which created it (Act of June 2, 1915, P. L. 762) was given certain advantages, not then, nor at any time later, given to private insurance companies writing workmen's compensation insurance."

The letter then enumerates six advantages of the State Fund, which are not important for our purpose. The letter then continues:

"It is respectfully pointed out that these advantages were granted to the State Fund as an off-set, or compensation for, the fact that the Fund should not set out to solicit business in competition with private insurance carriers. Any other interpretation of the fact that such advantages were granted to the Fund can lead but to the conclusion that the State deliberately set out to compete with its own citizens, securing first for itself a decided and unfair advantage.

"A study of the Act creating the State Fund discloses nowhere any language which would indicate that the Fund was to engage in active competition

. . . . . .

"There is no justification in the idea that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should establish an agency, such as the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, and set about building it up into a large company competing with private insurance carriers."

* * * *

"Therefore, we feel that it is entirely out of order and not in keeping with the principles of good government, that the State established, controlled and managed Fund should enter into active competition with private business, and all the more so because our sovereign State places private insurance companies at a disadvantage in such competition.

"The undersigned, acting by authority of the board of directors of The Insurance Federation of Penna., Inc., which represents, with a very few exceptions, all insurance companies writing compensation in our Commonwealth as well as a great number of agents and brokers engaged in insurance underwriting, most respectfully request you to take such action as will terminate this or any other form of solicitation, and so preserve the status of the situation as originally intended by the Act of 1915.

"Respectfully submitted,
HOMER W. TEAMER,
Secretary-Manager."

Commissioner Hines reply follows:

"Dear Mr. Teamer:

"This will further acknowledge your letter of February 15th, in which you refer to the State Workmen's Insurance Fund carrying on a campaign of solicitation among the various companies throughout the State.

"First of all, permit me to say there is no desire on the part of this Department, or the Insurance Fund, to compete with private companies and in line with that policy one of the first acts of my administration was to remove from the payroll all persons designated as solicitors.

"I referred your letter to Mr. George Gwilliam, manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund. He advises me that letters were sent out to policyholders who failed to renew their compensation during the past year. He said that this was done because the loss of this business was coincident with the dismissal of some fifty persons employed with the former administration and that these letters were sent only to those whose policies lapsed after the change of administration occurred and were not sent out promiscuously to employers throughout the State.

"I think that this explanation will answer your letter and that you will agree that we are not attempting to compete with private insurance companies in the matter of workmen's compensation insurance."

In contrast to the $16,000,000 mentioned in Mr. Gwilliams's letter as constituting the assets of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund of Pennsylvania.

The State Insurance Fund of New York had assets of	$63,000,000
The Workmen's Compensation Fund of West Virginia had assets of	$30,000,000
The Ohio State Insurance Fund had assets of	$64,000,000

Mr. President, in addition, I have prepared, rather hurriedly, I admit, bills to cover every suggestion I have made. Some of them will require, after study, some amplification.

If there is no objection I ask unanimous consent at this time to introduce three bills.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. SHAPIRO read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 504, entitled:

An Act to further amend the title and the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736), entitled, as amended "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; and prescribing penalties," by making the schedules of compensation compulsory upon all employers; providing that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall be the sole agency in which the payment of compensation may be insured; providing for the termination of existing workmen's compensation insurance contracts issued by other agencies; eliminating provisions relating to self-insurance; and repealing certain sections and subsections.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 505, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 762), entitled "An act providing for the creation and administration of a State Fund for the insurance of compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto; declaring false oaths by the subscribers to be misdemeanors; and providing penalties for the violation thereof," providing for insurance in said fund of all employers liable to pay workmen's compensation; eliminating provisions relating to insurance corporations or associations, and workmen's Compensation insurance covering officers and employes of the board.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 506, entitled:

An Act to repeal subdivision (d) of article six, containing sections 651, 652, 653, 654 and 655 of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled, "An act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and interinsurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges, including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," eliminating provisions relating to Workmen's Compensation Insurance.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Somerset may proceed.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, when I attempted to speak a short time ago I thought the Senator from Philadelphia had completed his statement. He said he wanted to talk about twenty-five minutes and I thought he had finished.

The difficulty with these personal privilege speeches is that they bring in other matters which go on interminably.

I do not know why the Senator from Philadelphia insisted upon referring to me. The matter about which I spoke took place during the administration of Governor

Earle and at that time the insurance commissioner was Mr. Hunt, who had the veto power on all rates.

I want to say I do not represent in any way insurance companies and I am glad to find out the truth about this matter.

However, Mr. President, the speech of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, does not give me sufficient information. It was very contradictory in many respects and I am always at a loss to know whether he is speaking just for the facts or whether he has something else in mind. During the years which have passed we have observed the gentleman from Philadelphia on many occasions; he has two methods of speaking, one which seeks to address the people of the district in which he stood for election, and at other times he has given us facts and figures which are of advantage, but we become quite confused and the Senator from Philadelphia has been wrong so very often that while I am glad for the information the Senator from Philadelphia has given, Mr. President, I want to scrutinize it very carefully before I make up my mind fully about it.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The gentleman from Montgomery may proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I am extremely anxious that the members of the Senate follow this statement and if I am not audible I hope the gentlemen of the Senate will so advise me. As you may know, my voice is not in the best of condition.

On June 28, 1935, the then Governor of Pennsylvania approved an act which is entitled "The Municipal Authorities Act of 1935,"—Act No. 191 in the Pamphlet Laws for that year. It provided in a general way that the municipal authorities of any municipality of the Commonwealth should have power to adopt an ordinance signifying their intention to organize a municipal authority, and that the ordinance should be published in the legal periodical of the county, and should then be filed in the Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, whereupon the municipal authority came into being.

The new authority had power to act as a corporation "for the purpose of constructing, improving, maintaining and operating bridges, tunnels, streets, highways, parkways, traffic distribution centers, traffic circles, parking spaces, airports and hangars, low-cost housing projects, parks, recreation grounds and facilities, sewers, sewer systems, sewage treatment works, swimming pools, playgrounds, lakes, low head dams, hospitals and subways."

It was provided that no authority could be created after the expiration of two years from the effective date of the act. It had furthermore authority to issue bonds which should mature within thirty years from their respective dates, bear interest not exceeding six percent per annum, to be sold at either public or private sale, as the authority might determine, but they should be liens upon the property of the authority and not general liens of the municipality, that the authority should be governed by a board of five appointed by the municipal authorities who might receive salaries as might be determined by the municipal authorities, and who might be removed for cause by the court of quarter sessions.

There was a further provision whereby the Commonwealth pledged itself not to alter the terms of this act until all the bonds had been fully met or discharged in the event that federal agencies should subscribe funds for these purposes. It was further provided that when the authority had paid all the bonds, together with interest thereon, the property which was the subject of the authority should be transferred to the municipality and the authority should then cease.

Section 15 of this act is particularly interesting and deals with exemption from taxation:

> "The effectuation of the authorized purposes of authorities, created under this act, shall and will be in all respects for the benefit of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the increase of their commerce and prosperity and for the improvement of their health and living conditions, and since such authorities will be performing essential governmental functions in effectuating such purposes, such authorities shall not be required to pay any taxes or assessments upon any property acquired or used by them for such purposes, and the bonds issued by any authority, their transfer, and the income therefrom (including any profits made on the sale thereof), shall at all times be free from taxation within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

This act was amended in 1937. See Act No. 200 approved May 20, 1937, whereby the maturity date of the bond issues was extended to forty years, the two year limitation on the organization of the authority was stricken out, and the list of projects was extended to include buildings to be devoted wholly or partially for public uses and for revenue-producing purposes, transportation, marketing, shopping terminals, motor buses for public use when such motor buses are to be used with any municipality, all of which were declared to be projects.

There was also a provision for the formation of a joint authority by several municipalities.

In the original Act of 1935 it was provided that the Department of Revenue of the Commonwealth should examine the accounts and books of the authority, but this was amended in 1937 to provide that the books should be examined by a controller, auditors, or accountant designated by the municipality.

In 1939 the Act of 1935 was again amended to include in the list of projects sewer systems or parts thereof, water works, and water distribution systems. But there was a proviso that water and water rights may not be acquired unless and until approval is obtained from the Water and Power Resources Board.

Under the Act of 1935 and the supplements thereto, various municipal authorities have been chartered in the State of Pennsylvania. In the early days of this session there was a general desire to ascertain how the authority conferred by this act and its supplements had been used, and whether the results had been beneficial to the people of the Commonwealth. As a result, the Senate adopted a series of resolutions calling upon various public officials to provide it with information relating to these municipal authorities, and I think that most of us were amazed to find that outside of the records of incorporation in the Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, there was no general respository of information at Harrisburg.

These corporations had been chartered for a public purpose, and yet there was no public supervision over their operation. The original act did not even require that the projects should be enumerated in the certificate of incorporation, nor did it require that the amount of the borrowings and the rate of interest paid for the same should be recorded.

Certain of the authorities, however, when they did file their certificates with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, described their projects, and the breadth of their descriptions may be indicated by the following phrases which are selected at random:

City of Pittsburgh Authority—Incorporated January 13, 1937

"constructing, improving, maintaining and operating bridges, tunnels, streets, highways, parkways, traffic distribution centers, traffic circles, parking spaces, airports, hangars, low-cost housing projects, parks, recreation grounds and facilities."

Bethlehem Municipal Water Authority—Incorporated August 24, 1938.

"acquiring new water supply and owning, etc., water works."

Chester Municipal Authority—Incorporated July 6, 1939.

"all projects permitted under Act of 1935, as amended."

Borough of Manheim Authority—Incorporated October 26, 1939.

"acquiring sewers, sewer systems, sewage disposal plants."

Lycoming County Authority—Incorporated March 10, 1939.

"to secure, acquire, hold, construct, improve, maintain, operate either in the capacity of lessor or lessee a building to be devoted partially for public use as the Court House with attendant county offices and partially for revenue-producing purposes."

In some cases the breadth of the description of the purposes is so great that one is reminded of the charter of the corporation organized in England in the days of King George I "for the purpose of extracting diamonds from cucumbers and any other lawful purposes."

On February 24 the Senate adopted a resolution directing the Secretary of the Senate to apply to each of these municipal authorities for information along the following lines:

1. What projects have been undertaken by the municipal authority in question and which of these projects have been finished?

2. What debt has been contracted by the municipal authority, and how many bonds are now outstanding?

3. What is the rate of interest upon the bonds of the municipal authority?

4. Will you please send a copy of your latest annual report or financial statement with the answers to this question?

The original list of municipal authorities as reported to us by the Secretary of the Commonwealth indicated a total of sixty authorities. In addition, the Secretary reported the list of projects of thirty of these authorities as set forth in the application for incorporation, which list of projects was not required by the Act of 1935 but was provided by many of the municipal authorities when they filed the certificate of incorporation.

A resolution of the Senate was therefore forwarded to the sixty authorities for which certificates of incorporation had been filed in the Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and for the last six weeks answers to these inquiries have been received by the Secretary of the Senate. I have examined these answers with great interest, and propose now to give you the results of this examination.

The originals of the answers are deposited with Mr. Holmes and are available for the inspection of any of the Senators. There are thirteen municipal authorities which have not yet replied and concerning these I would suggest that the Secretary of the Senate be authorized to send a second letter repeating our inquiry, and if there is no response to this letter, then it would be appropriate to suggest to the Senate that a committee be appointed with the power to subpoena so as to make sure that the information desired is received. The authorities which have not replied are as follows:

City of Pittsburgh Authority; Incorporated January 13, 1937.
Authority of the Borough of Charleroi, Washington County; Incorporated August 29, 1938.
Borough of Emlenton Sewage Disposal Plant Authority, Venango County; Incorporated September 19, 1938.
New Holland Borough Authority, Lancaster County; Incorporated September 20, 1938.
Authority of the Borough of Elco, Washington County; Incorporated September 27, 1938.
Municipal Authority of the Township of Sandy, Clearfield County; Incorporated September 28, 1938.
Elizabeth Township Authority, Allegheny County; Incorporated February 16, 1940.
Borough of Freeland Municipal Authority, Luzerne County; Incorporated May 23, 1940.
Williamstown Borough Authority, Dauphin County; Incorporated October 28, 1940.
Tower City Borough Authority, Schuylkill County; Incorporated October 30, 1940.
Cass Township Authority, Schuylkill County; Incorporated November 1, 1940.
North Versailles Township Authority, Allegheny County; Incorporated January 6, 1941.
New Brighton Municipal Authority, Beaver County; Incorporated January 28, 1941.

It is probable that in many of these cases the authority has not yet started upon its real work, and it is possible that in some of the cases the general proposition may have been abandoned without any notice given to the state.

Summarizing the forty-seven municipal authorities which have given us formal reports, the general results are as follows:

Nothing has been done in thirteen cases. As a matter of fact, the number in which nothing has been done is really twenty-four cases, but there are eleven authorities which have projects under consideration, whereas thirteen have practically abandoned the idea. Including the eleven which have projects under consideration, there are twenty-two authorities that are endeavoring to improve the water system of their communities, seven that are working upon sewers, sewer systems and sewage disposal works, one which planned to erect an addition to a hospital, one which planned to erect a court house, two which have engaged in housing propositions, and one is managing a real estate operation. Of these forty-seven authorities, twenty-two have contracted debt. One of these has borrowed the money from bank and is reducing the debt from its net operations. Twenty-one have issued bonds or other obligations to a total of $18,739,557. The rate of interest runs from 1½% to 4%, the rate being less in those communities in which my ancestors, the thrifty Pennsylvania German, abound. There is one authority which has borrowed $100 from the local church in order to pay the expense of a preliminary survey. No bonds have been issued for this debt, and it is not included in the above total.

In addition to the municipal authority bonds, reference should be made to the report of the State Board of Housing to the Senate which shows a total of twenty-four housing projects that have been authorized, twelve in cities and twelve in counties, in eleven of which commitments have been made for the borrowing of money to a total of $63,270,000. These housing projects are under a separate Act of Assembly, however, and they are required to report at least to the State Board of Housing.

In examining these reports, it is quite evident to me that when this legislation was passed there was strong hope that these projects would operate with borrowings from the Federal Government, and that this hope has not been realized. The legislation of 1935 contains a specific guarantee to the Federal Government that the terms of the act will not be altered so long as the bonds remain unpaid. This is an illustration of the dependence which was placed upon federal borrowing.

To my mind, there are certain economic conclusions which are suggested very strongly as a result of this study.

1. It was improper legislation to create a new series of semi-public corporations, entrust them with public powers, and then not provide for the supervision of their operations. I feel sure that every one of my colleagues agrees with me in this statement, and therefore I will not elaborate thereon.

2. It is quite clear to me that it is wrong fiscally to provide for the exemption from local and state taxation of all of the property of the authority. It issues bonds but it pays no corporate loans tax thereon. It buys realty but it pays no local realty tax thereon. It holds assets but upon these assets there is no tax whatever.

As an illustration of the extent to which this practice may be carried, I refer to the Hazleton City Authority which owns a five story building containing approximately 250,000 square foot floor space, and rents a portion of the building to the City of Hazleton, and the remainder to various manufacturing industries. There is a bond issue of $200,000, and since the property is free from taxation, it is retiring a portion of the bond issue each year. This practically means that by the exemption of this property from local tax, other taxpayers in the same community have a heavier burden, and consequently they are providing the fund from which the bonds are being retired.

I do not think that there is any justification for the tax exemption of one kind of property in this state as compared with others, and I have serious doubts as to whether the Act of Assembly which gives this exemption is constitutional, and I am certain that whether constitutional or not, the exemption should be repealed.

During this session considerable time and much earnest thought has been given to the question of the authorities and their future. I am not willing to condemn the entire system, although I censure the Act of 1935 as so carelessly drawn as to constitute a menace to the state.

The Public Utilities Commission advises me that there are 456 private utilities furnishing water supply service in Pennsylvania, and that there are 232 municipally owned plants. In the period from 1932 to 1941 public authorities acquired 44 private water plants, and most of these were acquired in the usual course of business under the general laws of the Commonwealth. It would have been much better to have allowed the system to continue which was developing properly rather than to hasten the day of results by the establishment of a new and untried fiscal method.

Similarly, there are 170 municipalities, embracing three-fifths of the population of the state, which own and operate sewage facilities. Here again there has been a normal development which, if allowed to continue, would have probably brought about definite results under the Pennsylvania method of providing for the payment of new facilities as they are acquired and used. In 1935, however, there was a desire to hasten the ordinary operations of municipal life, and there was also the feeling that the Federal Government would finance municipal experiments if they could be legally authorized. As a result, we were led into an experiment which has done some good but has also disrupted in some communities the morale of public administration.

I recognize one definite good for the authorities which would make me reluctant to see these Acts of Assembly repealed. The act provided a method whereby several municipal districts could combine for sewage and water purposes, and as a result, several local districts have made such a combination, and by working out a joint solution on equitable lines, it has probably secured for these communities a higher grade of municipal service in water and sewage than could have been secured without the authority act.

The question now arises as to what should be done for the future. There are many bills pending on this subject in both Houses. Later on in the session I hope that our colleague, Senator Walker of Allegheny, will address the Senate on the changes in legislation which this and other studies have suggested.

There is a moral to this inquiry. The Municipal Authority was the product of an era which believed that it was possible to obtain a result without paying the price, and it also believed that it was advantageous to a community to impose heavy taxes in order to redistribute wealth. I recall a debate which I had with Hon. Frances Perkins in December, 1932, on "Economy in Government," in which Miss Perkins stated as her philosophy in administration that there always would be waste and extravagance in government, that waste was paid by taxes, that taxes took money from the rich, and distributed it to the poor, and this was the justification for waste and inefficiency in government. In her public life, this lady has illustrated her convictions, with the additional result, that class-hatred and division have been planted among our people, at a time when we need social unity to a greater degree than ever before. There is no easy road to comfort, and those who promise a community that it will obtain comforts and luxuries, and even necessities without expending the wholesome effort and sacrifice which are fundamental in the American Way of Life, must expect waste, extravagance and even graft as a result.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 244, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the fifteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 159), entitled "An act authorizing controllers of the several cities of this Commonwealth to appoint, probate clerks," by providing for the appointment of additional probate clerks.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have listened with a great deal of interest to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, regarding compensation insurance companies in Pennsylvania and I have also listened with a great deal of interest to the discussion of the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds.

To compensate them in some way, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time, which takes up the burdensome problem of electing one less congressman from Philadelphia, if enacted into law, and to say to the gentleman from Montgomery that there is a bill in the House now that would combine Montgomery County with the County of Bucks and therefore relieve them of some of their responsibilities.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT.? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WADE read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 507, entitled:

An Act to apportion the State into congressional districts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Congressional Apportionment.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I deem it a privilege on behalf of the State Council for the Blind to present the following bill.

Mr. MALLERY read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 508, entitled:

An Act to amend section two thousand three hundred twenty of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers Colleges abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," by authorizing the State Council for the Blind to furnish certain aids and services to needy blind persons for persons with impaired vision for the purpose of restoring or improving their vision, and authorizing the State Council for the Blind to accept and expend Federal moneys in furtherance of such purpose.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 509, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the State Council for the Blind for use in supplying medical treatment, surgical operations, eyeglasses or other necessary aids or services to needy blind persons or persons with impaired vision.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. FARRELL (by request), read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 510, entitled:

An Act to amend sections 504A, 607 and 608A of the act, approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 565), entitled, "An act relating to the powers and duties of the Department of Banking and the Secretary of Banking in exercising supervision over, and taking possession of and conducting or liquidating the business and property of, corporations, associations, and persons receiving deposits or otherwise transacting a banking business, corporations acting as fiduciaries, and building and loan associations; providing for the payment of the expenses of the Department of Banking by supervised corporations, associations, or persons, and appropriating the Banking Department Fund; authorizing the Department of Banking, under certain circumstances, to examine corporations, associations, or persons affiliated, or having business transactions with supervised corporations, associations or persons; authorizing appeals to the Supreme Court, and prescribing and limiting the powers and duties of certain other courts and their prothonotaries, registers of wills, recorders of deeds, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain local public officers and State departments to collect fees for services rendered under this act; providing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts," by providing for the taking of possession of the business and property of building and loan associations and savings and loan associations the shares of which are insured in the State Building and Loan Insurance Fund.

Which was committed to the Committet on Banking.

He also (by request), read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 511, entitled:

An Act to further amend section 402 of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled, "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," exempting the affairs of the State Building and Loan Insurance Board from audit by the Auditor General.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also (by request), read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 512, entitled:

An Act providing for the creation and for the administration by a State Building and Loan Insurance Board created in this act, of a state fund for the insurance of shares in building and loan associations and savings and loan associations; and prescribing penalties.

Which was committd to the Committee on Banking.

Mr. EDMONDS read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 513, entitled:

An Act creating a commission to be known as the Pennsylvania Board of Tax Appeals; defining in part the powers and duties of such commission; abolishing the Board of Finance and Revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, terminating the terms of the members thereof, and transferring to the Pennsylvania Board of Tax Appeals the records, employes, property, and equipment of the Board of Finance and Revenue; authorizing the Pennsylvania Board of Tax Appeals to appear in and complete all pending proceedings, instituted before, by or against the Board of Finance and Revenue; providing that all devisions, orders, and rules and regulations of the latter board shall remain effective until repealed, changed or modified by the Pennsylvania Board of Tax Appeals, and transferring and appropriating to the Pennsylvania Board of Tax Appeals any unexpended balance of any existing appropriation to the Board of Finance and Revenue.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 514, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (b) of section eight hundred one of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State Government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay licenses fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," further prescribing the time within which the Department of Revenue shall make settlements of taxes and bonus due the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. CROWE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 515, entitled:

An Act to amend article nine of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1333) entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests, creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by requiring an additional affidavit by candidates for nomination for any office.

Which was committed to the Committee on Elections.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 516, entitled:

An Act establishing certain public roads and streets in the borough of Mauch Chunk and county of Carbon, as a State highway, and providing for their construction and maintenance by the Department of Highways, subject to certain terms and conditions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. CAVALCANTE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 517, entitled:

An Act to establish as a State highway, a certain section of public road in the County of Fayette, and providing for construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. MILLER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 518, entitled:

An Act to further amend the first paragraph of subsection (a) of section one thousand two hundred five of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," prescribing additional causes for termination of a contract of a professional employee.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. THOMAS read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 520, entitled:

An Act to establish as a State highway a certain section of public road in the county of Crawford, and providing for its construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have for presentation to the Senate several bills and I wish to make a short statement concerning one of these bills.

This is a very important bill, I would think, and I would like to have my colleagues give it due consideration. It provides that the youths of our land who reside within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and who are inducted into service of the United States Navy or Army shall be compensated to the amount of $42 per month, including however, the amount paid by the federal government.

Many of these lads are leaving home and, if called upon, will be willing to make the supreme sacrifice and the least we can possibly do is to encourage them to the extent where we shall compensate them for their services.

Under the present act, as we all know, for the first four months of military service the compensation amounts to $21 per month; after serving four months it goes up to $30 per month. In any case the compensation under my bill shall not exceed $42 per month.

Mr. HALUSKA read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 521, entitled:

An Act providing for the payment of compensation by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to residents entering the military and naval services of the United States.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 522, entitled:

An Act to amend the title and further amend the act, approved the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 242), entitled "An act to promote the public health and safety by providing for examination and registration of those who desire to engage in the occupation of beauty culture; defining beauty culture, and regulating beauty culture shops, schools, students, apprentices, teachers, managers and operators; conferring powers and duties upon the Department of Public Instruction; providing for appeals to certain courts by applicants and licensees; and providing penalties," by conferring all powers and duties of the Department of Public Instruction upon the Board of Examiners for Beauty Culture Registrations; eliminating apprentices, and setting-up classification of junior operators; further regulating operators, junior operators and beauty parlors; setting-up new period for expiration of certificates issued by boards; and imposing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 523, entitled:

An Act to further amend section two hundred two and to add section four hundred eighteen and one-tenth to the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers Colleges; abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," by creating a new administrative board in the Department of Public Instruction to be known as the Board of Examiners for Beauty Culture Registrations and conferring powers and duties on such board.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. CARR read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 524, entitled:

An Act validating settlements between counties of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes and county tax collectors, and authorizing settlement of the duplicates of county tax collectors by the county commissioners.

Which was committed to the Committee on County Government,

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 525, entitled:

An Act in the interest of public and social welfare or social service and to provide uniform law and defining the procedure and powers, thereto relating as to county probation officers, parole officers, social service officers and court investigators, and to define and to increase the powers and prerogatives and promote efficiency by providing aid and assistance to the several and various courts of this Commonwealth, such as, Quarter Sessions, Oyer and Terminer, Common Pleas, County, Municipal, Juvenile, or Orphans' Court; before, after, during or in the trial, sentence, releasing on probation or parole of any convict or person charged with, or convicted of any criminal offense, and proceedings in desertion and non-support, adoptions, habeas corpus or any hearing or other matter whatsoever coming before any such court of which said court or President Judge thereof shall or may have jurisdiction; authorizing and providing for appointment and securing the services of probation officers, social service officers, court investigators, clerks, stenographers, physicians, psychiatrists and other assistants; defining their duties, and authority; providing for the payment of the compensation, costs, salaries, and such general expenses as may be incurred under or in conjunction with the provisions of this act.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. JAMES read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 526, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 1172), entitled "An act establishing certain streets in boroughs and incorporated towns as State highways; and providing for their construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth," establishing an additional route in the boroughs of South Langhorne, Langhorne Manor and Langehorne, Bucks County.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. STEVENSON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 527, entitled;

An Act requiring all Boards of School Directors to purchase and distribute to all the public schools within their respective school districts, patriotic books and pamphlets; requiring oath of allegiance to the government of the United States to be taken in each school year by teachers of said schools; requiring teachers of said schools to teach patriotism, and providing for the dismissal of teachers who fail ao comply with the provisions of this act; imposing certain duties on the Department of Public Instruction; and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. HOMSHER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 528, entitled;

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to aid certain school districts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Messrs. MALLERY and STEVENSON read in their place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 529, entitled;

An Act relating to taxation in counties of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth classes; designating the subjects, property and person subject to and exempt from taxation for all local purposes; creating a board for the assessment and revision of taxes; defining the powers and duties of such boards; providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of persons, property and subjects of taxation for county, borough, town, township, school and institution district purposes; regulating the office of ward, borough, town and township assessors; authorizing the appointment of a chief assessor, assistants and other employes; providing for their compensation payable by such counties; eliminating the triennial assessment; and abolishing the distinction between seated and unseated lands for the purpose of taxation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Municipal Government.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. T. B. WILSON offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 7, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, April 14, 1941, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, April 14, 1941, at 9:00 o'clock p. m.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTIONS

RESOLUTION URGING APPOINTMENT OF A JOINT EXECUTIVE AND LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE OF PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. BECKER offered the following resolution which was twice read.

In the Senate, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, Differences of opinion frequently arise between departments, boards and agencies of the Commonwealth and departments, boards and agencies of the Federal Government relating to the joint actions or projects of State and Federal agencies and the cost or the division of the cost thereof and the interpretation of the law providing therefor; and

Whereas, These differences often arise during interims between Legislative Sessions, and the General Assembly as well as the executive branch of the government should participate in the settlement and adjustment thereof; and

Whereas, No joint agency of the Executive and Legislative branches of the State Government now exists that could act for and in behalf of the Commonwealth in attempting to settle such differences, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a joint Executive and Legislative Committee consisting of two persons to be appointed by the Governor, two members of the Senate to be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate, and two members of the House to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, is hereby created to meet, when considered necessary by the Governor of the Commonwealth, with representatives or officers of any federal department, board or agency with which any controversy or dispute exists relative to any joint action or project entered or to be entered into by the Federal Government and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in an effort to come to any agreement necessary to carry out such action or project.

That the members of said committee shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for necessary traveling and hotel expenses actually incurred in the performance of duties imposed hereby; and

That an item of five thousand dollars shall be inserted in the General Appropriation Bill to provide for the payment of such expenses.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Becker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lebanon permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BECKER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Lebanon state whether or not this has anything to do with the dispute between the Department of Labor and Industry and the Federal government?

Mr. BECKER. I would answer the gentleman from Philadelphia by saying the resolution speaks for itself.

Mr. SHAPIRO. It did not speak loud enough, Mr. President, and I thought the gentleman from Lebanon might explain it.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I have a light voice but the clerk has read the resolution loudly and I think it speaks for itself.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am asking the gentleman from Lebanon whether he will put his interpretation upon his own resolution; would the gentleman from Lebanon interpret his own resolution to carry into effect the question I asked?

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I think I answered the gentleman from Philadelphia. I might state I think the inquiry of the gentleman from Philadelphia is quite proper but I believe it might be more appropriate to ask the question when the resolution is brought up for action.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, am I supposed to vote on the resolution without understanding its intent?

Mr. BECKER. I did not ask unanimous consent, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. But, Mr. President, sooner or later we will be obliged to vote on it. I accept the gentleman's refusal to answer the question.

Mr. BECKER. I have not refused to answer the question, Mr. President. I have answered the question.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

RESOLUTION DIRECTING JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSIONS STUDY OPERATION OF WORKMEN'S INSURANCE FUND

Mr. SHAPIRO offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, Many states have provided that their State Workmen's Insurance Funds should be the exclusive agency in which employers can insure workmen's compensation risks; and

Whereas, It appears that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund of this Commonwealth, in operation since 1915, may become the sole agency for such risks in this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Changes in the conduct of the operation of said fund, may become necessary by reason thereof, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be, and is hereby directed to make a thorough and comprehensive study of the operation of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, comparing such operation with that of exclusive state funds in other jurisdictions, and to make a report thereof, with recommendations relating to the operation of an exclusive state fund in this Commonwealth, to the next session of the Legislature.

Resolution is referred to the Workmen's Compensation.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING GOVERNOR TO DESIGNATE 15TH OF DECEMBER AS "BILL OF RIGHTS DAY"

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CAVALCANTE, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, December 15, 1941, will be the 150th Anniversary of the ratification of the "Bill of Rights": 1791-1941, and

Whereas, The "Bill of Rights," that expression of American genius which guarantees our fundamental freedoms of speech, press and worship, is an Immortal Monument of Human Liberties which serves as a "Guiding Light" to the peoples of all Democratic Nations, and

Whereas, The "Bill of Rights," on its 150th Anniversary should be duly honored by some outward manifestation of our gratitude and deference, and

Whereas, A national homage paid to this most important document in American History may well serve as an opportune reminder to all Americans that they are indeed fortunate to live under our democratic form of government, and how important it is for them to do their utmost to preserve our "Bill of Rights" and protect its principles from being ravaged or distorted.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania designating for observance this year, the fifteenth day of December, as the "Bill of Rights Day."

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I object.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, it appears there is some confusion between my resolution and a resolution introduced before this time in this Senate. I am willing to withdraw my request for immediate consideration of the resolution but I want those who are objecting to my resolution to read closely the resolution which has been passed; it is merely a resolution memorializing Congress to do certain things. This is a resolution that applies specifically to the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, introduced a resolution providing for this same matter, which has been referred to the Committee on Education.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion the present resolution should be referred to the same committee as the previous resolution.

The resolution is referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

MOTION TO READ BILLS THE FIRST TIME

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

CONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 285

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Senate Bill No. 285, on second reading, page 6 of the Calendar.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 285, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on unpaid delinquent city taxes in cities of the first and second class on unpaid delinqrent school taxes in school districts of the first class, and on unpaid delinquent poll, poor district, institution district and county taxes in counties of the second class prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on unpaid delinquent city taxes in cities of the first and second class on unpaid delinquent school taxes in school districts of the first class and on unpaid delinquent poll poor district institution district and county taxes in counties of the second class for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and all previous years assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax unless such authority rejects the provisions of this act within thirty (30) days after the effective date hereof if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act at least twenty per centum of the unpaid delinquent taxes due for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and each year thereafter a payment shall be made in such an amount that on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-two at least forty per centum of such taxes shall have been paid and that on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three at least sixty per centum of such taxes shall have been paid and that on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-four at least eighty per centum of such taxes shall have been paid and that on or before November first one thousand nine hundred and forty-five the final payment of the entire balance due on such taxes shall have been paid Provided however That if at any such installment period a person desires to pay either more or less than twenty per centum of the said unpaid delinquent taxes he shall be required subject to the above limitations to pay all said taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for any one or more years or any balance unpaid and owing for such year or years at the time of such payment And provided further That the taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one together with any interest and penalty due thereon shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one And provided further That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purpose of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interests in addition to the other payment required to be paid under this act during that year which delinquent payment and said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 9, by striking out the word "at" and inserting in lieu thereof "during"; Amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 10, by striking out the word "person" and inserting in lieu thereof "taxpayer or owner."

The House met at 9 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

Our Father and Our God, we thank thee for the leadings of thy providence, even though at times we become frightened and dismayed. Give us grace to walk gladly as thou dost lead us from day to day. Establish us in truth and strengthen us in courage that we may never fail thee, or those who love us.

In this hour of uncertainty we beseech Thee to bless the President of the United States and all those in authority with him. Be with the Governor of our Commonwealth and those with him who assist in the administration of the affairs of State. Bless the Speaker of this House and his co-laborers; the Chief Clerk, and his assistants. We ask Thee to look with favor upon all who contribute a part in making the conduct of this legislative body, efficient and effective.

Grant wisdom and understanding, patience and sacrificial love to the members of this House of Representatives, thus assuring our nation and our State the certainty of its way as we put our trust in Thee, Our God.

Hear our prayer, we beseech Thee. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Wednesday, April 2, 1941.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Wednesday, April 2, 1941, when, on motion of Mr. POLEN, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. STINE. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 67.

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, The public schools in America are a vital force in preserving and carrying on our democratic traditions and whereas all American children are entitled to equal educational opportunities, and

Whereas, The burden of maintaining high standards in school programs is becoming increasingly difficult for some of our states and municipalities to bear since they do not all have equal resources for supporting an adequate educational system, and

Whereas, Several of our states and municipalities are in a precarious financial position resulting in stringent retrenchment and even in the closing of schools thus causing a local problem so serious as to have become a matter of national concern, and

Whereas, A federal aid bill to grant funds to States and territories would promote the general welfare by providing more effective programs of public education, and

Whereas, A federal aid bill would give grants to states on the basis of the index of educational load and financial ability for Adult Education, Rural Library Services, Cooperative Educational Research and Demonstrations, and for the improvement of Public Elementary and Secondary Schools by improving Teacher Preparation, Construction of School Buildings, and Administration of State Departments of Education, now

Therefore Be It Resolved, That the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact legislation granting federal aid to education, and

Be It Also Resolved, That one copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the following:

The President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt

Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, President of the U. S. Senate

Speaker Sam Rayburn, House of Representatives

Senator Joseph Guffey

Senator James P. Davis

All members of the House delegation from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. BENTZEL. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 68.

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, The education and welfare of the children of the state are fundamental to the future of Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, Pennsylvania has recognized this in the past by enacting a system of compulsory education and by enacting laws for the regulation of employment of minors, and

Whereas, In the World War, Pennsylvania witnessed a great increase in child delinquency, accompanied by a tendency to disregard the compulsory school attendance laws and the child labor laws, and

Whereas, In the present emergency there is a danger that these conditions may arise again, a situation which all enlightened citizens desire earnestly to avoid, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania call upon all local school boards to be vigilant in the enforcement of the compulsory attendance laws, and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania call upon the Department of Labor and Industry, by enlarging the appropriate divisions if necessary, to enforce strictly the child labor laws of this state.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. SARGE. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 69.

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, There are many laws and parts of laws on the statute books of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that are obsolete, unnecessary and unworkable for the proper functioning of the state government; and

Whereas, The presence of such laws upon the statute books creates confusion and possible disregard of laws which should be followed and enforced; and

Whereas, In the furtherance of good government and proper regard for our government, it is required that all unnecessary and obsolete statutes should be repealed: now therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concurs), that a committee of three members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, three Senators to be appointed by the President Pro Tem of the Senate and three persons to be appointed by the Governor, is hereby created, whose duty it shall be to survey, investigate and consider all the statutes of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and seek out such Acts or parts of Acts which are obsolete and inconsistent and unnecessary to the proper functioning of this Commonwealth and report its findings and conclusions to the next regular session of the General Assembly, with bills to repeal such obsolete, inconsistent and unnecessary laws to be introduced at the next regular session of the General Assembly.

The said committee shall organize immediately after its appointment and elect a chairman and a secretary from its membership and appoint any clerks, stenographers or other employes necessary to carry out the purpose of this resolution.

The members of the commission shall receive no compensation but shall be reimbursed for any necessary traveling and living expenses actually incurred in the performance of the duties hereby imposed.

An item of ten thousand dollars shall be inserted in the general appropriation bill for the purpose of paying such expenses and the salaries of such clerks, stenographers or other employes, appointed by the committee.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH.

RESOLUTION No. 70.

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, In the administration of old age assistance by the Department of Public Assistance many needy citizens are discriminated against or deprived of assistance for various technical reasons such as necessity to depend on contributions from relatives who may have difficulty in supporting themselves on an American standard of living or because of the ownership of small amounts of property or insurance or the like; and

Whereas, The purpose and object of old age assistance was humanitarian to provide funds for the needy aged to live their own lives separately without being a burden on relatives or become public charges in a county home an institution now being maintained only for those who need institutional care; and

Whereas, It is believed generally by the public that investigators employed at comfortable salaries are unduly technical in trying to ferret out reasons for the rejection of applications for old age assistance, and for the discontinuance of aid to those who may have been receiving the same, and that as the result thereof many worthy aged are placed in dire distress; and

Whereas, It is believed the rules and regulations of the Department of Public Assistance are more stringent than required by law and more stringent than required by the Social Security Board in order to receive Federal grants-in-aid for old age assistance; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby requests the Department of Public Assistance to administer the Old Age Assistance Law in a spirit of equity and justice, and to grant assistance to all the needy aged in order that they may enjoy such comforts as it is the governmental duty of the state assisted by the Federal Government to provide for those who are unable to help themselves economically, and to so modify its rules and regulations as to be no more stringent than required by the Social Security Board in order to receive Federal grants-in-aid.

Referred to the Committee on Welfare.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, this particular bill we have before us at this time deals with rules and regulations made by the departments and boards and commissions in the state of Pennsylvania. I realize that we possibly will not get an opportunity to talk upon this bill at a later date during this session. That is the reason I ask tonight to speak upon it.

I have received in the past weeks numerous letters from the old people in the state of Pennsylvania asking me to do something for the people of the state in regard to the rules and regulations made by the departments that are inconsistent with the laws of Pennsylvania. You gentlemen will recall that at the special session of the Legislature I pleaded with you to do something about the rules and regulations made by the departments and boards in the state. I am again appealing to you to-night to do something for the people of Pennsylvania and to do something in behalf of the form of government we have, because I feel unless there is some curb, some action by the legislature on the rules and regulations made by the boards and departments in the state of Pennsylvania, eventually we will destroy the form of government which we now have. For that reason I am asking you to give this matter particular consideration at this session of the legislature because I know and I feel that every Member of this legislature feels in his heart that there should be something done in regard to the rules and regulations made by the boards and departments of the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, I would like at this time to interrogate my good friend, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, if he will permit me to do so.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, if he feels in his long experience as a Member of the legislature that there is need for some legislation in regard to curbing the rules and regulations of the boards and commissions in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. TURNER, I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, that is all the interrogation I have. I wanted Mr. Turner to answer that question because I feel he is a Member of the Legislature who has served many years and is one who I know is interested in the people of the state. I feel that we as Members of the Legislature should do something at this session of the Legislature in order to protect the people of the state of Pennsylvania. I realize that there are many departments and many boards in this state that do not need this type of legislation because the rules and regulations with which they deal affect people of the state who have money to go to court, and they are taken to court when the rule and regulation is inconsistent with the law. My friends, the people I am interested in mostly in this particular piece of legislation is our old people of the state of Pennsylvania who are living on public assistance and those who are living on old age assistance. I might say to you that these rules and regulations are most unfair and unjust and are not within the law which this Legislature passed. For that reason I am pleading with you to-night to do something about these people in order that they may be able to have their cases heard without the necessity of going to court, especially at this particular time when they haven't got the money to do so.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority floor leader, the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from Monroe Mr. Achterman, if he feels that there is need for this type of legislation.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do.

Mr. LOVETT. That is all Mr. Speaker. I have proven to the House, I think, that both sides of this House agree, and especially the attorneys of this House agree, that there is need for this type of legislation. I do not say that this particular bill of mine is perfect. I am willing to have this bill amended and I am willing to go along with any Member of this House in order to do something in the interest of the people of this state. I might say to you that at the last session of the legislature, when I introduced a similar bill, I received a letter from the Bar Association of the state of Pennsylvania, telling me that they felt there should be some such type of legislation, but at that particular time they were opposed to my particular bill.

I feel that the Bar Association or any other association that is interested in and feels the need for protecting our form of government at least year after year should do something about it. If I do not have the right bill, if my bill is not the cure, there is assuredly something that we can do in order to curb the boards and commissions in the state of Pennsylvania from making rules and regulations that are inconsistent with the law.

I say to you that the Department of Public Assistance is one of the greatest offenders in this type of rule and regulation; they continually make rules and regulations which are inconsistent with the law that you men passed, and when you go back home to your people, as I told you before, they cannot understand why you as Members of the legislature cannot do something about it.

So, my friends for the last time I appeal to you to do something in behalf of this type of legislation. I am about to make a motion to recommit this bill to the Committee on State Government, with the hope that this House will do something in this matter.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on State Government for the purpose of further study and amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not arise to oppose this motion because I believe that there is a necessity for study. I answered that question very easily because this afternoon I attended a wedding and I had that answer "I do" in my mind at the moment I was asked the question by the gentleman from Westmoreland, as to whether or not I believe there should be some legislation of this type.

I think this is one of the difficult problems that a democracy has to face. It is necessary to operate the government and in that connection it is necessary that we have bureaus and departments. The Legislature passes laws that define or determine what rules or regulations may be set up. There is no question about it, but that the Legislature must be eternally vigilant to see that in the making of rules and regulations the departments do not legislate and exceed the powers which the Legislature gives them. For months, yes, for years, in Washington they have been studying this problem, endeavoring to find some way to curtail the excessive number of rules and regulations that have been made by departments. In fact, literally thousands of feet of book shelves are taken up by the rules and regulations which the departments have made. It is almost impossible for the average citizen to be able to keep up with all the rules and regulations of the departments. Therefore, while we must give the powers to the departments to make rules and regulations in order for the government to function properly, yet on the other hand we should have some legislation by which we can appraise those rules and regulations.

The Joint State Government Commission undertook that job during the last two years in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Bar Association. It is my fond hope that before this session is ended we will have a report from that committee. While it does not make an attack entirely on the question of rules and regulations it does at least attack the question of the administrative procedure and practice before our different boards and commissions, and I feel we should during this particular session endeavor to make some semblance of order out of the practice or procedure before our boards and commissions, and by doing so we will have started along the line which the gentleman from Westmoreland has indicated in this bill and in the things which he says.

In the 1939 session of the Legislature I remember that the gentleman from Westmoreland had a somewhat similar bill and he consulted me in the matter. I encouraged him to go ahead because I thought it should be brought home to the Members of this House and some thought should be given to this entire question, which is one of the most important question facing our people today—the excessive number of rules and regulations from the various departments and boards. The power of the departments, boards and commissions to make rules and regulations can break down the whole democratic system of government, but on the other hand we must have these boards and commissions in order to make our government function properly. I trust if this bill is sent back to the committee that the Joint State Government Commission will give some thought to it and we will continue to think seriously about this, one of the most prominent, one of the most important and one of the most vital questions before our people.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 803, entitled:

An Act to amend section six hundred and forty-three of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. ferring certain powers and imposing certain duties on the Department of Labor and Industry, and providing penalties, and repealing existing laws.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HIRSCH. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Labor for the purpose of further study.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 854, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections three hundred four and four hundred eleven of the act, approved the twenty-ninth day of November, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 15, 1933-34), entitled as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the sale, manufacture, possession, transportation, importation, traffic in, and use of alcohol, and alcoholic and malt or brewed beverages; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and its agents, the Department of Public Instruction, other officers of the State government, courts, and district attorneys; authorizing the establishment and operation of State stores for the sale of such beverages not for consumption on the premises, and the granting of licenses, subject to local option, to sell such beverages for consumption on and off the premises; forbidding importation or bringing of such beverages into the State except as herein provided; prohibiting certain sales or practices in, connection with, and transactions in such beverages by licensees and others; providing for the forfeiture of certain property; making disposition of the receipts from State stores and of fees; and imposing penalties." further regulating the hours of when sales may be made at Pennsylvania Liquor Stores, and permitting hotel and restaurant licensees to sell by the bottle at certain times, for consumption off the premises regulating such sales and imposing penalties

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 304), page 3, lines 12 to 21, both inclusive, by striking out all of said lines.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scanlon.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCANLON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia who sponsored these amendments to please explain what changes they make in the bill.

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, they make this change, they do not set up any number of hours, any limited number of hours. They just strike that out. That permits the sale of liquor at the option of the State Stores.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, do I understand then that the amendments leave it up to the Liquor Control Board to determine what hours the stores can be open, is that correct?

Mr. SCANLON. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended?

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 1 of title, by striking out the words "sections three hundred four and" and inserting in lieu thereof: "section."

Amend title, page 2, lines 8 to 10 of title on page 2, by striking out the following: 'further regulating the hours of" in line 8, all of line 9, and the words "Stores and" in line 10.

The amendments were agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 579, entitled:

An Act relating to acknowledgments of written instruments and to make uniform the law with relation thereto

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, on his return from his vacation in the South, and congratulates him on his wonderful tan.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 383, as follows:

An Act to further amend section one thousand five hundred three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" providing that school districts of the fourth class may employ at their own expense a medical inspector

Section 1 Section one thousand five hundred three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by the act approved the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2560) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1503 In every school district of the fourth class in this Commonwealth the State Department of Health shall provide in such manner as it may determine medical inspection for all the pupils in the public schools by proper medical inspectors to be appointed by the State [Commissioner] Secretary of Health at the expense of said department [In the event that such department because of lack of funds is unable to provide adequate medical inspection at its expense the] The school district may at its own expense provide such medical inspection or additional medical inspection and each school district shall in any event provide at least one medical inspector at its own expense who shall perform such duties as the school board shall prescribe and shall be paid such compensation as the school board may determine not however to exceed eight hundred dollars ($800) for any one year All such medical inspectors shall be legally qualified physicians who have had not less than two years experience in the practice of their profession Such medical inspection shall be made in the presence of the parent or guardian of the pupil when so requested by parent or guardian

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REAGAN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is of course permissive but at the same time it is generous, almost excessively so. In my county the state performs medical inspection at a cost of three hundred dollars, and this medical inspection has always been effective and satisfactory. Under the provisions of this amendment any district in my county, no matter how small, could spend eight hundred dollars, if they so desired. It seems to me this will enable our much distressed school districts to further distress themselves.

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, all this bill does by this amendment is to set a maximum sum they may pay. In other words, they may pay any where from one dollar to eight hundred dollars. It takes us back to the old story of home rule, and being a firm believer in home rule, I felt it would be logical to extend that power to the fourth class school districts.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 550, as follows:

An Act to repeal the act approved the twenty-eighth day of March one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (Pamphlet Laws 9) entitled "An act relative to the employment of females in hotels taverns saloons and eating houses or other places for the sale of intoxicating and other drinks and the penalty for the violation thereof"

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The act approved the twenty-eighth day of March one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (P. L. 9) entitled "An act relative to the employment of females in hotels taverns saloons and eating houses or other places for the sale of intoxicating and other drinks and the penalty for the violation thereof" is hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, in connection with House Bill 550, I wish to call to the attention of the Members House Bill 1088 introduced by Mr. Samuel Rose. House Bill 1088 deals with bar maids and prohibits their employment throughout the state of Pennsylvania. The term "bar maids" as contained in the bill is used synonymously with the word "bar tenders" as now known and accepted in Pennsylvania. In other words, House Bill 1088 is in effect a companion bill to House Bill 550, and with the passage of both bills we would have a complete prohibition in Pennsylvania of the employment of bar maids. It would not prohibit women from acting as waitresses in the serving of food and liquors in restaurants and hotels throughout the state of Pennsylvania but it would prohibit their employment as bar tenders.

I might say, in connection with House Bill 1088, that there are two exceptions to that employment if we can call it employment. One exception is of course, where the licensee is a woman and the other exception is where it is the wife of the licensee. It is with that understanding and upon that condition that I am supporting House Bill 550.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, in consideration of what the majority floor leader has said that House bill 1088 is a companion measure to House Bill 550, it seems to me to be unwise for this House, and unfair to ask the individual Members of the House to vote on House Bill 550 without having before us House Bill No. 1088. House Bill 1088 has just been introduced, is now in committee and has not yet been reported to the floor of the House. It seems to me the fair thing to the members of the House and to the public generally would be to withhold action on House Bill 550 until House Bill 1088 is before us.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill 550 be placed on the postponed calendar, with the hope that it will be left there until House Bill 1088 is before the House for final passage.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, in rising to oppose this motion I do so for this reason: as Chairman of the Liquor Control Committee I had a conversation with the representative of the Anti-Saloon League in relation to this bill, No. 550. I might also add that it was the opinion of the Liquor Control Board in connection with our subcommittee's action on this particular board, that they felt this particular act of 1878 should be repealed.

I honestly feel, Mr. Speaker, and I made an agreement that should this other bill be introduced we of the Liquor Control Committee would give it every consideration, but there is no earthly reason for further postponement of this particular bill because since 1933 we have been under the present Liquor Control Act permitting waitresses in legitimate hotels and restaurants to dispense liquor, not as barmaids but as waitresses.

Mr. Speaker, I oppose this motion to hold this bill on the calendar.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to the repealing of this bill in favor of some other bill which has not been considered and brought out on the floor of this House.

This bill proposes to repeal the Act of 1878 which outlawed in Pennsylvania, what are sometimes called bawdy house barrooms.

Let us examine the bill. First it forbids liquor vendors employing women to sell or deliver any kind of intoxicating beverages. Would you repeal that law? Second. It forbids liquor vendors employing women for the purpose of enticing customers or making assignations for improper relations. Would you repeal that law?

I oppose this bill because it means taking jobs from men and giving them to girls who must serve in environments that induce immoral relations. I oppose permitting girls to peddle liquor in barrooms, reception rooms and bedrooms of hotels, clubs or any other place where men and women can communicate in secret. The effect of this bill is to remove the barriers that keep road houses from becoming places of assignation for girls to have carnal relations with men. Restaurants can be imposed upon as convenient places for trapping girls to be seduced into commercial shame. What will hinder scarlet women, under the guise of employes, using hotels as bootleg markets for their trade.

Pass this bill and you challenge the womanhood of every working girl in this state. There is no necessity for this bill. The liquor vendor still has the same rights which he has enjoyed ever since the passage of this law, sixty-three years ago. It has always been lawful for liquor vendors to employ women in respectable service. If the liquor vendor chooses not to employ men to peddle liquor into every nook and corner of his place, the law provides that he can use his wife and daughter for that purpose. It is very evident that he has sufficient freedom to conduct his business without the repeal of this law.

This bill is an unwarranted piece of legislation and should not pass finally.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. FOOR, SARGE and McCLESTER asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. FLEMING. Filed the following reasons for his vote:

1. If this Bill is not passed the livelihood of 30000 waitresses will be jeopardized.

2. The majority floor-leader has indicated that House Bill No. 1088 will be favorably reported to the House, which bill will abolish the employment of women behind bars.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Filed the following reason for his vote:

I will not vote to cause the girl waitresses in our good hotels and restaurants to lose their jobs. This bill should have been amended instead of repealed.

Mr. KRISE. Filed the following reason for his vote:

I vote "no" as bills now pending will give necessary relief for females to serve in restaurants and not permit the bar maid and hostess.

Mr. RHEA. Filed the following reasons for his vote:

My reason for voting "aye" on Bill 550 is that I do not consider the employment of women as waitresses in bars and tap-rooms either as an evil per se or within the contemplation of the Act of 1878.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 226, as follows:

An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2803) entitled "An act providing a method of annexation of townships of the first class and parts thereof to cities and boroughs and regulating the proceedings pertaining thereto" providing for the annexation of townships of the first class or parts thereof to other townships of the first class

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The title of and the entire act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2803) entitled "An act providing a method of annexation of townships of the first class and parts thereof to cities and boroughs and regulating the proceedings pertaining thereto" are hereby reenacted and amended to read as follows

Providing a method of annexation of townships of the first class and parts thereof to cities [and] (except cities of the first class) boroughs or other townships of the first class and regulating the proceedings pertaining thereto

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever electors equal to at least ten per centum of the highest vote cast for any office in any township of the first class contiguous to a city [or] other than a city of the first class borough or other township of the first class at the last preceding general election or whenever ten per centum of the qualified electors residing within any part of a township of the first class contiguous to [a] such city [or] borough or other township of the first class shall petition the council of such city or borough or the commissioners of such township for the annexation of the township of the first class or part thereof to [the] such contiguous city [or] borough or other township of the first class and for a referendum on the question of such annexation the council or commissioners shall cause a question to be submitted at the primary election occurring at least sixty days thereafter by certifying a resolution duly adopted to the county commissioners of the county or counties in which any part of the annexing city [or] borough or [the] township of the first class or the township all or part of which is to be annexed is located for submission of such question on the ballot or on voting machines at such election both in [such] township all or part of which is to be annexed and in [the] such city [or] borough or other township of the first class to which annexation is desired in the manner provided by the election laws of this Commonwealth Such question shall be in the following form

Do you favor the annexation of the township of ..... x(or the part of the township briefly described) to the city (or borough) (or township) of .....?	Yes
	No

If a majority of the persons voting on such question in the entire township all or part of which is to be annexed and a majority of the persons voting on such question in [the] such city [or] borough or annexing township shall vote "yes" then the township of the first class or part thereof as the case may be shall on the first Monday of January next following be and become a part of [the] such city [or] borough or annexing township

All petitions shall be accompanied by a plot or plots of the territory to be annexed showing all streets and highways municipal improvements and public buildings and all petitions for the annexation of a part of a township of the first class shall include a description of the part of the township sought to be annexed

Section 2 Until changed in the manner provided by law the annexed township of the first class or part thereof if not divided into wards shall constitute a separate new ward of [the] such enlarged city or of the enlarged borough if such borough is at the time divided into wards or of the enlarged annexing township if such township is at the time divided into wards and if the annexed township or part of a township at the time of the annexation was divided into wards then each ward of the annexed township or part of a township shall constitute a separate new ward of [the] such enlarged city or borough (if divided into wards) or annexing township (if divided into wards) and shall be numbered by the council of the annexing township consecutively beginning with the next highest number after the existing highest numbered ward of the annexing city [or] borough or township Until changed in the manner provided by law all election districts in the annexed township of the first class or part thereof shall remain as constituted at the time of the annexation and shall become election districts of [the] such enlarged city [or] borough or annexing township All election and other officers of such election districts in office at the time of the taking effect of the annexation shall continue in office until the expiration of their respective terms unless sooner removed as provided by law

Section 3 In the case of the annexation of an entire township of the first class all the indebtedness of the township as well as the indebtedness of [the] such city [or] borough or other township of the first class to which the same is annexed shall be paid by the city [or] borough or annexing township as enlarged by such annexation and all territory included within the limits of the same shall be liable for the payment of the floating and bonded indebtedness and the interest thereon of all the territory included within such enlarged city [or] borough or annexing township All taxes thereafter levied therefor shall be uniform throughout the territorial limits of [the] such enlarged city [or] borough or annexing township

All of the public property owned by any such annexed township shall become and remain the public property of [the] such city [or] borough of township to which it is annexed

Section 4 Where any part of any township of the first class is annexed to any such city [or] borough or other township of the first class the township officers of that part of the township not annexed and the annexing city or borough council or the annexing township commissioners shall make a just and proper adjustment and apportionment of all public property owned by the township part of which is being annexed at the time of annexation both real and personal including funds as well as of indebtedness if any to and between the township part of which is being annexed and the annexing city [or] borough or township In making such adjustment and apportionment of the property and indebtedness the township and the annexing city [or] borough or other township shall be entitled respectively to share in a division of the property and indebtedness in the proportion that the assessed valuation of the land remaining in the township bears to the assessed valuation of the land annexed The adjustment and apportionment as made shall be reduced to writing in proper form and duly executed and acknowledged by the proper officials and filed in the office of the clerk of the court of quarter sessions in the county in which said annexing city borough or township is located

Section 5 In case the council of the annexing city [or] borough or township and the authorities of the township [authorities] part of which is being annexed cannot make such amicable apportionment and adjustment of their property and indebtedness in compliance with this act within six months after any such annexation then the council or any officer of the township part of which is being annexed may present a petition to the court of quarter sessions of the county in which the annexed city [or] borough or other township is located whereupon the court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners residents and taxpayers of the county not residing in the annexing city [or] borough or township nor in the township part of which is being annexed who after hearing notice of which shall be given to the annexed city [or] borough or township and to the township [interested] part of which is being annexed as the court shall direct shall make report to the court making an apportionment and adjustment of all the property as well as indebtedness if any to and between the annexing city [or] borough or township and the township part of which is being annexed said report to state the amount if any that shall be due and payable from the annexing city [or] borough or township to the township part of which is being annexed or from [the] such township to the annexing city [or] borough or township as well as the amount of indebtedness if any that shall be assumed by the annexing city [or] borough or township or by the township part of which is being annexed or both of them

Section 6 The commissioners shall give the annexing city [or] borough or township and the township part of which is being annexed at least five days' notice of the filing of their report and unless exceptions are filed thereto by the annexing city [or] borough or township or by the township part of which is being annexed within thirty days after filing thereof the same shall be confirmed by the court absolutely and any sum awarded by said report to the annexing city [or] borough or township or to the township part of which is being annexed shall be a legal and valid claim in its favor against the annexing city [or] borough or township or township part of which is being annexed charged therewith and the amount of debt if any apportioned to any such city or borough or township shall be a legal and valid claim against such city or borough or township charged therewith and any property real or personal given and adjudged to the annexing city [or] borough or township or the township part of which is being annexed shall become and be the property of [the] such city or borough or the township to whichever one the same is given and adjudged and upon such report being confirmed such claim or indebtedness charged against any annexing city [or] borough or township or against any township part of which is being annexed may be collected in the same manner as a judgment is collected against any city or borough or township Such commissioners shall be allowed five dollars per day for each day actually spent by them in the performance of their duties together with their actual necessary expenses All costs and expenses of such proceedings shall be apportioned by the court to and between the annexing city [or] borough or township and the township part of which is being annexed as it shall deem proper

In case exceptions are filed to the report of such commissioners the court shall dispose of the same taking testimony therein if deemed advisable and the decision of the court thereon shall be final and binding on the several cities boroughs and townships unless an appeal is taken within thirty days to the Superior or Supreme Court as in other cases

Section 7 In cases in which such cities boroughs or townships of the first class are situated in two or more counties the court of quarter sessions of the county in which the annexing city [or] borough or township is located shall have exclusive jurisdiction over the matter but the same shall be heard by a judge not a resident of either of the judicial districts affected who shall be called to preside specially in the matter and in such case the court shall appoint the commissioners hereinbefore provided for from both or all of such counties

Section 8 When an election is held on the question of annexation under the provisions of this act and the township of the first class proposed to be annexed or in which the territory proposed to be annexed is located votes against such annexation the question of such annexation shall not again be voted upon for a period of two years from the date of such election

Section 9 All proceedings for the annexation of a township of the first class or a part thereof to any such city [or] borough or other township of the first class under the provisions of any existing law that are pending and not finally disposed of on the effective date of this act shall [in the discretion of the courts before which they are pending or if not pending in any court upon petition of any city borough or township affected to the court of quarter sessions of the county in which the township is located] be discontinued and vacated and all proceedings for the annexation of any township of the first class or part thereof to any such city or borough or other township of the first class shall thereafter be had only under the provisions of this act

Section 10 The following acts and parts of acts and their amendments are hereby repealed so far as they relate to the annexation of a township of the first class or a part thereof to a city other than a city of the first class or a borough or other township of the first class

The act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand nine hundred and three (P. L. 332) entitled "An act for the annexation of any city borough township or part of a township to a contiguous city and providing for the indebtedness of the same"

The act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 473) entitled "An act authorizing the annexation to cities of the second class of portions of townships not exceeding one hundred acres in area and totally surrounded by said cities and providing for the division of the assets and liabilities of said townships"

Article four of the act approved the fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 519) entitled "An act concerning boroughs and revising amending and consolidating the law relating to boroughs"

Article five of the act approved the twenty-third day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 932) entitled "An act relating to cities of the third class and amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto"

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent with or supplied by this act are hereby repealed

Section 11 The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any of the provisions shall be held to be unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included therein.

Section 12 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

Section 2 The act approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L 430) entitled "An act providing a method of annexation of parts of townships of the first class in counties of the second class not in excess of twenty per centum of the assessed value of any such township in counties of the second class to contiguous cities of the second class boroughs or other contiguous townships of the first class and regulating the proceedings pertaining thereto" is hereby repealed absolutely

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill the gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Goodwin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOODWIN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask whether this bill would permit the city of Philadelphia to annex townships in the counties of Delaware, Montgomery and Bucks.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, as this bill has been amended, I would say that first class cities are excluded.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes back to the fold the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Jones, after an absence of several weeks due to an operation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do appreciate very sincerely the consideration you have shown me during my absence. I want to extend my heartiest thanks to each and every one of you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in the heat of debate in this House, sometimes are made, from time to time, statements which are misinterpreted, sometimes deliberately, and sometimes unintentionally by the press and others. I have in reference a statement made by me in the heat of the argument last Tuesday, April 1st, on a bill to increase the weights of trucks.

I stated in debate that the bill was not reported out by the House Motor Vehicle Committee until after a $25,000.00 words spread was held in Harrisburg. Of course, in the heat of a debate, sometimes figures are exaggerated, but I do want to convey to this House that this amount mentioned, was not mentioned in a way that anyone would infer that money was actually passed out among Members of this House.

I spoke about a banquet that is held by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and has always been held in the four sessions that I have attended this House. But it seems that some of the papers have written up the statement to insinuate that some of the Members of this House have secured actual cash.

I did not in any way attack the integrity or the honesty of any Member of this House, whether he be Republican or Democrat, and I want to clear up this impression that has been given to the public.

We may differ on bills and legislation, but I have faith that the Members of this House have that difference based on their own convictions, and are not influenced by any banquet that may be given.

I am convinced that no Member of this House was given any cash consideration or anything else of value for the purpose of influencing their vote on this legislation, and I am surprised that anyone would have construed my statements to so mean.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Messrs. NORMAN WOOD, TROUT and ROYER, offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1941.

The Members of the House of Representatives have learned with a profound sense of sorrow of the passing of Oliver E. Martin on Friday, April 4.

Mr. Martin was well known and beloved by all the Members of the House of Representatives because of his service as Reading Clerk in the Assembly for a period of twenty years.

During the time he officiated, his voice would spread throughout recesses of the Chamber so that all Members in their seats and in the hall of the House would, in spite of all the buzz and activity going on in the House, have their attention called to the important matters before the House for their consideration.

During his mature life Oliver E. Martin was active in politics and served for many years as County Committeeman in Providence Township, Lancaster County and was extremely active in the affairs of the Republican Party, in the county.

During his entire life he was active in the church activities of his community and often would assist the Members of the House in their determination on matters in which the church was interested.

At the time of his death he was teaching in the schoolroom of New Providence and he died in the line of duty.

His lifetime stands as a symbol to those who, engaged in the political arena because of his devotion to his community, his county and his State, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House send a copy of this resolution to the family of the deceased as a token of the sincere heartfelt sympathy of the Members of the House of Representatives, to them in their great bereavement.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, for some considerable time in the past the Secretary of Labor and Industry has been playing politics with the Unemployment Compensation system in the state of Pennsylvania, rather small politics, annoying politics, perhaps I should say destructive politics to the end that finally the entire program has reached a climax that was carried in the press on Sunday.

I feel I would be remiss in not making some comment on the situation that has been created by the Secretary of Labor and Industry for the sole purpose apparently of taking advantage of patronage and advancing what he feels might be his party interest to the expense of a system that has been established not only in this State but in the United States, and that has met the approval I should say of this entire country.

To that end, Mr. Speaker, I have prepared a statement which I now desire to read into the record. That statement, Mr. Speaker, is as follows:

Lewis G. Hines, Secretary of Labor and Industry, is threatening the entire unemployment compensation system of the Commonwealth.

In his zeal to jam through wage increases for 209 favorites, he has violated the Federal Social Security Regulations with the result that Washington has advised him that no further administrative funds will be forthcoming.

Hines' superior, Governor James last week shrugged off the situation by doubting Washington's willingness to act. Governor James and Secretary Hines received their answer today. But what is most tragic is that not they but innocent employes of the Unemployment Compensation Bureau are threatened with loss of pay and the tens of thousands of jobless now dependent upon their weekly payments are in danger of losing their only income.

This is not a sudden or captious decision Washington has made. Hines was warned on December 15 that the raises were not in accordance with civil service regulations, but he has proceeded to disregard this notice.

Hines has also withheld between 1500 and 2000 promotions from men and women entitled to them, hoping, I suppose, that their pressure would bring the Federal Social Security Board to relax its stand against his favorites' increase.

The only bright spot in the entire picture is the statement by leaders of the unions to which many employes belong that they will continue their work without pay in order that the jobless may receive their benefits.

We have tonight another brilliant illustration of that honesty, integrity, and efficiency in government of which our Governor claims to be such a magnificient example. Another section of our State Government has been turned into a shambles under his direction and the small beginnings of a merit system in our government, made a huge joke and a plaything for unscrupulous underlings.

What shall we see next? Our State Hospitals are riddled with political incompetents;. a high-principled business man is forced out of the cabinet because he refused to play peanut politics; by his own admission the Secretary of Health is incompetent to protect the people of the State against unsanitary milk production.

Latest development is this nasty mess in the Department of Labor and Industry with charges of favoritism, disregard of civil service regulations and disruption of office morale widespread.

The James Administration is in a state of collapse. I am sincerely grieved that at a time so crucial as this, Pennsylvania should have an Administration so limited in vision, so lacking in courage, and so incompetent in direction.

"Fortunately for the people, they will have to endure only twenty more months.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the majority floor leader has attempted to cover all of the field of this administration. In two minutes he has picked out all the things that he thought were wrong with the administration and ended up by suggesting that it was in a state of collapse.

Mr. Speaker, the thing that provoked it seems to be the contest between the National Government and the State Government concerning certain employees in the Department of Labor and Industry. According to the information in the press, in the morning papers, I understand the Secretary of Labor and Industry has written demanding an investigation by the Congress of the United States. The gentlemen on the other side and the public well know that the Congress of the United States is in the hands of the Democrats, that it is the National Government and represents the National Government. Certainly if he is not afraid of an investigation by that group there must not be anything wrong with the state's position. I might also call attention of the gentleman who made reference to the Department of Health; not so long ago Dr. McElroy, Dean of the University of Pittsburgh who is recognized I think throughout the state as one of the leading medical authorities in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had this to say concerning Dr. Shaw of the present Department of Health; he said that never, never in the history of the Commonwealth has the Department of Health occupied the high place that it does today nor has the Department of Health ever done as good a job as it is doing today.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. AUKER, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 527, entitled:

An Act fixing the salary of the controller in counties of the seventh and eighth classes; and providing for a salary board to fix the number and salary or compensation of any deputies and clerks to assist the controller.

Mr. MELCHIORRE, from the Committee on Rules, reported as amended, House Resolution No. 66.

RESOLUTIONS RE-REFERRED

Mr. READINGER returned from the Committee on Rules with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation House Resolution No. 62.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is re-referred to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

Mr. MELCHOIRRE returned from the Committee on Rules with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Welfare House Resolution No. 63.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is re-referred to the Committee on Welfare.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, supplementing the remarks I just made concerning the Department of Labor and Industry, I have since speaking been able to check something that I thought of but had not known definitely, and that was concerning a resolution that was introduced in the Senate today, asking for an investigation of the contest, as you might call it, now existing between the Department of Industry of Pennsylvania and the Federal Government, so that the people of Pennsylvania may know the true facts concerning this situation.

That resolution is a concurrent resolution and was laid over under the rules of the Senate for printing and I think will receive consideration of the Senate in the very near future so that the people of Pennsylvania can know what the true situation is in this matter.

INTERROGATION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, if I understand that it is a concurrent resolution with equal membership on both sides of the House?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I have not seen the resolution and I do not know the drift of it but I am advised that it is a concurrent resolution.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I thank the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Speaker. I wish to assure the gentleman from Dauphin that we certainly have no objection to an investigation that will be impartial and fair, and I trust that the Senate in this particular resolution will show more speed and a greater desire of having a resolution passed than apparently they are showing concerning the hospital resolution passed by this House several weeks ago. I realize in that particular resolution that the Governor of Pennsylvania said, "No, we have nothing to hide, we are not fearful, we welcome an investigation." We have been waiting to hear the Senate speak.

I haven't forgotten the attitude of the Members on the other side of the House when the resolution was called. Of course there was no roll call but it was with surprise I heard a large number on the other side of the House oppose the resolution. Mr. Speaker, I indeed am anxious to see how the two resolutions fare, whether the Members on the other side and whether the Republican Senate is willing to have the activities of their administration investigated. I assure them that we will not hesitate to see that there is a fair and impartial investigation of everything with which we have any part to play or anything to do, and we the Members on this side of the House do hope that this Republican administration does not proceed to pickle or to place in the Committee resolutions seeking to investigate thoroughly the manner in which the Republican administration has taken care of the sick and the ill of this Commonwealth.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The following Committee meetings were announced:

The Second Term Members from Philadelphia for the first time will meet in the same place where the First Term Members met the second time.

All members are urged to be present this time, on time; there will be some hope then that the question raised the last time will be settled for all time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in relation to the remarks just made by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, in relation to a resolution placed in the Senate, I just learned that the author of the resolution was interrogated on the floor of the Senate. He was asked whether the resolution intended to have an investigation in relation to the present difficulties, and the gentleman unfortunately didn't know. May I state, Mr. Speaker, that we await with great curiosity the arrival of that resolution from the Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER. asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, now that the "Purity League" is on the job everything will be all right during the rest of the session.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Tuesday, April 8, 1941, at 1 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and at (11:25 p. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1941. No. 32.

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 8, 1941.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

Our heavenly Father, just as this day is filled with sunshine and warmth from above so may our lives and hearts be filled with sunshine and warmth from within through The lovely presence. With keen anticipation do we await the awakening of nature from her long winter's sleep and with it may we be awakened unto new opportunities and privileges of continued service unto Thee and our sacred trusts of representative government.

Upon the horizon of our day ominous clouds of threatening dangers to orderly government have arisen. Stagnation of defense preparation has been greatly in evidence. Problems which test ano will continue to test the stability of our government must be solved aright. Help us all to accept the challenges thrown down to us that the sun of representative government may never set and especially not in our own land.

Let us call Thee back into our confidence again for we have largely set Thee aside and forgotten Thy handiwork and abiding power as we have followed the ways of our prodigality. God bless America. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. JAMES and Mr. GELTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 366, entitled:

To add clause seven to subsection (b), and to further amend subsection (c) of section one thousand two of the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "Vehicle Code," changing the provisions of said act relating to the speed of such vehicles while being operated on highways under the supervision and control of a Turnpike Commission.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PERMISSION TO MAKE A STATEMENT

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Jefferson may proceed.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I assume that privilege is granted to me because I hear no objection. It would seem that it is necessary at this time to make a statement relative, first, to the question of personal privilege in the Senate as compared with the House and, secondly, relative to the word "compensation."

It might well be that so far as the word "compensation" is concerned that we should limit our brief remarks to the words "workmen's compensation" but inasmuch as it appears that politics are brought into it, by reason of their going ahead to bring pressure to bear to amend the unemployment compensation bills that have been prepared, that also should be mentioned.

On the question of personal privilege. I was quite concerned when I found that in the Senate there is no rule evidently, that in the many years during the past the Senate has run their affairs by mutual consent and by taking general practice.

In the House, however, where all of my previous legislative experience has been, we have a rule. I feel that I ought to read to this Senate that rule. It is rule No. 67 and is headed Personal Privilege which is as follows: "Any member may rise and explain a matter personal to himself by leave of the speaker, but he shall not discuss any pending question in such explanation. Question of personal privilege shall be limited to questions effecting the rights, reputation and conduct of members of the House in their representative capacity."

Mr. President, I believe it is the duty of every Senator and every member of the General Assembly to be interested in all the affairs that effect the welfare of this Commonwealth, but in so doing I believe it is their duty first to have an understanding of the subjects on which they will take advantage of the question of personal privilege; secondly that they should have interest in the affairs that are affected; and, thirdly, that they have the courage to stand up and tell what is true.

By reason of the fact that I happen to be the dean of all legislators in either the House of Representatives or in the Senate—that service has been intermittent, it began in the year 1899—I feel that even though I am now new in the Senate I should speak at this time because of the fact that yesterday under a question of personal privilege a number of things were said by the splendid Senator, the very able Senator from Philadelphia, touching the question of workmen's compensation, and in so doing I want it distinctly understood that I am in no manner answering, I am in no manner doing anything to say those facts and figures do not speak for themselves, but when I see those facts and figures used by reference to imply that the system that we have in Pennsylvania is wrong and that there ought to be some way of overcoming that wrong; it is a rather familiar situation indeed.

That has been going on for quite some years, in fact it has been going on ever since the first Workmen's Compensation Act was adopted in 1915.

A moment ago I said a man should have understanding. I believe I have reached a time in life that I dare appear in public and say that on at least one subject I have some understanding and that most people in Pennsylvania know that on that subject I have an interest and I think that most people who have come in contact with me in business life or in legislative affairs on the floor of the House will at least concede I have sufficient courage and sincerity to tell what I think.

Now, Mr. President, in order to qualify as a compensation expert, for which I have been paid for twenty-five years continuously last past or since the Workmen's Compensation Act has been in effect, I want to make this statement: I was a member of the House when the first bill was introduced that would grant workmen's compensation in this State, in 1911. Mr. President, I was a reporter in the session of 1913 when a bill was more seriously considered and as a result of the work in 1913 a committee was appointed and reported back to the next session of the House.

I was a member of the session of 1915 and I was a member of the committee on Judiciary General that formulated that bill and I really do think that an investigation of the records will disclose that I took a part in the formulation of that bill and it was adopted on the floor of the House.

Now, when that bill was formulated, after four years of consideration, it was finally decided that it would be best to have a number of ways of carrying workmen's compensation responsibility. Twenty-five years of experience has fully justified that. There are four ways really in which people who carry workmen's compensation may provide for that coverage. One way is to get a regular old line insurance company to take that risk; another way is to reject the act and be under the old damage law; another way is to insure in a State Workmen's Insurance fund; another way is ignore the act in its entirety and take the consequences.

The reason this committee who formulated the act of 1915 decided that those number of ways would be better was that if one did not give satisfaction perhaps another one would, and I want to state here that in all of those years I have sought to keep just that balance in the power of carrying compensation. I am forced by reason of the statement made by the Senator from Philadelphia to question, first, his experience along this line and this investigation and because it affects me personally possibly I could have risen on a question of personal privilege and made an answer because in the last analysis in reading this very wonderful statement of twenty-nine pages of closely typewritten work that has been handed on to the members, on their desks today, by taking all of those things into consideration, as one who has had these twenty-five years of experience, one who helped to formulate the bill himself and one who really drew the workmen's compensation act that we have today, one who fought in 1935 what was proposed by the party of the other side and one who warned them on the floor of the House in 1937 of what would take place if they passed the bill, I believe that all of those things and the statements that were made affecting the question of whether we have an adequate workmen's compensation bill would make it a matter of personal privilege for me to rise here to speak today.

But what I am trying to do now is put some of this information before the Senate and before the public or anybody who is concerned about it to see whether the point is well taken that we should have only a state workmen's insurance fund; then you would have only one way of taking out workmen's compensation and you would have that fund run politically in spite of yourself.

It so happens the people I have represented were self-insurers, among the very largest self-insurers of the state, and in order to qualify myself still further I want to say those self-insurers number perhaps four hundred in the state and at least a hundred of them, perhaps more, important ones, are associated together in what is known as the Pennsylvania Self-Assurers Association, and in order to further qualify myself I want to say I have been on the Board of Managers of that association for at least fifteen years and in addition to that I have been on the Workmen's Compensation Committee of the State Chamber of Commerce and this work I have been doing for twenty-five years. I took the act of 1915 and analyzed every word, every clause, every paragraph, every section of that act, and had written it down to witness what the effect of it was.

A number of those test cases were first carried through at my instance. I was there when they made the first rules of the Board and I watched carefully every act and directed it as best I could. Again and again it has been advocated by wise people we should not only have state workmen's compensation fund but also self-insurers; I really had not intended to talk about the details but you have actually to handle the work to know what you are talking about.

Here is another thing: within a very few days after I took up the position as workmen's compensation attorney for this large company—and also, by the way, that covers the entire central district—there was an explosion and twenty-seven men were killed. To show my interest in those things I was at the mine and with my own hands helped to take them out and I helped to bury them and I did not have my clothes off for three days and I listened to every one of those widows and orphans—fifty of them traipsing through the snow.

With twenty-five years of that service, drawing agreements, appearing before bureaus and boards, Common Pleas Courts, Superior Courts, Supreme Courts, I feel I know something about the workmen's compensation act of 1915, as rewritten by myself in the Session of 1939.

I want to make a public statement that in 1936 when I came back here it was because I saw what was being proposed in the Session of 1935 when I spoke and explained what that bill would do, and they did not believe it. I do not know why it is that it has gradually grown to be political; it was not political for a great many years.

Labor leaders often come here and nearly always they have demanded a one hundred per cent increase but after all that was their interest, but when it advanced, as it did advance in 1935, when a particular party, a very great party, took it upon themselves to champion what they are pleased to call the small man, the little man, why then it was that it became political and then it was that those of us who had training and experience began to warn them and I want to say beginning with 1935 the warnings that I issued in 1935 and 1937 and the work I did in 1939, not one bit of that do I have any regrets for and I claim credit.

Now, if we must be partisan, which I am very sorry to see in a matter of this kind, and I might say I am very sorry to see so many other affairs in which we are partisan, and the Republicans are not altogether free from that either, but if we must now be partisan we should approach this thing in a fair spirit, to know in the last analysis what is best for Pennsylvania. I am asking you now to stop and consider do we want to observe this act? Of course we do. Everyone wants to preserve the act. What is political about it? The politics about it is that now we have changed the 1937 act and in some mysterious manner that is wrong and in some mysterious manner the drowntrodden little man has something done to him that was not done properly.

Now, Mr. President, you will all note I did not step before this microphone with twenty-nine pages of closely typed papers, you will notice that I have not read anything that somebody else told me about it; you will notice there at least is a tone of sincerity in every statement that I make and it is only for the purpose of serving this Senate of which I am so proud to be a member that I am offering these suggestions:

First, we should check up on every statement that was made by the Senator from Philadelphia and follow them through. I am not commending, neither am I here holding a brief for any insurance company, but I want to call attention to the fact that there are people carrying insurance that are know as groups and one of those groups evidently is the object of attack at this time. I have not talked to them, I have no concern with them, I have never represented them and I have no intention and I do not know anything about it except I do happen to know the chairman of the board has been supposed to be a very prominent Republican and I do know that the president served for many years with the dean of the House and he was known as a very prominent Republican, although the Democrats in his district supported him, and I do know the Republican State Committeeman happens to occupy the office of general solicitor for those people, and therefore I can readily understand why there might be something political with regard to the personal thing, but after all it just happens to occur to me to say to this Senate I happen to know some of the very fine group companies and I would like you to know this, I would like you to know that they have paid actually more than they have taken in and in all those years they have not made a single dollar. I am not speaking of any particular company but just because I happen to know the facts and have had the training and experience that I have had and have passed on.

Surely it would not apply to a company which actually did not get a penny out of it. After all insurance is a business and an insurance company is checked up when it comes here and it has his wares which it offers to sell to you and on which it hopes to make a profit. The self-insurer says why should I pay an insurance company, I can carry that insurance myself, and I have often taken the stand and explained in public and otherwise that the self-insurer can render and does render the very best possible service. That is true because here right by the side of the injured man, right by the side of the widow and the orphan and right where the responsibility is, that company is, and therefore it would be proposed to do away with the self-insurers who carries half of the dollars and cents liability of workmen's compensation.

That bill proposes to bar from the confines of our state every insurance company carrying workmen's compensation, it is proposed particularly to do away with groups, and who are those groups? I happen to be familiar with the Farmers and Threshers Insurance Company, through looking after their interests and through looking after the interests of self-insurers, and we have a group of self-insuring companies in Pennsylvania known as the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association Casualty Insurance Company. I happen to know these things by reason of my training and my experience with them and those I am now trying to defend. Why? Because we decided they had a right when we formulated this bill to be in business in Pennsylvania and they had a right to save dollars and cents for themselves if they could and they had a right to take their profit and give it back to their patrons if they wanted to, and that is often done by casualty companies, the same as it is often done by automobile companies. Why, I have just now cashed a small check because I was a safe driver last year. Think of it, an old fellow like me being a safe driver. What do you know about that? They give you credit if you render service.

The way to look at this problem is: are we going to approach this problem from a political angle or are you going to say we are going to be constructive?

What happened after 1935? This state went Democratic and in 1937 they had control of both Houses. I stood on the floor of the House and told them what would happen if they passed the bill which was introduced. The 1937 act passed and it was with great difficulty I got them even to listen but I made a prediction at that time, and you can read the record, it came true.

The Supreme Court of this State passed upon eight particulars as to constitutionality and they were unconstitutional, in a test case, and they sent them back in two or three more important instances.

When we passed that bill in the Session of 1937 immediately following that there were 1,630 big employers in this State who rejected the act. They will say, oh, they must not be permitted to reject an act, but they are permitted at the present time to reject the act.

What happened when they rejected the act? Between three hundrd and five hundred thousand employes of this state were not under any act at all. Why should an employer reject an act, when it is so much trouble, and go back to settling things under the old law known as the liability law? I will tell you why. It is because they can not pay it. Now listen, any workmen's compensation act will provide its own funds.

He who advocates an act that is unreasonable advocates the passage of an act that is unconstitutional under the constitution of this state and he who says the 1937 act is possible of being carried out by employers in this state is just as much in error at this moment as he was in the sessions of 1935 and 1937. I have been personally, I have been repeatedly personally complimented upon the act which I gave them to bring back the three hundred or five hundred thousand employees previously under no act at all, so they would have workmen's compensation.

What did I do? I gave them the first occupational disease law that was constitutional, and you had none until 1939. I took out of the unconstitutional act the provision that related to agriculture, I took out of that unconstitutional act the provision that related to volunteer firemen, I took out the people who were casual employees and made them all separate, and then I proposed a compensation bill that would pay twenty per cent more than the act prior to 1937.

I want to make a public statement now that that was the last bit of increase that would be accepted by the self-insurer and the large employers of this state and I was in a position to know.

Now, the act of 1915 was passed by the Republican Party and bills amending it have been brought out year after year and after everyone of the amendments made by the Republican Party until 1937 and that was why I protested in the House, subjected myself to all the criticism and abuses which followed on after the session and up to the time I became a candidate for this body, subjecting myself to all these things because I believed I was right; I went on and explained what the result would be and it proved to be true.

Why should anybody want to rob an employe who was injured; why should anybody want to rob any widow?

If you do away with self-insurers in this state, as you propose, and put it into a State Workmen's Compensation fund you will always have it run politically and you will always have it where they might run it in one way or another, but you may not have it for always, because the history is that they break up very often in other states; but at least it will be run politically and there will be a lot of jobs.

Now, Mr. President, I am wondering to you if you think it is wise to take a system that has worked out well and upon the theory of politics, alleging some particular company directed by some particular evil minded person—do you think you ought to destroy the system that has grown up in Pennsylvania and has been successful? I have personally computed ten thousand cases and I have personally been in contact with this company for twenty-five years and I know how much it costs and I want to say that the money that has been referred to as being taken away from the employe is not taken away from the employe because he never would get it. He cannot get it The employer under the present act would reject the act, and he cannot get it.

In any business you undertake to do you do it for a profit and for a reason. The insurance companies are in that business but, listen, a rating board is here guided by the Department of Insurance to tell them to charge an adequate amount and therefor is there one of you who wants to assume the responsibility that there should not be an adequate amount of money in the fund to take care of the possible losses? Listen, under the act of 1937 fatal cases might be twenty thousand, just simple injury cases, men prominently totally disabled, twenty thousand cases—you have twenty-seven men killed in one accident very often and if you had a fund of only one million dollars what would happen in such a case to that little fund of one million dollars. It does not take long to use up one million dollars.

What this state has tried to do was to make it safe and make it sure and what this state failed to do in 1937 was to make it safe and make it sure. There is not anyone in this Senate that can successfully deny that statement because there are in litigation yet many cases coming under the 1937 act and they do not have the courage to face that condition. It is like the fellow that said, "Well, the world is flat." The other fellow said, "No, it is round." The other fellow said he didn't think so and then another man said, "No it is flat." It all depends on the point of view but he said, "I still think it is round."

I want to tell you first of all you ought to be fair and I am making this statement out of my heart because of the fact that in my desk are workmen's compensation bills and I assume there are some that should be in my desk that are not there. I am willing to assume responsibility and to be answerable to the people of this Senate and to the House and to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and every man, woman, and child that every action that I take as Chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Committee is proper. I want to ask you people is it proper and right to bring a question like this in a political mess or muddle while we are on this subject.

I would like the members of this Senate to check up on how many bills have been introduced in this session by the Democrats and how many bills have been introduced in this session by the Republicans.

Mr. President and members of the Senate, how and what questions are covered by those propositions that have been fostered by the other side? I say this and I want it made very plain, that it applies to the Republicans as well as to the Democrats, the eyes of the people of this State are on this legislature and they are pretty nearly tired of the political end of it; one House saying one thing, the other House saying another. I am saying this as an old man, that if you continue to do that, if you continue to refuse to note the tendencies of the time, if you refuse to understand that war is just ahead and that there are boys being trained now, working for twenty-one dollars a month, and some of these people are telling us we don't know what we are talking about while we are here threshing out political questions when nobody knows what the future holds for us, with the uncertainty of banks and the uncertainty of all these questions which we have with us, when all our daily lives are involved—as to the years to come, and people are dying by the thousands in Europe and property is being destroyed. Why? Because a great party of this nation failed to grasp the danger in time and provide so that it could not happen, and loyalty to the American people requires us to stand up and be counted. I say this, Republicans or Democrats, this is no time for politics. Certainly it applies to the Workmen's Compensation Bill of Pennsylvania.

Now, then a word about unemployment compensation. Unemployment compensation is one-half part of the social security law of this state passed by the special session of 1936. We were through in one week and two days over, and passed a bill that would supplement the Federal Act. We passed that bill and we have incorporated in it this so that we could then appoint a commission, seven of us, four members of the House and three members of the Senate, to be a commission to formulate a new bill and to make a report back to this General Assembly at this session. Those seven members—there were some Democrats on it too—and we worked as best we could and went into every phrase of it. We kept in touch with Washington, heard hundreds of witnesses, we did everything we could and there was hardly a dissenting voice to the final conclusion, because we eliminated all controversial questions.

Among them was the merit rating system, among them was an idea of changing the Constitution so as to permit that the smaller employers would not be covered. Mr. President, talking about the little fellow, I ask you about the little employer, as to how he is to pay this and how it effects him.

However, Mr. President, social security began in 1936 as far as unemployment compensation was concerned. There is great confusion among people as to the word "compensation." Some really do not understand there is a difference between unemployment compensation and compensation. They think really they are in some way connected together, there is some mysterious connection, something about it which means the employe can get something in the line of compensation.

In 1936, in December, we passed it and the employer had to pay one per cent on the wages that he paid out in 1936; in 1937 he paid two per cent; in 1938 he paid three per cent. Unemployment compensation is paid by the employer entirely. Knowing that and knowing that is positively the law, it means three cents is being paid by the employer and then you have old-age pensions and pay one per cent. What is now proposed? The Federal Act made the changes and we sat down and figured out what would happen and tried to agree all along the line.

What happened? We made our report to this Senate and to the House, and in passing I might say we worked all summer and into the fall and got that in shape.

What happened? Four of us, including a Democrat, prepared a bill involving what we called uncontroversial points and we presented it to the Senate.

Now, Mr. President, I am asking this Senate, I am asking all the members—and that includes even the Democrats—I am asking you have you any inclination to help me with that bill, have you any thought toward helping me along with that bill ? There were four of us. Who is paying any attention to it? I am just asking you all to pay attention to that bill.

Now, Mr. President, I ask you who has copied the facts and figures out of that report—the work we worked so hard to do, and then prepared another bill? What kind of a bill? Why, Mr. President, a little larger one so they could tell the down-trodden little fellow "we are going to give you just a little bit more than this bill which was proposed, which was going to fostered by the Republican Party, but particularly in the Republican Senate.

When you think about that, Mr. President, I want to tell you that there was not a word of dissention, everybody thought it was all right, but all of a sudden a Democratic member wants to be relieved from an obligation—and the rest of us feel that was all right—and then they make a motion to delay it and they take the same figures and increase them and pass a bill in the House and I rather imagine that bill is now in my desk and that is the reason I am speaking here today.

How did that happen to be there, Mr. President? That is the reason I am trying to say to you and whoever it is and wherever it applies that it is pure politics; they are trying to claim credit for something which was done by us.

Mr. President, I want to say to you in defense of that bill, known as Senate Bill No. 80, which is on second reading today, that is the result of the work of the unemployment commission which was appointed to carry it out and which received the commendation from our own department and also received commendation from Washington and also from everybody else interested.

Now, Mr. President, I want to make another statement I do not care whether they pass that bill or not or any other bill but I want to tell you that when you embark upon social security in the manner in which we have it in this nation and this Senate you assume one of the greatest responsibilities of all times, but we have done so, and as a loyal Pennsylvanian, as a lawyer who has had forty-eight years of experience, as a member of the Assembly, the dean of both of the Houses, my effort will be to make it a success.

Mr. President, that question came to us from Germany and other European countries and in order to clarify ourselves we sent men over there to investigate conditions and to look up and seek personal knowledge or information.

What is going to happen to unemployment compensation money and the bills? What is going to happen to unemployment compensation money and the bill itself, in America, when we get into this war and money is needed by the Federal Government? What is going to happen to our fund here in Pennsylvania that we have and are trying to make work?

These remarks have been too extensive, I know that. I promise you I will not often rise to my feet and make a statement but that statement previously made by the gentleman from Philadelphia involved me personally so much that I feel that in so far as I am concerned that I should answer that part of it, but I do not pretend to answer any charge against any particular company that is not doing the right thing or of which it is alleged it is not doing the right thing.

Mr. President, I think we have the proper governmental machinery in this state to run down anything that is improper or that is wrong and I do not think it is proper to bring this into politics.

I do hope this Senate will forgive me for taking up its time today but the privilege was extended to the gentleman or the Senator from Philadelphia and it took the entire afternoon, supplemented by some other little work, to put before us this statement in a left-handed manner, although my name was not mentioned, although he brought out criticism of the work done in 1939.

Mr. President, I am asking every citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I am asking every member of the Democratic Party and every member of the Republcan Party, I am asking the Governor and I am asking anybody and everybody if you ought not to feel grateful towards somebody who steps forward, and having the qualifications, if you please—may I be forgiven—and having the interest to work day and night and had the courage to do it.

Now, as a sequel, Mr. President, may I say that when I ran for the Senate those who were opposed to me in 1937 and 1939 said all the dire things, came into my district with loud speakers in the fairgrounds and up around and across and in between in my little district, they said what a terrible man I was and how much I was against labor—although I have been working with them for these forty-eight years, and as a result of that whole thing I received more votes in Jefferson County than any other candidate excepting the candidate for Congress.

I am making that statement to give you an answer as to my sincerity of purpose on the question of whether this thing has been done rightfully.

I want to say one word of warning; if you do the things advocated by the very splendid Senator from Philadelphia you will regret all the days of your life because you will have limited the responsibility of the success of the workmen's compensation act to one fund, and that fund sometimes has been dangerously close to bankruptcy in this state; you will be limiting it in a manner so that it will be run politically; you will be limiting it in a manner so that the people who are injured will not receive quick service; you will be driving out of business the self-insuring companies who carry in dollars and cents one half of this risk; you will be upsetting the good work that has been done in Pennsylvania in the last twenty-five years.

I want now, Mr. President, to thank the members of this Senate for the splendid attention they have given me and all I ask is that you believe I actually think what I am saying.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, yesterday we sat here and listened to a long discussion by my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro and by my colleague from Montgomery County, Mr. Edmonds, and I feel that is as it should be. This is the sounding board of Pennsylvania and I firmly believe we should have the right to give our thoughts out on the floor, but about three or four weeks ago, I happened to rise to my feet to discuss a subject of great importance to me and it so happens, Mr. President, that up until this very day I have been the only man to whom anybody has objected. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, saw fit to rise and object to my question of personal privilege. I felt very much offended at that time. However, the next morning he came to my desk and informed me he had had a discussion with the Democratic Minority Floor Leader, and he asked him that we delay making speeches on personal privilege until we were through with the Calendar. After hearing that, I felt somewhat different, and had my Floor Leader told me that the afternoon before, I would have felt different.

Now, the Chair has been very very lenient, in fact more than lenient, and in all of the years that I have been in this Hall, I must say, Mr. President, I have never heard one man rise to his feet and confine himself to a question of personal privilege; each and everyone of them have gone far afield. We have brought in the European situation and many many items of no importance to the question of personal privilege, but the Chair, as I said a moment ago, sat by idly and gave a very broad outlook on each discussion.

Now, Mr. President, since I have been the only victim I might say to the Senate I feel we should arrive at some definite conclusion, either that we should wait until our Calendar is finished to discuss a question of personal privilege or if we should talk on a question of personal privilege, which is personal and which has preference, of course, then we should confine ourselves strictly to that question.

Now, Mr. President, before this day is over, I expect to offer a motion or perhaps some resolution on the question of personal privilege, because a question of personal privilege is in order before, or in the middle of the Calendar, or after, and because I feel I should not be the only one to be subjected to criticism.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rises to speak on a question of personal privilege.

The condition that exists here is due no doubt to the liberality of the Chair and also due to the lack of backbone on the part of a body to adopt rules that they want to apply at times and at other times they do not want them to apply.

Now, all this could be obviated, as the Senator from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, stated. I have watched it work and function for years, and the guiding rule has been by mutual consent. It has always been that, and the Chair has tried to carry that out.

There is no rule here on the point of personal privilege, neither is there anything in the order of business to say when one may address the Senate on a matter which is not on the regular order of business.

This can be obviated by some person in authority—and there is a majority here as there was a majority in 1939, by adopting such rules and so avoid embarrassment to the President of the Senate, but in the absence of that rule the Chair is going to continue in the future as he has in the past.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, on Wednesday of last week when I left this session, I suggested to the Chair that I had a statement concerning an important subject which I felt the Senate and the Citizens of the Commonwealth were interested in. I said that I was going to make that statement on a question of personal privilege, because there was nothing on the Calendar or under any other head under which I could make the statement, and as I think due notice was given I thought it a matter of sufficient importance to feel it ought to be publicized and I took the liberty of seeing that copies of the statement were sent to each of the morning newspapers in Philadelphia. I made no secret of that and it was because that fact that I was insistent on making the statement. It did not make any difference to me whether it came before the Calendar or after, except that I did not want to put the newspapers in the position of saying that I had made the statement at a certain time and the statement had not be so made, and that was the only reason I insisted on making it at that time. I thought the statement was of sufficient importance to the people of this Commonwealth that it should have been made, but whether it was made one time or another in the course of the Senate's work during the day, to me is utterly irrelevant.

I am going to suggest, to the gentleman from Jefferson and make a real question of personal privilege out of it, and say gentleman that I did not bring his name or any other name in the discussion that I made yesterday, because I have found that you detract from the force of any real speech by engaging in personalities. The gentleman himself has injected himself into this picture today, and I would like to suggest to him that his statement convinces me that the real vice in all of our laws is the fact that some of us, many of us, have too much personal interest in legislation on which we are voting.

I hope the gentleman will not consider it a personal statement concerning him because I do not so intend, but the framers of the Constitution thought it of sufficient importance to give some attention to it, to such an extent that they put a clause in the Constitution, a section about it.

I say the trouble with our laws is that we place the enactment or the drafting of laws, and the acting upon laws, in the hands of people who have an interest. The gentleman from Jefferson has qualified himself as an expert on the subject, and I say very frankly that we and others who have an interest in bills, such as he has described himself, have disqualified themselves from sitting as chairmen of committees handling such bills and from voting on them, and I say that because of the fact too many people have had personal interest in bills which conflicted with the general welfare of the community and they are responsible for that situation, not only as to workmen's compensation, but in many other laws that we have passed here.

The gentleman has told us very frankly he represents a group which is vitally interested in seeing to it that if a law if enacted it should exclude them from it. How under the sun could that constitutional provision ever be operative, if that is to be continued.

The gentleman from Jefferson tells us he is the father not only of the original bill, but of the 1939 amendments, and if you look at the original bill you will find that it excludes self-insurers. It says there may be self-insurers, and if you look at the 1939 bill you will find there is not anything it that bill that affects self-insurers or protects the workman from any vices that may exist in the self-insuring system.

I say this very frankly, I do not expect any man, after having heard the statement I made, which covered twenty-nine pages—I could have covered more if I had not cut out a number of facts which I thought could be developed later—I do not expect anybody to get up and say you are one hundred per cent right or fifty per cent wrong but I have laid on the desks of the Republican Senators copies of the statement. The figures are not mine; there is not a word in that statement which is mine. Every figure in that statement comes from an authoritative source, the figures concerning workmen's compensation come from the Workmen's Compensation Board. The figures concerning insurance in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania come from the insurance commissioner of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and from the rating bureau. The figures that come from the United States and the nation at large come from the reports of every insurance company doing workmen's compensation business in the United States.

Mr. President, those figures are not mine. They do not lie. They are therefor your consideration and I have not only made the suggestion but I have made research into all of the workmen's compensation laws of every state in the union for the purpose of finding out whether I was on safe ground.

I do not propose to argue the merits or the demerits of the suggestions I have made. I say on the question of self-insurers there is a great deal of discussion to be had.

I have said in that statement it is my opinion the only reason that insurers exist is because they know of these overloaded charges and they do not feel they should be bound to pay them and therefore they have organized themselves into a group to avoid paying them.

I am told by many people that compensation in some instances by self-insurers is even more than provided for in the act. If that is so and if there is a real reason for their existence after the unnecessary charges are taken out, then disinterested persons can decide that and cover it, and I say disinterested persons advisedly, because I do not feel a subject as far-reaching as this is, persons who have any interest in the result, should be in on the discussion or in on the voting, and I say that without any personal reflection upon anybody.

As to politics, Mr. President, let me say right here and now that in 1932 and before 1933 there need not have been any politics in any piece of legislation because there were not two political parties, but there has been politics in all legislation since there have been to strong political parties contending in Pennsylvania.

I say I have deliberately made an issue of the political situation in that speech to the extent to which it was necessary because I contend that the Democratic Party has taken one stand on that issue and the Republican Party has taken another stand and the question of which stand is correct is involved in the statement

I have not been politically personal because I said yesterday and I repeat today that there is no insurance commissioner in the Commonwealth, including the Democratic insurance commissioner, who is not in my opinion responsible for and who has not contributed to the condition or the system, the perpetuation of the system to which I referred as an unnecessary and vicious system.

The act gives to the commissioner of insurance the right to say that the rate must be safe rate; it does not give him any longer the right to establish the rate, because every time he establishes a rate he must make allowances for the unnecessary expense of the stock companies and their expense of 44 or 46 per cent.

I referred to a particular insurance company with the hope you would see the point I tried to make, which is this: if an individual private insurance company can run without solicitation of business, without unnecessary expenses, can privately conduct a portion of a statewide business at an expense of twelve per cent, while others conduct the same kind of a business at 45 per cent, and if the situation is such that in order to allow a company which has to consider ordinary and necessary administrative expenses to make a profit, and another company is allowed to make an extraordinary and unnecessary profit, there is something wrong with that system and what stands out is if one private company can run a portion of the business at twelve per cent expense, then maybe the whole state running this business can run it at a lesser expense.

I have produced evidence as to what other states have done upon that subject and I say to you now if you are not going to accept my statement, and I hope it is going to be accepted, you are going to reject them just because you believe there may be some political repercussion one way or the other; but obviously it does not make any difference if there is a paternalistic attitude on the part of some insurance companies in giving back to some of their customers some of their own money.

The point is if the insurance companies are permitted to include forty-five cents in their charge, if that is fair, in my opinion it is much fairer the forty-five cents should go to the workmen, and if the gentlemen who framed the 1939 amendment, including the gentleman from Jefferson, had taken into consideration the fact that we could take those expenses and turn them into benefits, everybody would feel better about it and there probably would not have been any necessity for my statement.

No one would assume, Mr. President, that the gentleman from Jefferson should have suggested when the unemployment compensation act was passed to permit insurance companies to insure industry against the cost of compensation, no one would have suggested for a moment that he should permit insurance companies to insure against the cost of old age pensions.

Then why do we need insurance companies to insure against loss of workmen's compensation? Why do we need them when it is a State proposition? That is the question, I contend, that this is a state economic and social problem, which should be handled by the State on an economic and social basis.

The opposite side contends it is a private enterprise and that is the line of demarcation.

When you answer that question you will have solved your problem, but you must answer it honestly, thoroughly and disinterestedly, and you cannot answer it by simply saying the able Senator from Philadelphia has brought us facts and figures but he is often mistaken, very often mistaken, and therefore we will not pay any attention to the figures.

I suggest, Mr. President, you must meet this issue, because if you continue the laws as they are today you will next be met with the situation of what are you going to do with the state fund, because gradually under the system inaugurated by this administration the state fund is approaching insolvency. If you can lose ten thousand policies in a year you can lose ten thousand more.

If you object to the state, which is compelled under the law to accept insurance, it must give insurance to any man who wants it, and if you say to the state do not go out and seek that insurance, and you will allow competitors to continue soliciting insurance with promises the State cannot make, you put the state in the position of taking only those risks which are bad and do not protect the injured workmen by improved devices for safety or whose solvency is bad and then you are ruining the fund.

My contention is that in 1932 there was a Republican administration; in 1933, 1934 and in 1935 the Sterling report was before us and some of the suggestions I made were made in the Sterling report and the warning which I sounded were sounded in the Sterling report. The Sterling report deliberately avoided making the statement which was obvious of the figures, that in that year of 1932 the Workmen's Compensation Fund was insolvent. The legislators were discussing at that time whether it would be wise to make an appropriation to save the Workmen's Insurance Fund

You have got to choose between insolvency of the Workmen's Compensation Fund and the elimination of it from the picture and setting up something better.

You will not get anywhere with this problem by talking about your experience and determining how the compensation could be awarded, what procedure could be set up for the awarding of compensation, but you will get somewhere if you look at the picture in the general aspect, of what it amounts to.

You must say to yourself, if you are not politically minded and if you want to look at it as a statesman, that the situation as it exists today is a vicious system if it allows a waste of forty-four cents on the dollar.

I do not care whether two or three insurance companies give a portion of it back, to half a dozen lucky policy holders who insured with them, but I call your attention to the fact that under the laws the Workmen's Compensation Department cannot give a commission in cash, but private insurance can give that. Who put that into the law? A disinterested person?

I want to call your attention to the fact and you very well know, that the workmen's compensation fund cannot give a commission until there accounts have been audited, but you will find the private insurance company going out at the end of the year and saying, "We give you a commission, a rebate."

You cannot get it from the state because, first of all, you only get it as a credit on next year's premium, unless you cancel the policy, and then you do not get it for two years. If you want to prove that look at the reports. The 1938 dividend was paid by the state in 1940 but the 1938 dividends by the private companies was paid within twelve months—at the end of the twelve months term, by the private companies.

Everything in the law points to the fact that interested persons framed those laws and that the persons who could not stop the passage of the compensation law immediately undertook to see how much they could get out of it when it did become a law. Look at the law and read the books and you will see it.

The gentleman tells me about the Supreme Court decision. You ask your attorney general what he thinks of the Supreme Court decision which says under the elective system we have to have a reasonable act; it is only under a compulsory system that we have to have a reasonable act because under an elective system it is a contract and when as employer makes a contract with his employe that he will pay him so much money if he is injured, is that a contract which is subject to revision by the Supreme Court? You never heard of any other contract between an employer and employe.

Look at the books and read how employes have complained about the injustice of contracts which they have made with their employers, were forced to make, and the Supreme Court has said it is a contract; if you fellows entered into it, this is a voluntary contract, if you were forced into it we are sorry.

Here is a law passed when there was no authority to pass a compulsory act. Since then, within six months there was authority given to pass a compulsory act.

Mr. President, I have told you of a number of states that have compulsory acts, I have told you of a number of states that have insurance. Let me tell you about New York. The New York fund today is worth $62,000,000.00; the New York fund today is competing with private insurance companies; the New York fund can go out and sell a policy, as they do, at a twenty-five per cent premium less than private companies, and make a profit.

Why here, Mr. President, if the workmen's compensation fund tries to reduce the rate, even though its expenses are only ten or twelve per cent, the insurance commissioner says, "Oh, no." He is our own insurance commissioner, he is not a man representing the insurance companies, at least he is not supposed to, and he says to them, "Oh, no, you must charge the same rate as these other companies." Why do we want the state fund then?

We can not compete with that and I come back to the same proposition, that so long as we have a political situation in which certain strong powerful politicians can contribute to the election of one party or the other—and this goes for both parties—and as long as that man can dictate the appointments to the various administrations, so long will you have what we have in this situation, unless you are willing as parties to differentiate between social economic problems as against political problems.

I do not care how much politics you play with purely political problems but I protest against the playing of politics with economic and social problems. They sit here in this Senate and in the House and continuously vote on bills in which they have an interest without disclosing that fact.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I do not know whose Senate this is, whether it belongs to the fifty members of the Senate or whether it is the property of Senator Shapiro and Senator Henry I. Wilson. I think we ought to do something about this question of personal privilege because yesterday under a question of personal privilege we listened to the gentleman from Philadelphia with his twenty-nine pages and we listened this morning to the gentleman from Jefferson with his twenty-eight and a half pages, and both of them were out of order.

There is no such bill before us, Mr. President, but due to the leniency of our presiding officer we suffered it, but with these gentlemen I would like to be a self-insurer against freedom of speech, and I will tell you I always have voted against vocational diseases.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, I was one of the framers of the original workmen's compensation act, and I am not taking twenty-eight pages to tell you that, but I am convinced that there is a vocational disease right here in this Senate—it first took root in Senator Shapiro and now Senator Henry I. Wilson has gotten the disease—and that is too much freedom of speech.

These gentleman, if they had a sense of humor and a sense of proportion would know they have no right to stand up and take so much time of this Senate, and I for one protest and will vote gladly for any rule to remedy the practice of rising on a question of personal privilege which are not personal.

I rise on a question of personal privilege in a perfectly genuine way because my reputation has been emasculated and more or less wrecked as the dean of the Senate by the Senator from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, H. I. The honor rests between the gentleman from York, Mr. Lanius and myself, I protest under personal privilege against the gross intrusion of the Senator from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, H. I.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, on this question of personal privilege, because of the statement on the part of the Chair, I would just like to look at the record in the Senate for the past four weeks.

My colleague and friend from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, was correct when he said he was the first one who was interrupted and prevented from speaking on a question of personal privilege, and I want to say since that time he and all of his colleagues have cooperated in just splendid fashion and we continued in that form for a period of about four weeks.

Each session before the motion for adjournment was made a check-up was made, particularly on the part of the other side of this Chamber, to learn whether or not any of those individuals wanted to speak on a personal privilege before we adjourned.

That condition continued very satisfactorily, Mr. President, without a rule being passed, to which the Chair referred, until sometime last week when the gentleman from Philadelphia, apparently feeling he was not only entitled to personal privilege but also to special privilege, thereupon secured the consent of the Chair.

Yesterday and today is a fine example of what followed after a matter of that kind. He of course is not entitled to special privilege and the other Senators who, since he spoke yesterday, have taken it upon themselves to speak are perfectly right and proper in so doing and therefore I have made no objection to anybody speaking since I objected to the Senator from Philadelphia yesterday.

Now the Chair has suggested that this situation exists because we apparently lack something, in not having passed a rule covering questions of personal privilege. May I suggest to the Chair that we could not pass any rule that would prevent the stretching of the Chair's imagination to include anything under a question of personal privilege, as we rather felt was done yesterday.

Of course, Mr. President, there is a method that can stop that, and that is by taking an appeal from the ruling of the Chair. We did not, however, think yesterday that is was necessary that we resort to a technicality of that kind and we still do not think it is necessary. We believe the majority of the Senators here on both sides of this Chamber can get along as we have gotten along for the last four weeks, by agreement, in good fellowship, in a friendly manner, providing some individual does not again desire, as did the colleague from Philadelphia, a special privilege instead of personal privilege.

I ask my colleagues that we endeavor to continue until the end of this session as we have for the last four weeks, because I think everything has been going along very nicely. It can go very nicely and there is not any necessity, as I see it, to resort to strict technicalities.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I really want to call attention to the fact that I did not speak on a question of personal privilege. I rose to my feet today with the understanding that I be permitted to make a statement, providing there were no objections.

I made a statement that I wished to make a statement on this floor and not a single Senator objected and not a single Senator objected to anything I said while I was making it.

Then I am criticized afterwards for taking up time but I tell you I believe I had full reason to speak to you on a question of personal privilege, but I wished to avoid that. I say that I did have cause. Although my name was not mentioned it affected me and therefore you gave me permission to make a statement.

I did not rise on a question of personal privilege but now, Mr. President, I would like, if Mr. Shapiro would allow me, to ask him two questions.

Will he be interrogated for two questions?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Certainly, Mr. President.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Senator Shapiro, I wish to ask whether you were a member of the Senate during the session of 1937?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I was.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. I wish to ask Senator Shapiro did he then have the same ideas relative to workmen's compensation, as to the coverage, who covered it or how we should cover it?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I did not, Mr. President. I was groping in the dark the same as the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, and he gave me the idea when I read the record in December of this year and read his statement in the 1938 session.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Then your full and complete understanding and information on the question of coverage has all been formed since the passage and signing of the act of 1937?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it has been formed since the agitation of the 1939 amendments. When the facts were brought to my attention that the rates would be increased by with what I considered a minor increase in benefits, it was then I first began to think about it.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, may I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia one further question?

Mr. SHAPIRO. As many as the gentleman from Jefferson desires.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Back of the 1937 session the gentleman from Philadelphia did not pay much attention to it; is that correct?

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is not so, Mr. President; I have paid as much attention as I was able to with my inexperience at the time. I have made some special efforts to learn more about it since then.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CHAPMAN:

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES

The pendulum of time is swinging and the sands of time are running on and on and each day is bringing the grim specter of war closer to our shores and hearths The pages of history are being rapidly turned these days and as I see it the man who feels that war is afar off is deluded and not a keen observer of the signs of the times. And as the hour approaches when the die must be cast it behooves us to know that our path is righteous and our goal is more spiritual than mundane.

History in the making shows us that back in the early days of nations wars were waged for power and wealth alone. There were no just and unjust wars. Leaders fired with a lust of power rose and waged wars; conquered neighbors; seized their wealth and made their people slaves. Then came a period in the 16th and 17th centuries when wars took on a tinge of a different shade. They were started for the relief of the oppressed and the just and unjust war came into being. All wars, however, just they may be in the beginning as a rule ultimately turn into wars of aggression and conquest. It is the adjustment of affairs at the close of the wars that marks deflation of hates that sprang into life during the progress of the blood letting.

The World War in 1914 was not a just war. An assassination was seized upon as an excuse by the Kaiser to turn loose his legions that had been chafing under the lash. Then our nation weighed the consequences of halting an unjust war and by the power of its might turned the scales. The table about which the peace treaty was drawn was surrounded by men in whose hearts black hate held sway. The peace treaty as completed and signed was a series of mistakes but under the circumstances was possibly as good as any that could have been drafted under similar circumstances.

The League of Nations as proposed came into being. It was hamstrung and thwarted by the major powers. Here jealousies were rampant and its rulings without teeth in them or power to enforce its orders caused it to become a helpless, spineless affair, doomed to be cast aside by the first nations that wished to do so.

But in the hearts of men there was still a desire for peace. Leaders in the nations of the world felt the urge to protect their peoples from the scourge of blood and as a result the Kellogg-Briand treaty was negotiated. The signatures of the nations were affixed. Then came the Argentina treaty and by it war became an outlaw. Germany, Italy and Japan were signatories on both treaties. England and the United States also affixed their seals and without reservations.

However, the Dictators evidently in signing the treaties did not let their left hands know what the right hands did and with the left hand feverishly prepared for war. The hand was the hand of Esau and the voice was the voice of Jacob. Finally in real gangster style Hitler turned his legions loose after a fanfare of incidents had been created by that master prevaricator Goebbels. Italy with its dagger in hand struck, and Japan became imbued with an idea of world power. All three labored and impoverished themselves and their people to create war machines.

England appeased until it became evident that the Dictators were determined to divide the world and make free men slaves. Then with France a stand was made. Hitler's termites had bored under the foundations of France and it collapsed and Dunquerke became a symbol of heroism in England's history.

Our peoples have weighed the situation and surveying the events of years passed determined that Germany, Italy and Japan were aggressors in an unjust war. Long before our government acted to give Britain all possible aid the man in the street saw the situation and wondered why there was no action from Washington. The need of arms for United States was known. The corner cigar store diplomats knew our army was puny and that our navy was prepared, but not strong enough to protect two ocean fronts.

And now with all of our facilities turned loose to forge the implements of war and with the flower of American manhood turning toward camps on shore and ships at sea, we are awakening.

But the Hitler, Mussolini and Mikado termites are boring. Strikes on every hand are not accidents. Strong measures must be taken and while the Administration elected by labors' votes and contributions hesitates to act, valuable time is being lost. Imagine how pleased the triumvirate of Dictators must be to learn that close to a million men are on strike. It is time for the mailed fist to be used on capital and labor—or both—if they are holding up our defense program.

England has its concentration camps for men who are not 100% for the program of the government and I thoroughly believe that the United States should act and act at once to put the termite army at work in the plants of the country, away, behind barbed wire camps, while the loyal men and women of the nation turn out the implements of victory.

I am positively alarmed at the loss of man hours in our industry. It is a picture that when held up and viewed calmly will cause any legislator of the land to shudder at the prospect. Hitler predicted that an "inside job" would wreck the United States.

Our Department of Justice has lists of men known to be foreign agents and I take it that gloves should be cast aside and strong action taken. Let the axe fall and the chips fly in cutting down the powers of the Reds, the Nazis and the Fascists.

We, in the upper house of our Legislature, should take action that would aid the authorities in cleansing our state of these elements that hamstring our march to make the freemen of the world continue to be free.

May the widom be given us to see what is needed and then to act without fear or favor in passing legislation—if it is needed—to make punishment swift and sure for those who are undermining our nation.

We must act and every true American must be awakened to the fact that we are now being warred upon by the most perfidious campaign of lies, deceptions and sabotage possible for the human mind to conceive.

War is just ahead of us. I can see no other path. The Dictators have threatened us with reprisals for our aid to Britain and in no distant day, we will be stunned by some act that will show the threats were not idle words. No nation can exist with such pernicious gnawing at its vitals, a cancer of disunion.

The situation is a dangerous one. Our position in the scheme of things is absolutely correct. We know that Germany, Italy and Japan are the aggressor nations and to thwart their aims we must align ourselves with the Democracies of the world and give until it hurts, of our wealth and our equipment.

The clash of armed forces is not yet heard on our shores but the stealthy tread of the moccasin of the Fifth Column is becoming so loud that in every section of our land it can be heard.

It is time to deal with an iron hand with the man who for greed, fame or glory of a foreign flag takes any step to halt our onward march. Our government at Washington is enjoying the cooperation of all political parties in its effort to arm our nation; but it must forget past political debts due to labor leaders and enforce our laws and open our factories. Strikes and disturbances in the armament program must cease and the nation looks to the President for action.

A just war being fought by our Motherland has our support. Let no man try to turn our nation from its chosen path. Let the might of our laws fall on anyone who endeavors to turn us from our way to victory over the forces that makes men slaves.

"One nation indivisible" is the goal of the United States at present and any force of disunity must be dealt with.

Let the world know that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is loyal and that if laws be needed to punish the traitor we are ready to pass them hastily and keep our flags flying over the land of the free and the home of the brave.

MOTION TO RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now recess until two o'clock p. m.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, while I do not object to a recess, under the heading of remarks I should like to remind the Majority Floor Leader there is a public hearing scheduled to be held by the Committee on Judiciary General at two o'clock this afternoon in the Senate Caucus room. I have no objection to a recess and neither have I any objection to a continuation of the speeches under personal privilege. I understand quite a number of Senators are desirious of making speeches but, Mr. President, as I have said, there is a public hearing scheduled for this afternoon which has been advertised for two o'clock and if we are to recess until two o'clock I should like to ask on behalf of my colleagues on the Committee on Judiciary General that we be excused from the two o'clock session. However, I do not want to miss any of these speeches.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I suggest that after we are through with the public hearing this afternoon we come back and if it takes until ten or eleven o'clock tonight we complete the Calendar.

MOTION AMENDED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I wish to amend my motion.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to extend a personal invitation to the members of the press to attend the hearing in the Senate Caucus room, on Bill No. 130, as announced.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 3:00 o'clock p. m.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the title was agreed to.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Sections one and two inclusive of the bill were severally reconsidered.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Whenever any child is an inmate of an orphan asylum or home or a children's home or a home for the friendless or other institution for the care or training of orphans or other children and such institution is maintained at the cost of the county wherein it is located and such child attends the public schools of the school district wherein such home or institution is located although not a legal resident of such district the county shall in all such cases pay to such school district the cost of tuition text books and school supplies for such child which shall be fixed as provided by law for tuition costs in other cases Such costs shall be paid annually by the county and shall thereafter be collected by the county from the school district in which such child is a legal resident

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 3, by inserting after the word "friendless" the following: "or a private home; Amend Sec. 1, page 1, lines 4 and 5, by striking out the words "such institution is maintained" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "the maintenance of such children is provided."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

The title of the bill was read as follows:

An Act providing that when inmates of an orphans' home or other children's institution maintained at the cost of any county attend public school and are not legal residents of such school district the county shall pay their tuition charges and collect the same from the school district liable therefor

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I move to amend title, page 1, line 2 of title, by inserting after the word "institution" the following: "or private home are"; Amend title, page 1, line 3 of title, by inserting after the word "county" the following word: "and."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 23, as follows:

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to call to the attention of the Senate that Senate Bill No. 23 has absolutely nothing to do with national defense, and in that it is a very unique bill. I would also like to call to the attention of the Senate that it is one of the very few bills that will be presented to the Senate that will be very decidedly in the minority. There are very few of us—

Mr. President, how many of us are going to speak at once.

The PRESIDENT. Just one.

Mr. WALKER. There are few of us, Mr. President, who have not had the opportunity of visiting Mount Vernon, the ancestral and historical home of the Father of our Country, and there is not one that visits that place that is not impressed by the dignity and the majesty of that structure, which has stood there for so many years. Its simplicity and its eternal restfulness, and the majesty of the buildings and the grounds are bound to impress every American citizen, and the majesty and the dignity and the eternalism of the residence of the Father of our Country, impressed me just as does the dignity and the majesty and the eternalism of the Republican Party.

For years I have believed firmly in the doctrines of the Republican Party; at times I have differed and conscientiously so with the expressed leadership of the Republican Party. There have been times when we have differed, and when those differences of opinion are expressed at the polls we have what we wish to call in Pennsylvania an independent Republican faction, and occasionally, through the ballots of the electorate, the independent Republican group became the dominating group and would be successful at the polls. That has occurred in your generation and in mine, and the prior Republican Governor, Governor Pinchot, at one time was successful as the leader of the independent Republican group. At one time it was a worse political stigma to be classified as a Pinchot Republican than some Republicans think when they now classify our friends the Democrats.

At the downfall of the so-called independent Republican group, we saw a sudden springing up of the Democratic Party. Many of the prominent and leading Democrats in Pennsylvania today were members of the Independent Republican group.

For the first time in generations we experienced, not so many years ago, the success of the Democratic Party at the polls. At that time we had a Democratic Governor —and that was something. The Democratic Party was very proud of their victory. In spite of the fact that the Republicans outnumbered the Democrats in registration there was a Democrat elected and he was elected not by the Democratic Party but by the right wing of the Republican Party.

There have been times when the Republican Party lacked foresight in leadership—and that is constructive criticism—which has seriously impaired the effectiveness of the Republican policies at the polls.

In commenting so frequently on the Republican Party concerning this bill, I want to say to you, as I have said the last time this bill was on the floor of the Senate, that the Republican Party made a very serious mistake in its attitude towards good government. Some of the Republican leaders in 1936 were very much in favor of legislation such as is expressed in Senate Bill No. 23.

Then we passed through the second election of President Roosevelt and in the hope that springs eternal within the human breast many leading Republicans immediately said that we did not need that bill any longer because this man will never run for a third term—but he did.

In 1939, it was the opinion of many leading Republicans that this bill would be good legislation, and after the 1938 election that was very encouraging, but there again the Republican leadership expressed itself and suggested we would not need this type of legislation any longer and as a result we did not get it in 1939.

As early as 1933, this type of legislation was urged by some Republican leaders and then it was defeated before it ever hit the floor of the Senate. I am therefore very proud and very happy that we got this bill at least this far advanced towards the root of good government.

Now, Mr. President, in every major issue presented to the populace of Pennsylvania, as well as the other forty-seven states of the nation, very frequently you do not succeed the first time. There were quite a number of bills in Congress prior to the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln dealing with the slavery question and yet it took years and years before the Emancipation Proclamation was declared. I feel some day there will be a bill, such as is suggested by Senate Bill No. 23, passed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania so that the people will have the opportunity of selecting public officials by merit and not by straight party ballot.

There have been examples quoted time after time as to the value of requiring a seeker of public office to stand on his own two feet. This is not blazing a new trail. There are approximately eighteen states that already have adopted this type of legislation and I want to point out to the members of this Senate that this bill follows strictly what is called the Massachusetts Plan; it is not the Ohio bill which was so successful in Ohio last year, and the simple reason for that is that technical engineers advised us it is impossible to fix the voting machines used here in Pennsylvania to conform to the Ohio Plan.

For the purpose of comparison I would like to read to you the States that have the Massachusetts Plan in effect. They are Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Tennessee, Virginia and Wyoming.

Now, Mr. President, these states all arrange the names on their ballots by offices. They retain the party column and the party designation but do not provide for straight party balloting.

From such States—and I want you to pay close attention to this peculiarity, perhaps it is coincidence—but representatives who have come to the United States Senate from such states as those are Hiram Johnson, Carter Glass, Harry Bird, Senator Kapper, Senator Tidings, Senator Wheeler, Senator Norris, Senator Key Pittman, Senator Pat McCaran, Warren Barbar, Gerald Pye, Charles L. McNary, Joseph C. O'Mahoney, David I. Walsh, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.

They are the men who are the giants in the Senate today, the statesmen of your generation and mine, and I would like to pause for a moment so that in the essence of silent prayer you may compare those giant statesmen with what we have in Pennsylvania.

Now, Mr. President, the results of such a comparison are perfectly obvious. Those men are obliged to run on their merits on a meritorious system acquired by states having such foresight as to have legislation such as is represented in Senate Bill No. 23, and it should be apparent to even the Republicans and the Democratic members of the Senate.

I want to say, Mr. President, I have no doubt if we had such a bill or such an election process in Pennsylvania, today perhaps we could point with pride to giant statesmen representing one of the greatest states of the nation.

Mr. President, I also want to point out to you that opposition to Senate Bill No. 23 is not confined to my colleagues on the right because the Democratic organization—which frankly is one of the most powerful this state has seen in a long time—is opposed to the bill. This is strictly non-partisan opposition; it is opposition engendered by a sudden fear that political chiefs, party leaders, ward leaders—sometimes commonly called ward healers—would lose control of what they so proudly call their vote.

What they fail to see, Mr. President, and what I wish to point out, is the fact that the era of party control is past, and that is the thing that worries me about my inability, to impress upon my own party the fact that the day is coming when we must listen to what the people of Pennsylvania want.

We must be able to interpret by legislation the things that the people need, we must be able to represent the people of Pennsylvania and not the party leaders from either party, and that is where we fail and every time we fail, Mr. President, we lose in a statewide or nationwide election. The minute we achieve success we are blinded by that success and we are blinded to the extent we no longer pay close attention or rapt attention to what the people want.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago it did not matter because we did not have a strong opposition party in Pennsylvania. The question of political supremacy was fought out in the Republican primaries, and there it ended, and at the conclusion of the primaries those who received what is commonly called the control vote were nominated. They owed their nomination and election to the party leaders, the political bosses we hear so much about from the left side of the Senate and those political bosses having placed those men in office naturally looked to them and vice versa for political support and control.

Today the people of Pennsylvania are a little better educated on the question of public policy and politics. The people of Pennsylvania, in spite of all the war hysteria and the question of national emergency, are deeply interested in what is going on in Harrisburg and know full well how we are discharging the responsibilities of our stewardship, and when we do not properly answer to them for our stewardship we are not returned to office. That is the outcome, and some people try to explain it pointing out the one and only reason we have a change in office is because the people are restless and they take out the ins and put in the outs.

That is the result but that is not the reason, the cause of that is the minute you get into office you forget your obligation is no longer to Joe Blow the county chairman or the ward leader, but your obligation is to John Doe, the Pennsylvania public, and in this bill, Senate Bill No. 23, all it does is to eliminate from the paper ballot and from the voting machines the opportunity to vote a straight party ticket. In other words you stand or fall on your own merits.

No longer would it be possible under this bill for a lot of candidates who are not entitled to represent the people of Pennsylvania to ride in on a head wind created by some popular figure at the head of the ticket.

This bill, Mr. President, I feel, is a little premature—like some of those crime cartoons perhaps, it is introduced thirty years too soon but there will come a day when this bill will become a law—perhaps not when you or I are in the Senate but there will be people who are a little more responsible, to express a willingness to vote for good government and insure good government in Pennsylvania, who will have an opportunity to pass this bill.

This bill has received editorial comment and favorable comment, if I might say so, from many newspapers all over Pennsylvania, especially from Allegheny County due to the fact, no doubt, the sponsor of the bill comes from Allegheny County, but I am deeply gratified that so many newspapers back this up as an opportunity to voice an expression in favor of a step toward good government and I want to say to the Republican leadership and the Democratic leadership that I think you are failing in your responsibility to the people of Pennsylvania in denying them an opportunity to judge you and me and other public officials on our merits and on theirs.

Mr. REED. Mr. President and members of this Senate, in considering this bill I think we should endeavor to determine whether its enactment would tend toward better government. I think that should be the guiding star that should lead towards the enactment or defeat of any bill of this Senate.

Today we have a ballot known as the straight party ballot and I understand this bill is for the purpose of taking away the party square and that is all this bill intends to do. In other words, a person who wants to vote for a Republican candidate under this bill would be compelled to consider and mark each candidate separately.

Now, Mr. President, the argument has been raised that this bill will destroy party government. If we still have party government in Pennsylvania I would argue that the enactment of this bill will not destroy it. I do not know whether we have strict party lines any more. I am in doubt whether we follow the same tactics as they did in the time of Hamilton and Jefferson; I am sure that party cleavage today is not the same as it was at that time.

I can cite an example. A leading office holder in Pennsylvania a few years ago said to me, "I am not a Democrat, I am a New Dealer."

We can carry the argument further, to the great city of Washington, D. C., where we find with the administration in power, in the cabinet we find two leading Republicans, the great Mr. Knox and the fine Mr. Simpson. So in passing I say I doubt whether we have strict cleavage between the parties at this time but if we do I repeat that the enactment of this bill will not destroy party government.

The gentleman from Allegheny has said wisely when he spoke to the effect that the enactment of this bill will make every candidate stand on his own merit. What is wrong with that under our form of government? I believe that any true American citizen would not want to become an office holder if he could not win that office through his own merits.

Mr. President, I knew the politicians would be against the bill. Certainly they would be against it, because under our present system many weaklings are carried into office for the sole and only purpose of being controlled by some politician in the background. Further arguing in favor of the enactment of this bill I want to call your attention to a case I was in a few years ago relating to ballot fraud and in all of the ballots that we examined where we found fraud we found it on straight party ballots. What they would do, they would mark for a straight party ticket and then go down to some very important office and mark an "X" down there. Under this kind of law that would in a great measure be taken away, because under this bill a voter must consider each candidate separately and mark an "X" after that candidate's name.

Now, members of the Senate, if we are going to follow what the gentleman from Jefferson County said this morning and lay aside political considerations at this time we ought to vote for the bill introduced by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, because it tends to take politics away from the ballot in a great measure, and in a measure that tends to lower the standard of candidates for office. It makes every candidate in a sense independent and then if that candidate is elected he can come into this Senate or go to Washington, D. C., or he can go into any other office feeling that he has broken the shackles or the ropes of political power and he will be able to stand on his own feet and vote as his conscience directs.

I sincerely hope that those who claim that they want to be released from political power, from the power that comes from some politician in the background, will have courage to vote their convictions and pass a bill that will help to bring about independent thought and action in the various governmental agencies in Pennsylvania.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, my esteemed colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, made two slips in his speech which I would like to correct.

It is unfortunate, when he associated the Republican party with John Doe, because to the minds of some people that might mean, you know, Mr. Joe Pew. That is spelled P-e-w.

In the second place I resent his belittling the statesmanship in this great Commonwealth. Have we not Senator James J. Davis in the United States Senate, who must be the author of some bill, although I can not place it.

Again, Mr. President, have we not Senator Joseph P. Guffey, the author of the Guffey coal bill? If you read the Pennsylvania Legislator, which will come to you this week, you will find out what the Guffey bill does.

On the one hand, Mr. President, the New Deal has an Arnold, who is fighting for monopoly.

Mr. Thurman Arnold in the Department of Justice, I believe, he is fighting monopoly and on the other hand we have Senator Guffey, who is promoting monopoly. It is perfectly true the coal bill encourages monopoly, it forces mine operators to unite in order to fix prices. I urge in conclusion therefore the President must be all things to all men; that is the only conclusion I can see.

Now then, Mr. President, as to the bill, I am heartily in favor of the bill because I think—well not so very long ago we thought we ought to have two parties and we needed more Democrats to have a strong opposition party —but I find that has been overdone. I like the Democratic party so long as it remains the minority party.

This bill appeals to the more intelligent electorate, that is, among the Republican party of course—they know how to cut their ballot—and it hurts the Democrats because the Democratic harmony is conspicuous by its absence; they have awful rows in the Democratic Party and I say give them a chance to cut their ticket—that is all to the good—and I hope everybody will vote for the bill.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I am surprised and amazed that a distinguished Republican leader would introduce in this body a bill which in effect confesses they are ashamed of the Republican party. For forty years I have watched these elections and ballots and I saw the grand old Republican party's straight "X" at the top. I never heard a word about split tickets or that this straight-party voting was wrong but now it appears lo and behold you after eight years of Democratic rule in the nation and a strong Democratic party in this state, we find a Republican Senator has introduced a bill which in effect, as I said before, is an admission that they are ashamed of their party.

I know in our county in the past eight years over two hundred thousand Republicans were so disgusted with their party that they left the Republican party and took the time not only to vote but to come over into our party and register Democratic.

Mr. President, I realize in Washington for the past eight years the Republican party has not had a single new idea, that in these trying times, the most trying we have ever gone through, the Republican party in Washington has not had a single idea, and now, when it comes to this state I am sure that anyone who believes in party government and believes in their party and has faith in it will not vote for this bill.

I am a firm believer in party government. I am thoroughly convinced that nothing very good or very lasting will come to this state or any other state unless it comes through a party.

I say the ballot is confusing as it is today; it is very confusing. Why make it more so? In the first place, this bill is unnecessary. Any voter can vote a split ticket today just as he could under this bill, if he wants to; if he does not want to go to that trouble he can vote a straight party ticket but if he prefers he can do it today under our present legislation.

I feel that to force the voters to go down through a list of candidates—and as a rule they do not know half of them—they will make more blunders, they will not know what they have done when they get through. Mr. President, half of the voters of this state can not pick up any of our ballots and go down through the list and know very well over half of the candidates and therefore I feel that is one good reason for responsibility in party government. A party does not necessarily or very often throw out to the public or give to the public a set of candidates that are not creditable. They are too smart for that; they are too practical for that, and I know that it is the purpose of both parties in this state, to get out as good a ticket as they can possibly get out. It means success, it means better government, and on the whole, people who are in politics are not so bad. I know a lot of good politicians in this state and when it comes right down to it, I will trust them, very often, more than I would some wild eyed reformer. I would take a politician whose word was good and rely on it whether it comes to governmental or party policy much quicker and with much more satisfaction than I would that of some wild eyed reformer who thinks he is going to change the entire complexion of the Government of Pennsylvania and so I am sure on the other side of this house today there are a lot of Republicans who are not ashamed and do not want the Grand Old Party forgotten.

They are not going to say that the party of Lincoln and McKinley should be forgotten and that they should go to the polls without having that grand opportunity of voting for the grand old party so that I know on the other side there will be a lot of people who are still proud of whatever the Republican Party has accomplished in the nation and this state.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am afraid our good friend Barney misunderstands the brand of shame and alarm he attributes to our colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Walker. I do think he misunderstands.

On that point, Mr. President, this bill as I understand it and as far as Senator Walker understands it, was not because he was looking down the Republican alley but because he was looking down what was supposed to be the Democratic alley but was marked the new deal alley and what he saw down that alley was so alarming to him that he thought if it was a sample or an example of what was to come, a bill of this kind had better be introduced fast and put through in a hurry for the protection of the Commonwealth and the country.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am going to support Senate Bill No. 23 for a number of reasons. I have heard so much about coat tail riders, I have been accused of being one of them by a local editor in my county. I was always willing to go to the primaries and come out on my own merits and I am willing to go to the fall election and be judged on the basis of my record and I think each and every man in this Senate should be judged accordingly.

Let me give you an illustration of what party policies mean. Here about two months ago I introduced in this body one of the most important bills ever dropped into the hopper, known as the Sixty at Sixty Plan, a bill designed to take care of the senior citizens of our Commonwealth.

Up until this very moment, Mr. President, because of party lines, that bill, as stated by my good colleague from Northampton, is not dead but as he said peacefully sleeping.

This might be premature and it might sound funny but the day must come when members of this Assembly must face the facts and something must be done when bills of that nature shall be given some consideration. As I have stated many times, a man who is sixty years of age will never again be employed by private industry. We all know that and I charge, Mr. President, had it not been for party policies my bill would have been out of this Senate and probably now be peacefully sleeping in the House.

I have talked with my colleagues on the floor and in private and they will tell me they think it is a good measure but on this floor because of party leaders they dare not even bring the bill out of committee. That is some of the results of party politics.

I am willing to go back home three years from now, if I am living and wish to seek public office and ask my constituents to support or defeat me upon the work I do in this Chamber. I am asking for no bosses to come into my county and plead for me. I live in a Republican county and I have been elected three times to serve my people on this Hill. If my party bosses could do it they would make sure that I would stay back home, so I have no fear of party bosses, and I say to you gentlemen, if you are going to be judged on the basis of your record, stand up and be counted and do not be coat tail riders; place your name before the public and ask the people who support your cause on the basis of your record but no, as long as we have party policies, as long as they are able to mark an "X" in the square, as stated by my good friend from Washington, Senator Reed, we have many many persons who come down to serve their people, they think, but they find out they are only puppets and serving the bosses.

I have witnessed in this Chamber a boss come in back of the rail and call members over and then within a few moments time they have changed their minds. They tell you in private how they shall vote and after the bosses contact them immediately you find a different picture. That is party policies. I am fearful that we do not have sufficient red blooded men that will stand up here and vote for this bill. I say that sincerely because I charge most of them will turn out to be those who are happy to ride into office on somebody's coat tail.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there are two sides to this question, one side is the serious side and one is the humorous side. The humorous side has been somewhat taken care of by our good colleague from Germantown, Mr. Philadelphia.

I would like to add a little more to the humor of it and say to you that after the voting on this bill is through some of us may find out what gentlemen prefer blondes—spelled with a "Q."

Mr. President, I have been importuned to vote for this bill by a very good looking reason but I have been thinking about the fact that there is a serious side to the bill. We have been hearing a great deal about the fact that this country thrives on a two party system. We remember when the President of the United States in a great emergency determined to avoid, as he thought, political matters injected into national defense, he appointed two members to his Cabinet who were members of the other major political party. Those two gentlemen were immediately read out of their party and that was because there is a firm belief in the people who have something to say about the government of this country, and that is that political party leaders feel there should be two strong parties and that they should stand or fall upon their respective principles.

Now, Mr. President, I cannot see how this bill can do other than interfere with that and on the other hand I do not see how this bill can prevent the interference or the injection of the so-called party leaders into politics and into legislation.

Those of us who know anything about elections know we have a primary election and that the party is supposed to put on the ticket candidates who stand for certain principles and who are decent and respected and so long as the party did that the Republican Party got somewhere.

Eventually the people began to figure out that party had not the principles or the candidates and along came another party which developed principles which seemed to appeal to a majority of the voters. That party seemed to think like Henry Ford, that if you get down to rock bottom and go to the people who will buy and give them something that appeals to them, you will get more customers. The leaders of the Democratic Party came to the conclusion if you pay attention to those people who vote and you try to respond to their desires, you will be a real leader and you will be a real party and that in my opinion was the real reason for the growth of the Democratic party, and as long as it continues to follow that principle it can expect to grow. A principle portends, of course, to two important objectives, one is to stand for a real principle and the other is to see that the people who are on your ticket will abide by and carry out the principles and follow the instructions of the people who elect them.

When you come to balloting, in the primaries those people who differ from their party leaders and who favor other candidates can vote for their choice, and when you come to the November election there is nothing to prevent you, as the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, pointed out, from voting without using the party lever or the party ballot.

Now, Mr. President, there is something which strikes me as peculiar about this bill. The Republican Party has for years talked about the fact that you sell a party principle and then you warn the people that if they split their ballot they are likely to spoil it and therefore you should stand by and vote the party principle by voting the straight party ticket.

That was all right until two things developed. One was a new party, and a lot of voters voted for a real principle and a real candidate. The other was that the party became so strong and the candidate so popular that unless you could break down that straight vote you were doomed to defeat.

It seems to me that is the wrong way to attack a real problem. If the Republican Party feels the principles of the Democratic Party are not good they should offer better principles, they should offer a better program and then they will not have to worry about splitting up the ticket, because I believe in the responsibility of the party for the program, and as long as the party carries out its program it does not have to worry about the men on the ticket; they will be either those who carry it out or the party goes down to defeat.

What else do you want? Do you want to make it more difficult for the Democratic voters to vote for the Democratic Party or do you really stand on principles and good government? If you have good principles, if you have good government, if you have honest candidates, you will win and if you do not you will not, and even this bill will not help you if you do not have both the principles and the candidates; it will not help you a bit, I say to you very frankly, notwithstanding what has been said here.

I do not want to continue breaking my arm patting myself on the back but I do think I am known in my district and I think if I had been a candidate without Mr. Roosevelt I would have gotten a sizeable vote, but I assure you if I had been a candidate on the Republican ticket in 1936, I would have been defeated and I do not hesitate to say that I was elected because of Mr. Roosevelt, and I was elected because of Mr. Roosevelt because I believe in his principles and I said as a candidate I would support his principles.

I see nothing to be ashamed of in that and I see nothing to be ashamed of when a leader of a party comes to the rail to discuss with members of his party about principles and asks them to abide by those principles. That is his duty; in fact if he wants to remain a leader that in my opinion is really the duty of a party leader.

I do not believe in party leaders or anyone else interfering when it comes to a bill which has no party significance, and only having private importance, and so I say this bill neither corrects or helps the situation.

The only thing that will give you the right kind of voting, the only thing that will attract to you or to me enough people who will elect you to public office from now on is party principle, character and reputation and it is because of the importance of that that I disbelieve in any rule which either gags you in voting or interferes with you in voting or makes it more difficult for you to express your choice in the voting booth or makes it difficult for you to express your opinion on the floor of the Senate.

I do not believe either a rule or a bill of this kind will create good government. The only thing that will create good government is an understanding of the responsibility which each public official has when he is elected to public office. The only time to worry about party politics and policies is when you are running on your ticket; see that you explain that to the people and stand by it. When you come here a holder of public office or a member of the legislative body you are not a Republican or a Democrat, you are a public official representing neither party but representing the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and carrying out for the people the principles of the party's platform on which you were elected.

You look for reasons why the Republican Party has gone down and try to correct them. Well, if you are looking for the reasons you will not use this method of correction but you will take the only method of bringing any party before the eyes of the people to a standing of respect and that is good party government and performance in carrying out party pledges. This is just a gesture. I am going to vote against this bill because I do not believe it will help solve the problem, but I will vote in favor of all things that will make party politics and party candidates live up to their promises.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not intend to prolong this discussion but just in a humorous vein I noticed the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, had quite a bit of humor in his talk and at one particular point he said something to the effect that we had a Democratic Governor and that is something. In the same vein I might say we have a Republican Governor and that is nothing. I also liked that part of the talk of my good friend from Germantown when he said he was in favor of this bill because there are too many Democrats. To my way of looking at it, when my friend from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, made a slip and he said over on the other side of the House there are "Dem" Republicans he did not mean "Dems."

Personally I think the party primary serves the purpose you would like to have us believe this bill serves. You know once a man told me I was elected to the Senate the first time because I rode in on the coat tails of Roosevelt and I made the remark President Roosevelt did not run in my county in the primary and if I had not won in the primary I could not have run in the general election.

I believe something which is more dangerous to our form of government and the thing which would make for good government would be if we would destroy the party caucus procedure we indulge in here in the Senate and the House of Representatives. No matter if you are elected on a split ticket, when you come down here you caucus with a certain party. Why my good friend from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, was not elected by the Republican party and yet he caucuses with the republican party. If I remember the vote right it was the few votes he got on the Royal Oak ticket, from the Coughlinites, that gave him the necessary majority to defeat his Democratic opponent, but he does not caucus with Father Coughlin and I do not think he even listens to him.

My good friend from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, is awfully worried about what may be the line of distinction between the New Dealers and the Democrats. Well, that is our own problem and worry and yet for some reason we Democrats get along very well with the New Dealers.

In all seriousness I think we are being very foolish here today. We have wasted an hour and a half or two hours this morning listening to the personal history of one legislator and now we have wasted another hour and a half listening to everybody make themselves independent. Why, Mr. President, we are no more independent—we may kid ourselves a little—but in the final analysis everyone of us leans a little bit on the party. I can remember many times when I would go into a district where I was not particularly well liked—you know, they did not know me very well—and I stood up on a platform and raved and ranted along about the great Democratic Party and how they should vote the straight Democratic ticket, as that was the only way you could save your vote, and of course that helped me. I admit, Mr. President, I am a politician. The difference between the fellow who admits he is a politician and the fellow who does not admit he is a politician is that the one is conceited and the other one is honest.

Once I think it was my friend Tom Kennedy, who served as President of the Senate prior to the time that we had the present very capable President of the Senate, I think he once said to me that a statesman was a dead politician; you only find statesmen under tombstones, not on the Senate floor.

I cannot yet rise to that height but I hope to later, on another bill; in the meantime I am going to vote "No" and for fear of being misunderstood back home and having my good friend Arthur Sweeney, Secretary of Welfare, misquote me as he did last week—I think he said last week I stood on the Senate floor and said the American Legion program was silly and they did not know what they were doing.

Of course, Mr. President, I did not say that but being a Democrat I could expect it in Arthur's paper. Of course that did not keep me from being a statesman and confirming Arthur even if he is a Republican, but as a politician I am going to vote for the bill—I mean to kill it—and in so doing I hope when I am gone they will say "here lies a statesman that was once a politician."

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, as an everlasting monument to the integrity of this body and as an everlasting glory to the righteousness of partisan spirit, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, enroll the name of one present day politician on the Journal of this Senate whose word is good and whose motives are geared to the general welfare.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair believes the proper procedure would be for the gentleman from Fayette to interrogate the gentleman from whom he expects an answer.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Fayette please take the microphone, as we on this side can not hear what he says when he gets up occasionally.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Fayette repeat his query.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, as an everlasting monument to the integrity of this body, and as an everlasting glory to the righteousness of partisan spirit, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis enroll upon the Journal of this Senate the name of a present day politician whose word is good and whose motives are geared to the general welfare?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I think this is wholly unnecessary. Whatever I would say to you here would not mean much but it does mean something to the people back home, the voters that have known me for forty or fifty years, and know what I have done, after the campaign where the issues were discussed openly and clearly, and I have been sent here and was reelected after having been here four years, I am willing to trust to the good judgment of the people back home.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. With great pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr President, in response to the interrogation of the gentleman from Fayette I should like to ask him whether he will accept my nomination for the high office and I now nominate Samuel Lewis, our presiding officer.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. The nomination is closed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I move the previous question.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Section 7 If any section sentence clause or provision of this act shall for any reason be held unlawful or unconstitutional the validity of the remaining parts thereof shall not be affected thereby

Section 8 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 9 The provisions of this act shall become effective sixty (60) days after final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, as we note in this bill, the first section is preceded by many whereas clauses and the first two clauses are very, very interesting. The first clause reads thus:

"Whereas, the practice of selling certain items of merchandise at cost or less than cost in order to protect patronage is generally a form of deceptive advertising and an unfair method of competition in commerce; and

"Whereas, such practice causes commercial dislocation, misleads the consumer, works back against the farmer directly, burdens and obstructs commerce and diverts business from dealers who maintain a fair policy.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I should like to hear what the gentleman from Fayette is saying. Will he please take the microphone.

The PRESIDENT. A request has been made that the gentleman from Fayette make use of the microphone.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I think I was reading the second whereas clause:

"Whereas, such practice causes commercial dislocation, misleads the consumer, works back against the farmer, directly burdens and obstructs commerce and diverts business from dealers who maintain a fair price policy."

Now, Mr. President, paraphrasing somewhat the language used by the gentleman from Washington when speaking concerning Senate Bill No. 50, when this bill came into this body it was a perfectly good healthy person, had all of its members from top to bottom.

I do not recall that I was in the Committee on Judiciary General when this bill was acted upon and finally sent to the Senate floor but I have examined the bill on my desk and I notice that on page 4, lines 2 and 3, there has been inserted an amendment which excludes from the provision of this bill manufacturers and from that page on we will find that same amendment.

I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, the sponsor of this bill, whether manufacturers are not amenable to the same conditions as retail dealers are and as mentioned in the first whereas of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Certainly, Mr. President.

May I suggest to the gentleman from Fayette that manufacturers were excluded so that, for example, take in my home county, some steel mills that make steel and want to sell it will not be obliged to discuss with some people the problem of whether or not they come under the bill and be obliged to take into consideration the two or four per cent mark up.

The word manufacturer is excluded for that purpose, because it was not the purpose of the drafters of the bill, those interested in its passage, to include manufacturing companies and in order to permit that the elimination was stated in the affirmative in the bill to forever lay that ghost that was haunting them.

To directly answer the question of the gentleman from Fayette they are amenable to the provisions of the bill and therefore were taken out.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the word "manufacturer" exclude also from the provisions of this bill the oil manufacturers who process crude oil into many other by-products such as gasoline and motor oil.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion the gentleman from Fayette would save time if he would ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, if that is what he desires to do.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny state whether or not the word "manufacturers" excludes from the provisions of this bill the big oil companies that process crude oil into by-products such as gasoline and motor oils and so forth.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Fayette may I state if oil companies are manufacturers, whether they be big or little, they would be excluded. I am not familiar with the oil industry and I do not know whether or not they are manufacturers but if they are manufacturers they would be excluded.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, do we not have in this Commonwealth oil companies such as the Sun Oil Company and the Gulf, who do manufacturing of crude oil into by-products such as gasoline and motor oil and so forth.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I understand there are oil companies in Pennsylvania—the gentleman from Fayette has only named one or two of them—and I would like to name some more so that the rest of them will not be jealous at the omission; there are hundreds of oil companies, if they are manufacturers, they will be excluded in the bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated.

Mr. WALKER. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in the opinion of the gentleman from Allegheny are those oil companies mentioned manufacturers under the provisions of this bill.

Mr. WALKER. There again, Mr. President, I must plead ignorance of the oil industry. I do not know whether or not oil companies are manufacturers. If they are manufacturers they are excluded from the provisions of this bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated.

Mr. WALKER. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Does the word "manufacturer' in this bill exclude from its provisions the A. & P. Stores and other chain stores which manufacture many of their own commodities and sell them over the counters in their own stores.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I state for the information of the gentleman from Fayette that chain stores such as the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company—I assume that is the company to which the gentleman referred—collaborated in the preparation of this bill and are very desirous of having it passed. As I understand the problem of their manufacture, they have the articles manufactured under their name—they do not manufacture the goods but merely have the commodities boxed under certain titles or trade names, various products which they sell.

To use an illustration, I do not understand the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company to be a manufacturer.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I thank the gentleman from Allegheny for his permission to be interrogated.

Mr. WALKER. That is perfectly all right, Mr. President, any time the gentleman from Fayette desires information I will be very glad to give it to him if it is within my knowledge.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to add a little of my information to the information imparted to us by the gentleman from Allegheny. The oil companies mentioned, and those not named, who do process crude oil into by-products are classified in this Commonwealth as manufacturers and hence they are going to be excluded from this bill.

Also this information: the Atlantic and Pacific Stores and a few more like those stores manufacture many of their own commodities and sell them over their counters and I am not amazed in the least that when the Atlantic and Pacific Store officials were permitted to sit in on the deliberations on this bill they were perfectly willing to accept the amendments which exclude manufacturers.

I do hesitate, like I have hesitated in times past, to vote against a bill the purpose of which when introduced was logical and just but which after having undergone the processes of this Senate, came out of committee mutilated such as this bill is, it excludes the manufacturers, I have no hesitancy in me to vote against a bill of this character.

It is very evident here, and I say parenthetically in view of the position taken by some very good members of this body on previous legislation, that we want to be sincere and honest, we want to do things constructive and now, when we look at this bill if we vote for a bill of this character, is it something constructive or something destructive.

I hesitate at this time to inject in any talk concerning this bill the phrase "special privilege" but now, gentlemen, clearly whenever you take this bill as introduced which applies generally to all persons who deal in commodities, and then see it as it comes out of committee and now before us, with the manufacturers excluded, how can you say that it is not a bill for special privileges? Those interests who are excluded and denominated in this bill as manufacturers, now they are excluded.

Can you honestly say then this bill is not a bill that sets special privilege on the one side, special interests defined as manufacturers, and allow the provisions of this bill to apply solely to those small people, to those poor retailers that we have so many of along the country roads and in the little towns and cities and hamlets of our Commonwealth?

Here is what this bill will open the door to: since it does not apply to manufacturers—let us take some oil company—you may have a gasoline station on one corner of the street and they charge you one price for the gasoline and their products that they sell to you for you to retail to the general public and then if they do not like you they go right across the street to the next corner, where your competitor is, and they can sell him the same goods they sell you at prices lower than at which they sell you and give your competitor a chance to sell cheaper than you and drive you out of business.

That can be also applied to other manufacturers here under this bill. Truly, if you look at this bill sincerely and honestly, will not the effect of the bill, if passed, be that it will permit that to be done? Do you want it done or don't you want it done? Personally I think we ought not to open the door; I think the bill ought to be general and ought to apply to all of them and to manufacturers as well as retailers in this case.

My mind has been open up until this point, and the more I think of it the more I think we ought to defeat this bill or send it back to committee and remove from it the provision that excludes the manufacturers from its provisions.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, two years ago on the floor of this Senate, during the 1939 session, the very distinguished gentleman from Fayette in debate of another bill accused me of representing various oil companies. I would like to report to the gentleman from Fayette at this time his suggestion fell on stony ground—I still do not represent them.

There is always a suggestion that mysterious figures lurk in the background. I might say, Mr. President, the purpose of eliminating manufacturers was explained in the interrogatories between the gentleman from Fayette and myself. We cannot legislate against sin and we are not trying to do it.

But, Mr. President, we can attempt to correct something in the merchandising field which those who are engaged in it, including the little fellows in the hamlets and little cities and towns, are trying to do.

Two years ago a somewhat similar bill was presented by the very distinguished gentleman from Indiana, Senator Wolfenden, from the very famous county of Indiana, and a number of the members of the Senate at that time voted for the bill and the bill was later sent over to the House and passed but was vetoed by the Governor, due to the enforcement provision in the bill.

This bill was drafted after a lot of careful consultation with the attorney general in order to escape running aground on the Governor's veto.

The bill has been approved by the various people representing all phases of the merchandising industry and like every proud parent I am awfully anxious to become a father of a bill.

I failed a few minutes ago by the overwhelming decision of 37 to 12.

This bill I believe to be needed in the merchandising industry and this bill has been approved by all those so engaged, they are anxious to have the protection this bill affords and I would respectfully request my colleagues' aid.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I made a statement against a similar bill to this in 1939, and I do not agree that this bill has corrected the objections that the Attorney General had that the Governor had against this bill in 1939.

I add to what has already been stated by the gentleman from Fayette in connection with the manufacturers' exemption granted here the fact that this exempts a large class of people, such as tailors, who manufacture their own suits and sell them at retail, gasoline stations on one corner which are operated by manufacturers of gasoline who may be exempt, whereas on the other corner a station operated by an individual will not be exempted.

The other thing I object to in the bill is that you will find a druggist who manufactures his own preparation on one corner and a chain store company, manufacturing the same product, operating a similar drug store, and the same product as was manufactured by the druggist, would be exempted, whereas a similar article not manufactured but purchased by the chain store would not be exempt. What effect this bill can have in my opinion with this provision is rather problematical.

This bill does not apply when the price of merchandise is made in good faith to meet competition. What is meant by meeting competition? If my competitor on the other side sells an article at ten cents and I want to sell and compete with him I think I have the right under that phrase to sell for nine and a half cents.

This bill, however, says I cannot sell it unless I add two per cent, and yet if I want to meet competition it says I have a right to do that and the bill does not apply.

Now, Mr. President, the objection to the bill by the Governor is contained in these words, in his veto; as follows:

"The bill would impliedly repeal the act of July 1, 1937, P. L. 2672."

I am now reading from page 177 of Vetoes by the Governor.

"The act of 1937 has been held unconstitutional by two county courts of the Commonwealth, primarily because it prohibited sales below cost, regardless of injury or of the seller's intent. The bill, however, would require such intention to injure, or injury to consumers or competitors of the seller." The same requirement is still in this act.

The veto message continues:

"This requirement of proof of intention or of injury would cause almost insurmountable difficulty of enforcement, for which no appropriation was made. District attorneys would be expressly saddled with the duty of enforcing a measure regulating everyday business tactics, whereof the proof of violation requires a staff of investigators, auditors and appraisers—yet they are provided with no funds for the purpose. It has been proved in other states that legislation of this kind is always most difficult to enforce. However, if this bill were to become a law, district attorneys would be expected to enforce it by depleting their own meager appropriations intended and necessary for securing the punishment of common law criminals; if they would fail to do so the law would be a useless piece of paper for lack of enforcement. In either event, the public interest will be better served if this measure is not signed under the present condition of county finances throughout the Commonwealth."

Now, Mr. President, I call your attention to the fact that under section 4 of this act any violation of the law is made a criminal offense. The man who desires today to sell his article at a price, which he ought to have the right to do, is faced with a fine on conviction and in order to be convicted if he goes before a magistrate on summary conviction, as is here provided, the question of accounting will immediately arise.

Can you picture the situation of coming before a magistrate in Philadelphia and arguing with him whether a certain discount, which according to this bill may or may not be included, shall be included in order to determine the price, and if the magistrate does not believe the accountant, or if he does not like the accountant produced by one side or the other, the magistrate can then fine that man summarily according to the act.

Is that the kind of a law which we are going to pass today?

That will also do other things. You will ask magistrates to become accountants or every business man shall engage accountants and take them to a magistrate's court to prove this two per cent added to the cost and then you will get into the question of what is the cost, and you have not defined it here.

It seems to me this kind of regulation is going a little too far with the rights of public or private enterprise; a man has a right to be free from that kind of harrassment in his business and for that reason I am going to vote against the bill because I think it is not any better now than it was the last time.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I agree with the gentleman from Fayette when he said this bill when introduced was a good bill but I do think the amendments weakened the bill. I am going to vote for the bill and I would ask the sponsor of the bill to appear with me before a committee of the House for a hearing.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I might say I will be very glad to appear with my distinguished colleague from Allegheny at a hearing in the House. I am glad to know there is somebody in the Senate who has some control in the House and can automatically get a hearing.

This morning we had a discussion here by the distinguished gentleman from Jefferson in which the question was raised as to whether or not he was qualified to speak and vote on a bill. May I say, Mr. President, I do not represent any grocery chains or any grocery stores or any merchants who would be directly or indirectly affected by this bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to announce I just recalled my office represents a grocery chain. Whether it is affected by this bill or is not I do not know but I shall therefore not vote on the bill. I would have voted "no" if I could vote.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I am in the same situation.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows: viz:

[(q) The exercise of all other powers needful to the doing of anything which is or may be hereafter required] or permitted to be done in said court whether incidental to the powers hereinbefore enumerated or in addition thereto

And such jurisdiction shall be exercised under the limitations and in the manner provided by law

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—3

Frey,	McGinnis,	Mundy,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 125, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on unpaid county, (except counties of the second class) city (except cities of the first and second class), borough, town, township, school district (except school districts of the first class) poor district (except in counties of the second class) and county institution district (except in counties of the second class) taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 125

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 125, passed second reading?

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not like to object to the motion but I think as sponsor of this bill I have not had too much consideration in the matter. If it is going to be sent back to a committee again and reamended and so on I would suggest that they amend the sponsorship of the bill and give it to somebody else.

Mr. President and members of the Senate, a few months ago this bill first appeared on the Senate floor. I tried to work out the various details and the objections that were made to the bill. I have been very amenable and asked that any amendments that were reasonable be presented and we have examined every amendment that was offered; one particular amendment was offered three times and was kicked out twice. I think the time has come when we should have to vote on this question of tax abatement. If there are any details in this bill still remaining that are not right I do not think we can pass any bill here which will meet the entire satisfaction of the House members and perhaps we are just wasting more time by sending it back to second reading for amendment, let it lay over for printing, and vote on it. If there are not enough votes to pass it, then let us defeat the bill but let us once and for all have this particular bill off the Calendar. We have been here quite a few weeks and this bill has been in since the first week and I suggest that we defeat this motion to send it back on second reading because if the motion carries I am going to make a motion the bill be sent back to the pickling barrel and there let it die and then let an intelligent House pass a bill.

I think the Senate is dilly-dallying on this bill; I do not know whether we have the courage to vote on it but if we do not, let us have the courage to vote against it. This is one of my rare occasions of being a statesman.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, there have been many speeches made about leadership in the Senate today and in many of them the members have objected to following party leadership, but let me just add this, that this is just another example of absence of intelligent leadership.

All through this session we have stood here, from early in January until this time, and have accomplished practically nothing and I say all the embarrassment of the members here, particularly the embarrassment of the presiding officer of this Senate, in my opinion, is brought about by the absence of proper direction and proper leadership and I hope sometime some of us will get fixed on where we are going and when we are going there.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I would suggest to the gentleman from Westmoreland that he need not despair of passing this bill. I still have hopes this will pass. I would have been satisfied to have voted for the bill just as in its original form but I have been so much interested in having a bill passed that will abate penalties and interest on delinquent taxes that I have been willing to meet with whomsoever was interested in such a measure.

I am frank to confess, Mr. President, that I have had to yield quite a bit and the amendments which I am about to offer represent a yielding on my part, but I do so in the hope the bill will finally pass.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Blair tell me the intent of the amendments he proposes to offer?

Mr. MALLERY. Well, Mr. President, the principal amendment is one changing the provision applying to the optional feature in the bill; an amendment which I propose and which I believe is necessary in order to secure passage is one that now will require the taxing authority to elect to accept the bill.

Mr. HALUSKA. In other words, Mr. President, am I to understand it will be mandatory rather than optional?

Mr. MALLERY. No, Mr. President, it is optional.

Mr. HALUSKA. You are making it optional by this amendment?

Mr. MALLERY. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. It is a very bad amendment, Mr. President, I would say.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the bill is now optional; the only difference in it is a matter of opinion; it is a matter of rejection instead of acceptance, so therefore it is purely a technicality. If the taxing body has to meet to reject the provisions of the act it can just as well meet and accept the provisions.

What it has really done is this: the reason the rejection feature was put into the bill was that many taxing authorities who are perfectly satisfied with the bill will have to have a meeting to accept it and under this provision, which is nothing but a stab in the back if you please, they have to meet; they must meet to accept the bill and therefore I want to say with due regard to the gentleman from Blair, he has worked conscientiously and honestly for the passage of this bill, but I want him to know that I am tired of being led around by persons on this Senate floor who are not for the bill in any form, and I do not want him to be a sucker any longer and that is all he is; he puts one amendment in to please people and then he has to take it out. I know it because I have worked with him but I say to him that if we cannot pass this bill in its present form we should let an intelligent House take on where we leave off.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, I am not a sponsor of the bill. I would have been very happy to have been a sponsor, however, of a tax abatement bill. Four tax abatement bills passed in the Senate during the depression, which were taken advantage of by the bankers, by the mortgage forclosure houses and by the building and loan associations, and now for the first time we have an opportunity of passing a tax abatement bill which will have the effect that we originally intended it to have.

I cannot speak for the gentleman from Jefferson—I do not know what financial difficulties he has had out in his district—but I do know the financial difficulty in Allegheny County and particularly with the 355,000 people from the forty-fifth Senatorial district.

This depression has wrecked employment one hundred per cent. I know there have been many families, good hard working conscientious men who prior to the depression tried to accumulate a little money in order to secure a home, on which there was a mortgage, and because of the total lack of employment had very great difficulty to even get food, let alone paying taxes, and I know from personal experience if we pass this act they will have the advantage of it.

I am sick and tired and disgusted with the obstruction this bill has met in its passage through this Senate and I think it is a disgrace to the Senate when I pick the history up and see what has happened to the bill while it has been in this Senate.

It is a picayune thing, I say, that we must once again recommit this bill simply because there are certain people who do not want it.

The bill now provides if a board, municipality or political sub-division does not wish to take advantage of it that they must reject it. I can see no reason for this amendment.

I am not interested personally because my taxes to date have been paid and I can take no advantage of this bill. I represent no bankers or no building and loan associations or any other person who can have a personal advantage in the bill, but I am sincerely interested in these people of Allegheny County in my senatorial district who can take advantage of it and if it comes to the worst, if the only possible way it is possible to pass this bill is to again amend it, then of course I will have to vote to amend the bill.

I want to thank the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Mallery, and some of the other gentlemen on the right who have worked hard and conscientiously and sincerely for passage of this bill and who have worked toward the many compromises and I think if we have to take a bill which is a compromise in order to accomplish the thing that is what we must do.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, evidently there is some feeling on the other side of the House as to what the opinion of the gentleman from Jefferson on any particular bill may be. I have only a few words to say now.

From the very beginning every courtesy has been extended by myself to the author of this bill and those who have prepared it; every time I pointed out fully and completely the errors there were in it and it seems to me that some people refuse to be told. In the first place, the title did not tell the optional feature, and I called attention to it, and in section 6 the latter part of it was not clear and a lien could be lost by it. Amendments were made again and again upon my suggestion but not upon dictation, to make it a constitutional bill and to make it one that would be acceptable to all people.

This bill is being put through for a specific purpose, for specific people, and it is not my purpose to stand in the road of it. I have been indicating all of those things and they have now the amendments and I am pleased to say that would make this bill acceptable to those who have been in opposition to it, I think. It is not entirely the way we hoped and there are one or two bad features yet, but here is a thought on the subject. Why should you put a great majority of the people to the trouble and expense of acceptance, in the matter of acceptance, the question of whether you will take the act or not? Why will you compel everyone who does not want to accept the act —and they are far in the majority—to go about it and say that we must go forward within thirty days and so forth? There will be only a few who will accept this act, we are sure, for specific purposes known to us and with which I am in sympathy. Those people should be given a chance and this is the time that you will have to do it, show that we want them to come in. To make a long story short, I will have to oppose the bill if you put the responsibility on the taxing authorities to reject the bill, but if they will leave it up to the taxing authorities to accept the bill and leave us out of all this trouble and they have corrected the title and they have made several other things clear about it, I think it will be all right.

Since March 3 this has been going on and it is recognized, it must be recognized by the people themselves, it was not right and it was not in proper form and they have heard from home and I am just merely saying it is only fair and I would be very glad to assure the gentleman from Blair, Senator Mallery, although there is one feature about it, the question of abatement of 1941 taxes—I am opposed to that—but I will step aside and say I will vote for this bill, for those amendments if they go through.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, may I interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Jefferson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Indeed I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Jefferson tell me whether he voted for this bill in 1939—the tax abatement bill?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I do not know whether I did or not—I think I did but my special attention was not called to the defective parts of it. There were many things to take care of. That 1939 bill was not properly drawn and I learned that because the taxing authorities questioned me on it and analyzed it out and when my attention was drawn to it I saw it was not constitutional and was not properly covered and those errors are recognized by the author of this bill and by the people who want to put it through and these are not captious suggestions and are not intended to hamper the bill. I merely wanted to be constructive and at no time wanted to defeat this bill, but now that the bill has been considered again, although even now it will not be perfect from my standpoint or the Senator from Blair, Mr. Mallery, and those who are interested in this matter, I will be glad to go along providing they carry out this little last part of the agreement.

Nearly all legislation is more or less of a compromise and we felt it was unfair to the taxing authorities who do not want to go along with this act to compel them within thirty days, townships, boroughs, school boards and so on —should be forced to take this action.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman from Jefferson kindly.

I just want to point out this bill is identical in title and identical in wording and he is now trying to place amendments in the act passed by the majority of the Republican Senators and members of the House in 1939. The bill was never contested in court and therefore I maintain we ought to vote "no" on this bill in its present form as it is identically the same bill in those particular instances they want now amended that they voted for in 1939.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I think there is one feature about this bill which is very bad, which makes it the worst tax abatement bill ever proposed in this Senate. I do not find fault with the fact that it has taken a good while to work this bill into shape.

Pennsylvania is so diverse in conditions and industries that necessarily it takes a good bit of time in order to get a bill which will meet the conditions of the various communities.

I am willing to vote for a tax abatement bill provided it has an optional feature but a bill which requires the taxables to pay only one-tenth of the tax which is back will never accomplish anything. This bill, of course, will be of benefit to banks, building and loan associations, and coal companies but in its present form it will not be of very much advantage to the little home owner.

It is said during the next two or three years employment will increase and taxes can be paid. That may be true. Then why require the taxable to pay only one-tenth of the taxes? If he were required to pay one-fifth, or even less, the first year and half the balance the second year and all the balance the third year, the little home owner may save his home.

The bill in its present form encourages him not to pay taxes but to have them pile up and have him lose his home.

There were some signs the country was returning to a sane sound form of government and economy, and I had hoped we were going to accomplish something, but I presume I was a little too optimistic because I have learned the Federal government is still paying money to the farmers not to raise wheat, notwithstanding the fact that prices are increasing; I have learned the Federal Government is encouraging people to go into debt, to build houses which they cannot afford to build and for which everyone knows they will not be able to pay.

We had an instance here the other week where this department for the relief of social security workers brought in a great volume to show us what is going on in the Department of Public Assistance, where employees increase and prices of administering the department go up.

Everyone must know waste and extravagance is going on all around us, which will bring us into chaos, a depression which will make the so-called depression of 1932 look like an era of plenty.

Mr. President, if those people who are back in taxes really are earnest about wanting to save their homes and pay the taxes, they should be given a period of two, three or four years at the outside to do it and not encourage them to let the taxes go until another depression falls on them again.

I feel the bill in its present form is the worst tax abatement bill ever introduced in the Senate and in its present form I cannot vote for it.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, this bill was intended to relieve the taxpayers; the purpose of it when introduced was to give relief to the taxpayers. Its purpose was not to give power to the taxing authorities to decide whether the abatement should be given or not. Now, you will read the title and see that was the purpose of the bill introduced in this body. If the amendments of the gentleman from Blair are permitted to be placed in this bill, then the purpose of the bill is changed. It ceases to be a bill abating penalties and interest, and becomes a bill giving the taxing authorities the right to say whether there should be an abatement or not.

I want to distinctly call the President's attention to section 1 of article 3 of the constitution which says: "No law shall be passed except by bill and no bill shall be altered or amended on passage through either House as to change its original purpose.

Now, Mr. President, admittedly the amendments offered here, or attempted to be offered by the gentleman from Blair, change the purpose of this bill as I have already indicated; it makes the bill a bill granting power to the taxing body to say whether there shall be abatement or not; but the bill when introduced, in its title says, "abating certain tax penalties and interest on unpaid county (except counties of the second class) or city (except cities of the first and second class) borough townships school districts (except school districts of the first class) poor district (except in counties of the second class) and county institution districts (except in counties of the second class) taxing prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof."

Now, Mr. President, these amendments will make this bill unconstitutional and they ought not to be permitted in this bill.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I would like to inform the gentleman from Fayette that the proposed amendments also include an amendment to the title.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. But, Mr. President, my objection is that the title cannot be changed so as to change the purpose of the bill from the original purpose.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—37

Barr,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Thomas,
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Becker,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Wade,
Carr,	Frey,	Miller,	Walker,

NAYS—12

Cavalcante,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,	Ruth,
Dent,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Shapiro,
DiSilvestro,	Lanius,	Reed,	Stiefel,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on unpaid delinquent county (except counties of the second class) city (except cities of the first and second class) borough town township school district (except school districts of the first class) poor district (except in counties of the second class) and county institution district (except counties of the second class) taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and forty and all previous years assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent county poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided unless the authority levying the tax shall notify the county treasurer within thirty days after this act becomes effective that the taxing authority has rejected by a majority vote the provisions of this act

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act ten per centum or more of the unpaid delinquent taxes due for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one ten per centum or more on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-two ten per centum or more on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-three ten per centum or more on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-four and the unpaid balance on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-five Provided That the taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one together with any interest and penalties due thereon shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one And provided further That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent county poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event the total amount of the abated penalties and interest shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move to amend section 1, page 2, lines 7 and 8, by striking out the following: "and on delinquent county poll taxes"; Amend section 1 page 2, line 9 and 10, by striking out the following: "without the necessity for further action by the authority levying the tax"; Amend section 1, page 2, line 11, by striking out after the word "provided" the word "unless" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "and"; Amend section 1, page 2, line 12, by striking out after the word "shall" the word "notify" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "have notified"; Amend section 1, page 2, line 14, by striking out after the word "has" the word "rejected" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "accepted"; Amend section 1, page 3, lines 10 and 11, by striking out the following: "and on delinquent county poll taxes".

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. DENT. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Blair tell me why he is amending the bill to take out the delinquent poll tax?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, as one of the Senators suggested, the amount of the poll taxes would be so small that poll taxes should not be—penalties and interest on poll taxes should not be abated, and I agree with them.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe when you start to do something and you know what you want that you ought to go along but you should not go along when the majority use your name to serve their own purposes.

Delinquent poll taxes, as we all know, are a matter of private collections in the State of Pennsylvania, and by levying penalties and interest on unpaid delinquent poll taxes, you allow enough margin for private collection agencies to step into the picture and collect delinquent poll taxes.

Mr. President, I claim and say honestly that I do not want my name to be part or parcel of any such maneuver, and therefore I say to the gentlemen of the Senate that if you want a tax abatement bill with that particular feature in it, with the additional feature of the next amendment to be offered, if that amendment is to go into the bill, then I as the sponsor am not getting the results that I wanted when I introduced the bill.

Mr. President, if you do not agree with me, if you do not think what I wanted is right, that is perfectly all right, but do not let me suffer the humiliation of having a bill passed that does not do what I promised my people it would do. Therefore I ask you to do one thing for me, and I say this honestly, if you intend to vote for these amendments, then I ask you to drop the bill from the Calendar and put in your own bill, those who want to sponsor it along those lines. I so move, Mr. President.

All right, let us vote on the amendment just—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the amendments to this bill, as the bill was originally introduced, change the purpose of the bill, and my reference is not only to the amendments now being made but to all the other amendments made prior to these particular amendments, they would change the purpose of the bill.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 125 be recommitted to the committee on whatever it is.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the point of order raised by the gentleman from Fayette has not yet been acted on.

Mr. WOODWARD. Maybe I am out of order, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the point of order raised by the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, who raises the point that all amendments to this bill since its original introduction change the purposes of the bill.

The Chair rules that the point is not well taken for the reason, the bill has proceeded up to this point containing those amendments and the Senate in voting for these amendments decided the constitutionality of the bill, and not the Chair.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 125 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

In making that motion, Mr. President, I have taken into consideration the attitude of the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, who is sick and tired of the way the bill has been kicked around, and I know the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Dent, said he is sick and tired of this bill and, I know he could have moved to strike it from the Calendar and I would have been glad to second the motion. That is not the policy, however, but it is perfectly all right to move to recommit. I know the sponsor of this bill himself is disgusted and I know from experience this bill is drawn to somewhat suit certain individuals and that is always a bad feature. There is also the question between ten per cent and twenty per cent—there was an agreement it would be twenty per cent and it is still ten per cent.

It seems to me as there are so many vulnerable spots in this bill and as the gentleman from Somerset thinks it is the worst tax abatement bill ever introduced in this state, I think it would be very nice to recommit it.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his point of information.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, isn't it true before we vote on the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia we must vote on whether we accept the amendments or not.

The PRESIDENT. The question now before the Senate is on the adoption of the amendments, and that is the only question before the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—35

Bartlett,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Becker,	Edmonds,	McGinnis,	Wade,
Carr,	Farrell,	Miller,	Walker,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Scarlett,	Watkins,
Coleman,	Heyburn,	Snowden,	Wilson, H. I.,
Cox,	Homsher,	Stevenson,	Wilson, T. B.,
Crider,	James,	Tallman,	Woodward,
Crowe,	Kephart,	Taylor,	Ziesenheim,
Deitrick,	Letzler,	Thomas,

NAYS—13

Cavalcante,	Frey,	Lanius,	Reed,
Dent,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,	Ruth,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Shapiro,
			Stiefel,

So the question was determined in the affirmative

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask that the roll be verified.

The PRESIDENT. Request has been made that the roll be verified. The Clerk will verify the votes in the affirmative.

Those voting in the affirmative were as follows:

Bartlett,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Becker,	Edmonds,	McGinnis,	Wade,
Carr,	Farrell,	Miller,	Walker,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Scarlett,	Watkins,
Coleman,	Heyburn,	Snowden,	Wilson, H. I.,
Cox,	Homsher,	Stevenson,	Wilson, T. B.,
Crider,	James,	Tallman,	Woodward,
Crowe,	Kephart,	Taylor,	Ziesenheim,
Deitrick,	Letzler,	Thomas,

The PRESIDENT. The affirmative votes were 35. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The affirmative roll stands as verified.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

The Clerk will verify the votes in the negative.

Those voting in the negative were as follows:

Cavalcante,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,	Ruth,
Dent,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Shapiro,
DiSilvestro,	Lanius,	Reed,	Stiefel,
Frey,

The PRESIDENT. The negative votes were 13. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The roll will stand as verified.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will read the second section of the bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in order to clear up one thing here, particularly the ten per cent proposition, it was not mine, if you look over the original bill; the optional feature was not mine, if you look over the original bill, and therefore the bill has now become something that I am not acquainted with and is not a brain child of mine.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. DENT. I therefore move, Mr. President, in all sincerity, that Senate Bill No. 125 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of changing sponsorship.

The PRESIDENT. Is there a seconder?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, that is what I intended to do and I was not recognized.

In seconding the motion of the gentleman from Westmoreland I simply wish to repeat that it is bad practice to draft legislation in the interest of individuals, as has been done in this case, and I think the ten per cent feature is so bad that if for no other reason it ought to go back to committee, in my opinion. Therefore I second the motion.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of information.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I just listened to the motion made by the gentleman from Westmoreland. My point of information is can a bill be sent back to committee for the purpose of changing sponsorship?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that in view of the fact that only the amendments to Section One have been adopted what we should adopt is the section as amended, and then a motion would be in order. Now that is the position of the Chair and unless it can be shown that the Chair is in error, he thinks we ought to dispose of the section as amended.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 125 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for further consideration.

Mr. WOODWARD. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. The Librarian advises in order to clarify the matter; if the motion prevails made by the gentleman from McKean, seconded by the gentleman from Philadelphia, the bill goes back on second reading with the only first section amended.

MOTION TO TABLE MOTION

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that the motion of the gentleman from McKean be tabled.

Mr. COX. I second the motion.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his point of order.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I submit a motion to table is not debatable and anything the gentleman says with respect to the motion is definitely out of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair can not determine that until the gentleman from McKean has made a statement.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I desire to withdraw my motion. I do not want to enter into the middle of this parliamentary situation. If you have not completed what you are going to do in amending this bill, I withdraw my motion.

The PRESIDENT. The bill can be amended in committee.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. I stick to my position.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from McKean wish to withdraw his motion?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I shall stick to my motion. Let us find out.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Lackawanna, seconded by the gentleman from Washington, to table the motion.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of information.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, my point of information is this: is the motion made by the gentleman from Westmoreland out of order.

The PRESIDENT. There is no motion on the part of the gentleman from Westmoreland; it was not seconded.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I understood the gentleman from Westmoreland made a motion which was seconded by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. That was disposed of by the Chair stating the section should be adopted as amended, and no motion was made subsequent to that.

The question now is on the motion made by the gentleman from Lackawanna to lay on the table the motion made by the gentleman from McKean, to send Senate Bill No. 125 back to the Committee on Judiciary General, for further consideration.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. T. B. WILSON and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—11

Cavalcante,	Frey,	McQuiddy,	Stiefel,
Coleman,	Mallery,	Mundy,	Watkins,
Cox,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,

NAYS—37

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Lanius,	Taylor,
Becker,	Farrell,	Letzler,	Thomas,
Carr,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tyler,
Chapman,	Haluska,	Reed,	Wade,
Crider,	Heyburn,	Ruth,	Walker,
Crowe,	Homsher,	Scarlett,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	James,	Snowden,	Wilson, T. B.,
Dent,	Jaspan,	Stevenson,	Woodward,
DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Tallman,	Ziesenheim,
Ealy,

So the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The question now is on the motion to recommit Senate Bill 125.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, what is the motion to recommit?

The PRESIDENT. The motion is to recommit Senate Bill No. 125 to the Committee on Judiciary General for further consideration.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to amend that motion. This bill is so mutilated, and so sick, I would like to amend the motion so that it will be taken back to the Committee on Health where it will have a doctor to take care of it.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, in view of the remarks just made by the gentleman from Washington that this bill has been mutilated, I suggest that if he really wants a good bill, he should read and study Senate Bill No. 285, another tax abatement bill, and he will find a good bill in Senate Bill No. 285.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, in view of the remarks just of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Frey, I want to say that we have had quite an experience with Senate Bill No. 285, which reminds me of some of the tribulations of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent—it is just like sending out a dove in the morning and having a rayen come back home at night.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—34

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Taylor,
Carr,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tyler,
Crider,	Heyburn,	Mundy,	Wade,
Crowe,	Homsher,	Scarlett,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	James,	Snowden,	Wilson, T. B.,
Dent,	Jaspan,	Stevenson,	Woodward,
DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Tallman,	Ziesenheim,
Ealy,	Lanius,

NAYS—14

Becker,	Frey,	Reed,	Stiefel,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Ruth,	Walker,
Coleman,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,	Watkins,
Cox,	McQuiddy,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask that the roll be verified.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will verify the votes in the affirmative.

The votes in the affirmative were as follows:

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Taylor,
Carr,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tyler,
Crider,	Heyburn,	Mundy,	Wade,
Crowe,	Homsher,	Scarlett,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	James,	Snowden,	Wilson, T. B.,
Dent,	Jaspan,	Stevenson,	Woodward,
DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Tallman,	Ziesenheim,
Ealy,	Lanius,

The PRESIDENT. The votes in the affirmative are 34. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The affirmative roll will stand as verified.

The Clerk will verify the votes in the negative.

The votes in the negative were as follows:

Becker,	Frey,	Reed,	Stiefel,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Ruth,	Walker,
Coleman,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,	Watkins,
Cox,	McQuiddy,

The PRESIDENT. The votes in the negative are 14. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The roll will stand as verified.

Senate Bill No. 125 is recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, do I understand that Senate Bill No. 125 is back in the Committee on Judiciary General again?

The PRESIDENT. That is right.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations.

APPOINTMENT AS MEMBER OF JUDGE OF SUPERIOR COURT IN PENNSYLVANIA

notice shall be served with a copy of said application upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the county board of elections as the case may be At the time so fixed the court or any judge thereof assigned for the purpose shall review the record made before the committee or board No new testimony shall be taken before such court which shall be limited to the determination of the regularity of such decision and whether it was reasonable in the light of the competent evidence If after such hearing the said court shall find that the decision of the Committee or the board was erroneous it shall issue its mandate to the committee or board to correct its decision and to accept and file the nomination petition paper or certificate It shall be the duty of the said court to fix the hearing and to announce its decision within such period of time as will permit the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the county board of elections to permit the names of the candidates affected by the court's decision to be printed on the ballot if the court should so determine

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Which one?

Mr. REED. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. If the co-sponsor will yield, I will be glad to.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. With the greatest of pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether under the Shapiro amendment the Governor of the Commonwealth has been consulted and has agreed to serve on this board of three, consisting of His Excellency, the Governor, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman's question, it has been my understanding that the legislative branch of the government is independent of the executive branch. We can not tell the Governor where to go, but we can tell him what he is to do. If we lay down certain duties or responsibilities for the chief executive of the Commonwealth I understand we do not have to get his permission in order to foist these responsibilities upon him. Personally I have not consulted the Governor about this or any other matter.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, does not the gentleman from Allegheny believe that for efficiency under this bill, if it passes, the Governor should have been consulted.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I say in answer to the question of the gentleman from Washington, my answer would be no. May I point out that what I think is wrong primarily with the amendment that is now in the bill, is the very unfortunate tag that the gentleman from Washington hung on it when he started his interrogatory. when he called this the Shapiro amendment. I do not want to say he is blessing the bill but he is not killing it with kindness either. I think that is primarily what is wrong with the amendment. It was very unfortunate the gentleman who came up with the idea that is incorporated in this bill came in when the committee had adjourned and therefore the amendment was substituted for one that was placed in the bill at the suggestion of the attorney general.

May I state for the information of the Senate that the amendment that is now in the bill was submitted to the attorney general—I do not like to quote cabinet members—but I understand in his opinion, as well as mine, that the amendment that is in the bill now and has been so unfortunately called the Shapiro amendment is superior to the one that was in the bill originally.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I do not think anyone who is on the Committee on Judiciary General will dispute the fact that these amendments were presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Now as to the other proposition which brings the Governor into the committee that will sit on these petitions, I frankly say I think the Governor should not be lowered to that standard. I think his position is much higher and more honorable than to place him on a committee in reality which will sit and pass on election matters.

I know what will happen when that committee meets. Those who have subversive tendencies will delight in circulating among their friends the idea that they are going to appear before his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, and I say to you members of the Senate, that this in my humble opinion is far beneath the dignity of the chief executive of Pennsylvania. I think his name should be removed and if some other person in high position in the Commonwealth wants to be or should be put on this committee in his stead that would be all right, but after having fairly considered this amendment I still contend that the Governor of the Commonwealth should not participate in deciding those perplexing problems and listening to a lot of people who in reality are there for no good.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I yielded to the gentleman from Allegheny, my co-sponsor, to the interrogation made by the gentleman from Washington, but I disagree with part of the answer given to the gentleman from Washington.

I think that we are going to tell the Governor where to go when these amendments are passed. We are going to tell the Governor the Commander in Chief of our National Guard, and other defense organizations we have in these troublesome times, we are going to tell him that from the first date upon which a petition may be filed until the last date, he must stay here at the seat of the Government to wait and see if some of these communistic organizations are going to file a petition. He cannot go any place, because this bill says he must be here, and within two days, within a very limited time, he must have a hearing, must hear these people ranting as we have heard them before, and then decide whether the petition shall be rejected or not.

Mr. President, I agree with my colleague from Washington, that it is beyond the dignity of his Excellency the Governor to place him in a position where he must sit in on one of these here ranting parties, always demanded by those people that believe in communism, and I tell you frankly that if I were his Excellency the Governor, if this bill should come to my desk for approval, I surely would veto it. I would not pass this bill with this amendment in it, and as I stated at the beginning here, when this bill was on the floor once before, and the gentleman from Washington called attention to the fact also, there are two different ways to kill a good bill, one is to pickle it in committee and the other is to kill it by amendment. Of course, there is a third way, to bring a bill out on the floor and vote it down, but this bill is being killed by the amendment placed in it, because the author of the amendment ought to know that the Governor should not be asked to approve a bill such as this one.

Now, there is also one other objection to this bill, Mr. President, and the objection is that under the present law, a legitimate petition filed not by a communist but by a real good citizen, if a good citizen files a petition and the Secretary of the Commonwealth should disagree with you when you file the petition, she rejects your petition and the only recourse you have is not to the Governor or the Attorney General or anybody else but you must go right to the Courts of Dauphin County, where these matters should be decided.

Now, Mr. President, why give these communists something more than you give the person who files a petition, and to which petition there is no tinge of communism attached to it. That should not be allowed, Mr. President. These communists should not be given this added privilege; their petitions should be allowed to be disposed of as the other petitions are. After all, we pride ourselves in having a government with three departments, legislative, judicial and executive. Here, Mr. President, we are going to pass a bill that is going to put judicial power, judicial discretion, in the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Now certainly we know that the Governor appoints the Attorney General and the Governor has the power to remove him, and we know the Governor appoints the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Governor has the power to remove the Secretary. So therefore, if you will analyze these amendments, it makes the Governor himself the pivot, and the person who has to decide whether the people petitioning are communists or not. Now, it definitely puts in the hands of the Governor and asks the Governor to take judicial power, to exercise judicial power. The determination of whether a party filing a petition is a communist or not is a matter of judicial determination, and should be left up to the courts not to the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth.

I think along the same lines with the gentleman from Washington that at least if this amendment is permitted to stand we ought to at least strike out of it the Governor. Let us put somebody else in there; let us not degrade the Governor by putting him in a position where he must humiliate himself and probably sit for a day or two listening to the ranting of people who do not deserve to be listened to, if they stand for the overthrow of the government by force or by violence.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I thought the communist bill or the anti-communist bill was number 78. I understand we are now considering Senate Bill No. 172. This bill in my mind is an anti-minority bill beyond the embellishment, of course, due to the phraseology of the bill, which some persons would hide behind and say that it is this or that, it is against those persons who would overthrow this government by force. After talking with a great many senators privately I find that they agree with me it is a bad bill but for political expediency they will vote for it.

Personally, Mr. President, I suppose I may be the only one on the Senate floor who will vote against this bill but I do so with full knowledge of what I do and I do so believing I am only giving to those who come after me the same privileges I have enjoyed to date and therefore I as an American intend to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, we have heard a great deal of discussion this afternoon about co-sponsorship and sponsorship of bills being kicked around. May I first say, this is not the first committee on which the chief executive has been placed by legislative action. I think the Governor has been on several other committees. If my memory serves me correctly he was recently placed on the Committee on National Defense and that is not any more important than defending the ballot or to save the ballot from subversive activities. May I suggest to the gentleman from Fayette the purpose of giving those with subversive activities more leeway before we throw them off the ballot is very apparent. At the present time when you file a petition with the Secretary of the Commonwealth seaking to be placed on the ballot, if the Secretary of the Commonwealth rules your petition can not be received, the purpose or the reason for that order is because of a latent defect in the petition itself and it is all wrapped up in there and your entire cause of action comes with the petition itself and you can go to the Dauphin County Court and argue the legal questions presented in the petition.

Here, Mr. President, you have a different situation. You are calling upon people to declare that certain nominees or people desirous of becoming nominees, political bodies or political parties are in fact traitors traitors to this country, that they are attempting to overthrow this government by force and in spite of the flag waving I appreciate that is a serious charge to make.

Now, Mr. President, in order to make certain that inadvertently a hardship is not worked upon innocent bystanders, the machinery is set up in this proposed bill whereby the Governor, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth can determine whether or not proposed nominee or a political party or political body has as its objective the overthrow of this country or this government by force. If they so determine then the party so affected or injured can appeal to the Dauphin County court just the same as any other injured party can today, and in order to cut down on the so-called ranting I call attention of the Senate to the fact that there is no denovo hearing before the court; that is predicated upon the record made before this committee in the court's determination or adjudication of the issue.

It is true a subversive group or the communist party, if you care to label it as such, is given an additional safeguard an additional special procedural step before they are thrown off the ballot and I think due to the seriousness of the charges, due to the fact we have to endeavor to protect minority parties who are not subversive parties on our ballot, this is not a superfluous step which could be eliminated.

Mr. President, I appreciate the fact that when I stand up here and defend minority parties I am laying myself open to a lot of criticism, because as has been pointed out on this floor this afternoon, I by virtue of the Royal Oak party, am a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania and we do not caucus; if we did we would caucus in a telephone booth because I have the distinction of being the ranking member of the Royal Oak party in the Senate; in fact, on a check up, I am the only member, and I am perfectly willing to admit that inadvertently I am defending a minority party, I am defending Father Coughlin's party which brought me into the Senate—whether that is a blessing or a travesty on justice remains to be seen

In my opinion, Mr. President, this amendment strengthens the bill, in my opinion it safeguards to the best of the ability of the committee who formed the phraseology, the sacred traditions of Americanism and our democracy, to the best of our ability. I object to the suggestion being made that it kills the bill because it does not; in my opinion it strengthens the bill.

May I suggest to my colleagues we are not placing an undue burden on the Governor of the Commonwealth, we are merely permitting him as the chief executive of the Commonwealth and also by virtue of the fact that he is commander in chief of our national defense forces, we are placing in his hands an opportunity to rule on a very important and very sacred question.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr President, will the gentleman from Fayette tell me whether or not this bill, as it now reads, will further complicate the preemption of a third party in Pennsylvania.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. No, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, did I understand the gentleman from Fayette to say that if any citizen wishes to preempt a party the Secretary of the Commonwealth would have the right to make a rejection; did the gentleman say that?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. No, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, the record I think will show the gentleman said "yes."

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I do say it now, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. The record will show I think, Mr. President, the gentleman from Fayette suggested if any group of persons wished to preempt a party or permit any party to be placed on the ballot the Secretary of the Commonwealth would have the right to reject that petition.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Then he did say it, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. No, I am just answering the question, Mr. President. The gentleman said if a political group would present a petition to the Secretary of the Commonwealth to preempt a party, if that group was a group that believed in force and violence, under the present bill the Secretary of the Commonwealth could not refuse the petition but would have to take the petition and file it.

Mr. HALUSKA. That is all.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, apparently the microphones were so far apart the two Senators could not hear each other.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—48

Barr,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Stiefel,
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Tallman,
Becker,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Taylor,
Carr,	Frey,	McQuiddy,	Thomas,

NAYS—1

Dent,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 344, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend further section five of the act, approved the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 551), entitled "An act relating to roads, highways, and bridges," as amended, by making the maximum width of a public road two hundred feet.

be recommitted to the Committee on Highways for the purpose of further study.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 47

Barr,	Ealy,	Letzler,	Tallman,
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Taylor,
Becker,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Thomas,
Carr,	Frey,	McQuiddy,	Tyler,

DiSilvestro,	Lanius,	Stiefel,

NAYS 2

Cavalcante,	Reed,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MILLER, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 78, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight hundred one of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1333), entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying, revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by further defining political parties and political bodies; excluding therefrom parties or bodies desiring to overthrow the Government of the United States by force.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 80, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897-1937), entitled, "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," changing the provisions thereof and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, due to the fact that the House has passed a bill on this question, and due to the fact that there is another bill introduced in the Senate on this question, although they did not go to the same committee from which this bill came, as one of the co-sponsors of the bill and admitting all of the good features that are in this bill, I think the proper thing to do here on the Senate floor is to send this bill back to the Committee on Compensation, in order that all three bills can be looked into at the same time, in order that the good features of this bill can be agreed to, plus whatever good features may be desirable in the other bills.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. DENT. Therefore, Mr. President, as a co-sponsor of this bill I now move that it be recommitted to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation in order that it may be studied in conjunction with the other bills.

Mr. COLEMAN. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, this morning I spoke about this very matter, and still it is continued with the idea that the work we did all last summer and into the fall, in which the gentleman from Westmoreland took a part, must be confused with the alleged work that is being done by somebody else and if this motion is adopted this whole mess will be thrown over into my committee before we can act on this bill.

I am opposed to this motion and every other motion that pertains to the same subject in the same manner, and I hope the Senate will vote down his motion and that we will act on this bill now on second reading in its entirety.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, may I interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Jefferson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Does this bill now contain all the amendments referred to by the gentleman from Jefferson?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. It does, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Is it as letter perfect now, Mr. President, as the Committee can make it?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. No, Mr. President, I would not say it is letter perfect in all of its aspects but we approve it and recommend it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it seems peculiar to me some people are perfect in the world and other people make so many mistakes. This bill we understand from one of the co-sponsors, is a final work in legislative preparation, no word can be said against the preparation of this bill or the features of it because to do so would be sacriligious. A minute ago I was logrolled all over the Senate floor by the same gentleman on the preparation of the tax abatement bill.

I want to say very frankly I told the committee in committee meeting not once but twice that I intended to do this very thing I am doing now because the understanding of the committee which has studied this bill, and I worked on it I think as diligently as the other members all summer and we have made at least twenty-one very good amendments in this bill and I do not think that can be improved upon insofar as the subject matter covered by the amendments is concerned, but I want to say here and now the attitude taken upon the matter of scheduled payments and number of weeks for which payments are to be made, is the same type of reactionary attitude which has been taken during all the years workmen's compensation payments have been made in the State of Pennsylvania and that is why in 1935 when the Democrats gained control of the House all labor rose enmasse demanding that certain amendments be made in the Workmen's Compensation Act in order that more liberal payments be given to injured workmen. When this bill was passed there was a top limit of fifteen dollars and a time limit of thirteen weeks.

I introduced the original Unemployment Compensation Bill in the State of Pennsylvania, for which I was called a radical and few other names. However, the bill finally became law.

I want to say here and now, Mr. President, unless you take up the question of payments—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Jefferson will state his point of order.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, there is only one question before the House and that is the question of whether this motion prevails. It is not necessary to go into the history of Workmen's Compensation.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe I still have the floor.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland has the floor. Does the gentleman from Jefferson wish to raise a point of order?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland is not discusing the question before the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules the point of order of the gentleman from Jefferson is well taken. The question before the Senate is a motion to recommit and the subject matter of the bill cannot be discussed.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lackawanna.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I yield the floor to the gentleman from Westmoreland. I submit nobody has any right to question what he is discussing.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would suggest the gentleman from Lackawanna read the rules of the Senate.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, it has always been my impression when anybody questions the right of a senator or a member of the House of Representatives on the floor to discuss a matter before us any other member of the General Assembly can arise in his place and if he is recognized by the Chair can yield the floor to any gentleman in the Senate and his right to discuss any matter from that time on cannot be questioned.

I ask for a ruling on my point, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules the point of order of the gentleman from Lackawanna is not well taken.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want to play on ragged nerves but I only want to say this, I will not discuss the pertinent facts pertaining to the bill except to say this—we have had experience in the past—oh, what is the use? I submit, Mr. President, we have listened for hours here on the Senate floor to discussions and I am not by far the worst violator. When I want to speak about the features of this bill. Mr. President, I want to give the Senate my reasons for my action because I am co-sponsor and I am not in any way backing up on any agreement I made with the other co-sponsors and I am clearly telling you and the other members of this Senate unless we have the courage to take into consideration the matter of weekly payments and the number of weeks to be paid, then we have not courage to face conditions as they are.

I have offered amendments to the committee and they were not even considered, I offered recommendations to the committee and they were not even considered. The Chairman of that committee takes the attitude, and he has taken it before, and I know this to be true, when his name is upon something it is perfect, and so therefore, Mr. President, I still insist that my motion be voted upon to send this bill back to committee. I will rise on a question of personal privilege at some other time and give you my reasons for so doing.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in discussing what I am about to say, I do not intend to discuss the merits of the bill but I do intend to make two points as a result of what has happened here. There is a co-sponsorship on this bill, which since its original introduction in the Senate has changed its purpose. The bill originally, as I understand—and I am now only discussing procedure and not the merits—this was a procedural bill to correct certain defects which everyone agreed should be corrected.

As I now understand it, Mr. President, the bill adds, in addition to the procedural matters, some other matters; it adds controversial subject as to what should be the schedule of compensation.

I have listened today to several of these things happening; I have been watching the course of legislation of this bill for some time and I am frank to say I do not care whose fault it is but the fact remains—and I am willing to take my share of the responsibility and maybe this side of the Senate should also take their share of the responsibility—but the fact remains that we are not legislating and we are not getting anywhere and unless we do something we are going to be properly and severely criticized and I am suggesting if the co-sponsor of this bill objects to the fact there are certain things that have been put into the bill which it was not his intention to join in originally when the bill was placed in the Senate, in common decency he is entitled to have that bill either put back into committee and have it come out with the responsibility of those persons who want to assume it, or it may stay in. It is not fair, in my opinion, when people have obligations to their respective communities that a bill shall first take one form in which they are willing to join and then come out in another form to which one or more of the co-sponsors are not willing to join.

I am suggesting, Mr. President, that sooner or later—and I am going to do my part in making it sooner—we better get a couple of members from each side of this House and a couple of members from the other House and sit down and get rid of important legislation upon which we can agree and then if there is some portion of this bill that other members of the Senate want, let them asume the responsibility, if it is controversial, and submit it to the Senate so they can vote on every phase of the bill that it is possible to put into bill of joint sponsorship but I do not think, if there is going to be joint sponsorship, some of the things should be included which one or more of the sponsors object to; I do not think that is proper legislation; and if the gentleman from Westmoreland's position is correct this bill ought to go back so that he will not have that responsibility and the responsibility may be assumed by those who want it.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is grossly misinformed as to Senate Bill 80. It was never a purely a procedural bill. This question was tabled and taken up in committee and has been worked on for two years now and the gentleman from Westmoreland is a member of that committee and he has been working hard with the rest of us and there have been some twenty-four liberalizing amendments placed in this bill. I do not want to discuss this bill in detail, Mr. President, but I must say a lot of misinformation has been broadcast here this afternoon. A lot of people are trying to appeal to the so-called labor vote and have so told me. They are not frank at all or sincere in their position.

The understanding was that this bill was to be non-controversial, it was agreed upon by all parties, and the understanding was this bill was to pass and then all con-controversial measures were to be taken up in a separate bill.

The fact is that the gentleman from Westmoreland is one of the co-sponsors of the bill and the only reason he is a co-sponsor is because it is non-controversial, non-partisan, and non-political and I purposely had him co-sponsor the bill with the rest of the members of the Senate on that committee.

This bill is the result of two years of study and it is a crime to send it back to committee; it was sent back to committee before. This bill liberalizes benefits to the workers to the extent of five million dollars per year. It was back in committee once before, a week ago. And at that time the gentleman from Westmoreland took up the amendments which were rejected—as a matter of fact he was late getting to the committee meeting.

Mr. President, I beseech my fellow Senators not to send this bill back to committee.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, half truth is worse than a deliberate lie. There is a great deal of truth in the statement made by the gentleman from Delaware. I did agree to a non-controversial bill, I did agree to the type of schedule presented in this bill but I never agreed to the amounts, contained therein. The amounts contained therein were left purely a matter of controversy, to be worked upon by the committee, and I submit, Mr. President, and members of this Senate, the committee never once endeavored to call in interested parties on the matter of the schedule, or the amount of money to be paid out if the weekly amounts were raised.

What are the liberalizing features, Mr. President? Fifty cents a week on the payment, that is the only liberalizing feature. I propose to transgress upon the decency of the president by divulging matter in this bill of interest to the Senators and to the Chair, I want to say frankly you are only fooling yourselves when you think you are passing a bill here that takes care of the schedule of payments. It does not. We could be the so-called statesmen we often try to be by now, as I suggested to the committee, amend the bill to increase weekly payments, amend the bill to increase the number of weeks.

Here is another thing: All the money is being poured into Washington, D. C. because many states have features in their bills more liberal than ours and W shington, D. C. has made a rule that they are going to take the amounts, that are paid in and disburse them over the forty-eight states and the employers in Pennsylvania are going to have higher payments than those in the various southern and western states who have those liberalizing features. We have a large amount of money built up in our own fund which is all to be taken and given to other states. I further said this, Mr. President, if we amended the bill and made it more liberal there should be a safety clause in it, a sliding scale, when, if the fund reaches a level where we determine it would be enough by actuarial figures—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland is not speaking on the question before the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Allegheny had left me alone half a minute longer I would have finished.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that is what we thought fifteen minutes ago.

Mr. DENT. That is not correct by twelve minutes, Mr. President.

The Chair wishes to make a statement, that he thinks he is being imposed upon by the gentleman from Westmoreland. The Chair is familiar, so is every other Senator, with Rule No. 9, which says in part motion to commit precludes debate on the original subject.

When the senator from Westmoreland first started speaking he was speaking on the provisions of the bill. The Chair permitted him to proceed until a point of order was raised.

That same point of order could have been raised at practically every meeting of the session of this Senate this year. The Chair was compelled to rule as he did.

Then the Chair immediately recognized the Senator from Westmoreland and for a time he debated on why the bill should not go back to committee but then he did transgress that rule commenced to debate on the subject matter of the bill, which is incorrect.

The Chair wants to be fair and suggests to the Senators on a motion of that kind that they try to adhere to the rules at least.

The point of order is well taken.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, in order that I may vote intelligently on the question before the Senate I should like to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland just one question.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Westmoreland tell me whether the bill in its present form is essentially different from the bill which he co-sponsored?

Mr. DENT. No, Mr. President, it is not.

Mr. MALLERY. The reason I asked that question, Mr. President, is that I want to be consistent and if that were so I was going to vote "aye" on the motion to recommit.

I might further say that explains my vote on the tax abatement bill. I voted to recommit that bill because it was insisted that the tax abatement bill had been mutilated.

I want to say that, Mr. President, as a matter of record.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, with the kind indulgence of the Chair I would like to make a brief remark concerning the statement of the gentleman from Blair, because I would like to have that distinctly understood. I want to say briefly—if the gentleman from Allegheny will allow me—the bill is in practically the same form as it was but the understanding which we had—which may not be exactly the same thing—is not the same. The matter of the schedule is open, it is controversial, and it has never been taken up by the committee.

That I want understood.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Westmoreland, seconded by the gentleman from Lackawanna, to recommit the bill for further consideration.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Lanius,	Mundy,
Coleman,	Frey,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,
Cox	Jaspan,	McQuiddy,	Stiefel,
Dent.

NAYS—36

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Becker,	Farrell,	Miller,	Tyler,
Carr,	Geltz,	Reed,	Wade,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Ruth,	Walker,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Scarlett,	Watkins,

Crowe,	James,	Stevenson,	Wilson, T. B.,
Deitrick,	Lephart,	Tallman,	Woodward,
Ealy,	Letzler,	Taylor,	Ziesenheim,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That said bill as amended be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 161, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section thirty of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 487), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in boroughs, towns, and townships as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; requiring the county commissioners of the various counties to act as a registration commission therefor; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," further regulating the check-up of registered electors and the cancellation of their registration by the commission.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 169, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 814), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," abolishing the existing registration commission for cities of the second class and providing that the county commissioners of each county in which any such city is located shall act as a registration commission therefor, providing for the consolidation of the second class city general register with the general register of cities of the third class and boroughs, towns and townships of the county, providing for the transfer of the registration of electors upon change of residence from a third class city, borough, town or township in the same county, changing the period during which changes of enrollment of political party may be made, eliminating preparation and distribution of preliminary street lists, and permitting the destruction of certain records.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 197, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to authorize cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, and school districts to file suggestions of nonpayment and averments of default, or to sue out writs of scire facias on certain tax or municipal claims, and to revive judgments where the lien of such claims or the judgments thereon have been lost; and providing for the reinstatement of the liens of such claims and judgments.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 206, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (a) of section four of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2045), entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted; providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives, and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons; providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons; providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of property of deserters; and providing procedure," by providing for the furnishing of statements to persons against whom claims are due for support, maintenance and assistance.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 285, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on unpaid delinquent city taxes in cities of the first and second class on unpaid delinquent school taxes in school districts of the first class, and on unpaid delinquent poll, poor district, institution district and county taxes in counties of the second class prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 301, entitled:

An Act providing for practical arts and vocational agriculture, home economics, industrial and commercial schools and classes, through public school districts and in cooperation with employment offices, for the training, retraining, instruction, and adjustment of out-of-school, unadjusted individuals, in order to enable them to enter, re-enter, or continue employment under changing conditions; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Superintendent of Public Instruction; and making an appropriation.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to have the bill transcribed for a third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 301, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 325, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act approved the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, (P. L. 452) entitled, as amended "An act to promote the welfare of the people of the Commonwealth; creating a General State Authority as a body corporate and politic with power to construct, improve, equip, furnish, and operate projects, and to lease the same, and to fix and collect fees, rentals, and charges for the use thereof; authorizing and regulating the issuance of bonds by said Authority, and providing for the payment of such bonds, and the rights of the holders thereof; and to enter into agreements with the Government of the United States or any Federal agency; and authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies to grant, assign, convey, or lease to the Authority lands of the Commonwealth and interests therein, and to acquire lands therefor; granting the right of emirent domain; and providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act," by providing that no new project shall be begun without specific authority from the General Assembly and approval of the Governor and providing for a limitation of the cost thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. T. B. WILSON. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 338, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections four and five of the act, approved the sixth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 90), entitled "An act to promote uniformity in the assessment and taxation of properties and persons within the territorial limits of cities of the second class A, by providing that city and school taxes within such territorial limits shall be assessed, levied, and collected upon the basis of the assessments for taxation for county purposes; and requiring the furnishing of tax duplicates by the county taxing authorities to such cities and to school districts coterminous therewith; abolishing the department of assessors in cities of the second class A; consolidating tax statements covering city, school, county and poor taxes therein, and making uniform the time for levy and collection of said taxes respectively, and regulating the discounts therefrom and penalties thereon," by further regulating discounts for prompt payment of taxes and penalties and interest imposed on said taxes and by changing the date of certain tax payments.

be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman who made the motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 338.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from McKean permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, will the gentleman from McKean state the reason for the motion?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, this bill makes a change in the discounts that are allowed on payment of taxes and makes a change in the time of payment of same and before that is done I thought it would be better for the bill to go back to committee for further consideration.

Mr. COLEMAN. In what political subdivision, Mr. President?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. In cities of the second class.

Mr. COLEMAN. Of which there is only one in the Commonwealth, Mr. President, is that correct? Second Class A. I wonder if the gentleman is familiar with the fact that this bill applies only to the City of Scranton?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. I am, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, will the gentleman from McKean tell me whether or not anybody in the City of Scranton wants this bill?

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. I do not know that, Mr. President; I cannot say.

Mr. COLEMAN. Will the gentleman from McKean tell me whether he shares my belief or does he believe he is the only one in the Senate of Pennsylvania familiar with what the people of his senatorial district want.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. The answer is no, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I introduced this bill in the 1939 session and I have sat through this session of the Senate, particularly today, listening with calm fortitude to the discussions on both sides of this Senate. As I say, I introduced this bill in the 1939 session—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. I submit, Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate but the motion to recommit; the Senator from Lackawanna is not discussing that motion.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion the gentleman from Lackawanna has not proceeded far enough for the Chair to determine that. He may assign his reasons why it should not go back. The Chair does not yet know whether he is discussing the bill or not.

Mr. GELTZ. I submit, Mr. President, the gentleman from Lackawanna started to talk about having introduced a bill in the 1939 Session.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. GELTZ. Which, Mr. President, would have nothing to do with the motion to recommit.

The PRESIDENT. That may lead up to the reason why the gentleman is opposed to the motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I would like to suggest to the gentleman that since he asked for it, I am going to ask that every bill on the Calendar of the Senate of Pennsylvania be read at length, properly considered and agreed to on three different days in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, and then maybe the monotonous prattling of the reading clerk—and I do not say this unkindly, may be conductive to some constructive and real thinking on the part of the opposition.

If the gentleman persists in his motion to recommit a bill which affects only the City of Scranton, which I happen to represent in the Senate of Pennsylvania, I am going to insist that every bill be read at length and considered on three different days. Not only that, Mr. President, but I will make motions to recommit many bills and ask for roll calls on those motions.

I think it is about time, Mr. President, we find out whether, as I understand under the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, the legislative authority is vested in a General Assembly comprising a House of Representatives and a State Senate, or whether there is some sinister force behind the action of the gentleman from McKean. I want to know, Mr. President, whether we have a Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde who professes friendship for me and interest in my bill on the one hand and holds a dripping knife in the other, killing a piece of legislation which the Republican County Chairman in Lackawanna and the Democratic County Chairman in Lackawanna and the Republican and Democratic newspapers are all in accord with.

Mr. President, if the gentleman persists in his motion to recommit this bill I will yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from McKean, to recommit Senate Bill No. 338 to the Committee on Municipal Government.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. T. B. WILSON and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 33

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Thomas,
Becker,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Carr,	Geltz,	McGinnis,	Wade,
Chapman,	Haluska,	Scarlett,	Walker,
Crider,	Heyburn,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Crowe,	Homsher,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	James,	Tallman,	Wilson, T. B.,
Ealy,	Kephart,	Taylor,	Woodward,
			Ziesenheim,

NAYS 13

Cavalcante,	Frey,	McQuiddy,	Reed,
Coleman,	Jaspan,	Miller,	Ruth,
Dent,	Lanius,	Mundy,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 360 be read at length.

The PRESIDENT. It is not necessary for the gentleman to make the request. The Chair is familiar with the rules.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 360, as follows:

An Act creating a commission to make a thorough investigation of all matters that might interfere with carrying out of the National Defense Program within the Commonwealth conferring upon the commission full power to issue subpoenas requiring the commission to make a report of its findings to the Legislature or to the Governor together with its recommendations as to such regulatory legislation as may be needful to promote the production of implements of defense authorizing the commission to employ counsel and employees and making an appropriation

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Whereas the explosions fires and other unnatural occurrences recently happening within the Commonwealth lead to the conclusion that they owe their origin to and are the result of the un-American activities of those persons or organizations who are plotting against the effectual carrying out of the National Defense Program and

Whereas if this Commonwealth and its patriotic people are to contribute their full share of assistance in safeguarding and defending the Nation the cause of these occurrences must be found and means determined upon for the frustration of further plots to interfere with the prompt and adequate production of implements of defense and

Whereas so long as subversive and treasonable teachings are permitted within the Commonwealth and so long as those responsible for the damage to industry are at large and unmolested the defense program will lag and our danger will increase

Section 1 There is hereby created a commission to be known as Defense of American Freedom Commission which shall be composed of nine competent persons three to be appointed by the Governor three to be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and three to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives whose duty it shall be to immediately proceed with a full and thorough investigation of (1) the numerous fires explosions and other unnatural occurrences which have and may hereafter interfere with the prompt and effectual carrying out of the National Defense Program (2) un-American organizations whose purpose or aims or one of whose purposes or aims is the establishment control conduct seizure or overthrow of the Government of Pennsylvania or of the United States by the use of force violence military measures or threats and (3) organizations suspected of attempting or conspiring to attempt to interfere or interfering with the National Defense Program

Section 2 The persons appointed as members of said commission shall meet immediately after appointment and select one of their number to act as chairman of the commission The commission may employ a secretary and an attorney and such clerks stenographers investigators and interpreters as they deem necessary to perform the duties imposed by this act and fix their compensation The members of the commission shall receive no compensation for their services but shall be reimbursed for living and traveling expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties If any vacancy occurs in the membership of the commission the vacancy shall be filled by the person making the appointment of the member whose death or resignation created the vacancy

Section 3 The said commission shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the commission and to produce such books papers records and documents as the commission may deem necessary Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth Each member of said commission shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the commission Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said commission or to produce any books papers records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases

Section 4 The commission shall make a report of its findings and recommendations to the Legislature if in session or otherwise to the Governor as soon and as frequently as it determines such report necessary and shall make a final report not later than February 1 1943 containing such drafts or legislation if any as the commission deems necessary to safeguard and render most effective the National Defense Program

Section 5 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

Section 6 The sum of fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars is hereby specifically appropriated to the said commission for the purpose of paying the expenses of the members and the salaries and traveling expenses of employes and any other necessary expenses incident to the work of said commission

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move you that the Senate now adjourn to meet at 10 o'clock a. m., Wednesday, April 9, 1941.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary procedure.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parlimentary procedure.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, since we have started the reading of these bills at length, I notice quite a number of the senators quite suddenly have discovered business elsewhere. If some of us have to take it I don't know why the others should not be here.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I raise the question as to whether or not the Sergeant-at-Arms can be instructed to lock the doors and insure that the Senators remain. We may as well all take it.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that is not necessary as long as there is a quorum present and the Chair is of the opinion a quorum is present.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion:

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. COLEMAN and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 5

Cavalcante,	Cox,	DiSilvestro,	Mundy,
Coleman,

NAYS 38

Bartlett,	Geltz,	McQuiddy,	Thomas,
Becker,	Haluska,	Miller,	Tyler,
Carr,	Heyburn,	Ruth,	Wade,
Chapman,	Homsher,	Scarlett,	Walker,
Crider,	James,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Crowe,	Jaspan,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	Kephart,	Stiefel,	Wilson, T. B.,
Ealy,	Lanius,	Tallman,	Woodward,
Edmonds,	Letzler,	Taylor,	Ziesenheim,
Farrell,	Mallery,

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Lackawanna if he requests that this bill be read in detail.

Mr. COLEMAN. Yes, Mr. President, in detail, at length and considered on three different days.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. Willingly, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I respectfully suggest to the gentleman from Lackawanna if he continues with his threat to have bills read at length we will be establishing a very bad precedent.

I am sorry, Mr. President, I did not know about this sooner or we might have started this before but may I suggest as evidence of one way we can meet the suggestion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, that the gentleman from Lackawanna reconsider that motion and allow the Senate to revert to the time honored custom of bouncing through the bills on second reading.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I do not recall that I made any threat and I resent the implication of the gentleman from Allegheny. I merely suggested, Mr. President, I was going to insist on the constitutional provision that all bills be read at length and considered on three separate occasions.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire further to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. Willingly, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I just want to suggest to the gentleman from Lackawanna that I distinctly heard him say—and if I am in error I hope he will correct me—but I think I heard the gentleman from Lackawanna state if the gentleman from McKean insisted on his motion to send the bill back to committee, the gentleman from Lackawanna stated he would demand that bills be read at length and it was on that I predicated the word threat. Perhaps the word threat is ill-advised but, Mr. President, my vocabulary is very limited and it sounded like a threat to me and I became properly frightened and now I am seeing the results of that action and I desire to ask the gentleman from Lackawanna if he will not reconsider his demand that bills be read at length and permit the Senate to bounce them through second reading.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, in turn I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, how did the gentleman from Allegheny vote on my motion that the Senate adjourn?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I voted no because I firmly believe that we are in a position here where we are divided between two different schools of thought—where we can either sit down and work out a procedure or else we shall have to go through with the very painful process.

Through my experience with the gentleman from Lackawanna I have found him to be a scholar and a gentleman and I feel somewhere along this beaten path we can find some common ground on this procedure we are going through and out of the respect to our time honored custom in the Senate I suggest that we revert to our original practice.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is prepared to stay here all night.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, it begins to look to me like that is what we will have to do. It seems to me certainly we have lost most of the dignity this body once held and I would like to urge upon the gentleman from Lackawanna that we revert to our time honored custom and that he reconsider his motion.

I might say, however, Mr. President, I sympathize deeply with the gentleman from Lackawanna in the position in which he finds himself.

Mr. COLEMAN. Somewhere, Mr. President, some great philosopher expressed a truism which has gone down through the ages, when he said, "Consistency, thou are a jewel." I am quite certain the gentleman who expressed that great philosophy could not have had my good friend the Senator from Allegheny Mr. Walker in mind because while on the one hand he finds fault with this monotonous reading of bills at length, on the other hand he turned down a splendid opportunity to adjourn by voting against my motion that the Senate adjourn.

I would say, Mr. President, his plea was clothed in such beautiful language and he is such a keen student of human nature, saying all of the nice things he did and knowing that while many politicians are considered too heartless and soulless, old rascals, some of us are human, and so my answer to the gentleman from Allegheny, after his nice way of putting that request is that I could never say no.

So, Mr. President, I will withdraw temporarily my insistence that the bills be read at length.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I realize that the Senator from Lackawanna has been placed in a very peculiar position.

If there was any threat implied in his original request, which has been so stated on the floor, I rise to insist that all bills be read three different times on each Calendar day, and I do this, not as any threat but in resentment against what I have previously spoken about, the absolute lack of leadership upon the floor of the Senate and the lack of co-operation and everything else.

I believe and I believe most Senators should believe when a matter affecting a district entirely alone, out of the courtesy the Senate of Pennsylvania should allow the decision in that particular district to be made by the Senator from that district and until that is enforced and the gentleman from Lackawanna is given the courtesy due him I still insist on all bills being read at length.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I impose upon the Senate for just a moment at this time to thank the gentleman from Lackawanna for his very splendid response to my invitation.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 411, (House Bill No. 583, as follows:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to sell and convey two certain plots of land

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor is hereby authorized and empowered to sell and convey for such price as may be agreed upon two certain adjoining plots of land together with the improvements thereon erected situate in Clearfield County Plot number one containing 1,103 acres located in Lawrence Township adjacent to Clearfield Borough facing River Street and Old Mill Road and plot number two containing .7427 acres located in Lawrence Township adjacent to Clearfield Borough and adjoining rear property line of plot number one facing Old Mill Road title to which plots of ground is in the Commonwealth and to make and execute a deed in the name of the Commonwealth to the purchaser thereof The moneys received as the purchase price of said plots of ground shall be paid into the General Fund of the State Treasury

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 417, (House Bill No. 688), entitled:

An Act concerning reciprocal agreements for the Interstate Transportation and the support of poor and indigent persons and to make uniform the law with reference thereto

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Reciprocal Agreements The Department of Public Assistance subject to the approval of the Attorney-General is hereby authorized to enter into reciprocal agreements with corresponding state agencies of other states regarding the interstate transportation of poor and indigent persons who do not require institutional care because of physical or mental infirmity and to arrange with the proper officials in this state for the acceptance transfer and support of persons receiving public aid in other states in accordance with the terms of such reciprocal agreements provided that this state shall not nor shall any political subdivision of this state be committed to the support of persons who are not in the opinion of said Department of Public Assistance entitled to public support by the laws of this state

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I move to amend

Sec. 1, page 1, line 2, by inserting after the word "Assistance" the following: (with respect to persons of the classes provided for in the Public Assistance Law) and the Department of Welfare (with respect to persons for whom the County Institution Districts are responsible under the County Institution District Law); Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 3, by striking out the word "is" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: are; Amend Sec. 1, page 1, lines 6 and 7, by striking out the following: who do not require institutional care because of physical or mental infirmity; Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 4, by inserting after the word "Assistance" the following: and the said Department of Welfare; Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by inserting after the word "state" the following All such reciprocal agreements entered into by the said Department of Welfare shall be binding upon the County Institution Districts of this state.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of information.

Mr. WALKER. I suggest, Mr. President, a quorum of the Senate is not present. I ask that the roll be called.

The PRESIDENT. Inquiry has been made as to whether a quorum of the Senate is present. All Senators will take their seats. The Clerk will call the roll.

The Clerk called the roll and the following Senators responded when their names were called:

Bartlett,	Ealy,	Lanius,	Stevenson,
Becker,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Tallman,
Chapman,	Farrell,	McQuiddy,	Taylor,
Coleman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Thomas,
Crider,	Haluska,	Mundy,	Tyler,
Crowe,	Heyburn,	Ruth,	Wade,
Deitrick,	Homsher,	Shapiro,	Walker,
Dent,	James,	Snowden,	Watkins,
DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Stiefel,	Wilson, H. I.,
			Wilson, T. B.,

The PRESIDENT. The calling of the roll, in response to the question raised by the gentleman from Allegheny, as to whether a quorum of the Senate was present, revealed that thirty-seven Senators responded when their names were called. A quorum is therefore present.

The Clerk will continue with the reading of the bill.

The second, third and fourth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 2 Uniformity of Interpretation This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the laws of those states which enact it

Section 3 Short Title This act may be cited as the Uniform Transfer of Dependents Act

Section 4 Time of Taking Effect This act shall take effect immediately upon final enactment

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act concerning reciprocal agreements for the Interstate Transportation and the support of poor and indigent persons and to make uniform the law with reference thereto.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair announces he has had a lot of pleasure today.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, April 9, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 7:32 o'clock, p. m., until Wednesday, April 9, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, April 8, 1941

The House met at 1 p. m.
The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

Forgive us, our Heavenly Father, every disloyal thought, every moment of doubt as we were offended in our Saviour because we were not great enough to follow Him. And, we pray Thee, make us sensitive to Thy leadings and alert to heed Thy merciful warnings when we are in danger of going astray.

O God, open our eyes to see ourselves just as we are, as we would be if Thou hadst not befriended us. And if we must fall into sin ere we become conscious of our own wretchedness and need, do Thou lift us up by Thy redeeming and ever-patient love. We ask this for Jesus' sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. TROUT, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. FALKENSTEIN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Public Utilities to meet during the session of the House.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By. Mr. DOLON. RESOLUTION No. 71.

In the House of Representatives, April 8, 1941.

Whereas, Many of the highways of this Commonwealth are presently in a deplorable and impassible condition; and

Whereas, In many instances, main highways are separated from pavements by gaps of three to eight inches, and tarred roads contain many heaves and ruts, causing numerous accidents daily; and

Whereas, Road crews of the Highway Department appear to be under-manned for the task that must be performed, particularly with respect to cindering operations where it appears to be the practice of the Department to engage private trucks, many of which are too small and in poor condition and cannot adequately correct existing conditions; and

Whereas, It appears that those conditions are due to inadequate and improper maintenance operations conducted by the Highway Department, endangering the lives of the citizens and motorists of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Unless immediate and drastic action is taken, such roads will deterioriate to an extent that will unduly burden succeeding administrations endeavoring to correct the results of this vicious and evil practice; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House appoint a committee of seven members to investigate these conditions, to confer with the Department of Highways in order to be informed of the Department's present and future policy with regard to road maintenance and to report back to this House, as soon thereafter as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. HOLLAND. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 72.

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1941.

Whereas, Gasoline price wars arise periodically in the county of Allegheny, causing great loss of money, especially to independent operators and owners of gasoline filling stations, and frequently resulting in the loss to such independent operators of their entire capital invested in their business; and

Whereas, It is often difficult to determine, on the surface and without formal investigation, where the responsibility for instigating such price wars rests; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of three members of the House, and the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a committee of three members of the Senate to act as a legislative committee to investigate the cause of gasoline price wars in Allegheny County with a view to discovering the responsibility therefor and preventing the same; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records, and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee, because of the urgency of the situation, report to the General Assembly as speedily as possible with appropriate recommendations, and such remedial legislation as it shall deem effective to remedy such conditions and to prevent recurrances.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 26, 1941.

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance has and is at the present time compelling all persons that apply or are receiving Public Assistance cancel any Life Insurance Policy whether held by the relief recipient or by any member of his family in excess of $500.00, and

Whereas, Many persons have paid premiums on such Life Insurance Policies for as long as thirty-five years and now are compelled to cancel these policies at a great loss and thereby depriving their dependents from any recovery after death in excess of $500.00, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of Insurance permitted to be carried by a relief recipient or by any or all members of his or her family directly affected from $500.00 to not less than $1,000.00 in the aggregate in policy or policies either paid up or in premium paying period, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Assistance is requested to notify its various County Boards of Assistance of this request and resolution immediately upon it's passage.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 2, 1941.

The Hospitals of the Commonwealth are its safeguards and bulwarks against attacks by disease and accident upon the health, safety and well being of our people,

These well equipped fortresses of mercy with their modern equipment and efficient staffs of trained physicians, surgeons and nurses have reduced the toll of death within this Commonwealth and have brought relief and happiness to most of its citizens,

Those physicians and surgeons have given freely and generously of their services for the alleviation of suffering among those who otherwise could ill afford the cost of such aid;

Those who manage the necessary business and financial affairs of our hospitals likewise contribute valuable services in the interests of humanity,

Those nurses who tirelessly and ceaselessly lend their cheerful aid to the task of bringing relief and comfort to those inmates who are seeking a way back to life and health, are, in turn, a major part in the united work of restoring health to the afflicted. They are true apostles of that great English woman Florence Nightingale who dedicated her life to the relief of the suffering and raised a menial task to an heroic profession,

It is as fitting and proper to observe and celebrate the achievements of a living institution as to observe and celebrate the glories of the past; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur) That in recognition of the work performed by the hospitals of the Commonwealth and the splendid achievements of their staffs of physicians, surgeons and nurses the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby requested to issue his proclamation designating May twelfth, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, as Hospital Day as a tribute to the splendid service rendered the citizens of this Commonwealth by our hospitals and those responsible for their operation: and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be immediately transmitted to his Excellency the Governor.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHEPARD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill to please explain its purpose, for the information of myself and others.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, this is a very simple bill. It simply calls for a raise in the salary of certain employees of the Department of Public Works in the city of Philadelphia. These truck drivers, laborers and watchmen and so forth as indicated in the bill are woefully underpaid. They are the hardest workers and do the most laborious work in the Department of Public Works and they are miserably underpaid. This is a method which we are using to get the Department of Public Works of the city of Philadelphia to give these laborers and workers the increase in salary that they are justly entitled to. They are the hardest working municipal employees that we have. They are in the lower brackets for the most part, their salaries at present are far below the prevailing wages. This is a bill to provide an increase in their salaries.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHEPARD. I shall, Mr. Speaker,.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what is the proposal he has in mind to raise the money for this increase in salaries?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, of course, that is up to the city officials where they raise the money. I suggest that if we would cut down the number of drones in City Hall, the people who do no work at all, and give this money to some of the people who actually work, we would have enough money to raise these salaries.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman another question? Does the gentleman from Philadelphia favor House Bill 35 which was reported from committee today, which does not permit the present wage tax in Philadelphia?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I have not read that bill as yet. It has just been reported today and I haven't read it.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman favor the wage tax in Philadelphia?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, the wage tax in Philadelphia is already a law passed by the Republican controlled City Council taxing all peoples' wages. I was opposed to it then and I am opposed to it now because I think it is an unjust form of taxation.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman to offer a substitute for this tax.

Mr. SHEPARD. That is not my baby, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS 3

Hall,	Snyder,	Van Allsburg,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 77, as follows:

An Act requiring the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to allow all employes of state penal and correctional institutions twenty-four consecutive hours of rest each week authorizing the Department of Welfare to provide additional employes

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall allow and permit every employe of such state penal and correctional institutions to have at least twenty-four consecutive hours of rest in every calendar week and shall rotate the employes of such state penal and correctional institutions on a regular schedule except in emergency cases for riots or tumults pestilence or conflagrations without diminution of the salary or compensation fixed by the Department of Welfare Provided That no vacation or suspension periods of an employe of such penal institution shall be increased or reduced by reason of the fact that during such period such employe if working would have been entitled to one or more rest days under the provisions of this act

Section 2 Where there is not a sufficient number of employes in any state penal or correctional institution to permit such rest days to become effective the Department of Welfare shall direct that the warden or superintendent of such institution appoint additional employes in accordance with the law and the regulation of the Department of Welfare governing such appointments

Section 3 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 4 This act shall become effective on the first day of September one thousand nine hundred and forty-one

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker. I would like to ask the gentleman whether House Bill No. 77, Printer's No. 151, was considered either officially or unofficially by the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. It was not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether this bill if enacted into law would not have an effect upon the budget requirements.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. It undoubtedly would, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether he does not think the bill therefore should be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations so that it can be given consideration before it is finally acted upon by the House?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, possibly point that is raised is raised properly, and if the sponsor will agree I would suggest that it be put on the postponed third reading calendar until I will have an opportunity to study it.

The Speaker. For the information of the gentleman from Monroe, this bill has passed third reading and is now on final passage. It can, however, be placed upon the final passage postponed calendar.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 666, as follows:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of August A D one thousand nine hundred thirty-two (P. L. 101) entitled "An act authorizing collectors of delinquent taxes except in cities of the first class to accept payments of delinquent taxes or water-rents or rates in installments" by including counties

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section one of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of August A D one thousand nine hundred thirty-two (P. L. 101) entitled "An act authorizing collectors of delinquent taxes except in cities of the first class to accept payments of delinquent taxes or water-rents or rates in installments" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representative of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the collector of delinquent taxes of any city except a city of the first class and of any county borough incorporated district township poor district or school district shall have the power at the request of any taxpayer to accept payment in installments of delinquent taxes or water-rents or rates both before and after the filing of liens therefor but he shall not be obliged to accept any installment of less than ten per centum (10%) of the face amount of the tax water-rent or rate when it became delinquent The acceptance of any installment or installments by any delinquent tax collector shall not prejudice the city county borough incorporated district township poor district or school district in the collection of any balance due or in any way impair the validity of any lien filed for such delinquent taxes water-rents or rates or any balance due thereon according to the provisions of any act of assembly applicable thereto nor shall any penalty be abated or diminished because of the acceptance of any such installment or installments but interest on the amount of any installment shall cease after the month in which such installment is paid

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its passage and approval by the Governor.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 62, as follows:

An Act requiring cities of the first class to allot the sum of fifty dollars to all uniformed officers and men employed in the police department fire department and park guard for the purchase of their prescribed uniforms

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 All uniformed officers and men employed by any city of the first class in the police department fire department or as park guards in the park service of said city shall be allotted the sum of fifty dollars per annum to be used for the purchase of their prescribed uniforms

Section 2 The act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 323) entitled "An act requiring cities of the first class to furnish free of charge to uniformed officers and men employed in the police department fire department and park guards the first uniform or part thereof made necessary by any changes made in the prescribed uniform" is hereby repealed absolutely

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective on the first day of January one thousand nine hundred forty-two

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Finnerty.

The Speaker. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINNERTY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, how much is it estimated this will cost the city of Philadelphia?

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, the estimation of the total cost? I do not know the exact amount it will cost.

Mr. VOORHEES. I feel, Mr. Speaker, that I would be in order in taking a few moments to try to save Philadelphia because at this session I do not think we have saved Philadelphia at all.

We just voted on a bill to increase the wages of the employes of the Department of Public Works. Now we are voting on a bill to allot fifty dollars for the uniforms for police and firemen. Everyone here is in favor of more money for more people, and for giving uniforms to the police and firemen. Today we reported from committee—the committee of which Mr. Finnerty, the sponsor of this bill is chairman—House Bill 35, which prohibits the taxation of income, salaries and wages by political sub-divisions. The reason for the bill is to do away with the wage-tax in Philadelphia. We now have the Sterling Act on the books which does not permit the city to tax anything which the state taxes.

You all know that we are trying to tax everything that we have to support the city of Philadelphia. Philadelphia can have either a sales-tax or a wage-tax—either one. It is very easy to sit here and pass bills requiring Philadelphia to spend money, but it is a different matter to raise money. We now place another hindrance in the path of Philadelphia when we report out a bill which further limits the things we can tax. Money must be raised somewhere, and we place all kinds of hindrances in the way of the city. I only point these things out because here we are in a time when we are all facing the national emergency, when we should all be pulling together and making it easier for our local political units in the state of Pennsylvania, the citizens of Pennsylvania to do a good job, and yet we in the House of Representatives sit here and vote on legislation—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CHUDOFF. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. CHUDOFF. The gentleman, Mr. Speaker, is not speaking on the bill. He is speaking on House Bill No. 35.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is not well taken.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, I feel that anything is in order that affects the budget of Philadelphia as this bill does, the whole thing is a unit, just as we in the House consider our budget. There are many things we want to vote on and want to make appropriations for, but it is a question of how much we can spend, and that is the problem that faces Philadelphia. As we pass on this bill that information should be presented to the House. I only have a few more words. I am going to vote for this bill and I ask the members of the House to support it, but in coming legislation I think it is up to the Members of the House to consider what the City Council of Philadeplhia must face when you vote on these bills.

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, in regard to House Bill 62, Printer's No. 207, I wish to inform the members that up to about the year 1932 the city supplied these uniforms. We then had a mayor, Mayor Moore, during whose administration this was taken away. Mayor Moore, by the way, is the mayor who went out around City Avenue and Lancaster Avenue, in which districts there are more automobiles to the square inch than in any other section of Philadelphia, and he came back the next day and said that nobody in Philadelphia was hungry, that everybody had an automobile. That is the time this was taken away from the police and firemen. By the time a policeman pays for assessments, tickets, insurance and the retirement fund he has very little left, and many times the policemen have told me they have had uniforms that are perfect, but the higher officials told them they must buy new uniforms, which was a very definite hardship on the policeman. Therefore, I ask the members to vote for this bill and give the police and firemen a break, because they will not get an increase in salary, and this is one opportunity to give them a break. I ask you all to support this bill.

Mr. SAMUEL ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to state for the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Voorhees it is rather late for him to come in here and try to save Philadelphia. He and his party have ruined Philadelphia for the last fifty years and it only will be when the Democratic Party takes over that Philadelphia will really be saved.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Finnerty.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINNERTY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask Mr. Finnerty for information, is this a home rule bill.

Mr. FINNERTY. Well, Mr. Speaker, I would say it was just taking care of Philadelphia, and we being from Philadelphia I would say, yes, it is a home rule bill.

Mr. DIX. Does the gentleman mean, Mr. Speaker, it is a home rule bill when the state takes care of Philadelphia?

Mr. FINNERTY. Well, Mr. Speaker, if Council wants to set the salaries unfortunately this legislature can pass a law to regulate that procedure.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, is there any reason why Philadelphia cannot regulate that?

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, the only thing you can do is pass a law and take the power away from them.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, doesn't the city of Philadelphia have the power at the present time to set the salaries?

Mr. FINNERTY. I think not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Does the gentleman mean that the city of Philadelphia at the present time cannot purchase the uniforms?

Mr. FINNERTY. No, Mr. Speaker, they do not.

Mr. DIX. Does the gentleman mean, Mr. Speaker, that they cannot do it?

Mr. FINNERTY. They don't do it, anyhow, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. I didn't ask that, Mr. Speaker. I asked if it was not possible for Philadelphia or any first class city to furnish these uniforms to the police and firemen.

Mr. FINNERTY. As I am not a lawyer, Mr. Speaker, I could not decide that question. The only thing I can answer in a plain common sense manner, is that they do not do it, and when they do not do it they must not have the power.

Mr. DIX. Then, Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman think if Philadelphia does not do it, it is the duty and prerogative of the House of Representatives to force Philadelphia to do something they do not want to do?

Mr. FINNERTY. I think it is the duty of the Members from Philadelphia, the Democrats especially, to look after Philadelphia. I would like to say, and I do not know whether the gentleman had heard the rumor or not, that this is going to be a headache for us Democrats when we take over Philadelphia. I would say we are satisfied to take the headache and take care of the police and firemen.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, if the Democrats do not take care of Philadelphia any better than the Democrats take care of Pennsylvania I certainly feel sorry for them.

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the gentleman did not intend to state this: if the Democrats did not take any better care of Pennsylvania than the James administration takes care of it now, then it is a pretty small thing.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Wayne the Chair should be recognized in this interrogation. The gentleman asked to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I just tried to find out if it is a home rule bill. Evidently I cannot find out from the gentleman so I am deciding for myself that it is not a home rule bill.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 854, Printer's No. 206, was passed over at the request of Mr. SCANLON

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 367, Printer's No. 117, entitled:

"Legalizing the operation of bowling alleys and participation in the sport of bowling on Sunday," was defeated on final passage Monday, March 31, be reconsidered.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. O'BRIEN asked and obtained unanimous consent for House Bill No. 1092 to be read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1092 entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the expenses of the committee of the House of Representatives created by House Resolution Serial Number forty-nine, adopted the nineteenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred forty-one.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Speaker requests all the new members on both the Republican and Democratic sides of the House to meet with him for a few minutes in the New House Caucus Room immediately after adjournment today. Also the majority and minority floor leaders.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 66

Mr. DiGENOVA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 66, Printer's No. 209.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1941.

Whereas December 15 1941 will be the 150th anniversary of the ratification of the "Bill of Rights': 1791-1941; and

Whereas, The "Bill of Rights,' that expression of American genius which guarantees our fundamental freedoms of speech, press and worship, is an immortal monument of human liberties which serves as a "Guiding Light" to the people of all Democratic Nations; and

Whereas, The "Bill of Rights," on its 150th anniversary, should be duly honored by some outward manifestation of our gratitude and deference; and

Whereas, A national homage paid to this most important document in American history may well serve as an opportune reminder to all Americans that they are indeed fortunate to live under our democratic form of government, and how important it is for them to do their utmost to preserve our "Bill of Rights" and protect its principles from being ravaged or distorted; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth be and is hereby requested by the House of Representatives, to proclaim December 15, 1941 as "Bill of Rights Day"; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to the Governor of this Commonwealth.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

INTERROGATION

Mr. HABBYSHAW. I desire to interrogate the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the Speaker permit himself to be interrogated? The Speaker will. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HABBYSHAW. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cooper, introduced a bill in this House to pad and reinforce the equipment of our hockey players for their protection. I would like to know to what Committee this bill has been referred.

The SPEAKER. To the Committee on Aeronautics.

For the information of the gentleman from Dauphin the reason the bill was referred to the Committee on Aeronautics was because after Hershey defeated Pittsburgh so decisively in the recent hockey play-offs, the Chair was of the opinion that the gentleman from Allegheny must be up in the air.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The following Committee meetings were announced:

Building and Loan, Wednesday, April 9 at 12:30 p. m. in Room 330.
